PREFACE.

In this book a very large mass of material has been assembled from many sources, with the design of having under one cover a handy up-to-date reference book covering matters of a legal nature which it is difficult to keep up to date in text-books devoted to one subject. There are also included statistical and other general information which it is believed will be of value to the profession.

In the assembling for the first time of so much and varied information from different sources, it is inevitable that errors have crept in. The editor and the publishers will appreciate having their attention called to any such.

It is intended to annotate and keep up to date the matters treated in the first issue. Additional matters will be treated in future issues. Suggestions along this line will be welcomed.

Attorneys and others whose names appear in this book will confer a favor upon the editor and publishers by notifying them of changes of address, so that they may appear properly in future editions.

For links (or one-hundredth of a chain) proceed as if they were chains, and divide the result by 100.

If the number given contains both chains and links, the sum of the two, found separately, will be the required number.

Mortuary Tables for estimating the probable duration of life of a party at a given age are admissible to prove facts of general notoriety and interest in connection with such subjects as may be involved in the trial of the cause. . . . In general, it seems that life tables may be shown by any standard work containing them. . . . As courts take judicial notice of standard tables, no preliminary proof is necessary, *Keast v. (A) This question does not seem to have been raised or passed upon.

(B) Under substantially similar laws, other states are taxing such stock. In the states so marked, however, no claim is made for such a tax, or else there is no effective method provided for collecting it.

(C) In the states so marked it was apparently the opinion of their tax officials in 1910 that they were not entitled to collect such a tax, and we do not know that the law is now being construed differently. Their laws, however, are practically identical with the laws of states which claim this tax and moreover contain a provision for enforcing its collection.

(D) In states so marked a corporation transferring stock or delivering securities is held responsible itself, if the inheritance tax has not been paid.

(E) These states also tax registered bonds of local corporations owned by nonresidents.

INHERITANCE TAX ACT OF 1893.

APPLICABLE WHERE DECEDENT DIED PRIOR TO JULY 1, 1905.

The original tax on collateral inheritance was by statute approved March 23, 1893 (Stats. 1893, p. 193), and in effect sixty days thereafter. The amount of the tax was 5%, and the following were exempted from taxation:

“Father, mother, husband, wife, lawful issue, brother, sister, the wife or widow of a son, or the husband of a daughter, or any child or children adopted as such in conformity with the laws of the State of California, and any lineal descendant of such decedent born in lawful wedlock, or the societies, corporations, and institutions now exempted by law from taxation.”

No estate valued at less than $500 was subject to taxation. Taxations are payable under this act on the estates of all persons who died from the time when the act went into effect down to the first day of July, 1905.

By amendment approved March 9, 1897 (Stats. 1897, p. 77), the exemptions were extended to the following:

“Niece or nephew when a resident of this State, or to any public corporation, or to any society, corporation, institution, or association of persons engaged in or devoted to any charitable, benevolent, educational, public, or other like work (pecuniary profit not being its object or purpose), or to any person, society, corporation, institution, or association of persons in trust for or to be devoted to any charitable, benevolent, educational, or public purpose.”

By amendment effective March 14, 1899 (Stats. 1899, p. 101), brothers, sisters, nieces and nephews were deprived of the benefit of the exemption.

By the amendment of 1903, effective March 20, 1903 (Stats. 1903, p. 268), the exemption was extended to any person to whom the deceased for not less than ten years prior to death stood in the mutually acknowledged relationship of a parent, and to lineal ancestors.

(c) Transfer.—The word "transfer" as used in this act shall be taken to include the passing of property or any interest therein, in possession or enjoyment, present or future, by inheritance, descent, devise, succession, bequest, grant, deed, bargain, sale, gift, or appointment in the manner herein described.

(d) Decedent.—The word "decedent" as used in this act shall include the testator, intestate, grantor, bargainor, vendor, or donor.

(e) County Treasurer—District Attorney.—The words "county treasurer" and "district attorney" and "inheritance tax appraiser," as used in this act, shall be taken to mean the treasurer or the district attorney or the inheritance tax appraiser of the county of the superior court having jurisdiction, as provided in section 15 of this act.

(f) Contemplation of Death.—The words "contemplation of death," as used in this act, shall be taken to include that expectancy of death which actuates the mind of a person on the execution of his will, and in nowise shall said words be limited and restricted to that expectancy of death which actuates the mind of a person in making a gift causa mortis; and it is hereby declared to be the intent and purpose of this act to tax any and all transfers which are made in lieu of or to avoid the passing of property transferred by testator or intestate laws.

§ 2. Tax Imposed upon Transfer.—A tax shall be and is hereby imposed upon the transfer of any property, real, personal or mixed, or of any interest therein or income therefrom in trust or otherwise, to persons, institutions or corporations, not hereinafter exempted, to be paid to the treasurer of the proper county, as hereinafter directed, for the use of the State, in the following cases:

(1) Transfer by Resident.—When the transfer is by will or by the intestate or homestead laws of this State, from any person dying seised or possessed of the property while a resident of the State, or by any probate homestead set apart from said property.

(2) Transfer by Nonresident.—When the transfer is by will or intestate laws of property within this State, and the decedent was a nonresident of the State at the time of his death.

(3) Transfer in Contemplation of Death.—When the transfer is of property made by a resident, or a nonresident when such non-resident's property is within this State, by deed, grant, bargain, sale, assignment or gift, made without valuable and adequate consideration in contemplation of the death of the grantor, vendor, assignor or donor, or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after such death. When such person, institution or corporation becomes beneficially entitled in possession or expectancy to any property or the income therefrom, by any such transfer, whether made before or after the passage of this act.

§ 3. (c) Property Transferred Subject to Charge.—Where any property shall, after the passage of this act, be transferred subject to any charge, estate or interest, determinable by the death of any person, or at any period ascertainable only by reference to death, the increase accruing to any person or corporation upon the extinction or determination of such charge, estate or interest, shall be deemed a transfer of property taxable under the provisions of this act in the same manner as though the person or corporation beneficially entitled thereto had then acquired such increase from the person from whom the title to their respective estates or interests is derived.

§ 4. Lien—Limitation.—Such taxes shall be and remain a lien upon the property passed or transferred until paid, and the person to whom the property passes or is transferred, and all administrators, executors and trustees of every estate so transferred or passed, shall be liable for any and all such taxes until the same shall have been paid as hereinafter directed. repealed, shall cease to be a lien as against any bona fide purchaser of real property; and provided, that no such lien shall cease within five years from the date of the passage of this act. The tax so imposed shall be upon the market value of such property at the rates hereinafter prescribed and only upon the excess over the exemptions hereinafter granted; and provided, that in determining said market value no deduction shall be made for any family allowance made out of said estate.

§ 5. Primary Rates.—When the property or any beneficial interest therein so passed or transferred exceeds in value the exemption hereinafter specified and shall not exceed in value twenty-five thousand dollars, the tax hereby imposed shall be:

And in all cases where the executors, administrators, or trustees do not pay such tax within eighteen months from the death of the decedent, they shall be required to give a bond in the form and to the effect prescribed in subdivision (a) of section 9 of this act for the payment of said tax, together with interest.

(b) Excuse for Delay in Payment.—The penalty of ten per cent per annum imposed by subdivision (a) of this section, for the nonpayment of said tax, shall not be charged in cases where, in the judgment of the court, by reason of claims made upon the estate necessary litigation, or other unavoidable cause of delay, the estate of any decedent, or a part thereof, cannot be settled at the end of eighteen months from the death of the decedent; but in such cases seven per cent per annum shall be charged upon the said tax from the expiration of said eighteen months until the cause of such delay is removed, after which ten per cent interest per annum shall again be charged until the tax is paid; but litigation to defeat the payment of the tax shall not be considered necessary litigation.

§ 9. (a) Estate for Years or Expectancy.—When any grant, gift, legacy, devise or succession upon which a tax is imposed by section 2 of this act shall be an estate, income, or interest for a term of years, or for life, or determinable upon any future or contingent event, or shall be a remainder, reversion, or other expectancy, real or personal, the entire property or fund by which such estate, income, or interest is supported, or of which it is a part, shall be appraised immediately after the death of the decedent, and the market value thereof determined, in the manner provided in section 16 or 17 of this act, and the tax prescribed by this act shall be immediately due and payable to the treasurer of the proper county, and, together with the interest thereon, shall be and remain a lien on said property until the same is paid.

their representatives may come into actual possession or enjoyment of such property, and conditioned further, that if said bond be not renewed, as herein provided, the amount of said tax and interest thereon shall immediately become due and payable. Said bond shall be filed in the office of the county clerk of the proper county and a certified copy thereof shall be immediately transmitted to the State controller.

Return.—Provided, further, that such person shall make a full and verified return of such property to said court, and file the same in the office of the county clerk within one year from the death of the decedent, and within that period enter into such security, and renew the same every five years. If the same shall not be so renewed before the expiration of each five-year period the bond shall immediately become due and payable, and if the same be not paid forthwith the Attorney General shall file an action in the name of the people of the State, on the relation of the controller, to recover the same.

(b) Estimating Value.—In estimating the value of any estate or interest in property, to the beneficial enjoyment or possession whereof there are persons or corporations presently entitled thereto, no allowance shall be made on account of any contingent encumbrance thereon, nor on account of any contingency upon the happening of which the estate or property or some part thereof or interest therein might be abridged, defeated or diminished.

Abridgment, Defeat or Diminution.—Provided, however, that in the event of such encumbrance taking effect as an actual burden upon the interest of the beneficiary, or in the event of the abridgment, defeat or diminution of said estate or property or interest therein as aforesaid, a return shall be made to the person properly entitled thereto of a proportionate amount of such tax on account of the encumbrance when taking effect, or so much as will reduce the same to the amount which would have been assessed on account of the actual duration or extent of the estate or interest enjoyed. Such return of tax shall be made in the manner provided by section 12 hereof upon order of the court having jurisdiction.

(c) Property Transferred in Trust.—When property is transferred in trust or otherwise, and the rights, interest or estates of the transferees are dependent upon contingencies or conditions whereby they may be wholly or in part created, defeated, extended or abridged, a tax shall be imposed upon said transfer at the highest rate which, on the happening of any of the said contingencies or conditions, would be possible under the provisions of this act, and such tax so imposed shall be due and payable forthwith by the executors or trustees out of the property transferred; provided, however, that on the happening of any contingency whereby the said property, or any part thereof, is transferred to a person or corporation exempt from taxation under the provisions of this act, or to any person taxable at a rate less than the rate imposed and paid, such person or corporation shall be entitled to a return of so much of the tax imposed and paid as the difference between the amount paid and the amount which said person or corporation should pay under the provisions of this act. Such return of overpayment shall be made in the manner provided by section 12 of this act, upon order of the court having jurisdiction.

(d) Estates in Expectancy Appraised How.—Estates in expectancy which are contingent or defeasible and in which proceedings for the determination of the tax have not been taken or where the taxation thereof has been held in abeyance, shall be appraised at their full, undiminished value when the persons entitled thereto shall come into the beneficial enjoyment or possession thereof, without diminution for or on account of any valuation theretofore made of the particular estates for purposes of taxation, upon which said estates in expectancy may have been limited.

(e) Where Estate can be Divested by Legatee or Devisee.—Where an estate for life or for years can be divested by the act or omission of the legatee or devisee it shall be taxed as if there were no possibility of such divesting.

(f) Standards of Mortality and Value.—The value of every future, or contingent or limited estate, income or interest, shall, for the purposes of this act be determined by the rule, methods and standards of mortality and of value that are set forth in the actuaries' combined experience tables of mortality for ascertaining the value of policies of life insurance and annuities and for the determination of the liabilities of life insurance companies, save that the rate of interest to be assessed in computing the present value of all future interest and contingencies shall be five (5) per cent per annum. The insurance commissioner shall without a fee on the application of any Superior Court or of any inheritance tax appraiser determine the value of any future or contingent estate, income or interest therein limited, contingent, dependent or determinable upon the life or lives of persons in being, upon the facts contained in any such appraiser's application or other facts to him submitted by said appraiser or said court and certify the same in duplicate to such court or appraiser, and his certificate thereof shall be conclusive evidence that the method of computation therein is correct.

§ 10. (a) Tax Deducted from Legacy.—Any administrator, executor, or trustee having in charge or trust any legacy or property for distribution, subject to the said tax, shall deduct the tax therefrom, or if the legacy or property be not money he shall collect the tax thereon, upon the market value thereof, from the legatee or person entitled to such property, and he shall not deliver, or be compelled to deliver, any specific legacy or property subject to tax to any person until he shall have collected the tax thereon; and whenever any such legacy shall be charged upon or payable out of real estate, the executor, administrator, or trustee shall collect said tax from the distributee thereof, and the same shall remain a charge on such real estate until paid; if, however, such legacy be given in money to any person for a limited period, the executor, administrator, or trustee shall retain the tax upon the whole amount; but if it be not in money he shall make application to the superior court to make an apportionment, if the case require it, of the sum to be paid into his hands by such legatees, and for such further order relative thereto as the case may require.

(b) Power to Sell Property to Pay Tax.—All executors, administrators, and trustees shall have full power to sell so much of the property of the decedent as will enable them to pay said tax, in the same manner as they may be enabled by law to do for the payment of debts of the estate, and the amount of said tax shall be paid as hereinafter directed.

(c) Tax Paid to Treasurer.—Every sum of money retained by an executor, administrator, or trustee, or paid into his hands, for any tax on property, shall be paid by him, within thirty days thereafter, to the treasurer of the county in which the probate proceedings are pending.

And an executor, administrator, or trustee shall not be entitled to credits in his accounts, nor be discharged from liability for such tax, nor shall said estate be distributed, unless a receipt so sealed and countersigned by the controller, or a copy thereof, certified by him, shall have been filed with the court. Any person shall, upon payment to the county treasurer of the sum of fifty cents, be entitled to a duplicate, or copy, of any receipt that may have been given by said treasurer for the payment of any tax under this act.

§ 12. Refund—Pursuance of Order by Superior Court.—If any debts shall be proven against the estate of a decedent after the payment of any legacy or distributive share thereof, from which any such tax has been deducted or upon which it has been paid by the person entitled to such legacy or distributive share, and such person is required by order of the Superior Court having jurisdiction, on notice to the State controller, to refund the amount of such debts or any part thereof, an equitable proportion of the tax shall be repaid to him by the executor, administrator or trustee, if the tax has not been paid to the county treasurer; or if such tax has been paid to such county treasurer, such officer shall refund out of any inheritance tax moneys in his hands or custody such equitable proportion of the tax, and credit himself with the same in the account required to be rendered by him under this act. If, after the payment of any tax in pursuance of an order fixing such tax, made by the Superior Court having jurisdiction, such order be modified or reversed by the Superior Court having jurisdiction within two years from and after the date of entry of the order fixing the tax, or be modified or reversed at any time on an appeal taken therefrom within the time allowed by law on due notice to the State controller, the county treasurer shall refund to the executor, administrator, trustee, person or persons by whom such tax was paid, the amount of any moneys paid or deposited on account of such tax in excess of the amount of tax fixed by the order modified or reversed, out of any inheritance tax moneys in his hands or custody, and credit himself with the same in the account required to be rendered by him to the controller on his semi-annual settlement; but no application for such refund shall be made after one year from such reversal or modification, unless an appeal shall be taken therefrom, in which case no such application shall be made after one year from the final determination on such appeal or of an appeal taken therefrom, and the representatives of the estate, legatees, devisees or distributees entitled to any refund under this section shall not be entitled to any interest upon such refund, and the State controller shall deduct from the fees allowed by this act to the county treasurer the amount theretofore allowed him upon such overpayment. Where it shall be proved to the satisfaction of the Superior Court that deductions for debts were allowed upon the appraisal, since proved to have been erroneously allowed, it shall be lawful for such Superior Court to enter an order assessing the tax upon the amount wrongfully or erroneously deducted. This section, as amended, shall apply to appeals and proceedings now pending and taxes heretofore paid in relation to which the period of one year from such reversal or modification has not expired when this section, as amended, takes effect.

§ 13. If Foreign Executor Transfer Stock Tax Shall be Paid.—If a foreign executor, administrator or trustee shall assign or transfer any stock or obligation in this State standing in the name of a decedent, or in trust for a decedent, liable to any such tax, the tax shall be paid to the treasurer of the proper county on the transfer thereof.

No Institution or Persons Having Assets of Decedent Shall Deliver Same Without Retaining Tax.—No safe deposit company, trust company, corporation, bank or other institution, person or persons having in possession or under control securities, deposits, or other assets, belonging to or standing in the name of a decedent who was a resident or nonresident or belonging to, or standing in the joint names of such a decedent and one or more persons, including the shares of the capital stock of, or other interest in, the safe deposit company, trust company, corporation, bank or other institution making the delivery or transfer herein provided, shall deliver or transfer the same to the executors, administrators or legal representatives of said decedent, or to the survivor or survivors when held in the joint names of a decedent and one or more persons, or upon their order or request, without retaining a sufficient portion or amount thereof to pay any tax and interest which may thereafter be assessed thereon under this act and unless notice of the time and place of such delivery or transfer be served upon the State controller and county treasurer at least ten days prior to said delivery or transfer.

State Controller may Consent to Delivery.—Provided, that the State controller, or person by him in writing authorized so to do, may consent in writing to said delivery or transfer, and such consent shall relieve said safe deposit company, trust company, corporation, bank or other institution, person or persons from the obligation hereunder to give such notice or to retain any portion of said securities, deposits or other assets in their possession or control. And it shall be lawful for the State controller or county treasurer, personally or by representatives, to examine said securities, deposits or assets at the time of said delivery or otherwise.

Penalty.—Failure to comply with the provisions of this section shall render such safe deposit company, trust company, corporation, bank or other institution, person or persons, liable to a penalty of not less than one thousand (1,000) dollars, nor more than twenty thousand (20,000) dollars, and in addition thereto said safe deposit company, trust company, corporation, bank or other institution, person or persons shall be liable for the amount of the taxes, interest and penalties due under this act on said securities, deposits, or other assets above mentioned, and said penalties and liabilities of said safe deposit company, corporation, bank or other institution, person or persons for the violation of this section may be enforced in an action brought by the State controller or county treasurer in any court of competent jurisdiction.

§ 14. Inheritance Tax Appraisers.—The State controller shall appoint, and may at his pleasure remove, one or more persons in each county of the State to act as inheritance tax appraisers therein. Every such inheritance tax appraiser (in addition to any fees paid him as appraiser under section 1444 of the Code of Civil Procedure) shall be paid by the county treasurer out of any funds that he may have in his hands on account of said tax, on presentation of a sworn itemized account and on the certificate of the Superior Court, at the rate of five dollars per day for every day actually and necessarily employed in said inheritance tax appraisalment, together with his actual and necessary traveling and other incidental expenses, and the fees paid such witnesses as he shall subpoena before him which fees shall be the same as those now paid to witnesses subpoenaed to attend in courts of record; provided, that in any probate proceeding in which the executor or administrator shall have failed to have had the inheritance tax appraiser act as one of the appraisers under section 1444 of the Code of Civil Procedure and to have paid him his fees therefor, the expense of making the inheritance tax appraisalment in this act provided for shall be paid out of said estate, and the executor or administrator thereof shall be liable for said fee. Any such appraiser who shall take any fee or reward, other than such as may be allowed him by law, from any executor, administrator, trustee, legatee, next of kin, or heir of any decedent, or from any other person liable to pay said tax, or any portion thereof, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than two hundred and fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or be imprisoned in the county jail ninety days, or both, and in addition thereto the court shall dismiss him from such service.

§ 15. Jurisdiction.—The Superior Court in the county in which is situate the real property of a decedent, who was not a resident of the State, or if there be no real property, then in the county in which any of the personal property of such nonresident is situate, or in the county of which the decedent was a resident at the time of his death, shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine all questions in relation to the tax arising under the provisions of this act; the court first acquiring jurisdiction hereunder shall retain the same, to the exclusion of every other; provided, that the Superior Court having acquired jurisdiction in probate of the estate of a decedent shall hear and determine in said probate proceedings all questions in relation to any tax arising under the provisions of this act: (a) Upon property passing in said probate proceedings. (b) Upon any other property transferred, within the meaning of subdivision 3 of section 2 of this act, to any person, institution or corporation taking any property under and by virtue of said probate proceedings.

§ 16. (a) Appointment of Appraisers.—When any Superior Court, having jurisdiction in probate of the estate of any decedent, or a judge of such court, shall, in accordance with section 1444 of the Code of Civil Procedure, appoint the appraiser or appraisers in said section provided for, said Superior Court or judge thereof shall also at the same time designate and appoint an inheritance tax appraiser (unless such designation and appointment be previously made to ascertain and report to said Superior Court the amount of inheritance tax due upon any property passing in said probate proceeding, or a lien thereon, or upon any other property transferred within the meaning of subdivision 3 of section 2 of this act, to any person, institution or corporation taking property under and by virtue of said probate proceedings, together with such other or additional information as shall assist said court in the determination of said tax.

Powers.—Thereupon said inheritance tax appraiser shall have all the powers of a referee of said Superior Court, and shall have jurisdiction to require the attendance before him of the executor or administrator of said estate, or any person interested therein, or any other person whom he may have reason to believe possesses knowledge of the estate of said decedent, or knowledge of any property transferred by said decedent within the meaning of this act, or knowledge of any facts that will aid said appraiser or the court in the determination of said tax.

And he may examine and take the evidence of such witnesses or of such executor or administrator, or other person under oath concerning such property and the value thereof, and concerning the property or the estate of such decedent subject to probate, and concerning any transfer made by such decedent within the meaning of this act.

Report.—Upon the completion of his inheritance tax appraisement in any probate proceeding, the inheritance tax appraiser shall make a report in writing to the Superior Court of the clear market value of the several interests in the estate of the decedent, and shall report the amount of inheritance or transfer tax chargeable against, or a lien upon such interests, acquired by virtue of said probate proceedings or by any transfer within the meaning of this act to any person, institution or corporation acquiring any property by virtue of said probate proceedings together with such other facts as may advise the court in regard thereto, or which the court may require, and may return to said Superior Court such depositions as he may have had reduced to writing, exhibits, or other testimony or information taken before him, or submitted to him.

(b) Notice of Filing Report.—Upon the filing of said report said appraiser shall mail a copy thereof to the State controller and the clerk of said Superior Court shall forthwith give notice of such filing to all persons interested in such proceedings, by posting, and in addition thereto shall forthwith mail to the State controller and to the county treasurer, and to all persons chargeable with any tax in said report who have appeared in such proceeding, a copy of said notice.

Order Confirming Report.—At any time after the expiration of ten days thereafter, if no objection to said report be filed, the said Superior Court may give and make its order confirming said report and fixing the tax in accordance therewith.

Objections.—At any time prior to the making of said order, any person interested in said proceeding (including the State controller or the county treasurer) may file objections in writing to said report. Thereupon said Superior Court shall, by order, fix a time, not less than ten days thereafter, for the hearing thereof, and shall direct the clerk of said Superior Court to give such notice thereof as it shall deem necessary; provided, that a copy of such notice and of such objections shall be forthwith mailed to the State controller, county treasurer and inheritance tax appraiser. Upon the hearing of said objections, said court may make such order as to it may seem meet and proper in the premises.

(c) If No Inheritance Tax Due Appraiser may so Certify.—Provided that, if, upon examination of the executor or administrator of said estate or other persons familiar with the affairs of such decedent, or from other information before him, it shall appear to the inheritance tax appraiser that there is no inheritance tax due out of said estate or a lien upon any property or interest therein, said appraiser may so certify to the Superior Court, and at any time thereafter, said Superior Court may order or decree that there are no inheritance taxes due out of said estate or upon any interest therein or may make such different order as may to it seem meet in the premises.

§ 17. Citation.—If it shall appear to the Superior Court upon petition of the State controller or the county treasurer or any other interested person that any transfer has been made within the meaning of this act, and the taxability thereof, and the liability for such tax and the amount thereof have not been determined, and that no proceedings are pending in any court in this State wherein the taxability of such transfer and the liability therefor and the amount hereof may be determined, said court shall issue a citation ordering and directing the persons who may appear liable therefor or known to own any interest in or part of the property transferred, to appear before said court or before an inheritance tax appraiser to be designated by said order at a time and place in said order named, not less than ten days nor more than ninety days from the date of such order, to be examined under oath by said court or by said appraiser as the case may be, concerning said transfer and all facts connected therewith, and concerning the property transferred and the character and value thereof.

Hearing.—If said person or persons shall be directed to appear before said appraiser, said appraiser shall, at the time and place in said order named, or at such time and place to which said appraiser may adjourn said hearing, proceed to examine said person or persons and such witnesses as said appraiser may subpoena before him, and for the purpose of said hearing, and for the purpose of ascertaining any facts concerning the taxability of said transfer or any taxes due on account of such transfer, said appraiser shall have the powers of a referee of said court, and, is hereby authorized to issue subpoenas compelling the attendance of witnesses before him, and to administer oath, and to take the evidence of such witnesses under oath concerning such property and the value thereof and concerning such transfer. Said appraiser shall report to said court his findings and conclusions in relation to said transfer and said tax, and may return to said court, any depositions, exhibits or other testimony or information taken before him or exhibited to him. The procedure subsequent to the filing of said report shall conform to subdivision (b) of section 16 of this act.

Service of Citation—Time, Manner and Proof, and Hearing and Determination Thereon.—Except as herein otherwise provided, the service of such citation and the time, manner and proof thereof, and the hearing and determination thereon, and the hearing and determination upon the facts returned in such report, and the enforcement of the determination or decree, shall conform to the provisions of chapter XII of title XI of part III of the Code of Civil Procedure, and the clerk of the court shall, upon the request of the State controller or the treasurer of the county, furnish, without fee, one or more transcripts of such decree, and the same shall be docketed and filed by the county clerk of any county in the State, without fee, in the same manner and with the same effect as provided by section 674 of said Code of Civil Procedure for filing a transcript of an original docket.

Evidence and Determination.—The Superior Court may hear the said cause upon the relation of the parties and the testimony of witnesses, and evidence produced in open court, and, if the court shall find said property is not subject to any tax, as herein provided, the court shall, by order, so determine; but if it shall appear that said property, or any part thereof, is subject to any such tax, the same shall be appraised and taxed as in other cases.

§ 18. Action for Recovery of Tax.—If, after the expiration of eighteen months from the accrual of any tax under this article, such tax shall remain due and unpaid, after the refusal or neglect of the persons liable therefor to pay the same, the county treasurer shall notify, or the State controller may notify, the district attorney of the county in writing of such failure or neglect, and such district attorney shall bring and prosecute an action or actions in the name of the State as plaintiff, for the recovery of such tax and for the purpose of enforcing any lien or liens against all or any of the property subject thereto. In any such action the owner of any property or of any interest in property against which the lien of any such tax is sought to be enforced, and any predecessor in interest of any such owner whose title or interest was deraigned through any such decedent by will or succession or by decree of distribution of the estate of such decedent, and any lienor or encumbrancer subsequent to the lien of such tax may be made a party defendant. The enumeration in this section of the persons who may be made defendants shall not be deemed to be exclusive, but the joinder or nonjoinder of parties, except when otherwise herein provided, shall be governed by the rules in equity in similar cases.

(a) Actions Quieting Title.—Actions may be brought against the State for the purpose of quieting the title to any property, against the lien or claim of lien of any tax or taxes under this act, or for the purpose of having it determined that any property is not subject to any lien for taxes under this act. In any such action, the plaintiffs may be any administrator or executor of the estate or will of any decedent, whether the said estate shall have been fully administered and the estate settled and closed or not, and any heir, legatee or devisee of any such decedent, or trustee of the estate or of any part of the estate of such decedent, or distributee of the estate or of any part of the estate of any such decedent, and any assignee, grantee or successor in interest of any of such persons, and all or any other persons who might be made parties defendant in any action brought by the State under the provisions of this section, and notwithstanding that all or any of the persons enumerated in this section shall or may have assigned, granted, conveyed or otherwise parted with all or any interest in or title to the property, or any thereof, involved in any such claim of lien before the commencement of such action. All or any of the persons in this action enumerated may be joined or united as parties plaintiff. The enumeration in this section of the persons who may be made parties shall not be deemed to be exclusive, but the joinder or nonjoinder of parties, except when otherwise herein provided, shall be governed by the rules in equity in similar cases. In all cases any person who might properly be a party plaintiff in any such action who refuses to join as plaintiff may be made a defendant.

(b) Jurisdiction.—All actions under this section shall be commenced in the Superior Court of the county in which is situated any part of any real property against which any lien is sought to be enforced, or to which title is sought to be quieted against any lien, or claim of lien; but if in said action no lien against real property is sought to be enforced, the action shall be brought in the Superior Court of the county which has or which had jurisdiction of the administration of the estate of the decedent mentioned herein.

(c) Service of Summons.—Service of summons in the actions brought against the State shall be made on the controller of State and on the district attorney of the county in which the estate of the decedent mentioned herein is being administered, or has been administered in probate proceedings, and it shall be the duty of said district attorney to defend all such actions.

(d) Procedure and Practice.—The procedure and practice in all actions brought under this section, except as otherwise provided in this act, shall be governed by the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure in relation to civil actions, so far as the same shall or may be applicable, including all provisions relating to motions for new trials and appeals.

(e) Remedies not Exclusive.—The remedies provided in this section shall be in addition to and not exclusive of any remedies provided in the sections preceding this section.

§ 19. District Attorney to Prosecute Proceeding to Determine and Fix Tax.—Whenever the treasurer of any county or an inheritance tax appraiser therein, or the controller shall have reason to believe that any transfer has been made within the meaning of this act and that a tax due thereon remains undetermined and unpaid, he may notify the district attorney in writing of such transfer, and the district attorney, if he have probable cause to believe a tax is due, and remains undetermined, shall prosecute the necessary proceeding in the Superior Court to determine and fix such tax and for the enforcement and collection thereof. Said district attorney shall be allowed his actual and necessary expenses incurred in such proceeding out of any inheritance tax moneys in the hands of the county treasurer on order of the Superior Court.

§ 20. Treasurer Shall Pay State Treasurer—Report.—The treasurer of each county shall collect and pay the State treasurer all taxes that may be due and payable under this act, who shall give him a receipt therefor; of which collection and payment he shall make a report, under oath, to the controller, between the first and fifteenth days of May and December of each year, stating for what estate paid, and in such form and containing such particulars as the controller may prescribe; and for all such taxes collected by him and not paid to the State treasurer by the first day of June and January of each year he shall pay interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum.

§ 21. Fees.—The treasurer of each county shall be allowed to retain, on all taxes paid and accounted for by him each year under this act, in addition to his salary or fees now allowed by law, three per centum of the first $50,000 so paid and accounted for by him, one and one-half per centum on the next $50,000 so paid and accounted for by him, and one-half of one per centum on all additional sums so paid and accounted for by him; provided, that no county treasurer shall be entitled to retain to his own use more than the sum of $200 out of the inheritance taxes paid on account of any transfer or transfers made by, or resulting from the death of, any one decedent, nor more than $3,000 out of the total inheritance taxes accounted for in any one year.

§ 22. Special Counsel.—The State controller, whenever he shall be cited as a party in any proceeding or action to determine any tax under this act provided, or whenever he shall deem it necessary for the better enforcement of this act to make any special employment to secure evidence of evasion of said tax, or to commence or appear in any proceeding or action to determine any tax hereunder, may, by and with the consent and approval of the Attorney General, make such special employment or designate and employ counsel or attorney in or out of this State to represent him on behalf of the State, and, by and with such consent of the Attorney General, he is hereby authorized to incur the necessary expense for such employment and any reasonable and necessary expense incident thereto. And the county treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to pay out of any funds which may be in his hands on account of this tax, on presentation of a sworn itemized account and on certificate of the State controller and Attorney General, all expenses incurred as in this section above provided, but no expense for such special employment or legal services, up to and including the entry of the order of the court fixing the tax and the same becoming final, shall exceed ten per centum of the tax and penalties collected; provided, that all reasonable and necessary expenses incurred, in any legal action or proceeding in any court of this State or on any appeal therefrom, other than attorney's fees, including expense of serving processes and printing and preparing of necessary legal papers, may be allowed and paid in the manner above provided, even though no tax be recovered in such action or proceeding, and the limitations herein made shall not apply thereto.

§ 23. Taxes Paid into State School Fund and General Fund.—All taxes levied and collected under this act, up to the amount of $250,000 annually, shall be paid into the treasury of the State, for the uses of the State school fund, and all taxes levied and collected in excess of $250,000 annually shall be paid into the State treasury to the credit of the general fund thereof.

§ 24. Officer Who Fails to Perform Duty Shall Forfeit $1,000.—Every officer who fails or refuses to perform, within a reasonable time, any and every duty required by the provisions of this act, or who fails or refuses to make and deliver within a reasonable time any statement or record required by this act, shall forfeit to the State of California the sum of $1,000, to be recovered in an action brought by the Attorney General in the name of the people of the State on the relation of the controller.

§ 25. Construction.—If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this act. The legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, subsection, sentence, clause and phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more other sections, subsections, sentences, clauses or phrases be declared unconstitutional.

§ 26. Repealing Clause.—An act entitled “An act to establish a tax on gifts, legacies, inheritances, bequests, devises, successions and transfers; to provide for its collection, and to direct the disposition of its proceeds; to provide for the enforcement of liens created by this act and for suits to quiet title against claims of lien arising hereunder; to repeal an act entitled ‘An act to establish a tax on gifts, legacies, inheritances, bequests, devises, successions and transfers; to provide for its collection, and to direct the disposition of its proceeds; to provide for the enforcement of liens created by this act and for suits to quiet title against claims of lien arising hereunder; to repeal an act entitled “An act to establish a tax on collateral inheritances, bequests and devises; to provide for the collection, and to direct the disposition of its proceeds,” approved March 23, 1893, and all amendments thereto, and to repeal all acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act,’ approved March 20, 1905, and all amendments thereto and all acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act,” approved April 7, 1911, and all amendments thereto, and all acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby expressly repealed; provided, however, that such repeal shall in nowise affect any suit, prosecution or court proceeding pending at the time this act shall take effect, or any right which the State of California may have at the time of the taking effect of this act, to claim a tax upon any property under the provisions of the act or acts hereby repealed, for which no proceeding has been commenced; nor affect any appeal, right of appeal in any suit pending, or orders fixing tax, existing in this State at the time of the taking effect of this act.

*Exemption in the states marked with an asterisk has been construed to apply to the estate as a whole rather than to individual shares.

(a) Connecticut. For nonresidents exemption varies according to portion of estate within the state.

(b) Iowa taxes nonresident aliens 10-20%.

(c) Louisiana exempts property that bore its just proportion of taxes during owner's life.

(d) North Carolina exempts husband or wife.

(e) Oklahoma.—The tax increases progressively, so a literal construction would result in confiscation of all in excess of certain amounts in large estates.

(f) Oregon exempts entire estate if less than 10,000, direct; 500-5,000, collateral.

(g) Washington.—25% tax on nonresident aliens held invalid.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX—SCOPE AND OPERATION.

By JOSEPH J. SCOTT, U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue.

In any consideration of the new Federal Income Tax thought should be given to the two distinct divisions of the tax, viz., the normal tax of one per cent on all net incomes in excess of the specified exemptions and the additional, or graduated tax on incomes above $20,000 a year at increasing percentages. The normal tax is assessable against both individuals and corporations; the additional tax against only individuals.

In the abstract of the new law herewith given this distinction is drawn, and should be kept in mind. For convenience the term "Persons" is employed to designate individuals as contrasted with corporate taxpayers. The latter are assembled under the term "Corporations," but in their number are included all corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, as well as insurance companies. Thus, the general reference to "persons" and "corporations" may be understood.

Persons Affected.—1. Every citizen of the United States, whether residing at home or abroad.

2. Every resident of the United States, though not a citizen.

3. Every resident of a foreign country deriving income from the United States.

Rates.—1. Normal tax of one per cent on all incomes in excess of $3,000 a year.

2. Additional tax according to the following scale:

- (a) One per cent upon the amount by which net income exceeds $20,000 but does not exceed $50,000.
- (b) Two per cent upon the amount by which net income exceeds $50,000 but does not exceed $75,000.
- (c) Three per cent upon the amount by which net income exceeds $75,000 but does not exceed $100,000.
- (d) Four per cent upon the amount by which net income exceeds $100,000 but does not exceed $250,000.
- (e) Five per cent upon the amount by which net income exceeds $250,000 but does not exceed $500,000.
- (f) Six per cent upon the amount by which net income exceeds $500,000.

What is Income?—In general the law takes cognizance of the following as constituting the income of persons:

1. Gains, profits and income derived from salaries, wage, or compensation for personal services of any kind.

2. From professions, vocations, businesses, trade and dealings in real and personal property.

3. From interest, rent, dividends, or securities, and the income from, but not the value of, property acquired by gift, bequest or descent.

Income not Taxable.—Proceeds of life insurance policies received by the beneficiary upon the death of the insured, or payments made to the insured on endowment or annuity contracts are not taxable.

Deductions for Persons.—Net income of persons for the purpose of the normal tax will be computed by deducting from gross income the following items:

1. Necessary and actual expenses of carrying on business (not including personal living or family expenses).
2. All interest paid during the year on indebtedness.
3. All national, state, county, school and municipal taxes. (Not including taxes assessed against local benefits.)
4. Losses in trade or by fire, storm or shipwreck, not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.
5. Worthless accounts actually charged off during the year.
6. Reasonable allowance for exhaustion, wear and tear of property through use. In the case of mines the allowance for depletion of ores and other natural deposits shall not exceed five per cent of the value at the mine of the output for the year. This provision also covers oil wells. Under no circumstances is a deduction allowed for any amount paid out for new buildings or permanent improvements.
7. Dividends on stock or from the net earnings of any corporation taxable on its net income. The personal return must, however, include such dividends in order that they may be considered in the computation of the additional tax for individuals. As far as the normal tax for individuals is concerned such dividends are not considered a part of personal incomes, being taxed to that extent by direct assessment against the corporations.
8. Amount of income upon which the tax has been paid or withheld for payment at the source.

9. General exemption of $3,000. Then $1,000 extra if the person making the return have a wife living with him, or a husband living with her. However, should both husband and wife have taxable incomes and be living together, the total exemption is $4,000.

Collection at Source.—The general provision is that the normal tax of one per cent shall be withheld by all persons, firms, copartnerships, companies, corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, and insurance companies, in whatever capacity acting. This also applies to lessees or mortgagors of real or personal property, to trustees, executors, administrators, agents, receivers, conservators and employees, having the control, receipt, custody, disposal or payment of interest, rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, or other fixed or determinable annual income of another person exceeding $3,000 for the taxable year.

Must Claim Deductions.—The person whose income tax is thus withheld must, in order to receive the benefit of the exemption of $3,000 (plus $1,000 for a wife or husband) file with the withholding power a claim in writing at least thirty days before the return is due. This means thirty days prior to March 1st.

As to the privilege of the person affected by the withholding provision to avail himself of the other detailed deductions, the law provides that a statement in writing shall be filed with the withholding power setting forth the person's income from all other sources and specifying the deductions asked for. The statement will then become a part of the return made in such person's behalf. It, too, must be filed at least thirty days before the return is due. In this latter respect, however, the individual affected can avail himself or herself of filing such a statement directly with the Collector of Internal Revenue, to be considered with the return made in his or her behalf under the withholding provision.

Should the claim for exemptions and deductions not be filed in time to become parts of the return of income, there would remain to the person affected only the right of application for a refund of the tax after the payment of the same.

Income from Bonds.—The normal tax of one per cent must be withheld from payments of interest upon bonds, mortgages, or deeds of trust, or similar obligations of corporations, whether payable annually or at shorter or longer periods, even though such interest does not exceed $3,000.

Incomes from Foreign Sources.—This requirement applies also to coupons, checks or bills of exchange in payment of interest upon the bonds of foreign countries, upon foreign mortgages and the stocks and bonds of foreign corporations, regardless of the amount or how often due.

(NOTE—Here it should be noted that the taxpayer should not be confused by the necessity of withholding the tax upon the dividends of foreign corporations, in view of the provision exempting the dividends of domestic corporations from either the withholding requirement or from consideration in the assessment of the normal income tax against individuals. The difference must be apparent. In the case of the foreign corporation the government of the United States can tax only the part of the dividends due residents of the United States or citizens of the United States residing abroad. In the case of the domestic corporation the government can levy and collect the normal tax upon the dividends by a direct assessment against the corporation.)

The withholding provision in respect to foreign payments affects all making such collections, and every dealer in coupons representing foreign interest or dividends, except that dealer who purchases the coupons from a banker or another dealer in such coupons, must abide by it.

Tax on Corporations.—Domestic and Foreign.—For those corporations organized in the United States the normal income tax will be levied upon the entire net income; but for those organized under the laws of a foreign country upon the net income accruing from business transacted and capital invested in the United States.

Those Exempt.—The following exceptions among corporations are specified as exempt from the tax:

1. Labor organizations.
2. Agricultural and horticultural associations.
3. Mutual savings banks not having capital stock represented by shares.
4. Fraternal beneficiary societies and orders.
5. Domestic building and loan associations.

6. Mutual cemetery companies.
7. Religious, charitable, scientific and educational associations.
8. Chambers of commerce, boards of trade, and civic organizations in general.

Corporation's Taxable Income.—The net income of any domestic corporation will be ascertained by deducting from gross income the following items:

1. All ordinary and necessary expenses for maintenance and operation, including rent.

2. All losses actually sustained and not compensated for by insurance or otherwise. Here will be considered a reasonable allowance for depreciation by use, wear and tear of property, if any. In the case of mines the allowance will be figured as heretofore noted in determining the net income of persons.

3. Amount of interest accrued and paid within the year on indebtedness to an amount of such indebtedness not exceeding one-half the sum of its interest-bearing indebtedness and its paid-up capital at the close of the year. Or, if no capital stock, the amount of interest paid within the year on an amount of its indebtedness not exceeding the amount of the capital employed in the business at the close of the year. In the case of banks, loan and trust companies the interest paid on deposits or money received for investment and secured by certificates. As respects indebtedness wholly secured by collateral which is the subject of sale in the ordinary business of the corporation, the total interest secured and paid.

4. All taxes paid on assessments levied under the authority of the United States, or any state, or foreign government.

Income of Foreign Corporations.—The net income of corporations existing under the laws of a foreign country will be computed in practically the same way, the law taking cognizance only of the gross income accrued during the taxable year from business transacted and capital invested within the United States. The deductions, likewise, will be based wholly on operations within the United States.

Collection of Tax.—Returns of incomes, under oath, must be in the hands of the Collector of Internal Revenue not later than March first.

The tax will be due June 1st, and will become delinquent June 30th, when a penalty of five per cent will accrue with interest at the rate of one per cent a month.

While the law fixes the calendar year as the taxable year, it allows any corporation the right to make its own fiscal year its taxable year.

Insurance Companies.—Insurance companies in making returns can deduct from gross income the net addition, if any, required by law to be made within the taxable year to reserve funds; also the sums other than dividends paid on policy and annuity contracts.

Mutual fire insurance companies need not make returns of any portions of premium deposits returned to policy-holders, but must make returns for taxation of all income from other sources, plus those portions of the premium deposits retained by the companies for purposes other than for loss, expenses, and reinsurance reserves.

Mutual marine insurance companies can deduct amounts repaid policy-holders on account of premiums paid or on account of interest accruing on such amounts between the time of becoming due and payment.

Life insurance companies need not include that portion of any premium paid back or credited to a policy-holder, or treated as an abatement of premium.

Other Important Provisions.—Public Utilities Exempt.—The law provides that states and their political subdivisions are exempted from payment of the tax on any income that accrues to them from the operation of public utilities, or the exercise of any governmental function. This exemption does not, however, apply to the income derived from any public utility by the person or corporation operating it.

Public Bonds not Taxed.—In the computation of net income the interest upon the obligations of a state or any political subdivision of a state, also upon the obligations of the United States, is excluded. This covers public bonds in general.

Persons Exempt.—Exempt from the tax are the salaries of the President of the United States, all federal judges, and all state, county and municipal officers and employees.

Partners are Individuals.—In dealing with corporate taxpayers the law makes special exception of partnerships and holds that the persons in a partnership shall be liable for the tax only in their individual capacity.

Must Get License.—All persons, firms or corporations undertaking the collection of foreign incomes must obtain a license by application to the Collector of Internal Revenue.

Undivided Profits.—Undivided and undistributed profits will be considered in ascertaining the net income of persons.

Accumulation of profits for the purpose of evading the law will not avail because the fact that profits are allowed to accumulate beyond the reasonable needs of a business will be regarded as prima facie evidence of a fraudulent purpose.

No Double Taxation.—Double taxation of corporation dividends is prevented by assessing the normal income tax on such dividends against the corporations and not against the individuals receiving them. It will be noted, however, that when corporation dividends contribute to individual incomes subject to the additional tax they enter into the computation of net incomes.

The Tax for 1913.—The tax for the year 1913 will be collected for that part of the calendar year beginning March 1st and ending December 31st. All deductions and exemptions will be figured on a five-sixths basis in order to arrive at five-sixths of the net income, which, for 1913, will be regarded as the taxable income.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX LAW.

The Income Tax Law is contained in Section II of "An Act to Reduce Tariff Duties and to provide Revenue for the Government, and for other purposes" (H. R. 3321), approved October 3, 1913, and so far as the Income Tax is concerned, effective November 1, 1913. So much of Subdivision "S" of Section IV of the Tariff Act as relates to the continuation in force of the Corporation Excise Tax is also included.

A. Subdivision 1. Normal Income Tax.—That there shall be levied, assessed, collected and paid annually upon the entire net income arising or accruing from all sources in the preceding calendar year to every citizen of the United States, whether residing at home or abroad, and to every person residing in the United States, though not a citizen thereof, a tax of 1 per centum per annum upon such income, except as hereinafter provided; and a like tax shall be assessed, levied, collected, and paid annually upon the entire net income from all property owned and of every business, trade or profession carried on in the United States by persons residing elsewhere.

Subdivision 2. Additional Tax.—In addition to the income tax provided under this section (herein referred to as the normal income tax) there shall be levied, assessed, and collected upon the net income of every individual an additional income tax (herein referred to as the additional tax) of 1 per centum per annum upon the amount by which the total net income exceeds $20,000 and does not exceed $50,000, and 2 per centum per annum upon the amount by which the total net income exceeds $50,000 and does not exceed $75,000, 3 per centum per annum upon the amount by which the total net income exceeds $75,000 and does not exceed $100,000, 4 per centum per annum upon the amount by which the total net income exceeds $100,000 and does not exceed $250,000, 5 per centum per annum upon the amount by which the total net income exceeds $250,000 and does not exceed $500,000, and 6 per centum per annum upon the amount by which the total net income exceeds $500,000. All the provisions of this section relating to individuals who are to be chargeable with the normal income tax, so far as they are applicable and are not inconsistent with this subdivision of paragraph A, shall apply to the levy, assessment, and collection of the additional tax imposed under this section. Every person subject to this additional tax shall, for the purpose of its assessment and collection, make a personal return of his total net income from all sources, corporate or otherwise, for the preceding calendar year, under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and approved by the Secretary of the Treasury. For the purpose of this additional tax the taxable income of any individual shall embrace the share to which he would be entitled of the gains and profits, if divided or distributed, whether divided or distributed or not, of all corporations, joint-stock companies, or associations however created or organized, formed or fraudulently availed of for the purpose of preventing the imposition of such tax through the medium of permitting such gains and profits to accumulate instead of being divided or distributed; and the fact that any such corporation, joint-stock company, or association, is a mere holding company, or that the gains and profits are permitted to accumulate beyond the reasonable needs of business shall be prima facie evidence of a fraudulent purpose to escape such tax; but the fact that the gains and profits are in any case permitted to accumulate and become surplus shall not be construed as evidence of a purpose to escape the said tax in such case unless the Secretary of the Treasury shall certify that in his opinion such accumulation is unreasonable for the purposes of the business. When requested by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, or any district collector of internal revenue, such corporation, joint-stock company, or association shall forward to him a correct statement of such profits and the names of the individuals who would be entitled to the same if distributed.

B. Net Income Defined.—That, subject only to such exemptions and deductions as are hereinafter allowed, the net income of a taxable person shall include gains, profits, and income derived from salaries, wages, or compensation for personal service of whatever kind and in whatever form paid, or from professions, vocations, businesses, trade, commerce, or sales, or dealings in property, whether real or personal, growing out of the ownership or use of or interest in real or personal property, also from interest, rent, dividends, securities, or the transaction of any lawful business carried on for gain or profit, or gains or profits and income derived from any source whatever, including the income from but not the value of property acquired by gift, bequest, devise, or descent: Provided, That the proceeds of life insurance policies paid upon the death of the person insured or payments made by or credited to the insured, on life insurance, endowment, or annuity contracts, upon the return thereof to the insured at the maturity of the term mentioned in the contract, or upon surrender of contract, shall not be included as income.

Deductions.—That in computing net income for the purpose of the normal tax there shall be allowed as deductions: First, the necessary expenses actually paid in carrying on any business, not including personal, living, or family expenses; second, all interest paid within the year by a taxable person on indebtedness; third, all national, State, county, school, and municipal taxes paid within the year, not including those assessed against local benefits; fourth, losses actually sustained during the year, incurred in trade or arising from fires, storms, or shipwreck, and not compensated for by insurance or otherwise; fifth, debts due to the taxpayer actually ascertained to be worthless and charged off within the year; sixth, a reasonable allowance for the exhaustion, wear and tear of property arising out of its use or employment in the business, not to exceed, in the case of mines, 5 per centum of the gross value at the mine of the output for the year for which the computation is made, but no deduction shall be made for any amount of expense of restoring property or making good the exhaustion thereof for which an allowance is or has been made: Provided, That no deduction shall be allowed for any amount paid out for new buildings, permanent improvements, or betterments, made to increase the value of any property or estate; seventh, the amount received as dividends upon the stock or from the net earnings of any corporation, joint-stock company, association, or insurance company which is taxable upon its net income as hereinafter provided; eighth, the amount of income, the tax upon which has been paid or withheld for payment at the source of the income, under the provisions of this section, provided that whenever the tax upon the income of a person is required to be withheld and paid at the source as hereinafter required, if such annual income does not exceed the sum of $3,000 or is not fixed or certain, or is indefinite, or irregular as to amount or time of accrual, the same shall not be deducted in the personal return of such person.

Net Income of Nonresidents.—The net income from property owned and business carried on in the United States by persons residing elsewhere shall be computed upon the basis prescribed in this paragraph and that part of paragraph G of this section relating to the computation of the net income of corporations, joint-stock and insurance companies, organized, created, or existing under the laws of foreign countries, in so far as applicable.

Net Income, What Excluded.—That in computing net income under this section there shall be excluded the interest upon the obligations of a State or any political subdivision thereof, and upon the obligations of the United States or its possessions; also the compensation of the present President of the United States during the term for which he has been elected, and of the judges of the supreme and inferior courts of the United States now in office, and the compensation of all officers and employees of a State or any political subdivision thereof except when such compensation is paid by the United States Government.

C. Exemptions.—That there shall be deducted from the amount of the net income of each of said persons, ascertained as provided herein, the sum of $3,000, plus $1,000 additional if the person making the return be a married man with a wife living with him, or plus the sum of $1,000 additional if the person making the return be a married woman with a husband living with her; but in no event shall this additional exemption of $1,000 be deducted by both a husband and a wife: Provided, That only one deduction of $4,000 shall be made from the aggregate income of both husband and wife when living together.

D. Returns.—The said tax shall be computed upon the remainder of said net income of each person subject thereto, accruing during each preceding calendar year ending December thirty-first: Provided, however, That for the year ending December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and thirteen, said tax shall be computed on the net income accruing from March first to December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and thirteen, both dates inclusive, after deducting five-sixths only of the specific exemptions and deductions herein provided for. On or before the first day of March, nineteen hundred and fourteen, and the first day of March in each year thereafter, a true and accurate return, under oath or affirmation, shall be made by each person of lawful age, except as hereinafter provided, subject to the tax imposed by this section, and having a net income of $3,000 or over for the taxable year, to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which such person resides or has his principal place of business, or, in the case of a person residing in a foreign country, in the place where his principal business is carried on within the United States, in such form as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall prescribe, setting forth specifically the gross amount of income from all separate sources and from the total thereof, deducting the aggregate items or expenses and allowances herein authorized; guardians, trustees, executors, administrators, agents, receivers, conservators, and all persons, corporations, or associations acting in any fiduciary capacity, shall make and render a return of the net income of the person for whom they act, subject to this tax, coming into their custody or control and management, and be subject to all the provisions of this section which apply to individuals: Provided, That a return made by one of two or more joint guardians, trustees, executors, administrators, agents, receivers, and conservators, or other persons acting in a fiduciary capacity, filed in the district where such person resides, or in the district where the will or other instrument under which he acts is recorded, under such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe, shall be a sufficient compliance with the requirements of this paragraph; and also all persons, firms, companies, copartnerships, corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, and insurance companies, except as hereinafter provided, in whatever capacity acting, having the control, receipt, disposal, or payment of fixed or determinable annual or periodical gains, profits, and income of another person subject to tax, shall in behalf of such person deduct and withhold from the payment an amount equivalent to the normal income tax upon the same and make and render a return, as aforesaid, but separate and distinct, of the portion of the income of each person from which the normal tax has been thus withheld, and containing also the name and address of such person, or stating that the name and address or the address, as the case may be, are unknown: Provided, That the provision requiring the normal tax of individuals to be withheld at the source of the income shall not be construed to require any of such tax to be withheld prior to the first day of November, nineteen hundred and thirteen: Provided further, That in either case above mentioned no return of income not exceeding $3,000 shall be required: Provided further, That any persons carrying on business in partnership shall be liable for income tax only in their individual capacity, and the share of the profits of a partnership to which any taxable partner would be entitled if the same were divided, whether divided or otherwise, shall be returned for taxation and the tax paid, under the provisions of this section, and any such firm, when requested by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, or any district collector, shall forward to him a correct statement of such profits and the names of the individuals who would be entitled to the same, if distributed: Provided further, That persons liable for the normal income tax only, on their own account or in behalf of another, shall not be required to make return of the income derived from dividends on the capital stock or from the net earnings of corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, and insurance companies taxable upon their net income as hereinafter provided. Any person for whom return has been made and the tax paid, or to be paid as aforesaid, shall not be required to make a return unless such person has other net income, but only one deduction of $3,000 shall be made in the case of any such person. The collector or deputy collector shall require every list to be verified by the oath or affirmation of the party rendering it. If the collector or deputy collector have reason to believe that the amount of any income returned is understated, he shall give due notice to the person making the return to show cause why the amount of the return should not be increased, and upon proof of the amount understated may increase the same accordingly. If dissatisfied with the decision of the collector, such person may submit the case, with all the papers, to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for his decision, and may furnish sworn testimony of witnesses to prove any relevant facts.

E. Assessments.—That all assessments shall be made by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and all persons shall be notified of the amount for which they are respectively liable on or before the first day of June of each successive year, and said assessments shall be paid on or before the thirtieth day of June, except in cases of refusal or neglect to make such return and in cases of false or fraudulent returns, in which cases the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall, upon the discovery thereof, at any time within three years after said return is due, make a return upon the information obtained as provided for in this section or by existing law, and the assessment made by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue thereon shall be paid by such person or persons immediately upon notification of the amount of such assessment; and to any sum or sums due and unpaid after the thirtieth day of June in any year, and for ten days after notice and demand thereof by the collector, there shall be added the sum of 5 per centum on the amount of tax unpaid, and interest at the rate of 1 per centum per month upon said tax from the time the same became due, except from the estates of insane, deceased, or insolvent persons.

Payment at Source.—All persons, firms, copartnerships, companies, corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, and insurance companies, in whatever capacity acting, including lessees, or mortgagors of real or personal property, trustees acting in any trust capacity, executors, administrators, agents, receivers, conservators, employers, and all officers and employees of the United States having the control, receipt, custody, disposal, or payment of interest, rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensation, remuneration, emoluments, or other fixed or determinable annual gains, profits, and income of another person, exceeding $3,000 for any taxable year, other than dividends on capital stock, or from the net earnings of corporations and joint-stock companies or associations subject to like tax, who are required to make and render a return in behalf of another, as provided herein, to the collector of his, her, or its district, are hereby authorized and required to deduct and withhold from such annual gains, profits, and income such sum as will be sufficient to pay the normal tax imposed thereon by this section, and shall pay to the officer of the United States Government authorized to receive the same; and they are each hereby made personally liable for such tax. In all cases where the income tax of a person is withheld and deducted and paid or to be paid at the source, as aforesaid, such person shall not receive the benefit of the deduction and exemption allowed in paragraph C of this section except by an application for refund of the tax unless he shall, not less than thirty days prior to the day on which the return of his income is due, file with the person who is required to withhold and pay tax for him, a signed notice in writing claiming the benefit of such exemption and thereupon no tax shall be withheld upon the amount of such exemption: Provided, That if any person for the purpose of obtaining any allowance or reduction by virtue of a claim for such exemption, either for himself or for any other person, knowingly makes any false statement or false or fraudulent representation, he shall be liable to a penalty of $300; nor shall any person under the foregoing conditions be allowed the benefit of any deduction provided for in subsection B of this section unless he shall, not less than thirty days prior to the day on which the return of his income is due, either file with the person who is required to withhold and pay tax for him a true and correct return of his annual gains, profits, and income from all other sources, and also the deductions asked for, and the showing thus made shall then become a part of the return to be made in his behalf by the person required to withhold and pay the tax, or likewise make application for deductions to the collector of the district in which return is made or to be made for him: Provided further, That if such person is a minor or an insane person, or is absent from the United States, or is unable owing to serious illness to make the return and application above provided for, the return and application may be made for him by the person required to withhold and pay the tax, he making oath under the penalties of this Act that he has sufficient knowledge of the affairs and property of his beneficiary to enable him to make a full and complete return for him or her, and that the return and application made by him are full and complete: Provided further, That the amount of the normal tax hereinbefore imposed shall be deducted and withheld from fixed and determinable annual gains, profits, and income derived from interest upon bonds and mortgages, or deeds of trust or other similar obligations of corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, longer periods, although such interest does not amount to $3,000, subject to the provisions of this section requiring the tax to be withheld at the source and deducted from annual income and paid to the Government; and likewise the amount of such tax shall be deducted and withheld from coupons, checks, or bills of exchange for or in payment of interest upon bonds of foreign countries and upon foreign mortgages or like obligations (not payable in the United States), and also from coupons, checks, or bills of exchange for or in payment of any dividends upon the stock or interest upon the obligations of foreign corporations, associations, and insurance companies engaged in business in foreign countries; and the tax in each case shall be withheld and deducted for and in behalf of any person subject to the tax hereinbefore imposed, although such interest, dividends, or other compensation does not exceed $3,000, by any banker or person who shall sell or otherwise realize coupons, checks, or bills of exchange drawn or made in payment of any such interest or dividends (not payable in the United States), and any person who shall obtain payment (not in the United States), in behalf of another of such dividends and interest by means of coupons, checks, or bills of exchange, and also any dealer in such coupons who shall purchase the same for any such dividends or interest (not payable in the United States), otherwise than from a banker or another dealer in such coupons; but in each case the benefit of the exemption and the deduction allowable under this section may be had by complying with the foregoing provisions of this paragraph.

License.—All persons, firms, or corporations undertaking as a matter of business or for profit the collection of foreign payments of such interest or dividends by means of coupons, checks, or bills of exchange shall obtain a license from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and shall be subject to such regulations enabling the Government to ascertain and verify the due withholding and payment of the income tax required to be withheld and paid as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall prescribe; and any person who shall knowingly undertake to collect such payments as aforesaid without having obtained a license therefor, or without complying with such regulations, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and for each offense be fined in a sum not exceeding $5,000, or imprisoned for a term not exceeding one year, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Future Contracts Invalid.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to release a taxable person from liability for income tax, nor shall any contract entered into after this Act takes effect be valid in regard to any Federal income tax imposed upon a person liable to such payment.

Rules and Regulations.—The tax herein imposed upon annual gains, profits, and income not falling under the foregoing and not returned and paid by virtue of the foregoing shall be assessed by personal return under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and approved by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Payment at Source Restricted to Normal Tax.—The provisions of this section relating to the deduction and payment of the tax at the source of income shall only apply to the normal tax hereinbefore imposed upon individuals.

F. Penalties.—That if any person, corporation, joint-stock company, association, or insurance company liable to make the return or pay the tax aforesaid shall refuse or neglect to make a return at the time or times hereinbefore specified in each year, such person shall be liable to a penalty of not less than $20 nor more than $1,000. Any person or any officer of any corporation required by law to make, render, sign, or verify any return who makes any false or fraudulent return or statement with intent to defeat or evade the assessment required by this section to be made shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding $2,000 or be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court, with the costs of prosecution.

G. (a) Corporation Tax.—That the normal tax hereinbefore imposed upon individuals likewise shall be levied, assessed, and paid annually upon the entire net income arising or accruing from all sources during the preceding calendar year to every corporation, joint-stock company or association, and every insurance company, organized in the United States, no matter how created or organized, not including partnerships; but if organized, authorized, or existing under the laws of any foreign country, then upon the amount of net income accruing from business transacted and capital invested within the United States during such year: Provided, however, That nothing in this section shall apply to labor, agricultural, or horticultural organizations, or to mutual savings banks not having a capital stock represented by shares, or to fraternal beneficiary societies, orders, or associations operating under the lodge system or for the exclusive benefit of the members of a fraternity itself operating under the lodge system, and providing for the payment of life, sick, accident, and other benefits to the members of such societies, orders, or associations and dependents of such members, nor to domestic building and loan associations, nor to cemetery companies, organized and operated exclusively for the mutual benefit of their members, nor to any corporation or association organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, or educational purposes, no part of the net income of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual, nor to business leagues, nor to chambers of commerce or boards of trade, not organized for profit or no part of the net income of which inures to the benefit of the private stockholder or individual; nor to any civic league or organization not organized for profit, but operated exclusively for the promotion of social welfare: Provided further, That there shall not be taxed under this section any income derived from any public utility or from the exercise of any essential governmental function accruing to any State, Territory, or the District of Columbia, or any political subdivision of a State, Territory, or the District of Columbia, nor any income accruing to the government of the Philippine Islands or Porto Rico, or of any political subdivision of the Philippine Islands or Porto Rico: Provided, That whenever any State, Territory, or the District of Columbia, or any political subdivision of a State or Territory, has, prior to the passage of this Act, entered in good faith into a contract with any person or corporation, the object and purpose of which is to acquire, construct, operate or maintain a public utility, no tax shall be levied under the provisions of this Act upon the income derived from the operation of such public utility, so far as the payment thereof will impose a loss or burden upon such State, Territory, or the District of Columbia, or a political subdivision of a State or Territory; but this provision is not intended to confer upon such person or corporation any financial gain or exemption or to relieve such person or corporation from the payment of a tax as provided for in this section upon the part or portion of the said income to which such person or corporation shall be entitled under such contract.

(b) Corporate Net Income, How Ascertained.—Such net income shall be ascertained by deducting from the gross amount of the income of such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, received within the year from all sources (first) all the ordinary and necessary expenses paid within the year in the maintenance and operation of its business and properties, including rentals or other payments required to be made as a condition to the continued use or possession of property; (second) all losses actually sustained within the year and not compensated by insurance or otherwise, including a reasonable allowance for depreciation by use, wear and tear of property, if any; and in the case of mines a reasonable allowance for depletion of ores and all other natural deposits, not to exceed 5 per centum of the gross value at the mine of the output for the year for which the computation is made; and in case of insurance companies the net addition, if any, required by law to be made within the year to reserve funds and the sums other than dividends paid within the year on policy and annuity contracts: Provided, That mutual fire insurance companies requiring their members to make premium deposits to provide for losses and expenses shall not return as income any portion of the premium deposits returned to their policy-holders, but shall return as taxable income all income received by them from all other sources plus such portions of the premium deposits as are retained by the companies for purposes other than the payment of losses and expenses and reinsurance reserves: Provided further, That mutual marine insurance companies shall include in their return of gross income gross premiums collected and received by them less amounts paid for reinsurance, but shall be entitled to include in deductions from gross income amounts repaid to policy-holders on account of premiums previously paid by them and interest paid upon such amounts between the ascertainment thereof and the payment thereof and life insurance companies shall not include as income in any year such portion of any actual premium received from any individual policy-holder as shall have been paid back or credited to such individual policy-holder, or treated as an abatement of premium of such individual policy-holder, within such year; (third) the amount of interest accrued and paid within the year on its indebtedness to an amount of such indebtedness not exceeding one-half of the sum of its interest-bearing indebtedness and its paid-up capital stock outstanding at the close of the year, or if no capital stock, the amount of interest paid within the year on an amount of its indebtedness not exceeding the amount of capital employed in the business at the close of the year: Provided, That in case of indebtedness wholly secured by collateral the subject of sale in ordinary business of such corporation, joint-stock company, or association, the total interest secured and paid by such company, corporation, or association within the year on any such indebtedness may be deducted as a part of its expense of doing business: Provided further, That in the case of bonds or other indebtedness, which have been issued with a guaranty that the interest payable thereon shall be free from taxation, no deduction for the payment of the tax herein imposed shall be allowed; and in the case of a bank, banking association, loan, or trust company, interest paid within the year on deposits or on moneys received for investment and secured by interest-bearing certificates of indebtedness issued by such bank, banking association, loan or trust company; (fourth) all sums paid by it within the year for taxes imposed under the authority of the United States or of any State or Territory thereof, or imposed by the Government of any foreign country: Provided, That in the case of a corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, organized, authorized, or existing under the laws of any foreign country, such net income shall be ascertained by deducting from the gross amount of its income accrued within the year from business transacted and capital invested within the United States, (first) all the ordinary and necessary expenses actually paid within the year out of earnings in the maintenance and operation of its business and property within the United States, including rentals or other payments required to be made as a condition to the continued use or possession of property; (second) all losses actually sustained within the year in business conducted by it within the United States and not compensated by insurance or otherwise, including a reasonable allowance for depreciation by use, wear and tear of property, if any, and in the case of mines a reasonable allowance for depletion of ores and all other natural deposits, not to exceed 5 per centum of the gross value at the mine of the output for the year for which the computation is made; and in case of insurance companies the net addition, if any, required by law to be made within the year to reserve funds and the sums other than dividends paid within the year on policy and annuity contracts: Provided further, That mutual fire insurance companies requiring their members to make premium deposits to provide for losses and expenses shall not return as income any portion of the premium deposits returned to their policy-holders, but shall return as taxable income all income received by them from all other sources plus such portions of the premium deposits as are retained by the companies for purposes other than the payment of losses and expenses and reinsurance reserves: Provided further, That mutual marine insurance companies shall include in their return of gross income gross premiums collected and received by them less amounts paid for reinsurance, but shall be entitled to include in deductions from gross income amounts repaid to policy-holders on account of premiums previously paid by them, and interest paid upon such amounts between the ascertainment thereof and the payment thereof and life insurance companies shall not include as income in any year such portion of any actual premium received from any individual policy-holder as shall have been paid back or credited to such individual policy-holder, or treated as an abatement of premium of such individual policy-holder, within such year; (third) the amount of interest accrued and paid within the year on its indebtedness to an amount of such indebtedness not exceeding the proportion of one-half of the sum of its interest-bearing indebtedness and its paid-up capital stock outstanding at the close of the year, or if no capital stock, the capital employed in the business at the close of the year which gross amount of its income for the year from business transacted and capital invested within the United States bears to the gross amount of its income derived from all sources within and without the United States: Provided, That in the case of bonds or other indebtedness which have been issued with a guaranty that the interest payable thereon shall be free from taxation, no deduction for the payment of the tax herein imposed shall be allowed; (fourth) all sums paid by it within the year for taxes imposed under the authority of the United States or of any State or Territory thereof or the District of Columbia. In the case of assessment insurance companies, whether domestic or foreign, the actual deposit of sums with State or Territorial officers, pursuant to law, as additions to guarantee or reserve funds shall be treated as being payments required by law to reserve funds.

(c) Period of Computation.—The tax herein imposed shall be computed upon its entire net income accrued within each preceding calendar year ending December thirty-first: Provided, however that for the year ending December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and thirteen, said tax shall be imposed upon its entire net income accrued within that portion of said year from March first to December thirty-first, both dates inclusive, to be ascertained by taking five-sixths of its entire net income for said calendar year: Provided further, That any corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company subject to this tax may designate the last day of any month in the year as the day of the closing of its fiscal year and shall be entitled to have the tax payable by it computed upon the basis of the net income ascertained as herein provided for the year ending on the day so designated in the year preceding the date of assessment instead of upon the basis of the net income for the calendar year preceding the date of assessment; and it shall give notice of the day it has thus designated as the closing of its fiscal year to the collector of the district in which its principal business office is located at any time not less than thirty days prior to the date upon which its annual return shall be filed.

Annual Return of Corporations.—All corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, and insurance companies subject to the tax herein imposed, computing taxes upon the income of the calendar year, shall, on or before the first day of March, nineteen hundred and fourteen, and the first day of March in each year thereafter, and all corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, and insurance companies, computing taxes upon the income of a fiscal year which it may designate in the manner hereinbefore provided, shall render a like return within sixty days after the close of its said fiscal year, and within sixty days after the close of its fiscal year in each year thereafter, or in the case of a corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, organized or existing under the laws of a foreign country, in the place where its principal business is located within the United States, in such form as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall prescribe, shall render a true and accurate return under oath or affirmation of its president, vice-president, or other principal officer, and its treasurer or assistant treasurer, to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which it has its principal place of business, setting forth (first) the total amount of its paid-up capital stock outstanding, or if no capital stock, its capital employed in business, at the close of the year; (second) the total amount of its bonded and other indebtedness at the close of the year; (third) the gross amount of its income, received during such year from all sources and if organized under the laws of a foreign country the gross amount of its income received within the year from business transacted and capital invested within the United States; (fourth) the total amount of all its ordinary and necessary expenses paid out of earnings in the maintenance and operation of the business and properties of such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company within the year, stating separately all rentals or other payments required to be made as a condition to the continued use or possession of property, and if organized under the laws of a foreign country the amount so paid in the maintenance and operation of its business within the United States; (fifth) the total amount of all losses actually sustained during the year and not compensated by insurance or otherwise, stating separately any amounts allowed for depreciation of property, and in case of insurance companies the net addition, if any, required by law to be made within the year to reserve funds and the sums other than dividends paid within the year on policy and annuity contracts: Provided further, That mutual fire insurance companies requiring their members to make premium deposits to provide for losses and expenses shall not return as income any portion of the premium deposits returned to their policy-holders, but shall return as taxable income all income received by them from all other sources plus such portions of the premium deposits as are retained by the companies for purposes other than the payment of losses and expenses and reinsurance reserves: Provided further, That mutual marine insurance companies shall include in their return of gross income gross premiums collected and received by them less amounts paid for reinsurance, but shall be entitled to include in deductions from gross income amounts paid to policy-holders on account of premiums previously paid by them, and interest paid upon such amounts between the ascertainment thereof and the payment thereof and life insurance companies shall not include as income in any year such portion of any actual premium received from any individual policy-holder as shall have been paid back or credited to such individual policy-holder, or treated as an abatement of premium of such individual policy-holder, within such year; and in case of a corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, organized under the laws of a foreign country, all losses actually sustained by it during the year in “Sec. 3172. Investigating Expeditions.—Every collector shall, from time to time, cause his deputies to proceed through every part of his district and inquire after and concerning all persons therein who are liable to pay any internal-revenue tax, and all persons owning or having the care and management of any objects liable to pay any tax, and to make a list of such persons and enumerate said objects.

“Sec. 3173. Annual List.—It shall be the duty of any person, partnership, firm, association or corporation, made liable to any duty, special tax, or other tax imposed by law, when not otherwise provided for, in case of a special tax, on or before the thirty-first day of July in each year, in case of income tax on or before the first day of March in each year, and in other cases before the day on which the taxes accrue, to make a list or return, verified by oath or affirmation, to the collector or a deputy collector of the district where located, of the articles or objects, including the amount of annual income charged with a duty or tax, the quantity of goods, wares, and merchandise made or sold and charged with a tax, the several rates and aggregate amount, according to the forms and regulations to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, for which such person, partnership, firm, association, or corporation is liable: Provided, That if any person liable to pay any duty or tax, or owning, possessing, or having the care or management of property, goods, wares, and merchandise, articles or objects liable to pay any duty, tax, or license, shall fail to make and exhibit a list or return required by law, but shall consent to disclose the particulars of any and all the property, goods, wares, and merchandise, articles, and objects liable to pay any duty or tax, or any business or occupation liable to pay any tax as aforesaid, then, and in that case, it shall be the duty of the collector or deputy collector to make such list or return, which, being distinctly read, consented to, and signed and verified by oath or affirmation by the person so owning, possessing, or having the care and management as aforesaid, may be received as the list of such person: Provided further, That in case no annual list or return has been rendered by such person to the collector or deputy collector as required by law, and the person shall be absent from his or her residence or place of business at the time the collector or a deputy collector shall call for the annual list or return, it shall be the duty of such collector or deputy collector to leave at such place of residence or business, with some one of suitable age and discretion, if such be present, otherwise to deposit in the nearest postoffice, a note or memorandum addressed to such person, requiring him or her to render to such collector or deputy collector the list or return required by law within ten days from the date of such note or memorandum, verified by oath or affirmation. And if any person, on being notified or required as aforesaid, shall refuse or neglect to render such list or return within the time required as aforesaid, or whenever any person who is required to deliver a monthly or other return of objects subject to tax fails to do so at the time required, or delivers any return which, in the opinion of the collector, is false or fraudulent, or contains any undervaluation or understatement, it shall be lawful for the collector to summon such person, or any other person having possession, custody, or care of books of account containing entries relating to the business of such person, or any other person he may deem proper, to appear before him and produce such books, at a time and place named in the summons, and to give testimony or answer interrogatories, under oath, respecting any objects liable to tax or the returns thereof. The collector may summon any person residing or found within the State in which his district lies; and when the person intended to be summoned does not reside and cannot be found within such State, he may enter any collection district where such person may be found and there make the examination herein authorized. And to this end he may there exercise all the authority which he might lawfully exercise in the district for which he was commissioned.

“Sec. 3176. Neglect to Render Return or False Return.—When any person, corporation, company, or association refuses or neglects to render any return or list required by law, or renders a false or fraudulent return or list, the collector or any deputy collector shall make, according to the best information which he can obtain, including that derived from the evidence elicited by the examination of the collector, and on his own view and information, such list or return, according to the form prescribed, of the income, property, and objects liable to tax owned or possessed or under the care or management of such person or corporation, company or association, and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall assess all taxes not paid by stamps, including the amount, if any, due for special tax, income or other tax, and in case of any return of a false or fraudulent list or valuation intentionally he shall add 100 per centum to such tax; and in case of a refusal or neglect, except in cases of sickness or absence, to make a list or return, or to verify the same as aforesaid, he shall add 50 per centum to such tax. In case of neglect occasioned by sickness or absence as aforesaid the collector may allow such further time for making and delivering such list or return as he may deem necessary, not exceeding thirty days. The amount so added to the tax shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner as the tax unless the neglect or falsity is discovered after the tax has been paid, in which case the amount so added shall be collected in the same manner as the tax; and the list or return so made and subscribed by such collector or deputy collector shall be held prima facie good and sufficient for all legal purposes."

J. Receipts for Taxes.—That it shall be the duty of every collector of internal revenue, to whom any payment of any taxes other than the tax represented by an adhesive stamp or other engraved stamp is made under the provisions of this section, to give to the person making such payment a full written or printed receipt, expressing the amount paid and the particular account for which such payment was made; and whenever such payment is made such collector shall, if required, give a separate receipt for each tax paid by any debtor, on account of payments made to or to be made by him to separate creditors in such form that such debtor can conveniently produce the same separately to his several creditors in satisfaction of their respective demands to the amounts specified in such receipts; and such receipts shall be sufficient evidence in favor of such debtor to justify him in withholding the amount therein expressed from his next payment to his creditor; but such creditor may, upon giving to his debtor a full written receipt, acknowledging the payment to him of whatever sum may be actually paid, and accepting the amount of tax paid as aforesaid (specifying the same) as a further satisfaction of the debt to that amount, require the surrender to him of such collector's receipt.

K. Jurisdiction of District Courts.—That jurisdiction is hereby conferred upon the district courts of the United States for the district within which any person summoned under this section to appear to testify or to produce books shall reside, to compel such attendance, production of books, and testimony by appropriate process.

L. Provisions Continued in Force.—That all administrative, special, and general provisions of law, including the laws in relation to the assessment, remission, collection, and refund of internal-revenue taxes not heretofore specifically repealed and not inconsistent with the provisions of this section, are hereby extended and made applicable to all the provisions of this section and to the tax herein imposed.

N. Appropriation.—That for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of Section II of this Act, and to pay the expenses of assessing and collecting the income tax therein imposed, and to pay such sums as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may deem necessary, for information, detection, and bringing to trial and punishment persons guilty of violating the provisions of this section, or conniving at the same, in cases where such expenses are not otherwise provided for by law, there is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and fourteen, the sum of $800,000, and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, is authorized to appoint and pay from this appropriation all necessary officers, agents, inspectors, deputy collectors, clerks, messengers and janitors, and to rent such quarters, purchase such supplies, equipment, mechanical devices, and other articles as may be necessary for employment or use in the District of Columbia or any collection district in the United States, or any of the Territories thereof: Provided, That no agent paid from this appropriation shall receive compensation at a rate higher than that now received by traveling agents on accounts in the Internal Revenue Service, and no inspector shall receive a compensation higher than $5 a day and $3 additional in lieu of subsistence, and no deputy collector, clerk, messenger, or other employee shall be paid at a rate of compensation higher than the rate now being paid for the same or similar work in the Internal Revenue Service.

Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, under such rules and regulations as may be fixed by the Secretary of the Treasury to insure faithful and competent service, and with such compensation as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may fix, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, within the limitations herein prescribed: Provided further, That the force authorized to carry out the provisions of Section II of this Act, when not employed as herein provided, shall be employed on general internal-revenue work.

INSTRUCTIONS OF THE UNITED STATES TREASURER REGARDING THE INCOME TAX.

Regulations regarding the deduction of the Income Tax at the source on interest maturing on bonds, notes and other similar obligations of corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, and insurance companies under the provisions of Section 2 of the Act of October 3, 1913:

Tax to be Deducted at Source.—Under the Income Tax Law enacted October 3, 1913, a tax of one per cent, designated in the law as the normal tax, shall be deducted at "the source," beginning November 1, 1913, from all income accruing and payable to

Every citizen of the United States whether residing at home or abroad, and to Every person residing in the United States though not a citizen thereof which may be derived from interest upon bonds and mortgages or deeds of trust or other similar obligations, including equipment, trust agreements and receivers' certificates, of corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, and insurance companies, although such interest does not amount to $3,000, excepting only the interest upon the obligations of the United States or its possessions, or a State or any political subdivision thereof.

The term "debtor" as hereinafter used shall be construed to cover all corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, and insurance companies.

When Tax shall be Withheld by Debtor.—For the purpose of collecting this tax on all coupons and registered interest originating or payable in the United States the source shall be the debtor (or its paying agent in the United States), which shall deduct the tax when same is to be withheld and no other bank, or trust company, banking firm or individual taking coupons or interest orders for collection, or otherwise, shall withhold the tax thereon; provided, that all such coupons or orders for registered interest are accompanied by certificates of ownership, signed by the owners of the bonds upon which the interest matured. These certificates shall be in the forms hereinafter prescribed, and each separate certificate shall be made out by the owner of the bonds for the coupons or interest orders for each separate issue of bonds or obligations of each debtor.

When Tax shall be Withheld by First Collecting Agency.—If, however, the coupons or interest orders are not accompanied by certificates as prescribed above, the first bank, trust company, banking firm, or individual, or collecting agency receiving the coupons or interest orders for collection, or otherwise, shall deduct and withhold the tax and shall attach to such coupons or interest orders its own certificate, giving the name and address of the owner, or the person presenting such coupons or interest orders, if the owner is not known, with a description of the coupons or interest orders; also setting forth the fact that they are withholding the tax upon them; whereupon the debtor shall not again withhold the tax on said coupons or interest orders, but in lieu thereof shall deliver to the government the certificate of such bank, trust company, etc., which is withholding such tax money.

Any corporation, collecting agency, or person first receiving from the owner any interest coupons or orders for the collection of registered interest, and to whom the certificates above provided for are delivered, should require the persons tendering such coupons or orders for registered interest, to satisfactorily establish their identity.

Payment of Registered Interest by Debtors.—The debtor whose bonds may be registered both as to principal and interest shall deduct the normal tax of one per cent from the accruing interest on all bonds before sending out checks for said interest to registered owners or before paying such interest upon interest orders, signed by the registered holders of said bonds until there shall be filed with said debtor or its fiscal agent (and not later than thirty days prior to March 1st) through whom said interest is customarily paid, the proper certificates claiming exemption from liability for said tax as herein provided, executed as follows:

By a citizen or resident of the United States, the bona fide owner of the registered obligations, who may claim exemption under Paragraph C, Section 2, of the Federal Income Tax Law, or

By corporations, joint-stock companies or associations or insurance companies, organized in the United States, or organizations, associations, fraternities, etc., which are either taxable or exempt from taxation, as provided in Paragraph G, Subdivision A, of the Act, or

By a bona fide resident and citizen of a foreign country claiming exemption as such.

Designation of Fiscal Agencies.—The “debtor” may appoint paying or fiscal agents to act for it in matters pertaining to the collection of the tax upon filing with the Collector of Internal Revenue for its district a proper notice of the appointment of such agent or agents.

Certificates Claiming Exemption.—If the owners of the bonds are individuals who are citizens or residents of the United States, the aforesaid certificates shall accompany the coupons, or, with respect to the interest on registered bonds, shall be filed with the payer of said interest, and such certificates shall describe the bonds and show the amount of coupons attached to or the amount of interest due such owners on registered bonds and the full names and address of the owners, and shall also state whether they claim or do not claim exemption from taxation at the source provided for in Paragraph C of Section 2 of the Federal Income Tax Law ($3,000 and under certain conditions $4,000) as to the income represented by such coupons or interest.

The certificates shall also show the amount, if any, of exemption claimed and the date of signature.

By Whom Tax is Withheld.—The licensed person, firm or corporation first receiving any such foreign items for collection or otherwise, shall withhold therefrom the normal tax of one per cent, and will be held responsible therefor. He (the licensee) shall thereupon indorse or stamp thereon the words "Income Tax Withheld by" (giving his or their name, address, and date), which shall be sufficient evidence to relieve subsequent holders or purchasers from the duty of also withholding the income tax.

If the size or nature of such coupons, checks, etc., makes it impracticable to make said indorsement as above, a statement identifying the item on which tax is withheld and bearing said indorsement may be attached thereto with the same effect as if the indorsement was made directly thereon.

List of Tax Collections on Foreign Items.—Such licensees shall obtain the names and addresses of the persons from whom such items are received, and shall prepare a list of same and file it with the Collector of Internal Revenue for his district not later than the 20th day of the month next succeeding the receipt of such items. The list shall be dated, and shall contain the names and addresses of the taxable persons and the amount of tax deducted, and from what source collected.

Certificates to Secure Tax Exemption on Foreign Items.—In the event such coupons, checks or bills of exchange above mentioned are presented for collection by an individual claiming the benefit of the deductions allowable under paragraph C, section 2, of the Federal Income Tax law, such individual shall be permitted to avail himself of the deduction claimed, upon the signing of the form heretofore prescribed for coupons payable in the United States, and no tax shall be deducted for the amount of the exemption so claimed; or if such items are presented by corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, and insurance companies, organized in the United States, the form of certificate heretofore prescribed for such organizations shall be used, and in such instances no tax shall be deducted.

In both instances the licensee first receiving such items shall retain such certificates for delivery with the lists aforesaid to the Collector of Internal Revenue for his district not later than the 20th day of the month next succeeding that in which said items were received, and with respect to said coupons, checks, or bills of exchange, said licensee shall attach thereto (identifying the items) or indorse, or stamp thereon the words "Income Tax Exemption Claimed through" (giving name and address of licensee), which shall be sufficient evidence to relieve subsequent holders or purchasers from the duty of also withholding the tax thereon.

The provision for collection of the tax on foreign obligations set forth in this section of the regulations includes the interest upon all foreign bonds, even though the coupons may be at the option of the holder, payable in the United States as well as in some foreign country.

Accurate Record to be Kept by Licensee.—All persons licensed shall keep their records in such manner as to show from whom every such item has been received, and such records shall be open at all times to the inspection of Internal Revenue officers.

Penalty for Omission to Obtain License.—Failure to obtain license or to comply with regulations is punishable by a fine not exceeding $5,000, or imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, in the discretion of the court. Such licenses shall continue in force until revoked. Application for such licenses should be made to the Collector of Internal Revenue for the district in which they are engaged in business, and may be issued without cost to such persons as the Commissioner may approve, upon their filing with the Collector the bond herein provided for.

All persons making application to the Collector of Internal Revenue for such licenses shall register their names and addresses and state the nature of the business in which they are engaged. Such application for the license, accompanied by a proper surety bond, when both have been approved by the Collector, will be considered a sufficient compliance with the law to enable the persons making application to do business until February 1, 1914, without incurring the penalties provided by law for failure to procure the required license.

Penalty for False Statements.—If any person, for the purpose of obtaining any allowance for reduction by virtue of a claim for exemption, either for himself or for any other, knowingly makes a false statement or false or fraudulent representation, he is liable under the Act to severe penalties.

Partnerships.—Where coupons or interest orders, presented for payment, represent the interest on bonds, or other similar obligations, owned by a partnership, they shall be accompanied by a certificate of ownership, which shall be signed either in the firm's name by one member of the firm or by each individual member of the partnership, and the normal tax shall be withheld by the debtor with respect to the income represented by said interest.

Said certificate or ownership shall be in substantially the following form:

allowance when he shall make his individual income tax return for the year in which said deduction at the source was made.

Nonresident Foreigners Owning Interest-bearing Bonds not Subject to Taxation on Income from Such Bonds if Proper Certificate Furnished.—This tax will not be deducted from the income which may be derived from interest on bonds, mortgages, equipment trusts, receivers' certificates, or other similar obligations of which the bona fide owners are citizens of foreign countries residing in foreign countries; Provided, that such interest coupons, or in case of wholly registered bonds, the orders for the payment of such interest shall be accompanied by duly certified certificates hereinafter provided for to cover the cases of foreign and nonresident owners of bonds and other securities.

Temporary Provision.—In view of the fact that the time required for the interpretation of the law and preparation and issuance of these regulations brings the date so near November 1st, and that many coupons payable upon that date are already in transit without the prescribed certificate attached, with a desire to cause as small an amount of inconvenience as possible to bondholders and general business as may be compatible with the provisions of the law and of these regulations, the following temporary provision is made:

On November 1, 1913, and for fifteen days thereafter, coupons presented to a debtor need not be accompanied by certificates in any of the forms hereinbefore described, provided that such coupons are accompanied by a certificate substantially in the following form:

Form of Temporary Certificate Which may be Used Only Prior to November 16, 1913, Subject to Substitution.

I (or we) hereby certify that I am (or we) lawfully entitled to present for payment the accompanying coupons or interest orders, amounting to dollars ($.....), representing interest matured on the following bonds (giving name of debtor and designating the description, style and numbers of the bonds); that said coupons, or interest orders came into my (or our) possession unaccompanied by a certificate of ownership of said bonds, in any of the forms required by the regulations of the United States Treasury Department, and that the name and address of the owner of such bonds are as follows (give name and address of owner, or if impossible to do this, so state):

(Name of person, firm or corporation presenting coupons.)

(By)

(Address)

On or before February 1, 1914, certificates of the ownership of any of the bonds upon which was collected the interest referred to in such temporary certificates, in any of the forms above set forth, may be delivered to the debtor; and said debtor may thereupon return any sum withheld to which the owner of such bonds may be entitled under the law and regulations upon the facts disclosed by such ownership certificates. Any temporary certificates relating to bonds, for which certificates of ownership shall not have been substituted with the debtor, shall, on or before March 1, 1914, be delivered to the Collector of Internal Revenue.

All forms of certificates herein provided for shall be 8 inches wide and $3\frac{1}{2}$ inches from top to bottom, and printed on paper corresponding in weight and texture to glazed bond paper 17x28, about 26 pounds to the ream of 500 sheets, or white writing paper 21x32, about 32 pounds to the ream of 500 sheets, and the person or corporation first receiving coupons for collection shall write or stamp his or its name and address and date on the back of said certificates.

Secretary of the Treasury.

Approved October 25, 1913.

OLD CORPORATION TAX LAW AND REGULATIONS —ACT OF 1909.

For the year ending December 31, 1913, the Income Tax is computed as follows: $\frac{5}{6}$ of the tax is computed under the new law of 1913, and $\frac{1}{6}$ under the old law of 1909. For that reason the old law, and so much of the regulations as are pertinent, are reprinted as follows:

What Companies Taxed—How Computed—Five Thousand Dollars Exemption—What Organizations Excluded.—Every corporation, joint-stock company or association, organized for profit and having a capital stock represented by shares, and every insurance company, now or hereafter organized under the laws of the United States or of any State or Territory of the United States or under the acts of Congress applicable to Alaska or the District of Columbia, or now or hereafter organized under the laws of any foreign country and engaged in business in any State or Territory of the United States or in Alaska or in the District of Columbia, shall be subject to pay annually a special excise tax with respect to the carrying on or doing business by such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, equivalent to one per centum upon the entire net income over and above five thousand dollars received by it from all sources during such year, exclusive of amounts received by it as dividends upon stock of other corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, or insurance companies, subject to the tax hereby imposed; or if organized under the laws of any foreign country, upon the amount of net income over and above five thousand dollars received by it from business transacted and capital invested within the United States and its Territories, Alaska, and the District of Columbia during such year, exclusive of amounts so received by it as dividends upon stock of other corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, or insurance companies, subject to the tax hereby imposed: Provided, however, That nothing in this section contained shall apply to labor, agricultural or horticultural organizations, or to fraternal beneficiary societies, orders, or associations operating under the lodge system, and providing for the payment of life, sick, accident, and other benefits to the members of such societies, orders or associations, and dependents of such members, nor to domestic building and loan associations, organized and operated exclusively for the mutual benefit of their members, nor to any corporation or association organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, or educational purposes, no part of the net income of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual.

Net Income, How Ascertained—Deductions: Expenses, Losses, Depreciation, Interest, Taxes, Dividends—Foreign Corporations.—Second. Such net income shall be ascertained by deducting from the gross amount of the income of such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, received within the year from all sources. (first) all the ordinary and necessary expenses actually paid within the year out of income in the maintenance and operation of its business and properties, including all charges such as rentals or franchise payments, required to be made as a condition to the continued use or possession of property; (second) all losses actually sustained within the year and not compensated by insurance or otherwise, including a reasonable allowance for depreciation of property, if any, and in the case of insurance companies the sums other than dividends, paid within the year on policy and annuity contracts and the net addition, if any, required by law to be made within the year to reserve funds; (third) interest actually paid within the year on its bonded or other indebtedness to an amount of such bonded and other indebtedness not exceeding the paid-up capital stock of such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, outstanding at the close of the year, and in the case of a bank, banking association or trust company, all interest actually paid by it within the year on deposits; (fourth) all sums paid by it within the year for taxes imposed under the authority of the United States or of any State or Territory thereof, or imposed by the government of any foreign country as a condition to carry on business therein; (fifth) all amounts received by it within the year as dividends upon stock of other corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, or insurance companies, subject to the tax hereby imposed: Provided, That in the case of a corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, organized under the laws of a foreign country, such net income shall be ascertained by deducting from the gross amount of its income received within the year from business transacted and capital invested within the United States and any of its Territories, Alaska, and the District of Columbia, (first) all the ordinary and necessary expenses actually paid within the year out of earnings in the maintenance and operation of its business and property within the United States and its Territories, Alaska, and the District of Columbia, including all charges such as rentals or franchise payments required to be made as a condition to the continued use or possession of property; (second) all losses actually sustained within the year in business conducted by it within the United States or its Territories, Alaska, or the District of Columbia not compensated by insurance or otherwise, including a reasonable allowance for depreciation of property, if any, and in the case of insurance companies the sums other than dividends, paid within the year on policy and annuity contracts and the net addition, if any, required by law to be made within the year to reserve funds; (third) interest actually paid within the year on its bonded or other indebtedness to an amount of such bonded and other indebtedness, not exceeding the proportion of its paid-up capital stock outstanding at the close of the year which the gross amount of its income for the year from business transacted and capital invested within the United States and any of its Territories, Alaska, and the District of Columbia bears to the gross amount of its income derived from all sources within and without the United States; (fourth) the sums paid by it within the year for taxes imposed under the authority of the United States or of any State or Territory thereof; (fifth) all amounts received by it within the year as dividends upon stock of other corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, and insurance companies, subject to the tax hereby imposed. In the case of assessment insurance companies the actual deposit of sums with State or Territorial officers, pursuant to law, as additions to guaranty or reserve funds shall be treated as being payments required by law to reserve funds.

Five Thousand Dollars Exemption—Return, by Whom Made and Contents.—Third. There shall be deducted from the amount of the net income of each of such corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, or insurance companies, ascertained as provided in the foregoing paragraphs of this section, the sum of five thousand dollars, and said tax shall be computed upon the remainder of said net income of such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, for the year ending December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and nine, and for each calendar year thereafter; and on or before the first day of March, nineteen hundred and ten, and the first day of March in each year thereafter, a true and accurate return under oath or affirmation of its president, vice-president, or other principal officer, and its treasurer or assistant treasurer, shall be made by each of the corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, and insurance companies, subject to the tax imposed by this section, to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company has its principal place of business, or, in the case of a corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, organized under the laws of a foreign country, in the place where its principal business is carried on within the United States, in such form as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall prescribe, setting forth (first) the total amount of the paid-up capital stock of such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, outstanding at the close of the year; (second) the total amount of the bonded and other indebtedness of such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company at the close of the year; (third) the gross amount of the income of such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company received during such year from all sources, and if organized under the laws of a foreign country the gross amount of its income received within the year from business transacted and capital invested within the United States and any of its Territories, Alaska, and the District of Columbia; also the amount received by such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company within the year by way of dividends upon stock of other corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, or insurance companies, subject to the tax imposed by this section; (fourth) the total amount of all the ordinary and necessary expenses actually paid out of earnings in the maintenance and operation of the business and properties of such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company within the year, stating separately all charges such as rentals or franchise payments required to be made as a condition to the continued use or possession of property, and if organized under the laws of a foreign country the amount so paid in the maintenance and operation of its business within the United States and its Territories, Alaska, and the District of Columbia; (fifth) the total amount of all losses actually sustained during the year and not compensated by insurance or otherwise, stating separately any amounts allowed for depreciation of property, and in the case of insurance companies the sums other than dividends, paid within the year on policy and annuity contracts and the net addition, if any, required by law to be made within the year to reserve funds; and in the case of a corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, organized under the laws of a foreign country, all losses actually sustained by it during the year in business conducted by it within the United States or its Territories, Alaska, and the District of Columbia, not compensated by insurance or otherwise, stating separately any amounts allowed for depreciation of property, and in the case of insurance companies the sums other than dividends, paid within the year on policy and annuity contracts and the net addition, if any, required by law to be made within the year to reserve fund; (sixth) the amount of interest actually paid within the year on its bonded or other indebtedness to an amount of such bonded and other indebtedness not exceeding the paid-up capital stock of such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, outstanding at the close of the year, and in the case of a bank, banking association, or trust company, stating separately all interest paid by it within the year on deposits; or in case of a corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, organized under the laws of a foreign country, interest so paid on its bonded or other indebtedness to an amount of such bonded and other indebtedness not exceeding the proportion of its paid-up capital stock outstanding at the close of the year, which the gross amount of its income for the year from business transacted and capital invested within the United States and any of its Territories, Alaska, and the District of Columbia, bears to the gross amount of its income derived from all sources within and without the United States; (seventh) the amount paid by it within the year for taxes imposed under the authority of the United States or any State or Territory thereof, and separately the amount so paid by it for taxes imposed by the government of any foreign country as a condition to carrying on business therein; (eighth) the net income of such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, after making the deductions in this section authorized. All such returns shall as received be transmitted forthwith by the collector to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Incorrect Returns—Failure to Make Return—Authority of Commissioner—Amending Returns.—Fourth. Whenever evidence shall be produced before the Commissioner of Internal Revenue which in the opinion of the commissioner justifies the belief that the return made by any corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company is incorrect, or whenever any collector shall report to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue that any corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company has failed to make a return as required by law, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may require from the corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company making such return, such further information with reference to its capital, income, losses, and expenditures as he may deem expedient; and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of such return or for the purpose of making a return where none has been made, is hereby authorized, by any regularly appointed revenue agent specially designated by him for that purpose, to examine any books and papers bearing upon the matters required to be included in the return of such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, and to require the attendance of any officer or employee of such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, and to take his testimony with reference to the matter required by law to be included in such return, with power to administer oaths to such person or persons; and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may also invoke the aid of any court of the United States having jurisdiction to require the attendance of such officers or employees and the production of such books and papers. Upon the information so acquired the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may amend any return or make a return where none has been made. All proceedings taken by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue under the provisions of this section shall be subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury.

Increase of Tax for False Return or Neglect to Make Return—Extension of Time—Tax When Payable—Subsequent Discovery of Falsity of Return. Fifth. All returns shall be retained by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, who shall make assessments thereon; and in case of any return made with false or fraudulent intent, he shall add one hundred per centum of such tax, and in case of a refusal or neglect to make a return or to verify the same as aforesaid he shall add fifty per centum of such tax. In case of neglect occasioned by the sickness or absence of an officer of such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, required to make said return, or for other sufficient reason, the collector may allow such further time for making and delivering such return as he may deem necessary, not exceeding thirty days. The amount so added to the tax shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner as the tax originally assessed, unless the refusal, neglect, or falsity is discovered after the date for payment of said taxes, in which case the amount so added shall be paid by the delinquent corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, immediately upon notice given by the collector. All assessments shall be made and the several corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, or insurance companies, shall be notified of the amount for which they are respectively liable on or before the first day of June of each successive year, and said assessments shall be paid on or before the thirtieth day of June, except in cases of refusal or neglect to make such return, and in cases of false or fraudulent returns, in which cases the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall, upon the discovery thereof, at any time within three years after said return is due, make a return upon information obtained as above provided for, and the assessment made by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue thereon shall be paid by such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company immediately upon notification of the amount of such assessment; and to any sum or sums due and unpaid after the thirtieth day of June in any year, and for ten days after notice and demand thereof by the collector, there shall be added the sum of five per centum on the amount of tax unpaid and interest at the rate of one per centum per month upon said tax from the time the same becomes due.

Assessment and Returns are Public Records.—Sixth. When the assessment shall be made, as provided in this section, the returns, together with any corrections thereof which may have been made by the commissioner, shall be filed in the office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and shall constitute public records and be open to inspection as such.

Penalty for Divulging Information.—Seventh. It shall be unlawful for any collector, deputy collector, agent, clerk, or other officer or employee of the United States to divulge or make known in any manner whatever not provided by law to any person any information obtained by him in the discharge of his official duty, or to divulge or make known in any manner not provided by law any document received, evidence taken, or report made under this section except upon the special direction of the President; and any offense against the foregoing provision shall be a misdemeanor and be punished by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Corporation Making False Return or Failing to Make Return—Penalty.—Eighth. If any of the corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, or insurance companies aforesaid, shall refuse or neglect to make a return at the time or times hereinbefore specified in each year, or shall render a false or fraudulent return, such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company shall be liable to a penalty of not less than one thousand dollars and not exceeding ten thousand dollars.

Person Making False Return, etc.—Penalty.—Any person authorized by law to make, render, sign, or verify any return, who makes any false or fraudulent return, or statement, with intent to defeat or evade the assessment required by this section to be made, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding one thousand dollars or be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court, with the costs of prosecution.

Internal Revenue Laws Made Applicable.—All laws relating to the collection, remission, and refund of internal-revenue taxes, so far as applicable to and not inconsistent with the provisions of this section, are hereby extended and made applicable to the tax imposed by this section.

Jurisdiction of United States Courts.—Jurisdiction is hereby conferred upon the circuit and district courts of the United States for the district within which any person summoned under this section to appear to testify or to produce books as aforesaid, shall reside, to compel such attendance, production of books, and testimony by appropriate process.

REGULATIONS UNDER ACT OF 1909.

All Companies must Report.—The attention of collectors and others is specially called to the fact that the tax imposed by this section of the law applies to all corporations, joint-stock companies, associations, or insurance companies described (except those specifically exempted), without reference to the kind of business carried on, and that the tax is to be computed upon the net income of such corporations, joint-stock companies, associations, and insurance companies, which shall be calculated by subtracting from the gross income received from all sources during the year certain deductions specifically set forth in the statute.

Whether Liable to Tax or not.—Every corporation, joint-stock company, association, or insurance company not specifically enumerated as exempt shall make the return required by law, whether it may have net income liable to tax or not.

Income of Domestic and Foreign Companies Distinguished.—In the case of corporations, joint-stock companies, associations, or insurance companies organized under the authority of the United States or any State or Territory thereof, including Alaska and District of Columbia, such net income relates not only to the business carried on within the confines of the United States, but to income received from business transacted in any foreign country as well. In case of corporations, joint-stock companies, and associations organized under the authority of foreign countries the terms "Gross income," "Net income," and "Authorized deductions" relate only to business transacted within the United States or any State or Territory thereof.

Gross Income.—The following definitions and rules are given for determining the gross income of the various classes of corporations:

1-A. Banks and Other Financial Institutions.—Gross income consists of the gross revenue derived from the operation and management of the business and property of the corporation making the return, together with all amounts of income (including dividends received on stock of other corporations, joint-stock companies, associations, and insurance companies subject to this tax) derived from all other sources, as shown by the entries on its books from January 1st to December 31st of the year for which return is made.

1-B. Insurance Companies.—Same as 1-A above.

2. Transportation Companies.—Same as 1-A above.

3. Manufacturing Companies.—Gross income received during the year from all sources will consist of the total amount, ascertained through an accounting, that shows the difference between the price received for the goods as sold and the cost of such goods as manufactured. The cost of goods manufactured shall be ascertained by an addition of a charge to the account of the cost of goods as manufactured during the year of the sum of the inventory at beginning of the year and a credit to the account of the sum of the inventory at the end of the year. To this amount should be added all items of income received during the year from other sources, including dividends received on stock of other corporations, joint-stock companies, associations, and insurance companies subject to this tax. In the determination of the cost of goods manufactured and sold as above such cost shall comprehend all charges for maintenance and operation of manufacturing plant, but shall not embrace allowances for depreciation of property nor for losses sustained which are to be taken account of in ascertaining the net income subject to tax under the proper heading in the authorized deductions.

4. Mercantile Companies.—Gross amount of income received during the year from all sources consists of the total amount ascertained through inventory, or its equivalent, which shows the difference between the price received for goods sold and the cost of goods purchased during the year, with an addition of a charge to the account of the sum of the inventory at beginning of the year and a credit to the account of the sum of the inventory at the end of the year. To this amount should be added all items of income received during the year from other sources inclusive of dividends received on stock of other corporations, joint-stock companies, associations, and insurance companies subject to this tax. In determining this amount no account shall be taken of allowances for depreciation of property, nor for losses sustained which are to be taken account of in ascertaining the net income subject to tax under the proper heading in the authorized deductions.

5. Miscellaneous.—Gross income consists of the gross revenue derived from the operation and management of the business and property of the corporation making the return, together with all amounts of income (including dividends received on stock of other corporations, joint-stock companies, associations, and insurance companies subject to this tax) derived from all other sources as shown by the entries on the books from January 1st to December 31st of the year for which return is made.

Gross Income and Gross Profits.—It will be noted from these definitions that gross income is practically the same as gross profits, the only difference being that gross income is more inclusive, embracing as it does not only gross profits of the corporation, joint-stock company and association itself, but also all amounts of income received from other sources. It is immaterial whether any item of gross income is evidenced by cash receipts during the year or in such other manner as to entitle it to proper entry on the books of the corporation from January 1st to December 31st for the year in which return is made.

Sale of Capital Assets.—In ascertaining income derived from the sale of capital assets, if the assets were acquired subsequent to January 1, 1909, the difference between the selling price and the buying price shall constitute an item of gross income to be added to or subtracted from gross income according to whether the selling price was greater or less than the buying price. If the capital assets were acquired prior to January 1, 1909, the amount of increment or depreciation representing the difference between the selling and buying price is to be adjusted so as to fairly determine the proportion of the loss or gain arising subsequent to January 1, 1909, and which proportion shall be deducted from or added to the gross income for the year in which the sale was made. But for the purpose of determining the selling price, as provided in this section, there shall be added to the price actually realized on sale any amount which has already been set aside and deducted from gross income by way of depreciation as defined in article 4 and has not been paid out in making good such depreciation on the property sold.

Where Corporation Doing More Than One Class of Business.—Where a corporation is engaged in carrying on more than one class of business, gross income derived from the different classes of business shall be ascertained according to the definitions above, applicable thereto.

Deductions.—The specified deductions actually paid within the year, set forth in the statute and as described in article 3 preceding, shall include all proper items of expenses and charges under the respective heads as designated. The amount returned for ordinary and necessary expenses actually paid within the year out of income in maintenance and operation of the business and properties of the corporation should not, however, embrace allowances for depreciation of fixed property which are otherwise to be taken account of under the proper heading in the authorized deductions, nor expenses paid within the year and charged to such allowances for depreciation credited in the current year or in previous years. In ascertaining expenses proper to be included in the deductions to be made under this article, corporations carrying materials and supplies on hand for use should include in such expenses the charges for materials and supplies only to the amount that the same are actually disbursed and used in operation and maintenance during the year for which the return is made.

Deductions, How Evidenced.—It is immaterial whether the deductions are evidenced by actual disbursements in cash, or whether evidenced in such other way as to be properly acknowledged by the corporate officers and so entered on the books as to constitute a liability against the assets of the corporation, joint-stock company, association, or insurance company making the return.

Losses.—The deduction for losses must be in respect of losses actually sustained during the year and not compensated by insurance or otherwise. It must be based upon the difference between the cost value and salvage value of the property or assets, including in the latter value such amount, if any, as has in the current or previous years been set aside and deducted from gross income by way of depreciation as defined in the following section and not been paid out in making good such depreciation.

relates, in the value of the property in respect of which such deduction is claimed that arises from exhaustion, wear and tear, or obsolescence out of the uses to which the property is put, and which loss has not been made good by payments for ordinary maintenance and repairs deducted under the heading of expenses of maintenance and operation or in the ascertainment of gross income. This estimate should be formed upon the assumed life of the property, its cost value, and its use. Expenses paid in any one year in making good exhaustion, wear and tear, or obsolescence in respect of which any deduction for depreciation is claimed must not be included in the deduction for expense of maintenance and operation of the property or in the ascertainment of gross income, but must be made out of accumulative allowances deducted for depreciation in current and previous years.

Inventories.—It will be noted that an inventory or its equivalent of materials, supplies, and merchandise on hand for use or sale at the close of each calendar year is essential in the case of certain corporations in order to determine the gross income, and in case of other corporations to determine their expenses of operation. Where such inventory or its equivalent was not taken at the close of the year 1908, a supplemental statement showing such inventory approximately must be submitted with the return on the regular form. Such supplemental statement shall be verified under oath by the treasurer or principal financial officer in submitting the same.

Explanatory Note.—Where any item under any of the deductions is of an unusual nature a special explanatory note referring to such item shall be made and attached to the form at the appropriate place and made a part thereof by proper reference.

Contents of Return.—Each return is required to set forth:

(a) The total amount of the paid-up capital stock of such corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, or insurance companies, outstanding at the close of the year;

(b) The total amount of bonded and other indebtedness of such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, at the close of the year;

(c) The gross amount of the income of such corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, received during the year from all sources, and if organized under the laws of a foreign country, the gross amount of its income received within the year from business transacted and capital invested within the United States and any of its territories, Alaska, and the District of Columbia.

Such returns are also required to set forth the items claimed as deductions (Article 4), also the net income after such deductions have been made.

Forms Prescribed.—Under the authority conferred by this act forms of return have been prescribed, in which the various items specified in the law are to be stated.

Blank Forms.—Blank forms of this return will be mailed to collectors and should be furnished to every corporation, not expressly excepted, on or before January 1, 1910, and on or before January 1st of each year thereafter. Failure on the part of any corporation, joint-stock company, association, or insurance company liable to this tax, to receive a blank form will not excuse it from making the return required by law, or relieve it from any penalties for failure to make the return in the prescribed time. Corporations not supplied with the proper forms for making the return should make application therefor to the collector of internal revenue in whose district is located its principal place of business. Each corporation should carefully prepare its return so as to fully and clearly set forth the data therein called for.

Bookkeeping.—No particular system of bookkeeping or accounting will be required by the Department. However, the business transacted by corporations, joint-stock companies, associations, or insurance companies must be so recorded that each and every item therein set forth may be readily verified by an examination of the books and accounts, where such examination is deemed necessary.

Calendar Year.—As the law specifically provides that the tax imposed shall be computed on the net income during each "calendar year," returns of income based on any period other than the calendar year cannot be accepted.

Newly Organized and Liquidating Corporation.—Corporations organized during the year or going into liquidation during the year should nevertheless render a sworn return on the prescribed form.

Record of Returns.—Collectors will see that as soon as each return made by any corporation is received a record on Form 632 is made, setting out the name of the corporation making the return, the nature of the principal business transacted, the location of principal place of business, with net income reported, and the date on which such return was received. The date of receipt in each case will be noted in the last column of that form, in which column the list on which assessment is made will also be noted. For this purpose the column so used may be subdivided, or the date of receipt of such returns may be noted in red ink over the date entered therein as to such assessment list.

Special Agents.—Any collector will, whenever it appears advisable to do so, request that a revenue agent be specially designated to collect and furnish this office with such other data as, in his judgment, is necessary to determine the actual amount of tax to be assessed against any corporation, joint-stock company, or association which under the law set forth in these regulations is required to make return.

Report of Noncompliances.—Such returns are required to be made not later than March 1st of each year, and any failure to comply with the law in this regard should be at once reported by the collector to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Canvass of Districts.—To enable collectors to determine whether all returns due have been received, a careful canvass of each district should be made, and all corporations, joint-stock companies, and associations subject to the tax imposed should be listed as above directed.

Classification.—For statistical purposes all such corporations, joint-stock companies, and associations will be classified as follows:

Class A: Financial and Commercial.—Including banks, banking associations, trust companies, guaranty and surety companies, title insurance companies, building associations (if for profit), and insurance companies not specifically exempt.

Class B: Public Service.—Such as railroads, steamboat, ferryboat, and stage-line companies; pipe-line, gas, and electric light companies; express, transportation, and storage companies; telegraph and telephone companies.

Class C: Industrial and Manufacturing.—Such as mining, lumber, and coke companies; rolling-mills; foundry and machine-shops; saw-mills; flour, woolen, cotton, and other mills; manufacturers of cars, automobiles, elevators, agricultural implements, and all articles manufactured wholly or in part from metal, wood, or other material; manufacturers or refiners of sugar, molasses, syrups, or other products; ice and refrigerating companies; slaughter-house, tannery, packing, or canning companies, etc.

Class D: Mercantile.—Including all dealers (not otherwise classed as producers or manufacturers) in coal, lumber, grain, produce, and all goods, wares, and merchandise.

Class E: Miscellaneous.—Such as architects, contractors, hotel, theater, or other companies, or associations, not otherwise classed.

When classified as above indicated the names of the various corporations, companies, and associations will be listed alphabetically, and will be numbered consecutively (commencing with No. 1 in each class), and in forwarding returns or papers subsequently rendered or submitted by such corporations or companies collectors will see that the same have placed thereon the designating class letter and number corresponding with those noted on the lists herein required to be furnished.

Assessment and Notice.—Upon the receipt and verification of the returns rendered, the tax as ascertained to be due will be assessed as above prescribed; and notice of such assessment will be given and subsequent demand made (if necessary) on Forms 17 and 21, respectively.

In case of failure to make returns within the time and manner required by the statute, or where the return rendered is found or believed to be incorrect, action in such cases will be taken, as provided in paragraph 4 of the law.

The additional tax imposed by paragraph 5 of the law for failure to make the required return, or for making a false or fraudulent return, will in all cases be assessed as therein provided.

Collection of Tax.—The tax assessed under the provisions of this act will be collected and will be receipted for on Form 1, as in the case of other assessed taxes. Unless paid within the time fixed by the statute, notice and demand should be at once issued, and, in case of non-payment, distraint proceedings should be instituted without delay.

SYNOPSIS OF DECISIONS OF TREASURY DEPARTMENT RELATING TO SPECIAL EXCISE TAX ON CORPORATIONS.

The Corporation Excise Tax of 1909 is re-enacted and modified by the Income Tax Law of 1913. The following synopsis of decisions of the Treasury Department under the old law is inserted as a guide to the rulings which will probably be made under the new law, in so far as it re-enacts the old:

CLASS OF CORPORATIONS, ETC., SUBJECT TO TAX.

1. Tax Applies to All Corporations.—The tax imposed by the act applies to all corporations, joint-stock companies, and associations, and every insurance company except those specifically exempted, without reference to the kind of business carried on.

2. Return Though Net Income Less Than $5,000.—Every corporation, etc., not specifically enumerated as exempt shall make the return required by law, although its net income during the year may not have exceeded $5,000. (Opin. Atty. Gen., Jan. 24, 1910.)

3. Exempt Corporations to Make Return.—Corporations claiming special exemption should nevertheless make return (in blank, if desired) accompanied by a statement setting forth the ground on which exemption is claimed. Failure to receive blanks upon which to make return is no excuse for delinquency in making return, as there is no duty imposed upon the Government to furnish corporations with such blanks.

4. Charitable Institutions Should File Return.—Charitable institutions supported by voluntary contributions or State appropriations are held to be exempt from the payment of the special excise tax on corporations, but should file a return in blank as provided in paragraph 3 hereof.

5. Corporations Organized or Liquidating Within Year.—Corporations, etc., organized during the year or going into liquidation during the year should nevertheless render a sworn return on the prescribed form. The tax imposed, however, does not apply to corporations which went out of existence prior to the passage of the act (August 5, 1909).

6. Dissolved Company.—Where company has dissolved and the required return is not made by its officers, such return will be prepared by commissioner. (T. D. 1736.)

7. Bankrupt Corporation.—Where corporation has gone into bankruptcy, returns in such cases to be made by trustee in bankruptcy.

8. Railroad Companies Operating Leased Lines.—Railroad companies operating leased or purchased lines to include all receipts derived therefrom, and if bonded indebtedness has been assumed may deduct interest thereon to an amount not exceeding its own paid-up capital stock. If such subsidiary companies receive income in the way of rentals, etc., return to be also made by such companies.

9. Income of Domestic Corporations.—Corporations, etc., organized under the authority of the United States or any State or Territory thereof, or Alaska or the District of Columbia, to include in their returns not only the income derived from the business carried on within the confines of the United States, but income received from business transacted in any foreign country as well.

10. Subsidiary Companies.—Corporations having branch or subsidiary companies to include in their returns the income of all such companies when no distinction is made in operating and accounting by reason of the separate incorporation of such subsidiary companies; otherwise a return by each corporation should be made.

11. Foreign Companies Designate Principal Office, etc.—Foreign companies having several branch offices in the United States should each designate one of such branches as its principal office and should also designate the proper offices to make the required return.

12. Separate Returns by Consolidated Corporations.—Where a consolidation of two or more corporations has been effected during the year, and each or any such corporation subsequent to such consolidation collects prior existing debts, each such corporation should make separate return and include therein all such collected debts, as also all income received during the year prior to the date of consolidation.

13. Principal Place of Business.—"Principal place of business" is held to mean the principal office where the company keeps its books from which the required return is to be prepared, and not necessarily the place where the operating plant is located.

14. Calendar Year.—As the law specifically provides that the tax imposed shall be computed on the net income during each calendar year, returns of income based on any period other than the calendar year cannot be accepted.

15. Paid-up Capital Stock.—Full amount of stock, as represented by the par value of the shares issued, to be regarded as the paid-up capital stock, except when such stock is assessable on account of deferred payments in which case the amount actually paid on such shares will constitute the actual paid-up capital stock of the corporation.

16. Preferred and Common Stock.—Capital stock held to include both preferred and common stock.

17. Surplus and Undivided Profits.—Surplus and undivided profits not to be included in capital stock.

18. Voting Trusts.—Holding companies known as "voting trusts," receiving only dividends on stock held, and having no capital stock, etc., not liable.

19. Mutual Savings Banks.—Mutual savings banks having no capital stock not liable to tax imposed. (Opin. Atty. Gen., Feb. 14, 1910.)

20. Co-operative Dairies.—Co-operative dairies not issuing stock and allowing patrons dividends based on butter fat in milk furnished not liable.

21. Foreign Steamship Companies.—Foreign steamship companies having no office in the United States, whose vessels only occasionally touch at ports in the United States, not regarded as doing business in this country within the meaning of the statute.

22. Companies Organized in Porto Rico.—Companies organized in Porto Rico and not engaged in business in the United States not subject to tax.

23. Corporations Owning Plantations.—Corporations owning sugar or other plantations and disposing of the products thereof not entitled to exemption as agricultural organizations.

24. Corporations Organized to Sell Provisions.—Corporations organized to sell provisions, etc., to stockholders and others not exempted.

25. Corporations Organized for Holding Real Estate.—Corporations organized for the purpose of holding real estate to make return of income derived from the property so held.

26. Final Return by Liquidating Corporation.—Corporations going into liquidation during any tax period may, at the time of such liquidation, prepare a "final return" covering the business done during the fractional part of the year during which they were engaged in business, and immediately file the same with the collector of the district in which the corporation has its principal place of business.

27. Hail, Storm and Lightning Companies.—Corporations organized for the purpose of insuring against death, or injury by accident, or against damage to property by hail, storm, or lightning, however maintained, are held to be insurance companies, and unless they may be properly classed as "fraternal beneficiary organizations operating under the lodge system," must make returns of annual net income. (T. D. 1738.)

28. Agricultural and Horticultural Associations.—Corporations engaged in agricultural or horticultural pursuits for profit are liable under the law to make returns and to pay the special excise tax thereby shown to be due. Agricultural and horticultural associations specifically enumerated as exempt are held to be such associations as county fairs or like organizations, not themselves engaged in such pursuits, but which, by means of awards, etc., are intended to encourage better production, and no part of whose net income inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual. (T. D. 1737.)

29. Fruit Growers' Associations.—Fruit growers' associations whose purpose is to promote the mutual benefit of their members in growing, harvesting, and marketing their products, and which are not organized for profit and have no capital stock represented by shares, and whose income is derived wholly from membership fees, dues, and assessments to meet necessary expenses, are not liable.

30. Corporations Growing Fruits, Vegetables, and Like Products.—Corporations engaged in growing fruits, vegetables, and like products for profit, and distributing such profits among their members on the basis of the capital invested, are liable and must make returns and pay taxes, if any are found to be due. (T. D. 1737.)

31. Associations or trusts voluntarily formed by parties at interest and not organized “under the laws of the United States or of any State or Territory thereof, or of the laws applicable to the District of Columbia or Alaska,” are not corporations within the meaning and intent of the law, and are not liable. (U. S. Supreme Court opinion in Amory Eliot vs. James G. Freeman et al., No. 448.)

32. National Banks.—National banks do not come within any of the exemptions named in the act.

33. Agricultural Organizations.—“Agricultural organizations” held not to come within the statutory exemption, unless their chief object is the promotion or advancement of agricultural interest, and no part of the net income inures to the benefit of their stockholders.

34. Mutual Hail Association.—Mutual hail association regarded as an insurance company and not as an agricultural association, and therefore liable to tax.

35. Mutual Fire Insurance Companies.—Exemption in favor of fraternal beneficiary associations does not apply to mutual fire insurance companies.

36. Limited Partnerships.—Limited partnerships, if organized for profit and having a capital stock represented by shares, although no “certificates of stock” are issued, are liable to the tax imposed. (Opin. Atty. Gen., Feb. 14, 1910.)

37. Interest Received on Government Bonds.—Interest received on government bonds to be included in gross income. (Opin. Atty. Gen., Jan. 13, 1910.)

38. Returns Verified by Two Officers—Agents for Foreign Steamship Companies.—Returns should be signed and verified by two of the officers designated in the law. Signing of one person holding two such offices not permitted. Agents for foreign steamship companies may sign the required returns, if so authorized by their companies.

39. Corporate Seal.—Returns not required to have corporate seal affixed.

40. Returns Filed With Deputy Collector.—Returns filed with deputy collector regarded as having been filed with collector.

41. Protest.—No form of protest prescribed. Any form of protest sufficient if filed before payment of tax. Right of protest not to be denied.

INVENTORIES, ACCOUNTS, ETC.

42. Supplemental Statement.—Where an inventory or its equivalent was not taken at the close of the year 1908, a supplemental statement showing such inventory approximately must be submitted with the return on the regular form. Such supplemental statement shall be verified under oath by the treasurer or principal financial officer submitting the same. (T. D. 1578.)

43. Profits on Sale of Real Estate—Increase in Value of Unsold Property.—Profits realized on sale of real estate during the year, also increase in value of unsold property, if taken up on the books of the corporation, to be included in income.

44. Cost of Manufactured Articles.—Cost of manufactured articles, or articles in process of manufacture, held to include original cost of materials used plus cost of labor, etc.

45. Mortgaged Real Estate.—Mortgaged real estate should be inventoried at its full value and amount of mortgage reported as indebtedness.

46. Sale of Patent Rights.—Receipts from sale of patent rights to be included in income.

47. Bookkeeping.—No particular system of bookkeeping or accounting will be required by the department. However, the business transacted by corporations, etc., must be so recorded that each and every item therein set forth may be readily verified by an examination of the books and accounts where such examination is deemed necessary.

48. Increase in Value of Assets.—Any increase in the value of the capital assets, as determined by a physical revaluation and taken cognizance of by the corporation in book entries, is gain and must be accounted for as income for the year in which such increase is so recognized and recorded.

DEDUCTIONS, EXPENSES, ETC.

49. Deduction, How Evidenced in Books.—It is immaterial whether the deductions are evidenced by actual disbursements in cash or whether evidenced in such other way as to be properly acknowledged by the corporate officers and so entered on the books as to constitute a liability against the assets of the corporation, etc., making the return.

50. Mortgage Indebtedness.—Mortgage indebtedness on real estate, if assumed by the corporation acquiring such real estate, to be included in the indebtedness of the corporation. But if not so assumed and remains only as a lien on the property, interest paid thereon may be deducted as a charge "made as a condition to the continued use or possession of the property." (Opin. Atty. Gen., Feb. 21, 1910.)

51. Cost of Erecting Building.—Cost of erecting building, if included in lease under which property is held by company, is a proper deduction, to be prorated according to time fixed by lease.

52. General Expenses of Foreign Steamship Companies.—General expenses, such as coal, ship stores, etc., of foreign steamship companies, to be prorated as provided in act for interest deductions.

53. Nursery Companies.—Amount received by nursery companies from sales of trees, etc., less amount expended for seedlings and young trees, to be included in gross income. Amount expended for labor, salesmen, etc., to be deducted as expenses.

54. Commissions.—Commissions allowed salesmen, paid in stock, may be deducted as expense if so charged on books.

55. Sales of Stock and Bonds.—Sales of stock and bonds are regarded as sales of capital assets and should be so accounted for. (Art. 2, regs. 31.) But proceeds derived from sale of bonds used in defraying ordinary and necessary expenses are a proper deduction in determining the company's net income.

56. Stock Issued—Notes Issued—Notes Paid.—Stock issued in payment of property purchased represents capital investments and notes issued during the year represent indebtedness. Corporate funds applied to the payment of outstanding notes not a proper deduction in ascertaining net income.

57. Additions and Betterments.—Amounts expended in additions and betterments which constitute an increase in capital investment not a proper deduction.

58. Dividends Received.—Dividends received by corporations on stock of other corporations whose net income does not exceed $5,000 is nevertheless a proper deduction under the law. (Opin. Atty. Gen., Jan. 24, 1910.)

59. Dividends Received on Stock of Foreign Corporations.—Dividends received on stock of foreign corporations not subject to tax not a proper deduction.

60. Dividends Paid Employees.—Dividends paid employees in lieu of wages not proper deduction as expenses.

61. Royalties on Patent Rights.—Royalties on patent rights to be reported as income. Allowance for depreciation of patents expiring during year, however, will be allowed.

62. Lands Bought Prior to January 1, 1909.—In the case of lands bought prior to January 1, 1909, and sold during any subsequent year, the profits arising from such sale, if no accounting of increased value of land was made in returns for previous years, should be prorated in accordance with the number of years the land was held by the corporation and the number of years the law was in effect.

63. Banks Paying Taxes Assessed Against Stockholders.—Banks paying taxes assessed against their stockholders because of their ownership of the shares of stock issued by such bank cannot deduct the amount of tax so paid in making their return for the special excise tax on corporations.

64. Pensions to Employees—Donations to Charitable Institutions.—Amounts paid for pensions to retired employees, or to their families or others dependent upon them, or on account of injuries received by employees, are proper deductions as "ordinary and necessary expenses''; gifts or gratuities to employees in the service of a corporation are not properly deductible in ascertaining net income. Donations made for purposes connected with the operation of the property when limited to charitable institutions, hospitals, or educational institutions, conducted for the benefit of its employees, or their dependents, shall be proper as a deduction under the same head.

65. Excessive Salaries.—Where allowances on account of salaries are deemed excessive and for the purpose of evading the tax due, investigation will be made, and if the facts warrant prosecution will follow.

66. Interest on Deposits.—Interest paid on time deposits and deposits subject to check constitutes a proper deduction from the amount of gross income during the year.

67. Interest on Portions of Bonded Indebtedness.—Interest on portions of bonded or other indebtedness bearing different rates of interest may be deducted from gross income during the year, provided the aggregate amount of such indebtedness does not exceed the paid-up capital stock of the corporation.

68. Interest on Notes Given Prior to January 1, 1909.—Interest paid during the year on notes given prior to January 1, 1909, to be prorated. But interest on notes given in 1909, and payable subsequent to December, 1909, unless charged on the company's books, is not a proper deduction from the income of that year.

69. Deductions Accruing Prior to January 1, 1909.—Interest, taxes, or other items allowable as deductions, accruing prior to January 1, 1909, are not allowable deductions from the gross income of years subsequent thereto.

70. Unearned Premiums.—Unearned premiums set aside by insurance companies as reserve not to be included as income until earned, unless the same shall be entered on the ledger as income during the year in which received.

71. Insurance Fund.—Funds set aside by company for insuring their own property not a proper deduction.

72. Interest on Government Bonds.—As the tax imposed is measured by and is not a tax upon the net receipts of corporations, etc., interest received during the year on Government bonds is not a proper deduction from such income in determining the amount of tax due. (Opin. Atty. Gen., T. D. 1583.)

73. State, County, or Municipal Taxes.—State, county, or municipal taxes paid during the year a proper deduction in ascertaining the net income of corporations.

74. Import Duties or Taxes.—Import duties or taxes if included in arriving at cost of goods are not deductible under the head of taxes paid during the year.

75. Bad Debts.—Bad debts, if so charged off the company's books during the year, are proper deductions. But such debts, if subsequently collected, must be treated as income.

76. Net Addition to Reserves.—The net addition to reserves of insurance companies, required by law, may be based on the highest amount of reserves required by any State in which the insurance company does business. (T. D. 1727.)

77. Reserves for Taxes.—Reserves for taxes cannot be allowed, as the law specifically provides that only such sums as are paid within the year for taxes can be deducted. (T. D. 1727.)

78. Bonds Purchased Above Par.—Where a corporation or insurance company holds bonds which were purchased at a rate above par, and a proportionate deduction of the value of such bonds is made on its books each year so that the book value shall be the redemption value of the bonds when they become due and payable, the return of annual net income may show the depreciation on account of amortization of such bonds. (T. D. 1727.)

79. Dividends Declared by Insurance Companies.—Dividends declared by insurance companies are not deductible from gross income under the guise of rebates or otherwise, and such dividends when applied to the payment of renewal premiums, or to shorten the endowment or premium-paying period, or applied to purchase paid-up additions and annuities, must be considered and accounted for as income. (T. D. 1743.)

80. Rentals of Railroad Properties Paid Directly to Stockholders.—Railroad or other corporations which have leased their properties in consideration of a rental equivalent to a certain rate of interest on its outstanding capital stock and the interest on the bonded indebtedness, and such rental is paid by the lessee directly to the stock and bond holders, should, nevertheless, make a return of annual net income showing the rental so paid as having been received by the corporation.

81. Salaries Paid to Stockholder.—Salaries paid to an officer who is a stockholder, to constitute an allowable deduction, must be a reasonable and fair compensation for the services rendered, regardless of the amount of stock which such officer may hold, and must have been authorized by the board of directors and made a matter of record on the minute books of the corporation.

82. "Goodwill."—"Goodwill" represents the value attached to a business over and above the value of the physical property, and is such an entirely intangible asset that no claim for depreciation in connection therewith can be allowed.

DEPRECIATION.

83. Depreciation must be Charged Off.—Depreciation to be an allowable deduction in the return of annual net income of a corporation must be charged off on the ledger of the corporation, so as to show a reduction in the capital assets of the corporation to the extent of the depreciation claimed.

84. Depreciation, How Based and Evidenced.—Deduction on account of depreciation of property must be based on lifetime of property, its cost, value, and use, and must be evidenced by a ledger entry and a like reduction in the plant and property account with respect to which the depreciation is claimed.

85. Stocks and Bonds.—In the case of corporations owning stocks and bonds or other securities, if an annual adjustment of the value of such securities is made and the adjusted values made a matter of ledger entry, the appreciation of such securities as so entered must be accounted for as income, and the depreciation may be deducted from gross income. If no annual adjustment is made, and the securities are carried from year to year as a permanent investment, there will be neither gain nor loss, as to the principal of such securities, until the same shall have been disposed of, when the gain or loss as compared with the original cost shall be prorated, and the amount of such gain or loss apportioned to the years since the incidence of the tax, to wit, January 1, 1909, shall be added to or deducted from the gross income of the year in which the securities were so disposed of.

86. Increase or Decrease in the Value of Real Estate.—Where increase or decrease during the year in the value of real estate acquired in previous years, sold or held for sale, is taken up on the books and the rate cannot be accurately determined with respect to individual years, such increase or decrease may be prorated as provided by regulations in cases of sale of capital assets.

87. Premiums on Stocks and Bonds.—Premiums on stocks and bonds arbitrarily charged off on the books of a corporation do not constitute a proper deduction on account of depreciation, unless there shall have been an actual shrinkage in value of such stocks and bonds to the extent of the deduction claimed during the year for which the return is made.

88. Net Income on Uncompleted Contracts.—Net income on uncompleted contracts may be estimated on the basis of the percentage of the work completed as compared with the contract price of the whole work.

89. Cost of Drilling Wells.—Cost of drilling new wells by oil corporations is considered betterments and additions to the capital assets of the corporation. The expense of drilling dry wells may, however, be charged to profit and loss.

90. Discounts.—Discounts, other than bank discounts on notes executed by a corporation, should be segregated from the interest item on the return, and should be included under expenses, item 4.

91. Removal of Timber.—The mere removal of timber by cutting from timber lands, unless the timber is otherwise disposed of through sales or plant operations, is considered simply a change in form of assets. If said timber is disposed of through sales or otherwise it is to be accounted for in accordance with regulations governing disposition of capital and other assets.

92. Deduction, How Based.—Deduction on account of depreciation of property must be based on lifetime of property, its cost, value, and use.

93. Loss Due to Voluntary Removal of Buildings.—Loss due to voluntary removal of buildings, etc., incident to improvements is either a proper charge to the cost of the new additions or to depreciation already provided, as the facts may indicate, but in no case is it a proper deduction in determining net income, except as it may be reflected in the reasonable amount allowable as a deduction for depreciation.

94. Depreciation of Company's Stock.—Depreciation of company's stock a loss to the stockholders, but not a loss to the company issuing the same, and therefore not a proper deduction.

PUBLICITY.

95. Trustee is a Stockholder.—A person who as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation has the ownership or possessory right to stock in a corporation is a stockholder in such corporation within the equity of the rule set down in Treasury Decision No. 1665, governing the publicity of returns. (Opin. Atty. Gen., Dec. 27, 1910.)

DEPRECIATION IN COALS, MINERALS, ETC.

96. Two Classes of Gains or Losses.—In case of corporations whose business consists in part or wholly of mining, producing, and disposing of deposits of nature (ores, coals, and sundry minerals) the conduct of such business will be understood to comprehend two classes of gains or losses, viz.:

(a) The gain or loss resulting from the sale of capital assets, i. e., either the increment, or the loss, arising through possessing over a period of time the investment in the same.

(b) The trading or commercial gain attached to the conduct of the industry, the employment of working capital, the effort and risk involved.

97. Exhaustion of Deposits and Depreciation of Improvements.—In the ascertainment of net income deduction will be allowed for depreciation arising from exhaustion of deposits of ore, mineral, etc., and for depreciation and obsolescence of improvements, in accordance with general regulations respecting depreciation allowances, on the basis of the original capital investment cost of the properties concerned to the company reporting.

98. Unearned Increment.—A further deduction will also be allowed, through not including the same at all in the item of gross income (item 3, Form 637), for the unearned increment represented in such properties as at January 1, 1909, which will be determined in general as follows:

99. Estimate as of January 1, 1909.—An estimate should be made as of January 1, 1909, of the fair market value at that date of the minerals, etc., in deposit. This estimate should be formed on the basis of the disposal value of the minerals in total and exclusive of value of improvements and development work. This valuation should also be reduced to a unit value—per ton, pound, etc.

NOTE.—Values, as aforesaid, should not be estimated on the basis of the assumed salable value of the output under current operative conditions, less the actual cost of production, because, as hereinbefore stated, the selling price under such conditions comprehends a profit both for carrying the investment in coals, etc., improvements and working capital, and for conducting operations in respect of production and disposal of product. The value to be determined as stated must be on the basis of the salable value en bloc of the entire deposit of minerals and mineralized property owned, exclusive of improvements and development work, if the same were disposed of in that form.

100. Unit Value.—The unit value as of January 1, 1909, ascertained as above outlined, would indicate the value to be attached at that date to the capital assets disposed of during any calendar year succeeding. The amount claimed as a deduction from gross income on account of unearned increment shall be shown separately in the deductions from gross income in the return of annual net income.

101. Manner of Making Estimate.—The precise detailed manner in which the estimate of value of minerals, etc., as at January 1, 1909, shall be formed, must naturally be determined by each corporation interested. Every corporation claiming and making a deduction for unearned increment, as provided in section 100 preceding, shall maintain an official book record of the properties owned by it in connection with which unearned increment is claimed, and which record shall show the general ledger or general balance sheet value thereof, together with the estimated amount of appreciated value in such properties in excess of general balance sheet values, as of January 1, 1909, together with all evidence and information on basis of which such appreciated value was formed. This estimate must be formed on the lines and basis indicated in the "note," section 99, namely, the salable value of the entire deposit considered en bloc. This record should also present clearly and fully the transactions during each year in respect of quantities of minerals disposed of and for which deductions are made respectively for depreciation and unearned increment, together with the amount thereof. No deduction for unearned increment will be allowed unless the aforesaid record is kept, nor unless the evidence as to the estimates of quantity of minerals in deposit and the valuation thereof are accepted by the department. Values determined and recorded as of January 1, 1909, as aforesaid, should be used in the compilation of all subsequent years' excise tax returns.

In case it subsequently develops the property possesses a greater quantity of mineral, etc., reserve than was in the aggregate estimated as of January 1, 1909, only such an amount of aggregate value can be assigned to such excess mineral tonnage as of January 1, 1909, as it was at said date estimated by the company attached to the property and was not assigned by it, as hereinbefore provided, to the specified tonnage in the property.

102. Memorandum Setting Forth Unearned Increment Realized.—Each excise tax return (Form 637) should be accompanied with memorandum setting forth the extent in amount of the exclusion made from the item gross income for unearned increment realized during the year, as above outlined.

103. Amount to be Deducted for Depletion of Deposits.—As to the amount to be deducted for depletion of deposits (Regulation No. 101) is to be formed on basis of the estimated reserve of minerals, etc., it follows that if it develops such estimate is understated, the cost investment and estimated unearned increment in the capital asset may be wholly extinguished before all mineral reserves are removed. When this is reached, further deductions for exhaustion of minerals should be discontinued.

104. Royalties on Minerals.—In case of corporations leasing mines and paying royalties on minerals, etc., removed, the royalties paid are to be treated as expenses and deducted in ascertaining net income, as provided in general regulations. Any leasehold investment which the operating corporation may have in such properties, either through a payment originally made for acquirement thereof or for improvements made upon the property, to be accounted for in accordance with regulations governing depreciation allowances and disposition of capital assets.

105. Properties Acquired After January 1, 1909.—In respect to properties of the character in question which may be acquired by a corporation after January 1, 1909, a deduction will be allowed only as to depreciation arising from exhaustion based on original cost; no exclusion from gross income can be made for unearned increment, as profit arising in sale of such capital assets applies wholly to the period subsequent to January 1, 1909.

DEPLETION OF OIL PROPERTIES.

Regulations to Govern the Ascertainment of the Rate of Depletion of Deposits and the Return of Cash Investment to Corporations With Respect to Petroleum-producing Properties.

Item 80 of T. D. 1675 is hereby amended by striking out the parenthetical word "petroleum," and the following regulation to govern the rate of return of capital invested on the basis of the rate of depletion of oil-producing properties in making return of annual net income for the special excise tax on corporations is issued in lieu thereof:

1. Two Classes of Gains or Losses.—In the case of corporations whose business consists of producing and disposing of crude petroleum, the conduct of such business will be understood to comprehend two classes of gains or losses, viz.: (a) The gain or loss resulting from the sale of capital assets—i. e., either the increment or the loss arising through possessing over a period of time the investment in the same. (b) The trading or commercial gain attached to the conduct of the industry, the employment of working capital, and the effort and risk involved.

2. Depreciation Arising from Exhaustion.—In the ascertainment of net income deduction will be allowed for depreciation arising from exhaustion of deposits and for depreciation and obsolescence of improvements in accordance with the general regulations respecting depreciation allowances, on the basis of the original capital investment cost, reduced to a cash basis of the properties concerned to the company reporting. Claims for depreciation on account of depletion of deposits based on any values other than the cost of the property in cash or cash values (including cost of development) will not be considered.

3. Average Value Per Barrel.—In all producing oil fields an average value per barrel of the settled daily production shall be adopted as the guide in determining the value of the property, and the following method in depreciating said values is recommended:

Valuation Per Barrel, How Fixed.—Each corporation will fix this valuation per barrel as of January 1, 1909, or upon the date of commencement of production, if after that date, for ascertaining the deductions for depreciation on the basis of depletion of deposits. This valuation per barrel should be based on the cost of the property to the corporation plus the cost of the development thereof, with a proper deduction from that valuation for the number of years the property has been in operation, and the resulting proportioned decrease in daily production of oil. With this basis per barrel fixed as of January 1, 1909, or at the date of commencement of production, if after January 1, 1909, the value of the property as a whole is to be determined by applying his unit value per barrel to the daily average production for the month of December, or other representative month, in the year for which the return is made. The representative month chosen shall be the same in each year. This unit valuation per barrel is to be retained in arriving at all future depreciation deductions, except where an additional production is secured by drilling or an additional production is acquired by purchases, in which cases a new average rate per barrel based upon the actual cash invested in such development, or in the new properties and their development, may be adopted. The amount of income each year to be applied to the return of the cash investment shall be ascertained by multiplying the unit valuation ascertained as required above by the difference between the daily average production in barrels during the representative month of each year. The product of such multiplication will be the amount deductible from gross income on account of return of cash investment based upon the rate of depletion of deposits.

4. Cost of Drilling.—The cost of drilling and equipping new producing wells shall be considered additions to capital investment account; the expense of drilling dry holes may be charged to profit and loss.

5. Amount of Petroleum Produced.—The amount of petroleum produced and sold during the year or the price received for the same will not, so far as the application of this regulation to determine depreciation is concerned, affect the value of the property at the end of the year, which value is based only on the comparative rate of decrease in production in accordance with the standard unit value ascertained as stated above.

6. Memorandum.—Each excise tax return should be accompanied with a memorandum showing how the standard unit valuation was arrived at, i. e., the valuation of the producing property as of January 1, 1909, or at the commencement of development, if after that date, and such additional investment in development as may have been made during the year, together with the daily average yield for each month of the year, or for each month since the commencement of operation, if subsequent to January 1, 1909.

7. Cost of the Leasehold Interest.—Where properties are operated upon lease, the cost of the leasehold interest, plus the cost of development, shall be the basis for determining the unit valuation for the purpose of providing for the deduction from gross income of the returnable cash investment.

8. Entries on the Books.—All depreciation deductions from the net income return must be evidenced by proper entries on the books of the corporation reporting, so as to show a reduction in the capital assets equal to the cash investment returned, as provided above, out of gross income.

NOTE.—It will be apparent that by following the plan suggested, the value of the producing property appearing in the capital assets of the company will be automatically and wholly extinguished coincident with the complete exhaustion of the product, with the exception of such salvage as may remain after said exhaustion.

DEPLETION OF NATURAL GAS PROPERTY.

Regulation to Govern the Ascertainment of the Rate of Depletion of Deposits and the Return of Cash Investment to Corporations With Respect to Natural Gas-producing Properties.

Item 80 of T. D. 1675 is hereby amended by striking out the parenthetical word "gas," and the following regulation to govern the return of capital invested in gas-producing properties on the basis of the rate of depletion of deposits in making return of annual net income for the special excise tax on corporations is issued in lieu thereof:

1. Two Classes of Gains or Losses.—In case of corporations whose business consists of either producing, selling, transporting, or distributing natural gas, the conduct of such business will be understood to comprehend two classes of gains or losses, viz.: (a) The gain or loss resulting from the sale of capital assets—i. e., either the increment or the loss arising through possessing over a period of time the investment in the same; (b) the trading or commercial gain attached to the conduct of the industry, the employment of working capital, the effort and risk involved.

2. Depreciation of Investment in the Field.—In the ascertainment of net income, deductions will be allowed for depreciation of investment in the field and main lines of such corporations on the basis of exhaustion of deposits.

Claims for depreciation on account of depletion or depreciation in accordance with the regulations based on any value other than the cost of the property plus the cost of development will not be allowed.

3. Gauging Depreciation.—For the purpose of enabling corporations engaged in the production and transportation of natural gas to properly gauge depreciation of investment in the field and main line divisions on account of depletion to be deducted each year in making their annual return of net income, the following methods are recommended:

First. Producing Gas Area Laid Off.—That the producing gas area of said company be laid off in squares not exceeding one square mile, and that three months prior to September 30th of each year, one or more representative wells be shut in in each square or territory, and that as of September 30th an accurate gauge be taken of the rock pressure of said wells, and the decline in the average rock pressure from year to year shall be considered as the base of determining the exhaustion of deposit. For instance, a corporation may have eighty square miles of territory and the average rock pressure September 30, 1909, may have been six hundred pounds per square inch. On September 30, 1910, the average rock pressure may have been five hundred and forty pounds, or a decline of ten per cent, and this percentage is to be applied as a basis of depreciation for the year 1910 on the cost of the field and main line divisions, less depreciation charged off prior to that date and any salvage value that may remain in the property.

Second. "Volume Basis."—If by reason of lack of area or for any other good and sufficient reason any corporation engaged in the production of gas shall prefer the "volume basis" as more accurately reflecting the rate of exhaustion of deposits, the amount of capital invested to be returned out of the income of any given year may be determined on that basis. In case the "volume basis" is adopted, the volume of each well must be taken with instruments generally recognized as reliable for determining the daily volume produced by each well at stated periods each year, and the percentage of loss in daily production shall determine the percentage of the capital investment which shall be returnable out of gross income and the proper deduction to be made each year in the return of annual net income as return of capital invested.

4. Unreturned Cash Investment.—Any unreturned cash investment remaining when wells or territory have to be abandoned or lines taken up because of failure of the supply of gas, less salvage, may be deducted as part of the reasonable depreciation for the year in which such territory is abandoned unless such values shall have been returned in the reduction made because of loss of volume or decrease in rock pressure, which in such case would be considered as having reached the vanishing point.

5. Investment Cost.—The investment cost of properties reduced to a cash basis to natural gas companies in the distributing or city plant divisions shall be depreciated in accordance with the general regulations and in no instance shall exceed five per cent per annum.

6. Cost of Drilling.—The cost of drilling gas wells has been held by competent authorities as properly chargeable to either investment or expense. While it is preferred that the cost of drilling wells be charged to investment, the general custom of producers of natural gas in charging the cost of the drilling to expense will be recognized, and returns of net income may be made in accordance therewith. Each return of annual net income should in such case state that the expense of drilling gas wells has been charged to expense. All other expenditures in tangible property in development work shall be chargeable to capital assets.

7. General Custom.—The general custom of natural gas companies in the distribution of the cost of drilling wells will be recognized, and the return of net income may be made in accordance therewith.

8. Memoranda.—Each excise tax return should be accompanied by memoranda showing how the depreciation deduction for the year has been arrived at—i. e., the cost of the property in field and main lines, the result of gauges of rock pressure or measurement of volume, and in addition the investment in city plants.

9. Depreciation Deductions Evidenced by Proper Entries.—All depreciation deductions made in the return of annual net income must be evidenced by proper entries on the books of the corporation reporting, so as to show a reduction in the capital assets equal to the cash investment returned, as provided above, out of gross income.

NOTE.—By following the plan suggested each corporation engaged in the production and sale of natural gas will secure the return of the total cash investment, less salvage, in field and main line developments by the time the deposits have been exhausted.

ROYAL E. CABELL, Commissioner.

INSPECTION OF RETURNS.

Inspection of Returns.—By section 38 of the tariff act of August 5, 1909, Congress imposed a special excise tax upon all corporations, joint-stock companies, and associations and insurance companies, foreign and domestic, with certain exceptions, engaged in business in the United States, with respect to carrying on or doing such business, and prescribed the method of handling the return of each corporation, as follows:

6. When the assessment shall be made, as provided in this section, the returns, together with any correction thereof which may have been made by the commissioner, shall be filed in the office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and shall constitute public records and be open to inspection as such.

In the act making appropriations for the legislative, executive, and judicial departments of the government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, there appears this language:

“For classifying, indexing, exhibiting, and properly caring for the returns of all corporations, required by section thirty-eight of an act entitled ‘An act to provide revenue, equalize duties, encourage the industries of the United States, and for other purposes,’ approved August fifth, nineteen hundred and nine, including the employment, in the District of Columbia, of such clerical and other personal services and for rent of such quarters as may be necessary, twenty-five thousand dollars: Provided, that any and all such returns shall be open to inspection only upon the order of the President, under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury and approved by the President."

For the purpose of making effective the legislative intent thus expressed, the President has ordered that all such returns shall be open to inspection under the following rules and regulations:

1. Inspection by an Officer or Employee of the Government.—The return of every corporation shall be open to the inspection of the proper officers and employees of the Treasury Department. Where access to any return is desired by an officer or employee of any other department of the government, an application for permission to inspect such return, setting out the reasons therefor, shall be made in writing, signed by the head of the executive department or other government establishment in which such officer or employee is employed, and transmitted to the Secretary of the Treasury. If, however, the return is desired to be used in any legal proceedings, or to be used in any manner by which any information contained in the return could be made public, or access to any return is desired by any official of any State or Territory of the United States, the application for permission to inspect such return shall be referred to the Attorney General, and if recommended by him transmitted to the Secretary of the Treasury.

2. Inspection by Stockholder.—The Secretary of the Treasury, at his discretion, upon application to him made, setting forth what constitutes a proper showing of cause, may permit inspection of the return of any corporation by any bona fide stockholder in such corporation. The person desiring to inspect such return shall make application, in writing, to the Secretary of the Treasury, setting forth the reasons why he should be permitted to make such inspection, and shall attach to his application a certificate signed by the president, or other principal officer, of such corporation, countersigned by the secretary, under the corporate seal of the company, that he is a bona fide stockholder in said company. (Where this certificate cannot be secured, other evidence will be considered by the Secretary of the Treasury to determine the fact whether or not the applicant is a bona fide stockholder and therefore entitled to inspect the return made by such company.) The privilege of inspecting the return of any corporation is personal to the stockholders, and the permission granted by the Secretary to a stockholder to make such inspection cannot be delegated to any other person.

3. Returns Open to Any Person.—The returns of the following corporations shall be open to the inspection of any person upon written application to the Secretary of the Treasury, which application shall set forth briefly and succinctly all facts necessary to enable the secretary to act upon the request:

(a) The returns of all companies whose stock is listed upon any duly organized and recognized stock exchange within the United States, for the purpose of having its shares dealt in by the public generally.

(b) All corporations whose stock is advertised in the press or offered to the public by the corporation itself for sale. In case of doubt as to whether any company falls within the classification above, the person desiring to see such return should make application, supported by advertisements, prospectus, or such other evidence as he may deem proper to establish the fact that the stock of such corporation is offered for general public sale.

Returns Seen Only in Office.—Returns can be seen only in the office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, in Washington, D. C. In no case shall any collector, or any other internal revenue officer outside of the Treasury Department in Washington, permit to be seen any return or furnish any information whatsoever relative to any return or any information secured by him in his official capacity relating to such return.

No Copy Furnished.—No provision is made in the law for furnishing a copy of any return to any person, and no copy of any return will be furnished except to the corporation making the return, or its duly constituted attorney.

The provisions herein contained shall be effective on and after the 25th day of November, 1910.

FRANKLIN MACVEAGH,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Approved:

WM. H. TAFT,

The White House, November 25, 1910.

ABATEMENT OR REFUNDING OF PENALTIES.

Abatement or Refunding of Penalty Taxes on Corporations Under Certain Conditions.—Any corporation, joint-stock company, association, or any insurance company subject to the special excise tax provided by section 38 of the act of August 5th, 1909, known as the special excise corporation tax law, which has been or may be compelled to pay or become liable for any additional tax within the provisions of subsection 5 of said section 38, which additional tax has been or may hereafter be imposed for a neglect to file a return as provided in said corporation tax law on or before the 1st of March of any year, may, within one year after the passage of this act, or within one year after the date of notice of assessment where such notice is given after the passage of this act, make application to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for a refund of such additional tax. And the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the advice and consent of the Solicitor of Internal Revenue, is hereby directed to remit, abate, or pay back all such additional taxes in excess of $100 for any single year whenever in any case it appears to his satisfaction that the additional tax was assessed or imposed solely because of a neglect to make a return at the time or times specified in said act, and without any intention or design on the part of any officer of such corporation, joint stock company, association, or insurance company to hinder or delay the United States in the collection of the tax originally assessed.

Regulation.—Claims for abatement or refunding under the provisions of the foregoing act shall be made on Forms 47 or 46, respectively, executed in the usual manner and filed with the collector of the district in which the claimant was assessed or paid its tax, to be by him entered on his record and certified to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Such claims should be accompanied by an affidavit of its president, vice-president, or other principal officer, and its treasurer or assistant treasurer, stating specifically that the neglect to make the annual return of the claimant at the time required by law was without any intention or design on the part of any officer of such claimant to hinder or delay the United States in the collection of the tax originally assessed, and setting forth in detail the cause or causes which produced the delay in filing the said annual return in the time and manner prescribed by law.

ABATEMENT OF ASSESSMENTS OR THE REFUNDING OF TAXES CLAIMED UNDER THE DECISION OF THE UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT IN THE CASE OF McCOACH, COLLECTOR, v. MINEHILL ETC. RAILROAD CO.

Evidence Required.—In computing claims for the refunding of special excise taxes paid for the years 1911 and 1912, based upon the principle affirmed by the Supreme Court in the case of McCoach, Collector, vs. Minehill and Schuylkill Haven Railroad Co., all similar claims it will be necessary for the claimant to file therewith—

1. A copy of or citation to the laws of the State and all amendments thereto under which it was organized and executed its lease showing definite authority to lease.

2. A duly authenticated copy of its charter or articles of association, with all amendments thereto.

3. Certified copies of all its leases, agreements, or deeds of conveyance whereby it transferred its property and rights to another, with all amendments and contracts of every kind relative thereto.

4. An affidavit, duly executed by its president or other chief officer and secretary or treasurer, showing, if such be the facts: (a) That the lease of its property covers and conveys all of its franchises, rights, powers, and privileges, other than the right of being a corporation, and all of its property both real and personal essential to its corporate business; (b) specifying in detail what other source of income it has, how such income is received, and what disposition is made of the same; (c) whether either the lessor or lessee company owned or owns any stock of the other, and if so the amount of such stock and of the dividends accrued or paid thereon for the years the taxes were assessed; (d) where it maintains an office and what dividends and other receipts it distributes, the exact character of business it transacts, and what officers act for it and the functions they perform; (e) that during the taxing year or years in question the corporation did not exercise its power of eminent domain or put in force any other general or special corporate power vested in it in aid of the business of its lessee, or in the transaction of any other character of business whatever for the doing of which it was primarily incorporated, organized, or authorized.

Respectfully,

W. H. OSBORN, Commissioner.

(Constitutional Provisions.)

Subjects Taxed Exclusively for State Purposes.—Taxes levied, assessed and collected as hereinafter provided upon railroads, including street railways, whether operated in one or more counties; sleeping-car, dining-car, drawing-room car, and palace-car companies, refrigerator, oil, stock, fruit, and other car-loaning and other car companies operating upon railroads in this State; companies doing express business on any railroad, steamboat, vessel or stage line in this State; telegraph companies; telephone companies; companies engaged in the transmission or sale of gas or electricity; insurance companies; banks, banking associations, savings and loan societies, and trust companies; and taxes upon all franchises of every kind and nature, shall be entirely and exclusively for State purposes, and shall be levied, assessed and collected in the manner hereinafter provided.

“Company” Defined.—The word “companies” as used in this section shall include persons, partnerships, joint-stock associations, companies, and corporations.

(a) Public Service Corporations, How Taxed.—All railroad companies, including street railways, whether operated in one or more counties; all sleeping-car, dining-car, drawing-room car, and palace-car companies, all refrigerator, oil, stock, fruit and other car-loaning and other car companies, operating upon the railroads of this state; all companies doing express business on any railroad, steamboat, vessel or stage line in this State; all telegraph and telephone companies; and all companies engaged in the transmission or sale of gas or electricity shall annually pay to the State a tax upon their franchises, roadways, roadbeds, rails, rolling stock, poles, wires, pipes, canals, conduits, rights of way, and other property, or any part thereof used exclusively in the operation of their business in this State, computed as follows: Said tax shall be equal to the percentages hereinafter fixed upon the gross receipts from operation of such companies and each thereof within this State.

Gross Receipts from Interstate Business.—When such companies are operating partly within and partly without this State, the gross receipts within this State shall be deemed to be all receipts on business beginning and ending within this State, and a proportion, based upon the proportion of the mileage within this State to the entire mileage over which such business is done, of receipts on all business passing through, into, or out of this State.

Percentages on Gross Receipts.—The percentages above mentioned shall be as follows: On all railroad companies, including street railways, four per cent; on all sleeping-car, dining-car, drawing-room car, palace-car companies, refrigerator, oil, stock, fruit, and other car-loaning and other car companies, three per cent; on all companies doing express business on any railroad, steamboat, vessel or stage line, two per cent; on all telegraph and telephone companies, three and one-half per cent; on all companies engaged in the transmission or sale of gas or electricity, four per cent.

In Lieu of Other Taxes and Licenses.—Such taxes shall be in lieu of all other taxes and licenses, state, county and municipal, upon the property above enumerated of such companies except as otherwise in this section provided.

Exception.—Provided, that nothing herein shall be construed to release any such company from the payment of any amount agreed to be paid or required by law to be paid for any special privilege or franchise granted by any of the municipal authorities of this State.

(b) Tax on Insurance Companies.—Every insurance company or association doing business in this State shall annually pay to the State a tax of one and one-half per cent upon the amount of the gross premiums received upon its business done in this State, less return premiums and reinsurance in companies or associations authorized to do business in this state;

Specific Deductions.—Provided, that there shall be deducted from said one and one-half per cent upon the gross premiums the amount of any county and municipal taxes paid by such companies on real estate owned by them in this State. This tax shall be in lieu of all other taxes and licenses, State, county and municipal, upon the property of such companies, except county and municipal taxes on real estate, and except as otherwise in this section provided.

Retaliatory Laws.—Provided, that when by the laws of any other state or country, any taxes, fines, penalties, licenses, fees, deposits of money, or of securities, or other obligations or prohibitions, are imposed on insurance companies of this State doing business in such other State or country, or upon their agents therein, in excess of such taxes, fines, penalties, licenses, fees, deposits of money, or of securities, or other obligations or prohibitions, imposed upon insurance companies of such other State or country, so long as such laws continue in force, the same obligations and prohibitions of whatsoever kind may be imposed by the legislature upon insurance companies of such other State or country doing business in this State.

(c) Tax on State and National Banks.—The shares of capital stock of all banks, organized under the laws of this State, or of the United States, or of any other State and located in this State, shall be assessed and taxed to the owners or holders thereof by the State board of equalization, in the manner to be prescribed by law, in the city or town where the bank is located and not elsewhere. There shall be levied and assessed upon such shares of capital stock an annual tax, payable to the State, of one per centum upon the value thereof. The value of each share of stock in each bank, except such as are in liquidation, shall be taken to be the amount paid in thereon, together with its pro rata of the accumulated surplus and undivided profits. The value of each share of stock in each bank which is in liquidation shall be taken to be its pro rata of the actual assets of such bank. This tax shall be in lieu of all other taxes and licenses, State, county and municipal, upon such shares of stock and upon the property of such banks, except county and municipal taxes on real estate and except as otherwise in this section provided.

Deduction of Real Estate.—In determining the value of the capital stock of any bank there shall be deducted from the value, as defined above, the value, as assessed for county taxes, of any real estate, other than mortgage interests therein, owned by such bank and taxed for county purposes.

Liability for Tax.—The banks shall be liable to the State for this tax and the same shall be paid to the State by them on behalf of the stockholders in the manner and at the time prescribed by law, and they shall have a lien upon the shares of stock and upon any dividends declared thereon to secure the amount so paid.

Tax on Unincorporated Banks and on Branches and Agencies of Foreign Banks.—The moneyed capital, reserve, surplus, undivided profits and all other property belonging to unincorporated banks or bankers of this State, or held by any bank located in this State which has no shares of capital stock, or employed in this State by any branches, agencies, or other representatives of any banks doing business outside of the State of California, shall be likewise assessed and taxed to such banks or bankers by the said board of equalization, in the manner to be provided by law and taxed at the same rate that is levied upon the shares of capital stock of incorporated banks, as provided in the first paragraph of this subdivision.

Deduction of Real Estate.—The value of said property shall be determined by taking the entire property invested in such business, together with all the reserve, surplus, and undivided profits, at their full cash value, and deducting therefrom the value as assessed for county taxes of any real estate, other than mortgage interests therein, owned by such bank and taxed for county purposes.

In Lieu of Other Taxes and Licenses.—Such taxes shall be in lieu of all other taxes and licenses, State, county and municipal, upon the property of the banks and bankers mentioned in this paragraph, except county and municipal taxes on real estate and except as otherwise in this section provided. It is the intention of this paragraph that all moneyed capital and property of the banks and bankers mentioned in this paragraph shall be assessed and taxed at the same rate as an incorporated bank, provided for in the first paragraph of this subdivision.

Method of Determining Value.—In determining the value of the moneyed capital and property of the banks and bankers mentioned in this subdivision, the said State board of equalization shall include and assess to such banks all property and everything of value owned or held by them, which go to make up the value of the capital stock of such banks and bankers, if the same were incorporated and had shares of capital stock.

“Banks” Defined.—The word “banks” as used in this subdivision shall include banking associations, savings and loan societies and trust companies, but shall not include building and loan associations.

(d) Tax on Franchises.—All franchises, other than those expressly provided for in this section, shall be assessed at their actual cash value, in the manner to be provided by law, and shall be taxed at the rate of one per centum each year, and the taxes collected thereon shall be exclusively for the benefit of the State.

(e) Distribution of Receipts.—Out of the revenues from the taxes provided for in this section, together with all other State revenues, there shall be first set apart the moneys to be applied by the State to the support of the public school system and the State university.

Deficiency in State Revenues.—In the event that the above-named revenues are at any time deemed insufficient to meet the annual expenditures of the State, including the above-named expenditures for educational purposes, there may be levied, in the manner to be provided by law, a tax, for State purposes, on all the property in the State, including the classes of property enumerated in this section, sufficient to meet the deficiency.

Bonded Debts.—All property enumerated in subdivisions a, b and d of this section shall be subject to taxation, in the manner provided by law, to pay the principal and interest of any bonded indebtedness created and outstanding by any city, city and county, town, township or district, before the adoption of this section. The taxes so paid for principal and interest on such bonded indebtedness shall be deducted from the total amount paid in taxes for State purposes.

(f) Duty of Legislature.—All the provisions of this section shall be self-executing, and the legislature shall pass all laws necessary to carry this section into effect, and shall provide for a valuation and assessment of the property enumerated in this section, and shall prescribe the duties of the State Board of Equalization and any other officers in connection with the administration thereof.

Change of Rates.—The rates of taxation fixed in this section shall remain in force until changed by the legislature, two-thirds of all the members elected to each of the two houses voting in favor thereof.

Lien of Taxes.—The taxes herein provided for shall become a lien on the first Monday in March of each year after the adoption of this section and shall become due and payable on the first Monday in July thereafter.

Period for Gross Receipts.—The gross receipts and gross premiums herein mentioned shall be computed for the year ending the thirty-first day of December prior to the levy of such taxes and the value of any property mentioned herein shall be fixed as of the first Monday in March.

Proviso.—Nothing herein contained shall affect any tax levied or assessed prior to the adoption of this section; and all laws in relation to such taxes in force at the time of the adoption of this section shall remain in force until changed by the legislature.

Reimbursement of Counties and Districts.—Until the year 1918 the State shall reimburse any and all counties which sustain loss of revenue by the withdrawal of railroad property from county taxation for the net loss in county revenue occasioned by the withdrawal of railroad property from county taxation. Such taxes shall be in lieu of all other taxes and licenses, State, county, and municipal, upon the property of the banks and bankers mentioned in this section, except county and municipal taxes on real estate, and except as otherwise provided in the constitution of this State.

8. Operating Expenses.—The operating and other expenses.

9. Profit and Loss.—The balances of profit and loss, between such periods as the State board of equalization may determine.

10. Other Matters.—Such other matters as the State board of equalization may deem necessary in order to enable it to assess and levy the taxes provided for in section 14 of article 13 of the constitution of the State.

State Board to Assess Franchises.—The State board of equalization shall ascertain and determine from the foregoing reports or from the best information it can obtain the actual cash value on the first Monday in March of each such franchise, and shall assess and levy the taxes thereon in accordance with the provisions of subdivision (d) of section 14 of article 13 of the constitution of this State.

Assessor to Report to State Board.—Every assessor or auditor shall, in the manner, at the times and for the year required by the State board of equalization, report to said board upon such forms as may be prescribed by said board the valuation placed by him upon the property of any company subject to an assessment upon its franchise under the provisions of this act.

Arbitrary Assessment in Case of Failure or Refusal to Report.—If any company mentioned in section 1 of this act shall fail or refuse to furnish to the State board of equalization within the time prescribed in this act the verified report provided for in this act, the State board of equalization must note such failure or refusal in the record of assessments for State taxes hereinafter in this act provided for, and must make an estimate of the amount of the gross receipts, gross premiums, value of the shares of capital stock, or value of the franchises, of such company and must assess the same at the amount thus estimated, which assessment shall be the assessment upon which the taxes upon the property or franchise of the company for such year shall be levied and collected as provided for in this act. And if in the succeeding year any such company shall again fail or refuse to furnish the verified report required by this act, the State board shall make an estimate of the amount of the gross receipts, gross premiums, value of the shares of capital stock, or value of the franchise of such company, which estimate shall not be less than twice the amount of the estimate made by said board in the previous year, and shall note such failure or refusal as above provided, and the said estimate so made shall be the assessment upon which the taxes upon the property or franchise of the company for such year shall be levied and collected as provided for in this act. In case of each succeeding consecutive failure or refusal the said board shall follow the same procedure until a true statement shall be furnished.

Penalty for Failure or Refusal to Report.—Any company failing or refusing to make and furnish any report prescribed in this act or rendering a false or fraudulent report shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine of not less than three hundred dollars and not exceeding five thousand dollars for each such offense.

Penalty for False Report.—Any person required to make, render, sign, or verify any report, who makes any false or fraudulent report, with intent to defeat or evade the assessment required by this act to be made, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall for each such offense be fined not less than three hundred dollars and not more than five thousand dollars, or be imprisoned not exceeding one year in the county jail of the county where said report was verified, or be subject to both said fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court.

Extension of Time for Filing Report.—The State board of equalization may, for good cause shown, by order entered upon its minutes, extend for not exceeding thirty days, the time fixed in this act for filing any report herein provided for; provided, however, that for the year one thousand nine hundred and eleven the said board may extend the period herein mentioned for not exceeding sixty days.

State Board to Meet for Assessment.—The State board of equalization must meet at the State capitol on the first Monday in March in each year, and continue in open session from day to day, Sundays and holidays excepted, until the first Monday in July. Between the first Monday in March and the third Monday before the first Monday in July the board must assess and levy the taxes as and in the manner provided for in this act and in section 14 of article 13 of the constitution of this State.

Assessments, How Made.—The assessments must be made to the company, person, or association owning or operating the property subject to said tax, or, in the case of banks, banking associations, savings and loan societies and trust companies, to the stockholders therein.

Banks in Liquidation.—Provided, however, that in the case of banks in liquidation the assessment shall be made to the receiver, trustee or officer in charge of such liquidation, as the case may be, as the representative of the stockholders thereof. If the name of the owner is unknown to the board, such assessment must be made to unknown owners. Clerical errors occurring or appearing in the name of any company, person, association, or stockholder whose property is correctly assessed, or in the making, or extension of any assessment upon the records of the State board of equalization, which do not affect the substantial rights of the taxpayer, shall not invalidate the assessment.

Bank Waiver of Assessment to Individual Stockholders.—Provided, however, that if any bank shall by resolution of its board of directors, request the State board of equalization to assess to and in the name of such bank so requesting, the entire taxable value of all the shares of the capital stock of such bank, as determined by said State board, instead of assessing such shares to and in the name of the individual stockholders or shareholders owning the same, and if such bank shall promise that it will, upon being notified by said State board, of such assessment thereof to said bank, and of the amount of taxes to be paid upon such assessment, pay such taxes at the times when taxes assessed and levied under this act are due and payable, which request to assess said bank and promise to pay said tax shall be in substantially the following form:

Form of Waiver.—The State board of equalization is hereby instructed to assess in the name of this bank and not to the individual stockholders or shareholders therein, the taxable value of all the shares of capital stock in this bank and such bank hereby promises to pay to the State treasurer the amount of the tax levied upon such assessment when such taxes are due and payable under the laws of this State.

By (here insert title of official signing.)

Enforcement Against Bank.—Then the State board may assess the capital stock to and in the name of such bank and said promise to pay the taxes shall be binding upon such bank and collection of such taxes from such bank may be enforced in the manner and by the same method as is provided for the collection of other taxes assessed and levied under this act.

Board to Publish Notice of Completion of Assessment.—On the third Monday before the first Monday in July the said board shall publish a notice in one daily newspaper of general circulation published at the State capitol, in one daily newspaper of general circulation published in the city and county of San Francisco, and in one daily newspaper of general circulation published in the city of Los Angeles, that the assessment of property for State taxes has been completed, and that the record of assessments for state taxes will be delivered to the controller on the first Monday in July, and that if any company, person, or association is dissatisfied with the assessment made by the board, it may, at any time before the taxes thereon shall become due and payable, apply to the board to have the same corrected in any particular.

Correction of Assessments.—The board shall have power at any time on or before the first Monday in July to correct the record of assessments for State taxes and may increase or decrease any assessment therein if in its judgment the evidence presented or obtained warrants such action.

Record of Assessments for State Taxes.—The State board of equalization must prepare each year a book, in one or more volumes, to be called the "record of assessments for State taxes," in which must be entered, either in writing or printing, or by both writing and printing, each assessment and levy made by said board upon the property and franchises mentioned in section 1 of this act, describing the property assessed, and such assessments shall be classified and entered, in such separate parts of said record as the board shall prescribe.

Certifying to Assessment-roll.—On the first Monday in July the secretary of the State board of equalization must deliver to the controller of State the record of assessments for State taxes, certified to by the chairman and secretary of the board, which certificate shall be substantially as follows: "We,, chairman, and, secretary, of the State board of equalization of the State of California do hereby certify that between the first Monday in March and the first Monday in July, 19. . . ., the State board of equalization made diligent inquiry and examination to ascertain all property and companies subject to assessment and taxation for State purposes, as required by the constitution of this State; that said board has faithfully complied with all the duties imposed upon it by the constitution and laws of the State of California; that said board has not imposed any unjust or double assessment through malice or ill-will, or otherwise; nor allowed any company or property to escape a just assessment through favor or reward or otherwise."

Failure to Certify to Record of Assessments.—But the failure to subscribe such certificate to such record of assessments for State taxes, or any certificate, shall not in any manner affect the validity of any assessment. Such record of assessments shall constitute the warrant for the controller to collect the taxes assessed and levied upon the property and franchises mentioned in section 1 of this act.

Taxes, When Due and When Delinquent.—The taxes assessed and levied as provided in section 14 of article 13 of the constitution of this State, and in and by the provisions of this act, shall be due and payable on the first Monday in July of each year, and one-half thereof shall be delinquent on the sixth Monday after said first Monday in July at 6 o'clock P. M., and unless paid prior thereto, fifteen per cent shall be added to the amount thereof, and unless paid prior to the first Monday in February next thereafter at 6 o'clock P. M., an additional five per cent shall be added to the amount thereof; and the unpaid portion, or the remaining one-half of said taxes shall become delinquent on the first Monday in February next succeeding the day upon which they became due and payable, at 6 o'clock P. M.; and if not paid prior thereto five per cent shall be added to the amount thereof; provided, that all taxes provided for or levied under this act which are not fully secured by real property are due and payable at the time the assessment is made.

Taxes not Secured by Real Estate may be Collected on Assessment.—When in the opinion of the State board of equalization any of the taxes provided for in this section are not a lien upon real property sufficient to secure the payment of the taxes, said board may direct the controller, or his duly authorized representative, to collect the same at any time before the first Monday in August thereafter, and the controller may collect the taxes by seizure and sale of any property owned by the company against whom the tax is assessed.

Sale of Property for Taxes.—The sale of any property so seized shall be made at public auction and of a sufficient amount of the property to pay the taxes, penalties and costs, and be made after one week's notice of the time and place of such sale given by publication in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county where the property seized is situate, or if there be no newspaper of general circulation published in such county, then by posting of such notice in three public places in such county.

Contents of Notice.—Said notice shall contain a description of the property to be sold together with a statement of the amount of the taxes, penalties and costs due thereon and the name of the owner of said property and a further statement that unless the taxes, penalties and costs are paid on or before the day fixed in said notice for such sale of said property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay said taxes, penalties and costs, said property will be sold in accordance with law and said notice.

Bill of Sale and Disposition of Residue of Property.—On payment of the price bid for any property sold, the delivery thereof with bill of sale executed by the controller vests the title in the purchaser. The unsold portion of any property so seized, may be left at the place of sale at the risk of the owner. All the proceeds of any such sale in excess of the taxes, penalties, and costs, must be returned to the owner of the property sold, and until claimed must be deposited in the State treasury subject to the order of the owner thereof, his heirs or assigns.

Controller to Publish Notice When Taxes are Due.—Within ten days after the receipt of the record of assessments for State taxes, the controller must begin the publication of a notice to appear daily for two weeks, in one daily newspaper of general circulation published at the State capital, in one daily newspaper of general circulation published in the city and county of San Francisco, and in one daily newspaper of general circulation published in the city of Los Angeles, specifying:

Contents of Above Notice.—1. That he has received from the State board of equalization the record of assessments for State taxes.

2. That the taxes therein assessed are due and payable on the first Monday in July and that one-half thereof will be delinquent on the sixth Monday after the first Monday in July at 6 o'clock P. M., and that unless paid to the State treasurer at the capitol prior thereto, fifteen per cent will be added to the amount thereof, and unless paid prior to the first Monday in February next thereafter at 6 o'clock P. M., an additional five per cent will be added to the amount thereof; and that the remaining one-half of said taxes will become delinquent on the first Monday in February next succeeding the day upon which they became due and payable, at 6 o'clock P. M.; and if not paid to the State treasurer at the capitol prior thereto, five per cent will be added to the amount thereof.

Taxes a Lien.—The taxes levied under the provisions of this act shall constitute a lien upon all the property and franchises of every kind and nature belonging to the companies subject to taxation for State purposes, which lien shall attach on the first Monday in March of each year.

Tax has Effect of a Judgment.—Every tax herein provided for has the effect of a judgment against the company, and every lien created by this act has the effect of an execution duly levied against all property of the delinquent; the judgment is not satisfied nor the lien removed until such taxes, penalties, and costs are paid, or the property sold for the payment thereof.

Bankruptcy and Dissolution.—No final discharge in bankruptcy or decree of dissolution shall be made and entered by any court until all taxes, penalties, and costs due on assessments made under the provisions of this act shall have been paid and discharged.

Taxes to be Paid to State Treasurer.—All taxes assessed and levied as provided in this act shall be paid to the State treasurer, upon the order of the controller, without deduction for any taxes assessed and levied to pay the principal and interests of any bonded indebtedness mentioned in subdivision (e) of section 14 of article 13 of the constitution of this State, and the amount due to the cities, cities and counties, counties, towns, townships, and districts on account of said taxes assessed and levied for such bonded indebtedness shall be paid to said cities, cities and counties, counties, towns, townships, or districts in the manner hereinafter in this act provided. The controller must mark the date of payment of any tax on the record of assessments for State taxes.

Controller to Receipt for Taxes.—He must give a receipt to the person paying any tax, or any part of any tax, specifying the amount of the assessment and the tax, or part of tax, paid, and the amount remaining unpaid, if any, with a description of the property assessed; provided, that the receipt for the second half of the taxes may refer, by number or in any other intelligible manner, to the receipt given for the first half of said taxes, in lieu of a description of the property assessed.

Taxes Erroneously Collected.—Whenever any taxes, penalties, or costs collected and paid to the State treasurer under the provisions of this act, shall have been paid more than once, or shall have been erroneously or illegally collected, or when any taxes shall have been collected and paid pursuant to this act upon a computation erroneously made by reason of clerical mistake of the officers or employees of the State board of equalization, or shall have been computed in a manner contrary to law, the State board of equalization shall certify to the State board of control the amount of such taxes, penalties, or costs, collected in excess of what was legally due, from whom they were collected, or by whom paid, and if approved by said board of control, the same shall be credited to the company or person to whom it rightfully belongs, at the time of the next payment of taxes.

Limitation of Time.—No claim for such credit shall be so audited, approved, allowed, or paid unless presented within one year after the payment sought to be refunded.

Cancellation of Erroneous Assessment.—In case the assessment of any property or any company is duplicated upon the State assessment-roll, or there appears thereon the assessment of any company whose charter has been forfeited or right to do business in this State has been forfeited, or the assessment of any company which, for any reason, could not be legally assessed, the State board of equalization or the controller shall certify such fact to the State board of control and said board of control shall authorize the cancellation of such assessment.

Protest of Taxes.—Any company, person or association claiming and protesting as herein provided that the assessment made against him or it by the State board of equalization is void in whole or in part may bring an action against the State treasurer for the recovery of the whole or any part of such tax, penalties or costs paid on such assessment upon the grounds stated in such protest, but no such action may be brought later than the third Monday in February next following the day on which the taxes were due, nor unless such company, person or association shall have filed with the State controller at the time of payment of such taxes a written protest stating whether the whole assessment is claimed to be void, or if a part only, what part, and the grounds upon which such claim is founded; and when so paid under protest the payment shall in no case be regarded as voluntary.

Action to Recover Taxes.—Whenever under the provisions of this section an action is commenced against the State treasurer, a copy of the complaint and of the summons must be served upon the treasurer, or his deputy. At the time the treasurer demurs or answers, he may demand that the action be tried in the superior court of the county of Sacramento, which demand must be granted. The Attorney General must defend the action. The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to pleadings, proofs, trials, and appeals are applicable to the proceedings herein provided for. A failure to begin such action within the time herein specified shall be a bar against the recovery of such taxes.

Rendition of Judgment.—In any such action the court shall have power to render judgment for plaintiff for any part or portion of the tax, penalties or costs found to be void and so paid by plaintiff upon such assessment.

Reassessment Provisions.—1. Every assessment of property made after November 8, 1910, under the provisions of section 14, article 13, of the constitution and the provision of this act which is, or may hereafter be adjudged to be invalid by reason of any illegality, invalidity, or irregularity, declared or existing, in the assessment of such property, or in the mode provided for the assessment thereof, shall be remade and the property reassessed and equalized for each year for which such assessment is invalid as aforesaid, and for the year for which the assessment of such property was invalid as aforesaid.

How Made.—And such reassessment and equalization shall be made by the same officers and boards, at the same time or times, as are prescribed by law for the assessment and equalization of property, of the same classes or kinds as the property which hereby is required to be reassessed.

How Entered.—The assessment and equalized assessment of such property shall be entered on the several assessment-rolls or books in the same manner that assessments of such property are or were required by law to be entered for the year or years for which such reassessments shall be made.

Levy of Tax.—And there is hereby levied for State purposes the same rates of taxation for each of such respective years as were levied upon such property for each of said years for said state purposes.

Procedure.—2. All property authorized to be reassessed by this act shall be reassessed and equalized by the proper officers and boards at the value to which and to the person or corporation to whom or to which such property ought, for each of such years, to have been assessed, under such rules of notice and at the times and in the modes as are prescribed for the assessment and equalization of like classes of property.

Levy and Collection of Tax.—And the assessment and equalization thereof, and the levy and collection of taxes thereunder, shall be made by the proper officers at the time, upon like notice and in the manner now or hereafter provided by law for making assessments and equalizing the same, and for the levy and collection of taxes on like classes of property.

Delinquent Penalties—Credits Allowed.—And if the taxes so relieved shall become delinquent, there shall be added thereto and the amount thereof the same percentage as a penalty for such delinquency as is added to other delinquent taxes on like classes of property; and such delinquent taxes and penalties added thereto shall be collected by the proper officers in the manner now or hereafter provided by law for the collection of delinquent taxes and penalties upon like classes of property, the collectors of such taxes to allow as credits thereon all payments theretofore made on the tax as first levied.

Limitation as to Actions.—3. There shall be no limitation or limitations as to the time in which actions for the collections of taxes levied under this section may be commenced, and all the provisions of law now or hereafter provided in respect to assessments, equalization, levy, and collection of taxes shall, where applicable, apply to reassessments, equalization, and relieves and collections of taxes made under the provisions of this act.

Controller to Send Notice of Delinquent Taxes.—Within ten days after the first Monday in February, the controller shall send by mail to the last known address of any company whose taxes are delinquent a notice of the amount of said taxes, penalties, and costs, and that if the said taxes, penalties, and costs are not paid on or before the Saturday preceding the first Monday in March next thereafter at 6 o'clock P. M. of said day, the delinquent company if it be a domestic corporation will forfeit its charter to the State, and that if the delinquent company be a foreign corporation it will forfeit its right to do business in this State.

Charter Forfeited for Delinquent Taxes.—If the taxes, penalties, and costs are not paid within the time specified in said notice, the controller shall, on said Saturday preceding the first Monday in March at 6 o'clock P. M., of said day, mark on the record of assessments for State taxes opposite the assessment of the delinquent company the words "charter forfeited to the State," if the delinquent company be a domestic corporation, and thereupon said charter shall be so forfeited, and if the delinquent company be a foreign corporation the words "right to do business forfeited" and thereupon said right to do business shall be so forfeited. He shall at once report to the Secretary of State the name and number of charter of each corporation whose charter or right to do business has been forfeited for nonpayment of taxes, and the Secretary of State shall at once report the same to the Governor.

Governor to Proclaim Forfeitures.—The governor shall forthwith issue his proclamation, declaring that the charters of such domestic corporations have been forfeited and the right of such foreign corporations to do business in this State has been forfeited. Said proclamation shall be filed immediately in the office of the Secretary of State.

Publication of Forfeiture List.—And immediately thereafter a copy of said proclamation shall be published in the manner provided by law in one issue of one daily newspaper of general circulation published at the State capital, of one daily newspaper of general circulation published in the city and county of San Francisco, and of one daily newspaper of general circulation published in the city of Los Angeles. The Secretary of the State shall thereupon transmit a certified copy of the proclamation to each county clerk in this State, who shall file the same in his office.

Relief from Forfeiture.—Any such corporation making subsequent payment of all taxes, penalties, and costs due the State, and in addition thereto an amount equal to the taxes levied under this act for the year in which such forfeiture occurred, for each year subsequent to such forfeiture and to the time of such redemption, shall be relieved of such forfeiture.

Duty of Controller and Secretary of State.—And the controller shall notify the Secretary of State thereof, and the Secretary of State shall annually on the first Monday in April transmit to the county clerk of each county in this State a list of the corporations so paying, and which have been relieved of such forfeiture, which list shall be by said county clerk filed in his office; provided, the rehabilitation of a corporation under the provisions of this act shall be without prejudice to any action, defense or right which accrued by reason of the original forfeiture; and provided, that in case the name of any corporation which has suffered the forfeiture prescribed in this act, or a name so closely resembling the name of such corporation as will tend to deceive, has been adopted by any other corporation since the date of said forfeiture, then said corporation having suffered such forfeiture shall be relieved therefrom pursuant to the terms of this section only upon the adoption by said corporation seeking revivor of a new name, and in such case nothing in this act contained shall be construed as permitting such corporation to be revived or carry on any business under its former name.

Resumption of Former Name, When Permitted.—And such corporation shall have the right to use its former name or take such new name only upon filing and application therefor with the Secretary of State and upon the issuing of a certificate to such corporation by the Secretary of State setting forth the right of such corporation to take such new name or use its former name, as the case may be; provided, however, that the Secretary of State shall not issue any certificate permitting any corporation to take or use the name of any corporation heretofore organized in this State, and which has not suffered a forfeiture prescribed by this act, or to make or use a name so closely resembling the name of such corporation heretofore organized in this State as will tend to deceive. The provisions of title IX, part III of the Code of Civil Procedure, in so far as they conflict with this section, are not applicable to corporations seeking revivor under this act.

Controller to Sue for Delinquent Taxes.—The controller may, on or before the thirtieth day of April next following said delinquency and forfeiture, bring an action in a court of competent jurisdiction in the county of Sacramento in the name of the people of the State of California, to collect any delinquent taxes, together with any penalties, or costs, which have not been paid in accordance with the provisions of this act and appearing delinquent upon the record of assessments for State taxes hereinbefore in this act provided for. The Attorney General must prosecute such action, and the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to service of summons, pleadings, proofs, trials, and appeals are applicable to the proceedings herein provided for.

May Attach.—In such action a writ of attachment may be issued, and no bond or affidavit previous to the issuing of said attachment is required. In the case of companies whose charters or right to do business has been forfeited under the provisions of this act, service of summons may be made upon the persons now provided for by law to be served as agents or officers of any of such companies and such persons shall be deemed to be the agents of such companies for all purposes necessary in order to prosecute such action.

Payment of Tax.—Payment of the taxes and penalties, or amount of the judgment recovered in such action must be made to the State treasurer. In such actions the record of assessments for State taxes, or a copy of so much thereof as is applicable in said action, duly certified by the controller, or by the secretary of the State board of equalization, showing unpaid taxes against any company, person or association assessed by the State board of equalization, is prima facie evidence of the assessment upon the property and franchises, the delinquency, the amount of the taxes, penalties, and costs due and unpaid to the State, and that the company, person, or association is indebted to the people of the State of California in the amount of taxes and penalties therein appearing unpaid, and that all the forms of law in relation to the assessment and levy of such taxes have been complied with.

Unlawful to Continue Business After Forfeiture of Charter.—It shall be unlawful for any company, either domestic or foreign, which has not paid to the State all taxes, penalties and costs as in this act prescribed and levied, to exercise the powers of such company, or to transact any business in this State, after the Saturday preceding the first Monday in March following its delinquency.

Penalty for Violation.—Each and every person exercising any of the powers of such delinquent company or transacting any business for or in behalf of such company after the Saturday preceding the first Monday in March following the delinquency of such company as provided in this act, except to settle the affairs of such company, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each day such violation of the law continues, which fine shall be paid into the general fund of the State treasury.

Powers and Duties of State Board.—In addition to the powers and duties prescribed in the Political Code, it is the duty of the State board of equalization, and the said board shall have power, for carrying this act into effect:

1. Prescribe Forms.—To prescribe the forms upon which the reports required by sections 9, 12 and 14 of this act shall be made.

2. Inspect Property.—Whenever deemed necessary, to visit as a board, or by the individual members thereof, or to send its secretary or duly appointed representative to any portion of this State for the purpose of inspecting property and learning the value thereof, and of collecting information to enable it to justly assess and levy the taxes provided for in this act.

3. Summon Public Officials.—To call before it, or any member thereof, or before its secretary or duly appointed representative on such visit, any public officials, and to require him to produce any public record, papers or documents in their custody.

4. Issue Subpoenas.—To issue subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses or the production of books before the board, or any member thereof; which subpoenas must be signed by a member of the board, and may be served by any person.

5. Require Attendance of Witnesses and Production of Books.—To require any person having knowledge of the business of any of the companies mentioned in section 14 of article 13 of the constitution of this State, or having the custody of the books and accounts of such companies, to attend before the board or any member thereof, or before the secretary or the duly appointed representative of said board and bring with him for inspection any books, or papers, of such company in his possession or under his control, and to testify under oath touching any matter relating to the assessment to be made under this act. A member of the board, its secretary, or duly appointed representative is authorized to administer such oath.

6. Examine Books and Accounts.—Said board of equalization is hereby authorized and empowered to examine the books and accounts of all companies required by law to report to it and to employ an expert accountant or accountants to assist in the examination of the books and accounts of any such companies when in the judgment of said board the exigencies of the case may so require.

7. Unlawful for Members or Employees to Divulge Information.—It shall be unlawful for any member or ex-member of the State board of equalization, or for any agent employed by it, or for the controller, or ex-controller, or for any person employed by him or for any person who may at any time have obtained such knowledge from any of the foregoing officers or persons, to divulge or make known in any manner whatever not provided by law, any of the following items of information concerning the business affairs of companies reporting to the said board:

(a) Any information concerning the business affairs of any company which is gained during an examination of its books and accounts or in any other manner, and which information is not required to be reported to the State board of equalization in the reports or statements provided for in paragraphs numbered 1 to 10 of section 9 and paragraphs numbered 1 to 10 of section 14 of this act.

(b) Any information, other than the assessment and the amount of taxes levied, obtained by the State board of equalization in accordance with the provisions of this act, from any company other than any of those enumerated in sections 2, 3 and 4 of this act.

(c) Any particular item or items of information relating to the disposition of its earnings contained in the report of a quasi-public corporation which any such corporation may, by written communication specifying the items and presented at the time when it files its report, request shall be treated as confidential.

Governor may Disclose Information.—Provided, however, that if the Governor shall direct that any of the information herein referred to be made public, then it shall no longer be unlawful to divulge or make known the same.

Penalties.—Any violation of the provisions of this subdivision shall be a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or both, at the discretion of the court.

County Auditors to Report Assessments of Real Estate of Banks.—On the second Monday in August of each year the auditor of each county must report to the State board of equalization, in addition to the items required to be so reported by him under section 3728 of the Political Code, the value of each piece of real estate other than mortgage interests therein belonging to each bank in his county as assessed and equalized for purposes of county taxation.

State Board to Equalize Such Assessments.—Whenever the State board of equalization is satisfied after investigation that any county assessor, or board of equalization, has assessed any real estate belonging to any bank above its full cash value and has thereby unjustly reduced the amount of taxes due the State from said bank, said State board shall, under such rules of notice to the clerk of the board of supervisors of the county affected thereby as the said State board shall deem reasonable, equalize the assessed value of such real estate and shall upon completion of said equalization issue an order to said assessor or board of equalization and to the county auditor of the county in which said real estate is located, fixing the assessed value of said real estate.

Equalized Value.—The value so equalized and fixed, and no other, shall be deemed the value, as assessed for county taxes, of such real estate, and the sole basis of taxation upon such real estate for county taxes. A copy of the order certified by the Secretary of the State board of equalization shall be prima facie evidence of the regularity of all proceedings of the board resulting in the action which is the subject matter of the order.

State Board to Equalize Assessments of Real Estate of Insurance Companies.—The State board of equalization shall immediately after the county and city assessments have been completed, ascertain the value of any real estate belonging to any insurance company as assessed and equalized for purposes of county and of city taxation. Whenever the State board of equalization is satisfied after investigation that any county, city and county, city, or district assessor, or board of equalization, has assessed any real estate belonging to any insurance company above its full cash value and has thereby unjustly reduced the amount of taxes due the State from said insurance company, said State board shall, under such rules of notice to the clerk of the board of supervisors of the county or the proper officer of the city affected as the board shall deem reasonable, equalize the assessed value of such real estate and shall upon the completion of said equalization, issue an order to said assessor or board of equalization and to the county, city and county, city, or district auditor or clerk of the county, city and county, city, or district in which said real estate is located, fixing the assessed value of said real estate.

Equalized Value.—The value so equalized and fixed, and no other, shall be deemed the value, as assessed for county, city and county, city, or district taxes, of such real estate, and the sole basis of taxation upon such real estate, for county, municipal and district taxes. A copy of the order certified by the Secretary of the State board of equalization shall be prima facie evidence of the regularity of all proceedings of the board resulting in the action which is the subject matter of the order.

Assessors to Segregate on Assessment-roll.—Each county, city and county, city, and district assessor must segregate on his assessment-roll, as directed by the State board of equalization:

1. Assessment of Railroads as Made by State Board.—The assessments made by the State board of equalization, and apportioned to the county, city and county, city, town, township, or district, upon the franchises, roadway, roadbed, rails and rolling stock of all railroads operated in more than one county in this State under the provisions of the Political Code as the same existed and were in force on the seventh day of November in the year one thousand nine hundred and ten; and

2. Assessments of Public Service Corporations' Property Subject to Bond Tax.—The assessments made by said assessors of any other property enumerated in subdivisions (a), (b) and (d) of section 14 of article 13 of the constitution of this State, which is located in the county, or city and county, or any city, town, township, or district in which it is subject to taxation for paying the principal and interest of any bonded indebtedness created and outstanding by any city, city and county, county, town, township, or district prior to the eighth day of November in the year one thousand nine hundred and ten, as provided in subdivision (e) of section 14 of article 13 of the constitution of this State.

Duplicate to be Sent to State Board.—Immediately upon completion of the assessment and equalization of property for the purposes of taxation in each year the auditor or clerk of each county, city and county, city, town, or district must transmit to the State board of equalization a duplicate of that part of the assessment-roll containing the assessments and apportionments referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 of this section.

State Board to Equalize Assessments Made for Bond Purposes.—Whenever the State board of equalization is satisfied after investigation that any county, city, or other assessor, or board of equalization, has assessed for taxation to pay the principal and interest of any bonded indebtedness created and outstanding by any county, city and county, city, town, township, or district prior to the eighth day of November in the year one thousand nine hundred and ten, as provided in subdivision (e) of section 14 of article 13 of the constitution of this State, any of the property taxed exclusively for State purposes as provided in subdivisions (a), (b) and (d) of section 14 of article 13 of the constitution of this State, or has assessed for purposes of county, city and county, city, or district taxation the property other than the franchise of any company taxable for a franchise under subdivision (d) of said section and article of the constitution, above its full cash value and has thereby unjustly reduced the amount of taxes due the State on such property, said State board shall, under such rules of notice to the clerk of the board of supervisors of the county, or city and county, or to the city clerk of the city, affected thereby as the board shall deem reasonable, equalize the assessed value of such property, and shall issue an order to said assessor or board of equalization and to the county or city auditor or clerk of the county, city and county, or city in which the property is located, fixing the assessed value of such property.

Equalized Value.—The value so equalized and assessed, and no other, shall be deemed the value of said property, and its assessment for taxes levied to pay the principal and interest of any such outstanding bonded indebtedness, and in the case of companies taxable for a franchise under said subdivision (d) of said section and article of the constitution shall be deemed the value of the said property, and its assessment for taxes for county, city and county, municipal and district purposes.

Tax Rates for Bonds to be Separate from Other Rates.—When making the tax levy and fixing the rates of taxation for county, city and county, city, town, township, or district purposes, the board of supervisors of any county, or city and county, and the corresponding authority in any city, having bonded indebtedness issued and outstanding on the eighth day of November in the year one thousand nine hundred and ten, shall fix the tax rate for such bonded indebtedness separate and apart from all other tax rates, whether for subsequent bonded indebtedness or for other purposes.

Same Tax Rate to Apply to All Property for Bond Purposes.—The county, city and county, or city auditor or clerk shall extend on the assessment-roll against the assessments segregated as herein provided, the taxes necessary to pay the principal and interest of said bonded indebtedness at the same rate as said taxes for payment of principal and interest of said outstanding bonded indebtedness shall be levied upon the other classes of property within the same county, city and county, city, town, township, or district, and the amount of each such taxes shall be certified by said auditor or clerk to the controller and the amount so certified shall then be credited by the controller to the county, city and county, city, town, township, or district to which it is due; and said amount shall be paid by said controller to the treasurer of such county, or city and county as provided in section 29 of this act, and upon such payment said treasurer shall forthwith certify such fact to the tax collector who shall thereupon mark upon the assessment-roll the date of payment and the words "paid by the State treasurer." The city clerk or auditor shall in the certificate mentioned in this paragraph also state the date when taxes in such city shall become delinquent.

State to Pay Part of Principal and Interest of Outstanding Bond Debts.—The controller shall out of the taxes collected by him as provided in this act credit to the fund created by an act of the thirty-ninth session of the legislature entitled: "An act appropriating money for the purpose of payment of that part of the principal and interest of any bonded indebtedness created and outstanding by any city, city and county, county, town, township or district on the eighth day of November in the year one thousand nine hundred and ten, which is provided for in section 14 of article 13 of the constitution of this State, and as provided in an act of the thirty-ninth session of the legislature entitled 'An act to carry into effect the provisions of section 14 of article 13 of the constitution of the State of California as said constitution was amended November 8, 1910, providing for the separation of State from local taxation, and providing for the taxation of public service and other corporations for the benefit of the State, all relating to revenue and taxation,' " the money due to each county, city and county, city, town, township, or district on account of taxes to pay the principal and interest of any bonded indebtedness created and outstanding by any city, city and county, county, town, township or district, on the eighth day of November in the year one thousand nine hundred and ten.

Controller to Settle in October and March.—The controller shall in the months of October and March in each year settle with the treasurer of each county and city and county for the money collected by said controller under this section, for the moneys due said county or city and county and the townships and districts within such county or city and county, in the same manner as settlements are made between the county or city and county treasurers and the controller as provided for in section 3866 of the Political Code. The controller shall at the same times, settle with each city and town for the moneys due such city or town for the purposes mentioned in this section, and when ready for such settlement shall notify the city or town treasurer of the amount of money due the city or town for said purposes, and that upon receipt of proper authority so to do, he will forward to said city or town treasurer a warrant for the amount thereof; provided, however, that upon receipt of notice from any such city or town treasurer that any bond issue matures for principal or interest before the date of such settlement, which notice shall state the amount thereof due from the State and the date of maturity, and that said amount due from the State is required in order to pay the same, the said controller must, before said date of maturity, forward his warrant to such city or town treasurer in the manner above provided for the amount ascertained by him to be due. The treasurer of the county or city and county shall forthwith, upon receipt by him of the moneys so hereinbefore directed to be paid by said controller, credit the amount so received by him to the county, city and county, township or district, respectively entitled thereto, and pay the same in the manner provided by law.

Excess Paid by State.—Any excess paid by the controller to a county, city and county, city, town, or to a county or city and county or any township or district, over and above the State's share of the amount actually expended by such county, city and county, city, town, township or district, to pay the interest and principal of said bonded indebtedness in any year, shall be repaid to the State in such manner as the controller shall direct.

State to Reimburse Counties.—Until the year one thousand nine hundred and eighteen the State shall reimburse any and all counties which sustain loss of revenue by the withdrawal of railroad property from county taxation for the net loss in county revenue occasioned by the withdrawal of railroad property from county taxation in the manner, at the times, and in the amounts specified in an act of the thirty-ninth session of the legislature entitled "An act to provide for the reimbursement of counties in this State which sustain net loss of revenue by the withdrawal of railroad property from county taxation, under the provisions of section 14 of article 13 of the constitution of this State."

State not to Pay County Treasurers' Expenses.—The provisions of section 3876 of the Political Code shall not apply to the settlements made with the State treasurer under sections 29 and 30 of this act, but the county board of supervisors may if it deem necessary allow the county treasurer the actual expenses incurred in collecting the money due the county from the State.

Counties to Reimburse Loss to Districts.—The board of supervisors of each county shall in the month of September of each year determine the amount of loss to each district in the county where loss is occasioned in such district by the withdrawal from local taxation of property taxed for State purposes only, and in the month of December next thereafter shall reimburse such district from the general funds of the county for one-half of such loss, and in the month of May next thereafter shall reimburse such district from the general fund of the county for the remaining one-half of such loss.

All Property in State Subject to Deficiency Tax.—Any tax required to be levied for State purposes as provided in subdivision (e) of section 14 of article 13 of the constitution as amended the eighth day of November in the year one thousand nine hundred and ten, to meet any deficiency in the State revenue shall be assessed, levied and collected on all property in the State, not exempt from taxation including the classes of property enumerated in this act, under the provisions of the Political Code relating to the assessment, levy and collection of State and county taxes as said provisions were in force on the seventh day of November in the year one thousand nine hundred and ten.

Prior Laws not Repealed for Certain Purposes.—Nothing in this act shall be construed as repealing any laws in force prior to the eighth day of November in the year one thousand nine hundred and ten, relating to taxation, in so far as said laws may be necessary for the assessment, levy, and collection of State, county, city and county, municipal or district taxes, or in so far as said laws may be necessary for the assessment, levy and collection of the taxes provided for in section 22 of article 4 of the constitution as amended on the eighth day of November in the year one thousand nine hundred and ten; or in so far as said laws may be necessary for the assessment, levy and collection of the taxes for State purposes, on all the property in the State, not exempt from taxation, to meet a deficiency in the revenues for the support of the State government, or to pay the principal and interest of any bonded indebtedness created and outstanding by any city, city and county, county, town, township, or district, both as provided in subdivision (e) of section 14 of article 13 of the constitution as amended on the eighth day of November in the year one thousand nine hundred and ten.

This tax levy, and each and every of the percentages or rates of taxation herein and hereby determined, made, fixed and established to be paid by the persons, firms, companies and corporations specified, described or included in section 14 of article 13 of the constitution, are and have been determined, made, fixed and established after a full, complete, open and public investigation and hearing by and before this legislature upon and respecting the value of each and all of the properties and franchises included within or enumerated in section 14 of article 13 of the constitution, and of all other and different property subject to taxation of any kind within the State of California, of which investigation and hearing every and all persons, firms, companies and corporations concerned therein or affected thereby had due notice; and at which investigation and hearing the legislature took oral and written evidence and at which hearing every and all persons, firms, companies and corporations concerned therein or affected thereby and who desired so to do, were given an opportunity to and did appear and were heard and introduced evidence before this legislature respecting and showing the value of said properties and franchises included within or enumerated in said section 14 of article 13 of the constitution and also respecting and showing the value of all other and different property subject to taxation of any kind within the State of California, and after the due consideration of all of said evidence by this legislature and its ascertainment and determination therefrom and thereon of the value of said and all of said hereinbefore mentioned properties and franchises; and the percentages or rates of taxation herein and hereby determined, fixed and established have been and are determined, fixed and established, and have been and are based, upon the value of each, all and every of the properties and franchises included within or enumerated in said section 14 of article 13 of the constitution as ascertained and determined as aforesaid by this legislature and constitute and are the percentages or rates of taxation ascertained and determined by this legislature which when applied in the manner provided and required by law, do and will levy a tax upon said properties and franchises included within or enumerated in said section 14 of article 13 of the constitution in proportion to the value of the same and in proportion to the value of every and all other and different property subject to taxation of any kind within the State of California as ascertained and determined as aforesaid by this legislature.

GENERAL INFORMATION IN REGARD TO STATE TAXES.

(Legislation of 1913 will apply to assessment of 1914.)

There are so many requests from taxpayers for information in regard to the new State taxes, especially franchise taxes, that it is deemed advisable to offer here this explanation.

On November 8, 1910, the people of California amended the Constitution by adding section 14 to article 13 (generally known as Constitutional Amendment No. 1). This provided, in substance, two things, viz.:

Gross Receipts Taxes.—First, that certain corporations, such as railroads, street railroads, car companies, gas and electric companies, express, insurance, telegraph and telephone companies should be taken over by the State for taxation on their operative property for State purposes exclusively. These are generally referred to as the "withdrawn corporations." Their taxes are fixed at a certain rate per cent on their gross receipts, and such taxes cover both physical property and franchises.

Franchise Taxes.—Second, the amendment provided that the franchises of all other corporations should also be taxed for State purposes, while all their other properties and the property of individuals are left to local taxation.

To put it in a little different language, the public service corporations above named are taxed on all their possessions (except non-operative property) for State purposes alone, while other corporations pay taxes to the State on their franchises only, and on all of their other property they pay taxes to the county, the municipality and the district.

The exceptions to the above general statement are these: First, if from the special taxes thus provided the State does not secure the revenues necessary for its support, it may levy a deficiency tax on all property, including that of the withdrawn corporations; second, by virtue of another constitutional amendment, also adopted in 1910, all property, including the withdrawn corporations, is liable, during the period of four years, to a State tax for the Panama-Pacific Exposition; third, wherever public bond debts existed on November 8, 1910, the property of the withdrawn corporations is taxable to help pay interest and principal of such past bond debts, but the taxes so paid are deducted from the total amount paid in taxes for State purposes.

Rate on Franchises.—The following is the provision of the Constitution relating to franchises:

(d) "All franchises other than those expressly provided for in this section, shall be assessed at their actual cash value, in the manner to be provided by law, and shall be taxed at the rate of one per centum each year, and the taxes collected thereon shall be exclusively for the benefit of the State."

What are Franchises.—To define the franchises referred to by the Constitution the legislature provided as follows in chapter 335, Statutes of 1911:

"These franchises shall include the actual exercise of the right to be a corporation and to do business as a corporation under the laws of this State and the actual exercise of the right to do business as a corporation in this State when such right is exercised by a corporation incorporated under the laws of any other State or country," besides the right or privilege to exercise special franchises, as to maintain wharves, ferries, or toll roads, or to use the public streets for mains, conduits, etc.

Values, How Fixed.—With reference to the "manner" of assessing franchises, the legislature provided for an elaborate system of reports to be rendered by corporations, and then added this:

"The State board of equalization shall ascertain and determine from the foregoing reports or from the best information it can obtain the actual cash value on the first Monday in March of each such franchise, and shall assess and levy the taxes thereon in accordance with the provisions of subdivision (d) of section 14 of article 13 of the Constitution of this State."

In practice the State board of equalization assumes that every incorporated concern possesses a franchise, and endeavors to ascertain its value and assess it accordingly. This value is arrived at from a study of the reports, aided by the "best information" which can be obtained from any other source, as the law requires.

No Established Scale.—Many persons having in mind the corporation license tax, which is scaled in proportion to authorized capital stock, and the federal corporation tax, which is fixed in proportion to net profits in excess of $5,000, assume that the State franchise tax must be based on a similar scale, but it is not so. The constitution makes the rate of tax one per cent on the value of the franchise, and the board of equalization considers the stock, bond debt, income, net profit, surplus, etc., only as aids in fixing the value of the franchise. In the same way, it considers the assessment of the physical properties made by the county assessor.

County Assessor's Rule.—Before the adoption of the constitutional amendment many franchises were assessed by county assessors, who worked out a practice of deducting the value of the tangible property from the total value of the corporation and taking a certain portion of the difference as constituting the assessable value of the franchise. This rule the Supreme Court has upheld in such cases as Bank of California v. City and County of San Francisco, Crocker v. Scott, and City of Los Angeles v. Western Union Oil Co. So far as practicable, the State board of equalization has been guided by this rule.

The law necessarily leaves much, in the fixing of franchise taxes, to an exercise of judgment. There are five members of the board of equalization, and although they work together, they may arrive by different methods at a common conclusion. This and the impossibility of remembering just how twenty thousand different taxes were fixed render it out of the question, in most instances, to answer an inquiry how a particular tax was computed.

The law gives opportunity, during a period of three weeks preceding the first Monday in July, for any corporation to ascertain the amount of the proposed tax and to apply for correction of the same.

In assessing foreign corporations the State board endeavors to ascertain the proportion of the total business which is done and the proportion of capital employed in California and to fix the tax in proportion.

Every person who shall make any such contract or engage in any such combination or conspiracy, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished by fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both said punishments, in the discretion of the court.

"§ 2. Persons Attempting to Monopolize, etc., Guilty of Misdemeanor—Penalty.—Every person who shall monopolize, or attempt to monopolize, or combine or conspire with any other person or persons, to monopolize any part of the trade or commerce among the several States, or with foreign nations, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof, shall be punished by fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both said punishments, in the discretion of the court.

"§ 3. Trusts, etc., in Territories or District of Columbia Illegal—Persons Engaged Therein Guilty of Misdemeanor—Penalty.—Every contract, combination in the form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy, in restraint of trade or commerce in any Territory of the United States or of the District of Columbia, or in restraint of trade or commerce between any such Territory and another, or between any such Territory or Territories and any State or States or with foreign nations, or between the District of Columbia and any State or States or foreign nations, is hereby declared illegal. Every person who shall make any such contract or engage in any such combination or conspiracy, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished by fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both said punishments, in the discretion of the court.

"§ 4. Jurisdiction of United States Circuit Courts—Prosecuting Officers—Procedure—Hearing, etc.—Temporary Restraining Order, etc.—The several circuit courts of the United States are hereby invested with jurisdiction to prevent and restrain violations of this act; and it shall be the duty of the several district attorneys of the United States, in their respective districts, under the direction of the Attorney General, to institute proceedings in equity to prevent and restrain such violations. Such proceedings may be by way of petition setting forth the case and praying that such violation shall be enjoined or otherwise prohibited. When the parties complained of shall have been duly notified of such petition the court shall proceed, as soon as may be to the hearing and determination of the case; and pending such petition and before final decree, the court may at any time make such temporary restraining order or prohibition as shall be deemed just in the premises.

“§ 5. Process — Summoning Other Parties — Subpoenas.—Whenever it shall appear to the court before which any proceeding under section 4 of the act may be pending, that the ends of justice require that other parties should be brought before the court, the court may cause them to be summoned, whether they reside in the district in which the court is held or not; and subpoenas to that end may be served in any district by the marshal thereof.

“§ 6. Trusts, etc., Property in Transit—Forfeiture, Seizure and Condemnation.—Any property owned under any contract or by any combination, or pursuant to any conspiracy (and being the subject thereof) mentioned in section 1 of this act, and being in the course of transportation from one State to another, or to a foreign country, shall be forfeited to the United States, and may be seized and condemned by like proceedings as those provided by law for the forfeiture, seizure, and condemnation of property imported into the United States contrary to law.

“§ 7. Damages—Litigation—Recovery.—Any person who shall be injured in his business or property by any other person or corporation by reason of anything forbidden or declared to be unlawful by this act may sue therefor in any Circuit Court of the United States in the district in which the defendant resides or is found, without respect to the amount in controversy, and shall recover threefold the damages by him sustained, and the costs of suit, including a reasonable attorney's fee.

“§ 8. ‘Person’ or ‘Persons’ Defined.—That the word ‘person,’ or ‘persons,’ wherever used in this act shall be deemed to include corporations and associations existing under or authorized by the laws of either the United States, or the laws of any of the Territories, the laws of any State, or the laws of any foreign country.”

CARTWRIGHT ACT.

(Approved March 23, 1907. Stats. 1907, p. 984.)

Title.—An act to define trust and to provide for criminal penalties and civil damages, and punishment of corporations, persons, firms, and associations, or persons connected with them, and to promote free competition in commerce and all classes of business in this State.

§ 1. A Trust Defined—Exception.—A trust is a combination of capital, skill or acts by two or more persons, firms, partnerships, corporations or associations of persons, or of any two or more of them for either, any or all of the following purposes:

1. To create or carry out restrictions in trade or commerce.
2. To limit or reduce the production, or increase the price of merchandise or of any commodity.

3. To prevent competition in manufacturing, making, transportation, sale or purchase of merchandise, produce or any commodity.

4. To fix at any standard or figure, whereby its price to the public or consumer shall be in any manner controlled or established, any article or commodity of merchandise, produce or commerce intended for sale, barter, use or consumption in this State.

5. To make or enter into or execute or carry out any contracts, obligations or agreements of any kind or description, by which they shall bind or have bound themselves not to sell, dispose of or transport any article or any commodity or any article of trade, use, merchandise, commerce or consumption below a common standard figure, or fixed value, or by which they shall agree in any manner to keep the price of such article, commodity or transportation at a fixed or graduated figure, or by which they shall in any manner establish or settle the price of any article, commodity or transportation between them or themselves and others, so as to directly or indirectly preclude a free and unrestricted competition among themselves, or any purchasers or consumers in the sale or transportation of any such article or commodity, or by which they shall agree to pool, combine or directly or indirectly unite any interests that they may have connected with the sale or transportation of any such article or commodity, that its price might in any manner be affected. Every such trust as is defined herein is declared to be unlawful, against public policy and void, provided that no agreement, combination or association shall be deemed to be unlawful or within the provisions of this act, the object and business of which are to conduct its operations at a reasonable profit or to market at a reasonable profit those products which cannot otherwise be so marketed, provided further, that it shall not be deemed to be unlawful, or within the provisions of this act, for persons, firms, or corporations, engaged in the business of selling or manufacturing commodities of a similar or like character, to employ, form, organize or own any interest in any association, firm or corporation, having as its object or purpose the transportation, marketing or delivery of such commodities. [Amendment approved March 20, 1909. Stats. 1909, p. 593. In effect immediately.]

§ 2. Violation of Act.—For a violation of any of the provisions of this act by any corporation or association mentioned herein, it shall be the duty of the Attorney General or the district attorney of the proper county, to institute proper suits or quo warranto proceedings in any court of competent jurisdiction for the forfeiture of its charter rights, franchises or privileges and powers exercised by such corporation or association, and for the dissolution of the same under the general statutes of the State.

§ 2½. Agreements Permitted.—It shall be lawful to enter into agreements or form associations or combinations, the purpose and effect of which shall be to promote, encourage or increase competition in any trade or industry, or which are in furtherance of trade. [New section approved March 20, 1909. Stats. 1909, p. 594. In effect immediately.]

§ 3. Foreign Corporations Amenable—Duty of Secretary of State. Every foreign corporation, as well as every foreign association, exercising any of the powers, franchises or functions of a corporation in this State, violating any of the provisions of this act, is hereby denied the right and prohibited from doing any business in this State, and it shall be the duty of the Attorney General to enforce this provision by bringing proper proceedings by injunction or otherwise. The Secretary of State shall be authorized to revoke the license of any such corporation or association heretofore authorized by him to do business in this State.

§ 4. Penalty for Violation of Act.—Any violation of either or all of the provisions of this act shall be and is hereby declared a conspiracy against trade, and any person who may become engaged in any such conspiracy or take part therein, or aid or advise in its commission, or who shall as principal, manager, director, agent, servant or employee, or in any other capacity, knowingly carry out any of the stipulations, purposes, prices, rates, or furnish any information to assist in carrying out such purposes, or orders thereunder or in pursuance thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty ($50) dollars nor more than five thousand ($5,000) dollars, or be imprisoned not less than six months nor more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Each day's violation of this provision shall constitute a separate offense.

§ 5. What Indictment Must Set Out.—In any indictment, information or complaint for any offense named in this act, it is sufficient to state the purpose or effects of the trust or combination, and that the accused is a member of, acted with or in pursuance of it, or aided or assisted in carrying out its purposes, without giving its name or description, or how, when and where it was created.

§ 6. Prosecutions, What to Prove—Books and Papers must be Produced When Ordered.—In prosecutions under this act, it shall be sufficient to prove that a trust or combination, as defined herein, exists, and that the defendant belonged to it, or acted for or in connection with it, without proving all the members belonged to it, or proving or producing any article of agreement, or any written instrument on which it may have been based; or that it was evidenced by any written instrument at all. The character of the trust or combination alleged may be established by proof of its general reputation as such. In case any court of record, or in vacation any judge of said court in which is pending any civil, criminal or other action or proceeding brought or prosecuted by the Attorney General or any district attorney for the violation of any of the provisions of this act or in any action or proceeding for the violation of the law of this State, against conspiracy or combination in restraint of trade so orders, no person so ordered shall be excused from attending, testifying or producing books, papers, schedules, contracts, agreements or any other document in obedience to the subpoena or under the order of such court or any commissioner or referee appointed by said court to take testimony or any notary public or other person or officer authorized by the laws of this State to take depositions when the order made by such court or judge thereof includes a witness whose deposition is being taken before such notary public or other officer on the ground or for the reason that the testimony or evidence required of him may tend to criminate him or subject him to any penalty; but no individual shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty for or on account of any transaction, matter or thing concerning which he may so testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, before any such court, person or officer.

§ 7. Penalty, After Notice by Attorney General.—Each and every firm, person, partnership, corporation, or association of persons, who shall in any manner violate any of the provisions of this act, shall be for each and every day that such violations shall be committed or continued, after due notice given by the Attorney General or any district attorney, forfeit and pay the sum of fifty ($50) dollars, which may be recovered in the name of the people of the State of California, in any county where the offense is committed, or where either of the offenders resides; and it shall be the duty of the Attorney General, or the district attorney of any county on the order of the Attorney General to prosecute for the recovery of the same. When the action is prosecuted by the Attorney General against a corporation or association of persons, he may begin the action in the Supreme Court of the county in which defendant resides or does business.

§ 8. Contracts in Violation of Act Void.—That any contract or agreement in violation of the provisions of this act, shall be absolutely void and shall not be enforceable either in law or equity.

§ 9. Provisions Cumulative.—That the provisions hereof shall be held cumulative of each other and of all other laws in any way affecting them now in force in this State.

§ 10. Trust Certificates not Lawful.—It shall not be lawful for any person, partnership, association or corporation, or any agent thereof, to issue or to own trust certificates, or for any person, partnership, association or corporation, agent, officer, or employee, or the directors or stockholders of any corporation, to enter into any combination, contract or agreement with any person or persons, corporation, or corporations, or with any stockholder or director thereof, the purpose and effect of which combination, contract or agreement shall be to place the management or control of such combination or combinations, or the manufactured product thereof, in the hands of any trustee or trustees with the intent to limit or fix the price or lessen the production and sale of any article of commerce, use or consumption, or to prevent, restrict or diminish the manufacture or output of any such article, and any person, partnership, association or corporation that shall enter into any such combination, contract or agreement for the purpose aforesaid shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not less than fifty dollars, nor more than five thousand dollars.

§ 11. Persons Injured in Business by Trust may Sue.—In addition to the criminal and civil penalties herein provided, any person who shall be injured in his business or property by any other person or corporation or association or partnership, by reason of anything forbidden or declared to be unlawful by this act, may sue therefor in any court having jurisdiction thereof in the county where the defendant resides or is found, or any agent resides or is found, or where service may be obtained, without respect to the amount in controversy, and to recover twofold the damages by him sustained, and the costs of suit. Whenever it shall appear to the court before which any proceedings under this act may be pending, that the ends of justice require that other parties shall be brought before the court, the court may cause them to be made parties defendant and summoned, whether they reside in the county where such action is pending, or not.

§ 12. "Person" Defined.—The word "person" or "persons" whenever used in this act, shall be deemed to include corporations, partnerships and associations existing under or authorized by the laws of this State or any other State, or any foreign country.

§ 13. Labor not a Commodity.—Labor whether skilled or unskilled is not a commodity within the meaning of this act. [New section approved March 20, 1909. Stats. 1909, p. 594. In effect immediately.]

UNFAIR COMPETITION ACT.

(Act of June 10, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913.)

§ 1. Unlawful to Discriminate Between Different Sections in Sale of Commodities.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, doing business in the State of California and engaged in the production, manufacture, distribution or sale of any commodity of general use or consumption, or the product or service of any public utility, with the intent to destroy the competition of any regular established dealer in such commodity, product or service, or to prevent the competition of any person, firm, private corporation, or municipal or other public corporation, who or which, in good faith, intends and attempts to become such dealer, to discriminate between different sections, communities or cities or portions thereof of this State, by selling or furnishing such commodity, product or service at a lower rate in one section, community or city, or any portion thereof, than in another, after making allowance for difference, if any, in the grade, quality or quantity, and for cost differences between such places due to distance from the point of production, manufacture or distribution and expense of distribution and operation.

Act Does not Prevent Competitive Rate.—This act is not intended to prohibit the meeting in good faith of a competitive rate, or to prevent a reasonable classification of service by public utilities for the purpose of establishing rates. The inhibition hereof against locality discrimination shall embrace any scheme of special rebates, collateral contracts or any device of any nature whereby such discrimination is, in substance or fact, effected in violation of the spirit and intent of this act.

Officers Responsible.—Any person, who, either as director, officer or agent of any firm or corporation or as agent of any person, violating the provisions hereof, assists or aids, directly or indirectly, in such violation shall be responsible therefor equally with the person, firm or corporation for whom or which he acts. In the prosecution of any person as officer, director or agent it shall be sufficient to allege and prove the unlawful intent of the person, firm or corporation for whom or which he acts.

§ 2. Duty of Attorney General to Prosecute.—If complaint shall be made to the Attorney General that any corporation is violating section 1 of this act, he shall investigate such complaint and if, in his opinion, sufficient grounds exist therefor, he shall prosecute an action in the name of the people of the State of California in the proper court to annul the charter or revoke the license of such corporation to do business in this State, as the case may be, and to permanently enjoin such corporation from doing business in this State; and if in such action the court shall find that such corporation is violating this act, it may enjoin said corporation from doing business in this State for such time as the court shall order, or may annul the charter, or revoke the license of such corporation, and permanently enjoin it from transacting business in the State.

§ 3. Illegal Contract Defined.—Any contract, express or implied, made by any person, firm or corporation in violation of the provisions of section 1 of this act for the sale or furnishing of any commodity, product or service at a rate greater than the lowest rate charged therefor by such person, firm or corporation in any other section, community or city in this State, after making allowance for the cost differences between such place and the place where under the contract such commodity, product or service is delivered or furnished and for difference, if any, in grade, quality or quantity, is declared to be an illegal contract, and no recovery thereon shall be had.

§ 4. Person Injured may Maintain Action.—Any person, firm, private corporation or municipal or other public corporation, may maintain an action to enjoin a continuance of any act or acts in violation of section 1 of this act and, if injured thereby, for the recovery of damages. If, in such action, the court shall find that the defendant is violating section 1 of this act, it shall enjoin the defendant from a continuance thereof; it shall not be necessary that actual damage to the plaintiff be alleged or proved. In addition to such injunctive relief, the plaintiff in said action shall be entitled to recover from the defendant three times the amount of the actual damages, if any, sustained.

§ 5. Penalty.—Any person, whether as principal, agent, officer or director, for himself or for another person, or for any firm or corporation, or any corporation, who or which shall violate section 1 of this act, is guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof, shall, if a person, be punished by a fine of not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in a county jail not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and, if a corporation, by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars.

§ 6. Constitutionality of Act.—If any section, sentence, clause or phrase of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of the act. The legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, sentence, clause or phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more other sections, sentences, clauses or phrases be declared unconstitutional. The remedies herein prescribed are cumulative and in addition to the remedies prescribed by the public utilities act for discriminations by public utilities. If any conflict shall arise between this act and the public utilities act, the latter shall prevail.

§ 7. Purpose of Act.—The legislature declares that the purpose of this act is to safeguard the public against the creation or perpetuation of monopolies and to foster and encourage competition, by prohibiting unfair and discriminatory practices by which fair and honest competition is destroyed or prevented. The act shall be liberally construed that its beneficial purposes may be subserved.

Surplus.—But every such bank shall, before the declaration of any such dividend, carry at least one-tenth part of the net profits of the stockholders for the preceding half year, or for such period as is covered by the dividend, to its surplus, until such surplus shall amount to twenty-five per centum of its paid-up capital stock.

Surplus may be Converted into Capital.—The whole or any part of such surplus, if held as the exclusive property of the stockholders, may at any time be converted into paid in capital, in which event such surplus shall be restored in the manner above provided until it amounts to twenty-five per centum of the aggregate paid-up capital stock.

Losses.—Subject to the provisions of section 19 of this act, any losses sustained by any such bank in excess of its undivided profits may be charged to and paid from its surplus, in which event such surplus shall be restored in the manner above provided, to the amount required by law; provided, however, that any bank which has invested any portion of its surplus in its bank premises, furniture and fixtures, vaults, or safe deposit vaults, and boxes necessary or proper to carry on its banking business shall not be permitted to charge any loss to that portion of its surplus so invested. A larger surplus may be created and nothing herein contained shall be construed as prohibitory thereof. The capital and assets of any such bank are a security to depositors and stockholders, depositors having the priority of security over stockholders.

§ 21a. Preference.—No bank, banker, or bank officer, shall give preference to any depositor or creditor by pledging the assets of the bank as collateral security, except as otherwise authorized by law; provided that any commercial bank, or commercial department of a departmental bank, may borrow money for temporary purposes, and may pledge assets of said commercial bank, or commercial department of said departmental bank, not exceeding fifty per centum in excess of the amount borrowed, as collateral security therefor.

§ 22. Bank may Combine Business of Bank and Trust Company but not Title Insurance.—Any corporation authorized by its articles of incorporation so to do, may combine the business of a commercial bank and savings bank and trust company, or any one or more or all of them; provided, that no corporation authorized to transact a trust business and which is also organized to engage in the business of title insurance, shall engage in or combine the business of a commercial bank or savings bank.

§ 23. Departmental Business—Segregation of Capital and Surplus. When a bank desires to do a departmental business, it shall first obtain the consent of the superintendent of banks, and in its application therefor, file a statement making a segregation of its capital and surplus for each department. Such capital and surplus, when so apportioned and approved by the superintendent of banks, shall be considered and treated as the separate capital and surplus of such department as if each department was a separate bank. Thereafter a bank may, from time to time, with the previous consent and approval of the superintendent of banks and subject to the provisions of section 19 of this act, change any segregation and apportionment of capital and surplus previously made and make a new segregation and apportionment of its capital and surplus.

Capital Stock of Departmental Banks.—Every bank hereafter organized doing a departmental business shall have paid up, in cash, capital stock as follows:

(a) Population 5,000.—In any locality in which the population does not exceed five thousand persons, not less than twenty-five thousand dollars if it transacts both a commercial and savings business, or not less than one hundred twenty-five thousand dollars, if it transacts both a commercial and trust business, or not less than one hundred twenty-five thousand dollars if it transacts both a savings and trust business and not less than one hundred twenty-five thousand dollars if it transacts a commercial, savings and trust business.

Excepted Banks.—The foregoing classification shall not apply to any bank already in existence which has received from the superintendent of banks a certificate to do a banking business; nor to any bank the location of which shall have been included by annexation or consolidation within the limits of a city of a class requiring a larger capitalization, but no bank thus excepted shall be permitted to establish any new branch office as provided in section 9 of this act or to remove its place of business from the original limits of the city or township wherein it was located prior to such annexation or consolidation until it shall have the capital required of banks in such city not within said exception. Such excepted banks may not in any case decrease their capital stock but may increase the same in the manner provided by law to an amount either greater or less than that required of banks in such city not within said exception. The capital stock referred to herein shall be increased from time to time and to the same extent as provided for in section 19 of this act.

Population—How Determined.—For the purposes of this act, the population shown and determined by the last preceding federal census, or any subsequent census compiled and certified under any law of this State, shall be deemed to be the population of any city in which any such bank is to be organized. If the principal place of business of any bank so organized is located outside of the corporate limits of any city, then the population of that portion of the judicial township in which said bank is to have its principal place of business, which is not included within the boundaries of any municipal corporation, as such population is shown and determined by such federal or subsequent official census, shall be the basis for classification under the provisions of this act.

§ 24. Certificate for Each Department—Fee.—Every bank, before it commences to do business or before it opens a new department and commences to transact business in or under such new department, shall obtain the certificate of the superintendent of banks for the opening of each of the departments specified. Each certificate herein provided for shall be given when the superintendent shall, by the examination required by this act, have satisfied himself that the proper amount of cash has been paid in as capital and the provisions of this act complied with. The applicant shall pay for the certificate for each department a fee of fifty dollars.

§ 25. Department Reserve.—Every bank shall maintain for each department a lawful money reserve equal in amount to that required by this act for the respective business conducted, and shall keep separate and distinct the lawful money reserve of any department from that of any other department.

Deposits of Departments.—And all deposits made with other banks, whether temporary or otherwise, shall be assets of the respective departments by which they were made, and shall be so carried on the books of such other banks, and shall be repaid only upon the order of the department to whose credit they stand. No department shall receive deposits of any other department of the same corporation; except that a trust department may make deposits of trust or any other funds under its control with the commercial or savings department of the same corporation.

Transfer from One Department to Another.—Provided, however, that any bank having departments shall have the right to sell and transfer any bonds, securities or loans from one department to another upon receipt of the actual value thereof, if such bonds, securities or loans are, under the provisions of this act, a legal investment for the department purchasing the same.

§ 26. Books of Account for Each Department.—Every bank having different departments shall keep separate books of account for each department of its business, and shall be governed as to all deposits, reserves, investments and transactions relating to each department by the provisions in this act specifically provided for the respective kind of business.

Investments.—It shall keep all investments relating to the savings department entirely separate and apart from the investments of its other department or departments.

§ 27. Assets Held Solely for Depositors of Each Department.—All money and assets belonging to each department, whether on hand or with other banks, and the investments made, shall be held solely for the repayment of the depositors and other claimants of each such department, as herein provided, until all depositors and other claimants of each such department shall have been paid, and the overplus then remaining shall be applied to any other liabilities of such bank.

§ 28. Bank must Use Word "Savings," "Trust" or "Commercial."—Every bank in this State must, on all its window signs and in advertising, and on letter-heads and other stationery on which its business is transacted, use the word "savings" if it conducts a savings business, or the word "trust" if it conducts a trust business, and the word "commercial" if it conducts a commercial business.

§ 29. Mutual Banks may Issue Capital Stock How.—Every corporation heretofore created under the laws of this State, doing a banking business therein, and which has no capital stock, may elect to have a capital stock, and may issue certificates of stock therefor, in the same manner as corporations formed under the provisions of part IV, title I, chapter I, article I, of the Civil Code, relating to the formation of corporations; provided, that no such corporation shall use or convert any moneys or funds theretofore belonging to it, or under its control, into capital stock; but such funds or moneys must be held and managed only for the purposes and in the manner for which they were created.

Call for Meeting.—Before such change is made, a majority of the members of such corporation present at a meeting called for the purpose of considering the proposition whether it is best to have a capital stock, its amount, and the number of shares into which it shall be divided, must vote in favor of having a capital stock, fix the amount thereof, and the number of shares into which it shall be divided.

Notice of Time and Place.—Notice of the time and place of holding such meeting, and its object, must be given by the president of such corporation by mailing notice of such meeting to each member of such corporation at his last known postoffice address at least ten days prior to the day fixed for such meeting, and by publication in some newspaper printed and published in the county, or city and county, in which the principal place of business of the corporation is situated, at least once a week for three successive weeks prior to the holding of the meeting.

Certificate of Proceedings.—A copy of the proceedings of this meeting, giving the number of persons present, the votes taken, the notice calling the meeting, the proof of its publication, the amount of capital actually subscribed, and by whom, all duly certified by the president and secretary of the corporation, must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State and clerk of the county where the articles of incorporation are filed. Thereafter such corporation is possessed of all the rights and powers, and is subject to all the obligations, restrictions, and limitations, as if it had been originally created with a capital stock.

§ 30. Safe Deposit Department.—Any bank may conduct a safe deposit department, but shall not invest more than one-tenth of its capital and surplus in such safe deposit department.

§ 31. Sale of Business.—Any bank may sell the whole of its business or the whole of the business of any of its departments to any other bank which may purchase such business after obtaining the consent of the stockholders of the selling and of the purchasing banks holding of record at least two-thirds of the issued capital stock of each of such corporations; such consent to be expressed either in writing executed and acknowledged by such stockholders and attached to the instrument of sale, or to a copy thereof, or by a vote at a stockholders' meeting of each of such banks called for that purpose.

Agreement of Sale and Purchase.—The selling and purchasing banks must for such purposes enter into an agreement of sale and purchase, which agreement shall contain all the terms and conditions con-needed with such sale and purchase. Such agreement shall contain proper provision for the payment of liabilities of the selling bank or of the department sold, and in this particular shall be subject to the approval of the superintendent of banks; and shall not be valid until such approval is obtained. Such agreement may contain provisions for the transfer of all deposits to the purchasing bank, subject, however, to the right of every depositor of the selling bank to withdraw his deposit in full on demand after such transfer, irrespective of the terms under which it was deposited with the selling bank.

Rights of Creditors, Depositors, Trustees and Beneficiaries of Trusts.

The rights of creditors of the selling bank shall not in any manner be impaired by any such sale, nor shall any liability or obligation for the payment of any money due or to become due, or any claim or demand, in any manner, or for any cause existing against such selling bank or against any stockholder thereof, be in any manner released or impaired, and all the rights, obligations and relations of all the parties, creditors, depositors, trustees and beneficiaries of trusts shall remain unimpaired by the sale, but such bank to which the other shall sell all its business or all the business of any of its departments, shall succeed to all such relations, obligations, trusts and liabilities and be held liable to pay and discharge all such debts and liabilities and to perform all such trusts of the selling bank in the same manner as if such bank to which the other had sold had itself incurred the obligation or liability or assumed the relation of trust, and the stockholders of the respective corporations so entering into such agreement shall continue subject to all the liabilities, claims and demands existing against them as such at or before such sale.

Notice.—Immediately after the execution of such agreement of sale and purchase notice thereof shall be published for at least four successive weeks in a newspaper in each of the counties of the State in which either of such banks shall have its principal place of business.

Limitation of Action.—Provided, however, that no action can be brought against such selling bank or any of its stockholders on account of any deposits so transferred after the expiration of one year from the last day of publication herein required.

Affidavit Showing Publication.—An affidavit showing such publication shall be filed in the office of the superintendent of banks within ten days after the last publication thereof. The affairs of such selling bank, or selling department of a bank, shall remain subject to the provisions of this act.

§ 31a. Consolidation.—Any bank incorporated under the laws of this State may consolidate with one or more banks incorporated under the laws of this State, its capital stock, properties, trusts, claims, demands, contracts, agreements, obligations, debts, liabilities and assets of every kind and description, upon such terms and in such manner as may be agreed upon by their respective boards of directors, a copy of which agreement must be filed in the office of the superintendent of banks.

Approval of Superintendent.—Provided, that such agreement shall be subject to the approval of the superintendent of banks and shall not be valid until such approval be obtained.

Ratification.—Provided, further, that no such consolidation shall take effect until such agreement shall have been ratified and confirmed in writing by the stockholders of the respective banks holding of record at least two-thirds of the issued capital stock of their respective banks, or such agreement may be submitted to the stockholders of each of such corporations at a meeting thereof to be called upon notice specifying the time, place and object thereof, addressed to each stockholder at his last known postoffice address and deposited in the postoffice, postage prepaid, at least two weeks prior to the date fixed for said meeting, and published for at least two successive weeks, prior to the date of said meeting, in a newspaper in each of the counties of the State in which any of such banks shall have its principal place of business, and if such agreement shall be approved at each of such meetings of the respective stockholders separately by the vote or ballot of the stockholders owning at least two-thirds of the stock of each such bank, the same shall be the agreement of such banks.

Articles of Incorporation and Consolidation.—In case of such consolidation "articles of incorporation and consolidation" must be prepared, setting forth:

- First—The name of the new corporation;
- Second—The purpose for which it is formed;
- Third—The place where its principal business is to be transacted;

Approval of Superintendent and Memoranda of Ratification.—There must be annexed thereto the approval of the superintendent of banks and memoranda of the ratification and confirmation thereof by the stockholders of each constituent corporation, which must be respectively signed and acknowledged by stockholders representing at least two-thirds of the capital stock of their respective corporations.

Filing.—When completed as aforesaid articles must be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county in which is located the principal place of business of the new corporation, and a copy of the articles of incorporation and consolidation certified by such county clerk must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and a copy of the articles of incorporation and consolidation certified by said Secretary of State must be filed in the office of the superintendent of banks, and also in the office of the county clerk of any county in which were filed the original articles of incorporation of either of the constituent corporations.

Effect of Consolidation.—And thereupon each constituent corporation named therein must be deemed and held to have become extinct in all courts and places, and said new corporation must be deemed and held in all courts and places to have succeeded to all their several capital stocks, properties, trusts, claims, demands, contracts, agreements, assets, choses and rights in action of every kind and description, both at law and in equity, and to be entitled to possess, enjoy, and enforce the same and every thereof, as fully and completely as either and every of its constituents might have done had no consolidation taken place. Said consolidated or new corporation must also, in all courts and places, be deemed and held to have become subrogated to its several constituents and each thereof, in respect to all their contracts and agreements with other parties, and all their debts, obligations, and liabilities, of every kind and nature, to any persons, corporations, or bodies politic, whomsoever, or whatsoever, and said new corporation must sue and be sued in its own name in any and every case in which any or either of its constituents might have sued or might have been sued at law or in equity had no such consolidation been made.

Obligation of Contracts not Impaired by Consolidation.—Nothing in this section contained shall be construed to impair the obligation of any contract to which any of such constituents were parties at the date of such consolidation. All such contracts may be enforced by action or suit, as the case may be, against the consolidated corporation, and satisfaction obtained out of the property which, at the date of the consolidation, belonged to the constituent which was a party to the contract in action or suit, as well as out of any other property belonging to the consolidated corporation, and the stockholders of each constituent corporation so entering into such agreement shall continue subject to all the liabilities, claims and demands existing against them at or before such consolidation to the same extent as if the same had not been made.

Right of New Corporation to Effect any Organic Change.—The right of said new corporation to increase or decrease its capital stock, to change the number of its directors, to amend its articles of incorporation, to change its principal place of business, or its name, or to effect any other organic change shall be governed by the general corporation laws of this State and by the bank act, and the procedure to effect any such change shall be that defined by the general corporation laws and the bank act.

§ 32. Trust Funds not to be Mingled or Carried as Reserve.—Any bank receiving trust funds in accordance with the provisions of this act relating to trust companies must not mingle such trust funds with the other assets of the corporation, except as otherwise provided in section 25 of this act, and such funds shall not be carried or counted as any part of the lawful money reserve provided for in this act.

Every person or corporation violating any provision of this section shall forfeit to the people of the State twice the nominal amount of such stock.

§ 35. Certain Transactions Respecting Real Estate Securities and Contracts Forbidden.—No director, or officer, or employee, or controlling stockholder of any bank shall, directly or indirectly, for his own account, for himself, or as the partner or agent of others, sell or transfer, or cause to be sold or transferred to the bank of which he is a director, officer, employee, or controlling stockholder, any note or bond secured by any mortgage or trust deed on real estate or any contract arising from the sale of real estate in which such director, or officer, or employee, or controlling stockholder is personally or financially interested, without the consent in writing of the superintendent of banks.

§ 37. Purchase of Stock of Corporations Forbidden—Stock Acquired to be Sold.—No bank shall purchase or invest its capital or surplus or money of its depositors, or any part of either, in the capital stock of any corporation unless the purchase or acquisition of such capital stock shall be necessary to prevent loss to the bank on a debt previously contracted in good faith. Any capital stock so purchased or acquired shall be sold by such bank within six months thereafter if it can be sold for the amount of the claim of such bank against it; and all capital stock thus purchased or acquired must be sold for the best price obtainable by said bank within one year after such purchase or acquisition.

§ 43. Depository Bank, How Designated.—No bank shall deposit any of its funds in any other bank unless such other bank has been designated as a depository for its funds by the vote of a majority of the directors, or trustees of the bank making the deposit, exclusive of the vote of any director who is an officer, director, or trustee of the depositary so designated; provided, however, that any bank may designate any other bank its depositary by vote of a majority of its directors, including the vote of any director or trustee who is an officer, director or trustee of the depositary so designated, if such bank has secured the previous approval of the superintendent of banks, which approval he may at any time revoke for proper cause.

§ 44. Loans Secured by Stock of Another Bank.—No bank shall hereafter make a loan secured by the stock of another bank, if by making such loan the total stock of such other bank held by such loaning bank as collateral will exceed in the aggregate twenty-five per centum of the capital stock of such other bank; provided, that no loan upon the capital stock of any bank shall be made unless such bank has been in existence at least two years and has earned and paid a dividend upon its capital stock.

No commercial bank shall loan in the aggregate more than thirty-five per centum of its assets on real estate loans of the character specified in subdivision 2 of this section. These provisions, however, shall not prevent any bank from taking another and immediately subsequent mortgage or deed of trust thereon when it already holds a first mortgage or deed of trust on such real estate, nor from accepting a second lien on real estate to secure the repayment of a debt previously contracted in good faith; nor shall it prevent subsequent liens of any kind from being taken to secure the payment of a debt previously contracted in good faith when, in the judgment of the directors of such bank, such subsequent liens are necessary further to secure the payment of any debts and save such bank from loss.

Penalty.—Any officer or employee of any bank who shall willfully violate the provisions of this section, or shall resort to any device, or receive any fictitious obligations, directly or indirectly, in order to evade the provisions hereof, or who shall certify checks before the amount thereof shall have been regularly entered to the credit of the drawer, shall be guilty of a felony.

§ 53. Capital Stock—Par Value—Paid-up Value Indorsed on Certificate—Preferred Stock.—The capital stock of any bank having a capital stock shall have a par value of at least one hundred dollars and the paid-up value shall be indorsed on the face of each certificate issued, which paid-up value shall be the same on all certificates issued. Proceedings to Compel Sale of Real Estate Held in Violation of Law.—Parcels of such real estate not sold within said time may be purchased by any person wanting the same upon the conditions and proceedings following:

Petition.—The intending purchaser may file a petition in the superior court in and for the county wherein said real estate or any portion thereof is situated.

Citation.—Upon the filing of such petition a citation shall be issued out of said court directed to the bank owning such real estate requiring such bank to show cause on a day certain which shall be not earlier than ten days after the service of such citation, why commissioners should not be appointed by said court for the purpose of appraising the value of the real estate described in the petition and of selling the same at public auction under the provisions of this section.

Liens or Encumbrances.—If there shall be any liens or encumbrances of record against such real estate the person or persons holding such liens or encumbrances shall likewise be cited and the court shall in its final decree distribute the proceeds of such sale, if a sale thereof shall be made, according to the equities of the parties.

Hearing.—If it shall appear at the hearing of such petition that the real estate therein sought to be purchased is held by such bank in violation of the provisions of this section or of the constitution of this State, the court shall appoint three commissioners to appraise the value thereof and sell the same at public auction at the county seat of the county wherein said real estate or any part thereof is located.

Notice of Sale.—Notice of which said sale shall be given to the bank owning said real estate and to any other persons interested therein as shown by the records of such county at least ten days before the date of such sale and shall be published once a week for three successive weeks in some newspaper published in the county where such real estate or any part thereof may be located, or if no newspaper shall be published in such county, then in a newspaper published in some neighboring county. Subject to the provisions of section 19 of this act, any losses sustained by any such bank may be charged to and paid out of its reserve fund. A larger reserve fund may be created and nothing herein contained shall be construed as prohibitory thereof. The assets of any such bank are a security to its depositors. Any such bank organized without capital stock, may provide by its by-laws for the disposal of any amount in its reserve fund in excess of the amount required by section 19 of this act and may also provide for final disposal upon the dissolution of the bank of its reserve fund or the balance thereof remaining after payment of any losses of such bank.

The renewal or extension of any loan heretofore legally made by any savings bank shall not be construed to be a "loan hereafter made" within the meaning of the provisions of this section. The legality of investments heretofore lawfully made pursuant to the provisions of this act as it existed on and subsequent to July 1, 1909, shall not be affected by the provisions of this section. For the purposes of this section an indorser or guarantor shall be deemed to be a borrower.

21. May Change Name and Location, How. Act May 1, 1886.—(§ 2.) Any national banking association may change its name or the place where its operations of discount and deposit are to be carried on, to any other place within the same State, not more than thirty miles distant, with the approval of the Comptroller of the Currency, by the vote of shareholders owning two-thirds of the stock of such association. A duly authenticated notice of the vote and of the new name or location selected shall be sent to the office of the Comptroller of the Currency; but no change of name or location shall be valid until the Comptroller shall have issued his certificate of approval of the same.

22. Debts not Affected by Change. Act May 1, 1886.—(§ 3.) All debts, liabilities, rights, provisions, and powers of the association under its old name shall devolve upon and inure to the association under its new name.

23. No Release from Liabilities. Act May 1, 1886.—(§ 4.) Nothing in this act contained shall be so construed as in any manner to release any national banking association under its old name or at its old location from any liability, or affect any action or proceeding in law in which said association may be or become a party or interested.

24. National Banks Deemed Citizens of States in Which Located. Act August 13, 1888.—(§ 4.) All national banking associations established under the laws of the United States shall, for the purposes of all actions by or against them, real, personal, or mixed, and all suits in equity, be deemed citizens of the States in which they are respectively located; and in such cases the circuit and district courts shall not have jurisdiction other than such as they would have in cases between individual citizens of the same State. The provisions of this section shall not be held to affect the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States in cases commenced by the United States or by direction of any officer thereof, or cases for winding up the affairs of any such bank.

25. Extension of Corporate Existence. Act July 12, 1882.—(§ 1.) That any national banking association organized under the acts of February twenty-fifth, eighteen hundred and sixty-three, June third, eighteen hundred and sixty-four, and February fourteenth, eighteen hundred and eighty, or under sections 5133, 5134, 5135, 5136, and 5154 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, may, at any time within the two years next previous to the date of the expiration of its corporate existence under present law, and with the approval of the Comptroller of the Currency, to be granted, as hereinafter provided, extend its period of succession by amending its articles of association for a term of not more than twenty years from the expiration of the period of succession named in said articles of association, and shall have succession for such extended period, unless sooner dissolved by the act of shareholders owning two-thirds of its stock, or unless its franchise becomes forfeited by some violation of law, or unless hereafter modified or repealed.

26. Consent of Two-thirds Necessary. Act July 12, 1882.—(§ 2.) That such amendment of said articles of association shall be authorized by the consent in writing of shareholders owning not less than two-thirds of the capital stock of the association; and the board of directors shall cause such consent to be certified under the seal of the association, by the president or cashier, to the Comptroller of the Currency, accompanied by an application made by the president or cashier for the approval of the amended articles of association by the Comptroller; and such amended articles of association shall not be valid until the Comptroller shall give to such association a certificate under his hand and seal that the association has complied with all the provisions required to be complied with, and is authorized to have succession for the extended period named in the amended articles of association.

27. Special Examination of Bank and Issue of Certificate of Approval by Comptroller. Act July 12, 1882.—(§ 3.) That upon the receipt of the application and certificate of the association provided for in the preceding section, the Comptroller of the Currency shall cause a special examination to be made, at the expense of the association, to determine its condition; and if after such examination or otherwise, it appears to him that said association is in a satisfactory condition, he shall grant his certificate of approval provided for in the preceding section, or if it appears that the condition of said association is not satisfactory, he shall withhold such certificate of approval.

28. Status not Changed by Extension, Jurisdiction of Suits by or Against National Banks. Act July 12, 1882.—(§ 4.) That any association so extending the period of its succession shall continue to enjoy all the rights and privileges and immunities granted and shall continue to be subject to all the duties, liabilities, and restrictions imposed by the Revised Statutes of the United States and other acts having reference to national banking associations, and it shall continue to be in all respects the identical association it was before the extension of its period of succession: Provided, however, That the jurisdiction for suits hereafter brought by or against any association established under any law providing for national banking associations, except suits between them and the United States or its officers and agents, shall be the same as, and not other than, the jurisdiction for suits by or against banks not organized under any law of the United States which do or might do banking business where such national banking association may be doing business when such suits may be begun. And all laws and parts of laws of the United States inconsistent with this proviso be, and the same are hereby, repealed.

29. Dissenting Shareholders may Withdraw. Act July 12, 1882. (§ 5.) That when any national banking association has amended its articles of association as provided in this act, and the Comptroller has granted his certificate of approval, any shareholder not assenting to such amendment may give notice in writing to the directors, within thirty days from the date of the certificate of approval, of his desire to withdraw from said association, in which case he shall be entitled to receive from said banking association the value of the shares so held by him, to be ascertained by an appraisal made by a committee of three persons, one to be selected by such shareholder, one by the directors, and the third by the first two; and in case the value so fixed shall not be satisfactory to any such shareholder, he may appeal to the Comptroller of the Currency, who shall cause a reappraisal to be made, which shall be final and binding; and if said reappraisal shall exceed the value fixed by said committee, the bank shall pay the expenses of said reappraisal, and otherwise the appellant shall pay said expenses; and the value so ascertained and determined shall be deemed to be a debt due, and be forthwith paid, to said shareholder, from said bank; and the shares so surrendered and appraised shall, after due notice, be sold at public sale, within thirty days after the final appraisal provided in this section: Provided, That in the organization of any banking association intended to replace any existing banking association, and retaining the name thereof, the holders of stock in the expiring association shall be entitled to preference in the allotment of the shares of the new association in proportion to the number of shares held by them respectively in the expiring association.

30. Redemption of Circulating Notes Issued Prior to Extension. Act July 12, 1882.—(§ 6.) That the circulating notes of any association so extending the period of its succession which shall have been issued to it prior to such extension shall be redeemed at the treasury of the United States, as provided in section 3 of the act of June twentieth, eighteen hundred and seventy-four, entitled "An act fixing the amount of United States notes, providing for redistribution of national bank currency, and for other purposes," and such notes when redeemed shall be forwarded to the Comptroller of the Currency, and destroyed, as now provided by law; and at the end of three years from the date of the extension of the corporate existence of each bank the association so extended shall deposit lawful money with the Treasurer of the United States sufficient to redeem the remainder of the circulation which was outstanding at the date of its extension, as provided in sections fifty-two hundred and twenty-two, fifty-two hundred and twenty-four, and fifty-two hundred and twenty-five of the Revised Statutes; and any gain that may arise from the failure to present such circulating notes for redemption shall inure to the benefit of the United States; and from time to time, as such notes are redeemed or lawful money deposited therefor as provided herein, new circulating notes shall be issued as provided by this act, bearing such devices, to be approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, as shall make them readily distinguishable from the circulating notes heretofore issued: Provided, however, That each banking association which shall obtain the benefit of this act shall reimburse to the treasury the cost of preparing the plate or plates for such new circulating notes as shall be issued to it.

31. Dissolution of Banks not Extending Period of Succession. Act July 12, 1882.—(§ 7.) That national banking associations whose corporate existence has expired or shall hereafter expire, and which do not avail themselves of the provisions of this act, shall be required to comply with the provisions of sections fifty-two hundred and twenty-one and fifty-two hundred and twenty-two of the Revised Statutes in the same manner as if the shareholders had voted to go into liquidation, as provided in section fifty-two hundred and twenty of the Revised Statutes; and the provisions of sections fifty-two hundred and twenty-four and fifty-two hundred and twenty-five of the Revised statutes shall also be applicable to such associations, except as modified by this act; and the franchise of such associations is hereby extended for the sole purpose of liquidating their affairs until such affairs are finally closed.

32. Re-extension of Corporate Existence. Act of April 12, 1902. That the Comptroller of the Currency is hereby authorized, in the manner provided by, and under the conditions and limitations of, the act of July 12, 1882, to extend for a further period of twenty years the charter of any national banking association extended under said act which shall desire to continue its existence after the expiration of its charter.

33. Power to Hold Real Property.—(§ 5137.) A national banking association may purchase, hold, and convey real estate for the following purposes, and for no others:

First. Such as shall be necessary for its immediate accommodation in the transaction of its business.

Second. Such as shall be mortgaged to it in good faith by way of security for debts previously contracted.

Third. Such as shall be conveyed to it in satisfaction of debts previously contracted in the course of its dealings.

Fourth. Such as it shall purchase at sales under judgments, decrees, or mortgages held by the association, or shall purchase to secure debts due to it.

But no such association shall hold the possession of any real estate under mortgage, or the title and possession of any real estate purchased to secure any debts due to it, for a longer period than five years.

34. Requisite Amount of Capital.—(§ 5138.) [As amended 1900.] No association shall be organized with a less capital than one hundred thousand dollars, except that banks with a capital of not less than fifty thousand dollars may, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, be organized in any place the population of which does not exceed six thousand inhabitants, and except that banks with a capital of not less than twenty-five thousand dollars may, with the sanction of the Secretary of the Treasury, be organized in any place the population of which does not exceed three thousand inhabitants. No association shall be organized in a city the population of which exceeds fifty thousand persons with a capital of less than two hundred thousand dollars.

35. Shares of Stock and Transfers.—(§ 5139.) The capital stock of each association shall be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, and be deemed personal property, and transferable on the books of the association in such manner as may be prescribed in the by-laws or articles of association. Every person becoming a shareholder by such transfer shall, in proportion to his shares, succeed to all the rights and liabilities of the prior holder of such shares; and no change shall be made in the articles of association by which the rights, remedies, or security of the existing creditors of the association shall be impaired.

36. How Payment of the Capital Stock must be Made and Certified.—(§ 5140.) At least fifty per centum of the capital stock of every association shall be paid in before it shall be authorized to commence business; and the remainder of the capital stock of such association shall be paid in installments of at least ten per centum each, on the whole amount of the capital, as frequently as one installment at the end of each succeeding month from the time it shall be authorized by the Comptroller of the Currency to commence business; and the payment of each installment shall be certified to the Comptroller, under oath, by the president or cashier of the association.

37. Proceedings if Shareholder Fails to Pay Installments.—(§ 5141.) Whenever any shareholder, or his assignee, fails to pay any installment on the stock when the same is required by the preceding section to be paid, the directors of such association may sell the stock of such delinquent shareholder at public auction, having given three weeks' previous notice thereof in a newspaper published and of general circulation in the city or county where the association is located, or if no newspaper is published in said city or county, then in a newspaper published nearest thereto, to any person who will pay the highest price therefor, to be not less than the amount then due thereon, with the expenses of advertisement and sale; and the excess, if any, shall be paid to the delinquent shareholder. If no bidder can be found who will pay for such stock the amount due thereon to the association, and the cost of advertisement and sale, the amount previously paid shall be forfeited to the association, and such stock shall be sold as the directors may order, within six months from the time of such forfeiture, and if not sold it shall be canceled and deducted from the capital stock of the association. If any such cancellation and reduction shall reduce the capital of the association below the minimum of capital required by law, the capital stock shall, within thirty days from the date of such cancellation, be increased to the required amount; in default of which a receiver may be appointed, according to the provisions of section fifty-two hundred and thirty-four, to close up the business of the association.

38. National Banks may Increase Capital Stock.—(§ 5142.) Any association formed under this title may, by its articles of association, provide for an increase of its capital from time to time, as may be deemed expedient, subject to the limitations of this title. But the maximum of such increase to be provided in the articles of association shall be determined by the Comptroller of the Currency; and no increase of capital shall be valid until the whole amount of such increase is paid in, and notice thereof has been transmitted to the Comptroller of the Currency, and his certificate obtained specifying the amount of such increase of capital stock, with his approval thereof, and that it has been duly paid in as part of the capital of such association.

39. Increase of Capital Stock. Act May 1, 1886.—(§ 1.) That any national banking association may, with the approval of the Comptroller of the Currency, by the vote of shareholders owning two-thirds of the stock of such association, increase its capital stock, in accordance with existing laws, to any sum approved by the said Comptroller, notwithstanding the limit fixed in its original articles of association and determined by said Comptroller; and no increase of the capital stock of any national banking association either within or beyond the limit fixed in its original articles of association shall be made except in the manner herein provided.

40. Reduction of Capital Stock.—(§ 5143.) Any association formed under this title may, by the vote of shareholders owning two-thirds of its capital stock, reduce its capital to any sum not below the amount required by this title to authorize the formation of associations; but no such reduction shall be allowable which will reduce the capital of the association below the amount required for its outstanding circulation, nor shall any such reduction be made until the amount of the proposed reduction has been reported to the Comptroller of the Currency and such reduction has been approved by the said Comptroller of the Currency and by the Federal Reserve Board, or by the organization committee pending the organization of the Federal Reserve Board.

41. Right of Shareholders to Vote—Proxies Authorized.—(§ 5144.) In all elections of directors, and in deciding all questions at meetings of shareholders, each shareholder shall be entitled to one vote on each share of stock held by him. Shareholders may vote by proxies duly authorized in writing; but no officer, clerk, teller, or bookkeeper of such association shall act as proxy; and no shareholder whose liability is past due and unpaid shall be allowed to vote.

42. Election of Directors.—(§ 5145.) The affairs of each association shall be managed by not less than five directors, who shall be elected by the shareholders at a meeting to be held at any time before the association is authorized by the Comptroller of the Currency to commence the business of banking; and afterward at meetings to be held on such day in January of each year as is specified therefor in the articles of association. The directors shall hold office for one year, and until their successors are elected and have qualified.

43. Requisite Qualification of Directors.—(§ 5146.) [As amended 1905.] Every director must, during his whole term of service, be a citizen of the United States, and at least three-fourths of the directors must have resided in the State, Territory, or District in which the association is located for at least one year immediately preceding their election and must be residents therein during their continuance in office. Every director must own in his own right at least ten shares of the capital stock of the association of which he is a director, unless the capital of the bank shall not exceed twenty-five thousand dollars, in which case he must own in his own right at least five shares of such capital stock. Any director who ceases to be the owner of the required number of shares of the stock, or who becomes in any other manner disqualified, shall thereby vacate his place.

44. Oath Required from Directors.—(§ 5147.) Each director, when appointed or elected, shall take an oath that he will, so far as the duty devolves on him, diligently and honestly administer the affairs of such association, and will not knowingly violate, or willingly permit to be violated, any of the provisions of this title, and that he is the owner in good faith, and in his own right, of the number of shares of stock required by this title, subscribed by him, or standing in his name on the books of the association, and that the same is not hypothecated, or in any way pledged, as security for any loan or debt. Such oath, subscribed by the director making it, and certified by the officer before whom it is taken, shall be immediately transmitted to the Comptroller of the Currency, and shall be filed and preserved in his office.

45. Filling Vacancies.—(§ 5148.) Any vacancy in the board shall be filled by appointment by the remaining directors, and any director so appointed shall hold his place until the next election.

46. Proceedings Where No Election is Held on the Proper Day.—(§ 5149.) If, from any cause, an election of directors is not made at the time appointed, the association shall not for that cause be dissolved, but an election may be held on any subsequent day, thirty days' notice thereof in all cases having been given in a newspaper published in the city, town, or county in which the association is located; and if no newspaper is published in such city, town, or county, such notice shall be published in a newspaper published nearest thereto. If the articles of association do not fix the day on which the election shall be held, or if no election is held on the day fixed, the day for the election shall be designated by the board of directors in their by-laws, or otherwise; or if the directors fail to fix the day, shareholders representing two-thirds of the shares may do so.

47. Election of President of the Board.—(§ 5150.) One of the directors, to be chosen by the board, shall be the president of the board.

48. Individual Liability of Shareholders.—(§ 5151.) The shareholders of every national banking association shall be held individually responsible, equally and ratably, and not one for another, for all contracts, debts, and engagements of such association, to the extent of the amount of their stock therein, at the par value thereof, in addition to the amount invested in such shares; except that shareholders of any banking association now existing under State laws, having not less than five millions of dollars of capital actually paid in, and a surplus of twenty per centum on hand, both to be determined by the Comptroller of the Currency, shall be liable only to the amount invested in their shares; and such surplus of twenty per centum shall be kept undiminished, and be in addition to the surplus provided for in this title; and if at any time there is a deficiency in such surplus of twenty per centum, such association shall not pay any dividends to its shareholders until the deficiency is made good; and in case of such deficiency, the Comptroller of the Currency may compel the association to close its business and wind up its affairs under the provisions of chapter 4 of this Title.

49. Executors, Trustees, etc., not Personally Liable.—(§ 5152.) Persons holding stock as executors, administrators, guardians, or trustees shall not be personally subject to any liabilities as stockholders; but the estates and funds in their hands shall be liable in like manner and to the same extent as the testator, intestate, ward, or person interested in such trust funds would be, if living and competent to act and hold the stock in his own name.

50. National Banking Associations to be Depositories of Public Moneys.—(§ 5153.) [As amended 1907.] All national banking associations, designated for that purpose by the Secretary of the Treasury, shall be depositories of public money, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary; and they may also be employed as financial agents of the government; and they shall perform all such reasonable duties, as depositories of public money and financial agents of the government, as may be required of them. The Secretary of the Treasury shall require the associations thus designated to give satisfactory security, by the deposit of United States bonds and otherwise, for the safekeeping and prompt payment of the public money deposited with them, and for the faithful performance of their duties as financial agents of the government: Provided, That the Secretary shall, on or before the first of January of each year, make a public statement of the securities required during that year for such deposits. And every association so designated as receiver or depository of the public money shall take and receive at par all of the national currency bills, by whatever association issued, which have been paid into the government for internal revenue, or for loans or stocks: Provided, That the Secretary of the Treasury shall distribute the deposits herein provided for, as far as practicable, equitably between the different States and sections.

51. Interest on Public Deposits. Act May 30, 1908.—(§ 15.) That all national banking associations designated as regular depositories of public money shall pay upon all special and additional deposits made by the Secretary of the Treasury in such depositories, and all such associations designated as temporary depositaries of public money shall pay upon all sums of public money deposited in such associations interest at such rate as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe, not less, however, than one per centum per annum upon the average monthly amount of such deposits: Provided, however, That nothing contained in this act shall be construed to change or modify the obligation of any association or any of its officers for the safekeeping of public money: Provided, further, That the rate of interest charged upon such deposits shall be equal and uniform throughout the United States.

52. Conversion of State Banks into National Banking Associations. (§ 5154.) Any bank incorporated by special law of any State of the United States or organized under the general laws of any State or of the United States and having an unimpaired capital sufficient to entitle it to become a national banking association under the provisions of the existing laws may, by the vote of the shareholders owning not less than fifty-one per centum of the capital stock of such bank or banking association, with the approval of the Comptroller of the Currency be converted into a national banking association, with any name approved by the Comptroller of the Currency:

Provided, however, That said conversion shall not be in contravention of the State law. In such case the articles of association and organization certificate may be executed by a majority of the directors of the bank or banking institution, and the certificate shall declare that the owners of fifty-one per centum of the capital stock have authorized the directors to make such certificate and to change or convert the bank or banking institution into a national association. A majority of the directors, after executing the articles of association and the organization certificate, shall have power to execute all other papers and to do whatever may be required to make its organization perfect and complete as a national association. The shares of any such bank may continue to be for the same amount each as they were before the conversion, and the directors may continue to be directors of the association until others, are elected or appointed in accordance with the provisions of the statutes of the United States. When the Comptroller has given to such bank or banking association a certificate that the provisions of this act have been complied with, such bank or banking association, and all its stockholders, officers and employees, shall have the same powers and privileges, and shall be subject to the same duties, liabilities, and regulations, in all respects, as shall have been prescribed by the Federal Reserve Act and by the national banking act for associations originally organized as national banking associations.

53. State Banks Having Branches.—(§ 5155.) It shall be lawful for any bank or banking association organized under State laws, and having branches, the capital being joint and assigned to and used by the mother-bank and branches in definite proportions, to become a national banking association in conformity with existing laws, and to retain and keep in operation its branches, or such one or more of them as it may elect to retain; the amount of the circulation redeemable at the mother-bank, and each branch, to be regulated by the amount of capital assigned to and used by each.

54. Reservation of Rights of Associations Organized Under Act of 1863.—(§ 5156.) Nothing in this title shall affect any appointments made, acts done, or proceedings had or commenced prior to the third day of June, eighteen hundred and sixty-four, in or toward the organization of any national banking association under the act of February twenty-five, eighteen hundred and sixty-three; but all associations which on the third day of June, eighteen hundred and sixty-four, were organized or commenced to be organized under that act shall enjoy all the rights and privileges granted, and be subject to all the duties, liabilities, and restrictions imposed by this title, notwithstanding all the steps prescribed by this title for the organization of associations were not pursued, if such associations duly organized under that act.

CHAPTER III.

Obtaining and Issuing Circulating Notes.

55. What Associations are Governed by Chapters Two, Three, and Four.—(§ 5157.) The provisions of chapters two, three, and four of this title, which are expressed without restrictive words, as applying to "national banking associations," or to "associations," apply to all associations organized to carry on the business of banking under any act of Congress.

56. Registered Bonds Intended by the Term "United States Bonds."—(§ 5158.) The term "United States bonds," as used throughout this chapter, shall be construed to mean registered bonds of the United States.

57. Deposit of Bonds Required Before Issue of Circulating Notes.—(§ 5159.) Every association, after having complied with the provisions of this title, preliminary to the commencement of the banking business, and before it shall be authorized to commence banking business under this title, shall transfer and deliver to the Treasurer of the United States any United States registered bonds, bearing interest, [to an amount not less than thirty thousand dollars and not less than one-third of the capital stock paid in.] Such bonds shall be received by the Treasurer upon deposit and shall be by him safely kept in his office, until they shall be otherwise disposed of, in pursuance of the provisions of this title.

NOTE.—§ 17. So much of the provisions of section fifty-one hundred and fifty-nine of the Revised Statutes of the United States, and section four of the act of June twentieth, eighteen hundred and seventy-four, and section eight of the act of July twelfth, eighteen hundred and eighty-two, and of any other provisions of existing statutes as require that before any national banking association shall be authorized to commence banking business it shall transfer and deliver to the Treasurer of the United States a stated amount of United States registered bonds is hereby repealed. (Act of Dec. 23, 1913.)

58. Panama Canal Bonds Have All Rights and Privileges Accorded to Other Two Per Cent Bonds of the United States. Act December 21, 1905.—That the two per cent bonds of the United States authorized by section eight of the act entitled "An act to provide for the construction of a canal connecting the waters of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans," approved June twenty-eight, nineteen hundred and two, shall have all the rights and privileges accorded by law to other two per cent. bonds of the United States, and every national banking association having on deposit, as provided by law, such bonds issued under the provisions of said section eight of said act approved June twenty-eight, nineteen hundred and two, to secure its circulating notes, shall pay to the Treasurer of the United States, in the months of January and July, a tax of one-fourth of one per cent each half year upon the average amount of such of its notes in circulation as are based upon the deposit of said two per cent bonds; and such taxes shall be in lieu of existing taxes on its notes in circulation imposed by section fifty-two hundred and fourteen of the Revised Statutes.

59. Increase or Reduction of Deposit to Correspond With Capital.— (§ 5160.) The deposit of bonds made by each association shall be increased as its capital may be paid up or increased, so that every association shall at all times have on deposit with the Treasurer registered United States bonds to the amount [of at least one-third of its capital stock actually paid in.] And any association that may desire to reduce its capital, or close up its business and dissolve its organization, may take up its bonds upon returning to the Comptroller its circulating notes in the proportion hereinafter required, or may take up any excess of bonds beyond [one-third of its capital stock], and upon which no circulating notes have been delivered.

60. Exchange of Coupon for Registered Bonds.— (§ 5161.) To facilitate a compliance with the two preceding sections, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to receive from any association, and cancel, any United States coupon bonds, and to issue in lieu thereof registered bonds of like amount, bearing a like rate of interest, and having the same time to run.

61. Manner of Making Transfers of Bonds.— (§ 5162.) All transfers of United States bonds, made by any association under the provisions of this title, shall be made to the Treasurer of the United States in trust for the association, with a memorandum written or printed on each bond, and signed by the cashier, or some other officer of the association making the deposit. A receipt shall be given to the association, by the Comptroller of the Currency, or by a clerk appointed by him for that purpose, stating that the bond is held in trust for the association on whose behalf the transfer is made, and as security for the redemption and payment of any circulating notes that have been or may be delivered to such association. No assignment or transfer of any such bond by the Treasurer shall be deemed valid unless countersigned by the Comptroller of the Currency.

62. Registry of Transfers.— (§ 5163.) The Comptroller of the Currency shall keep in his office a book in which he shall cause to be entered, immediately upon countersigning it, every transfer or assignment by the Treasurer, of any bonds belonging to a national banking association, presented for his signature. He shall state in such entry the name of the association from whose accounts the transfer is made, the name of the party to whom it is made, and the par value of the bonds transferred.

63. Notice of Transfer to be Given to Association Interested.— (§ 5164.) The Comptroller of the Currency shall, immediately upon countersigning and entering any transfer or assignment by the Treasurer, of any bonds belonging to a national banking association, advise by mail the association from whose accounts the transfer is made, of the kind and numerical designation of the bonds, and the amount thereof so transferred.

64. Examination of Registry and Bonds.— (§ 5165.) The Comptroller of the Currency shall have at all times, during office hours, access to the books of the Treasurer of the United States for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of any transfer or assignment of the bonds deposited by an association, presented to the Comptroller to countersign; and the Treasurer shall have the like access to the book mentioned in section fifty-one hundred and sixty-three, during office hours, to ascertain the correctness of the entries in the same; and the Comptroller shall also at all times have access to the bonds on deposit with the Treasurer to ascertain their amount and condition.

65. Annual Examination of Bonds by Association.— (§ 5166.) Every association having bonds deposited in the office of the Treasurer of the United States shall, once or oftener in each fiscal year, examine and compare the bonds pledged by the association with the books of the Comptroller of the Currency and with the accounts of the association, and, if they are found correct, to execute to the Treasurer a certificate setting forth the different kinds and the amounts thereof, and that the same are in the possession and custody of the Treasurer at the date of the certificate. Such examination shall be made at such time or times, during the ordinary business hours, as the Treasurer and the Comptroller, respectively, may select, and may be made by an officer or agent of such association, duly appointed in writing for that purpose; and his certificate before mentioned shall be of like force and validity as if executed by the president or cashier. A duplicate of such certificate, signed by the Treasurer, shall be retained by the association.

66. General Provisions Respecting Bonds.— (§ 5167.) The bonds transferred to and deposited with the Treasurer of the United States, by any association, for the security of its circulating notes, shall be held exclusively for that purpose, until such notes are redeemed, except as provided in this title. The Comptroller of the Currency shall give to any such association powers of attorney to receive and appropriate to its own use the interest on the bonds which it has so transferred to the Treasurer; but such powers shall become inoperative whenever such association fails to redeem its circulating notes. Whenever the market or cash value of any bonds thus deposited with the Treasurer is reduced below the amount of the circulation issued for the same, the Comptroller may demand and receive the amount of such depreciation in other United States bonds at cash value, or in money, from the association, to be deposited with the Treasurer as long as such depreciation continues. And the Comptroller, upon the terms prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, may permit an exchange to be made of any of the bonds deposited with the Treasurer by any association for other bonds of the United States authorized to be received as security for circulating notes, if he is of opinion that such an exchange can be made without prejudice to the United States; and he may direct the return of any bonds to the association which transferred the same, in sums of not less than one thousand dollars, upon the surrender to him and the cancellation of a proportionate amount of such circulating notes: Provided, That the remaining bonds which shall have been transferred by the association offering to surrender circulating notes are equal to the amount required for the circulating notes not surrendered by such association, and that the amount of bonds in the hands of the Treasurer is not diminished below the amount required to be kept on deposit with him, and that there has been no failure by the association to redeem its circulating notes, nor any other violation by it of the provisions of this title, and that the market or cash value of the remaining bonds is not below the amount required for the circulation issued for the same.

67. Withdrawal of Circulating Notes on Deposit of Lawful Money and Withdrawal of Bonds. Act June 20, 1874.—(§ 4.) That any association organized under this act, or any of the acts of which this is an amendment, desiring to withdraw its circulating notes, in whole or in part, may, upon the deposit of lawful money with the Treasurer of the United States in sums of not less than nine thousand dollars, take up the bonds which said association has on deposit with the Treasurer for the security of such circulating notes; which bonds shall be assigned to the bank in the manner specified in the nineteenth section of the National Bank Act, and the outstanding notes of said association, to an amount equal to the legal-tender notes deposited, shall be redeemed at the Treasury of the United States, and destroyed as now provided by law: Provided, That the amount of the bonds on deposit for circulation shall not be reduced below fifty thousand dollars.

68. Amount of Bonds Required to be on Deposit—Reduction of Amount or Retirement in Full of Circulating Notes. Act July 12, 1882.—(§ 8.) That national banks now organized or hereafter organized, having a capital of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, or less, shall not be required to keep on deposit or deposit with the Treasurer of the United States, United States bonds in excess of one-fourth of their capital stock as security for their circulating notes; but such banks shall keep on deposit or deposit with the Treasurer of the United States the amount of bonds as herein required. And such of those banks having on deposit bonds in excess of that amount are authorized to reduce their circulation by the deposit of lawful money as provided by law; [provided, that the amount of such circulating notes shall not in any case exceed ninety per centum of the par value of the bonds deposited as herein provided:] Provided further, That the national banks which shall hereafter make deposits of lawful money for the retirement in full of their circulation shall at the time of their deposit be assessed for the cost of transporting and redeeming their notes then outstanding, a sum equal to the average cost of the redemption of national bank notes during the preceding year, and shall thereupon pay such assessment. And all national banks which have heretofore made or shall hereafter make deposits of lawful money for the reduction of their circulation shall be assessed and shall pay an assessment in the manner specified in section 3 of the act approved June 20, 1874, for the cost of transporting and redeeming their notes redeemed from such deposits subsequently to June 30, 1881.

That section 9 of the act approved July twelfth, eighteen hundred and eighty-two, as amended by the act approved March fourth, nineteen hundred and seven, be further amended to read as follows:

“§ 9. That any national banking association desiring to withdraw its circulating notes, secured by deposit of United States bonds in the manner provided in section 4 of the act approved June twentieth, eighteen hundred and seventy-four, is hereby authorized for that purpose to deposit lawful money with the Treasurer of the United States and, with the consent of the Comptroller of the Currency and the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to withdraw a proportionate amount of bonds held as security for its circulating notes in the order of such deposits: Provided, That not more than nine millions of dollars of lawful money shall be so deposited during any calendar month for this purpose.

“Any national banking association desiring to withdraw any of its circulating notes, secured by the deposit of securities other than bonds of the United States, may make such withdrawal at any time in like manner and effect by the deposit of lawful money or national bank notes with the Treasurer of the United States, and upon such deposit a proportionate share of the securities so deposited may be withdrawn: Provided, That the deposits under this section to retire notes secured by the deposit of securities other than bonds of the United States shall not be covered into the Treasury, as required by section 6 of an act entitled ‘An act directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of Treasury notes thereon, and for other purposes,’ approved July fourteenth, eighteen hundred and ninety, but shall be retained in the Treasury for the purpose of redeeming the notes of the bank making such deposit.”

70. Comptroller to Determine if Association can Commence Business.—(§ 5168.) Whenever a certificate is transmitted to the Comptroller of the Currency, as provided in this title, and the association transmitting the same notifies the Comptroller that at least fifty per centum of its capital stock has been duly paid in, and that such association has complied with all the provisions of this title required to be complied with before an association shall be authorized to commence the business of banking, the Comptroller shall examine into the condition of such association, ascertain especially the amount of money paid in on account of its capital, the name and place of residence of each of its directors, and the amount of the capital stock of which each is the owner in good faith, and generally whether such association has complied with all the provisions of this title required to entitle it to engage in the business of banking; and shall cause to be made and attested by the oaths of a majority of the directors, and by the president or cashier of the association, a statement of all the facts necessary to enable the Comptroller to determine whether the association is lawfully entitled to commence the business of banking.

71. Certificate of Authority to Commence Banking to be Issued.— (§ 5169.) If, upon a careful examination of the facts so reported, and of any other facts which may come to the knowledge of the Comptroller, whether by means of a special commission appointed by him for the purpose of inquiring into the condition of such association, or otherwise, it appears that such association is lawfully entitled to commence the business of banking, the Comptroller shall give to such association a certificate, under his hand and official seal, that such association has complied with all the provisions required to be complied with before commencing the business of banking, and that such association is authorized to commence such business. But the Comptroller may withhold from an association his certificate authorizing the commencement of business, whenever he has reason to suppose that the shareholders have formed the same for any other than the legitimate objects contemplated by this title.

72. Publication of Certificate.— (§ 5170.) The association shall cause the certificate issued under the preceding section to be published in some newspaper printed in the city or county where the association is located, for at least sixty days next after the issuing thereof; or, if no newspaper is published in such city or county, then in the newspaper published nearest thereto.

73. (§ 5171.) See par. 74.

74. Delivery of Circulating Notes. Act of March 14, 1900.— (§ 12.) That upon the deposit with the Treasurer of the United States, by any national banking association, of any bonds of the United States in the manner provided by existing law, such association shall be entitled to receive from the Comptroller of the Currency circulating notes in blank, registered and countersigned as provided by law, equal in amount to the par value of the bonds so deposited; and any national banking associations now having bonds on deposit for the security of circulating notes, and upon which an amount of circulating notes has been issued less than the par value of the bonds, shall be entitled, upon due application to the Comptroller of the Currency, to receive additional circulating notes in blank to an amount which will increase the circulating notes held by such association to the par value of the bonds deposited, such additional notes to be held and treated in the same way as circulating notes of national banking associations heretofore issued, and subject to all the provisions of law affecting such notes: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to modify or repeal the provisions of section 5167 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, authorizing the Comptroller of the Currency to require additional deposits of bonds or of lawful money in case the market value of the bonds held to secure the circulating notes shall fall below the par value of the circulating notes outstanding for which such bonds may be deposited as security: And provided further, That the circulating notes furnished to national banking associations under the provisions of this act shall be of the denominations prescribed by law, except that no national banking association shall, after the passage of this act, be entitled to receive from the Comptroller of the Currency, or to issue or reissue or place in circulation, more than one-third in amount of its circulating notes of the denomination of five dollars: And provided further, That the total amount of such notes issued to any such association may equal at any time but shall not exceed the amount at such time of its capital stock actually paid in: And provided further, That under regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury any national banking association may substitute the two per centum bonds issued under the provisions of this act for any of the bonds deposited with the Treasurer to secure circulation or to secure deposits of public money; and so much of an act entitled "An act to enable national banking associations to extend their corporate existence, and for other purposes," approved July twelfth, eighteen hundred and eighty-two, as prohibits any national bank which makes any deposit of lawful money in order to withdraw its circulating notes from receiving any increase of its circulation for the period of six months from the time it made such deposit of lawful money for the purpose aforesaid, is hereby repealed, and all other acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this section are hereby repealed.

75. Printing Denominations and Form of the Circulating Notes.— (§ 5172.) [As amended May 30, 1908.] In order to furnish suitable notes for circulation, the Comptroller of the Currency shall, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, cause plates and dies to be engraved, in the best manner to guard against counterfeiting and fraudulent alterations, and shall have printed therefrom, and numbered, such quantity of circulating notes, in blank, of the denominations of five dollars, ten dollars, twenty dollars, fifty dollars, one hundred dollars, five hundred dollars, one thousand dollars, and ten thousand dollars, as may be required to supply the associations entitled to receive the same. Such notes shall state upon their face that they are secured by United States bonds or other securities, certified by the written or engraved signatures of the Treasurer and Register and by the imprint of the seal of the Treasury. They shall also express upon their face the promise of the association receiving the same to pay on demand, attested by the signature of the president or vice-president and cashier. The Comptroller of the Currency, acting under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall as soon as practicable cause to be prepared circulating notes in blank, registered and countersigned, as provided by law, to an amount equal to fifty per centum of the capital stock of each national banking association; such notes to be deposited in the treasury or in the subtreasury of the United States nearest the place of business of each association, and to be held for such association, subject to the order of the Comptroller of the Currency, for their delivery as provided by law: Provided, That the Comptroller of the Currency may issue national bank notes of the present form until plates can be prepared and circulating notes issued as above provided: Provided, however, That in no event shall bank notes of the present form be issued to any bank as additional circulation provided for by this act."

78. Plates and Dies to be Under the Control of the Comptroller.— (§ 5173.) The plates and special dies to be procured by the Comptroller of the Currency for the printing of such circulating notes shall remain under his control and direction, and the expenses necessarily incurred in executing the laws respecting the procuring of such notes, and all other expenses of the Bureau of the Currency, shall be paid out of the proceeds of the taxes or duties assessed and collected on the circulation of national banking associations under this title.

79. Examination of Plates and Dies.— (§ 5174.) [As amended 1877.] The Comptroller of the Currency shall cause to be examined, each year, the plates, dies, bedpieces, and other material from which the national bank circulation is printed, in whole or in part, and file in his office annually a correct list of the same. Such material as shall have been used in the printing of the notes of associations which are in liquidation, or have closed business, shall be destroyed, under such regulations as shall be prescribed by the Comptroller of the Currency and approved by the Secretary of the Treasury. The expenses of any such examination or destruction shall be paid out of any appropriation made by Congress for the special examination of national banks and bank note plates.

80. Limit to Issue of Notes Under Five Dollars.— (§ 5175.) Not more than one-sixth part of the notes furnished to any association shall be of a less denomination than five dollars. 88. For What Demands National Bank Notes may be Received.— (§ 5182.) After any association receiving circulating notes under this title has caused its promise to pay such notes on demand to be signed by the president or vice-president and cashier thereof, in such manner as to make them obligatory promissory notes, payable on demand, at its place of business, such association may issue and circulate the same as money. And the same shall be received at par in all parts of the United States in payment of taxes, excises, public lands, and all other dues to the United States, except duties on imports; and also for all salaries and other debts and demands owing by the United States to individuals, corporations, and associations within the United States, except interest on the public debt, and in redemption of the national currency.

89. Issue of Post Notes, etc., Prohibited.— (§ 5183.) [As amended 1875.] No national banking association shall issue post notes or any other notes to circulate as money than such as are authorized by the provisions of this title.

91. Maceration of National Bank Notes. Act June 23, 1874. . . . 92. Organization of Associations to Issue Gold Notes.— (§ 5185.) [As amended 1875.] Associations may be organized in the manner prescribed by this title for the purpose of issuing notes payable in gold; and upon the deposit of any United States bonds bearing interest payable in gold with the Treasurer of the United States, in the manner prescribed for other associations, it shall be lawful for the Comptroller of the Currency to issue to the association making the deposit circulating notes of different denominations, but none of them of less than five dollars, and not exceeding in amount eighty per centum of the par value of the bonds deposited, which shall express the promise of the association to pay them, upon presentation at the office at which they are issued, in gold coin of the United States, and shall be so redeemable.

93. Reserve Requirements for Gold Banks.—(§ 5186.) Every association organized under the preceding section shall at all times keep on hand not less than twenty-five per centum of its outstanding circulation, in gold or silver coin of the United States; and shall receive at par in the payment of debts the gold notes of every other such association which at the time of such payment is redeeming its circulating notes in gold coin of the United States, and shall be subject to all the provisions of this title: Provided, That, in applying the same to associations organized for issuing gold notes, the terms "lawful money" and "lawful money of the United States" shall be construed to mean gold or silver coin of the United States, and the circulation of such association shall not be within the limitation of circulation mentioned in this title.

94. Conversion of National Gold Banks into Currency Banks. Act February 14, 1880.—That any national gold bank organized under the provisions of the laws of the United States, may, in the manner and subject to the provisions prescribed by section 5154 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, for the conversion of banks incorporated under the laws of any State, cease to be a gold bank, and become such an association as is authorized by section 5133, for carrying on the business of banking, and shall have the same powers and privileges, and shall be subject to the same duties, responsibilities, and rules, in all respects, as are by law prescribed for such associations: Provided, That all certificates of organization which shall be issued under this act shall bear the date of the original organization of each bank respectively as a gold bank.

95. Penalty for Issuing Circulating Notes to Unauthorized Associations.—(§ 5187.) No officer acting under the provisions of this title shall countersign or deliver to any association, or to any other company or person, any circulating notes contemplated by this title, except in accordance with the true intent and meaning of its provisions. Every officer who violates this section shall be deemed guilty of a high misdemeanor, and shall be fined not more than double the amount so countersigned and delivered, and imprisoned not less than one year and not more than fifteen years.

96. Penalty for Imitating Bank Circulation—Use of Same for Advertising Purposes.—(§ 5188.) It shall not be lawful to design, engrave, print, or in any manner make or execute, or to utter, issue, distribute, circulate, or use, any business or professional card, notice, placard, circular, hand-bill, or advertisement, in the likeness or similitude of any circulating note or other obligation or security of any banking association organized or acting under the laws of the United States which has been or may be issued under this title, or any Act of Congress, or to write, print, or otherwise impress upon any such note, obligation, or security any business or professional card, notice, or advertisement, or any notice or advertisement of any matter or thing whatever. ACT MAY 30, 1908, AUTHORIZING NATIONAL CURRENCY ASSOCIATIONS, THE ISSUE OF ADDITIONAL NATIONAL BANK CIRCULATION, AND CREATING A NATIONAL MONETARY COMMISSION.

98. Formation of National Currency Associations—What Banks Eligible—Manner of Forming—Association to be Body Corporate and Exercise Powers as Such—But One Association in Any City—Members of Association to be Taken as Nearly as Convenient from State, Part of State, or Contiguous Parts of One or More States—Officers, How Selected—Powers of Officers and Executive Committee—By-laws to be Approved by the Secretary of the Treasury.—Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That national banking associations, each having an unimpaired capital and a surplus of not less than twenty per centum, not less than ten in number, having an aggregate capital and surplus of at least five millions of dollars, may form voluntary associations to be designated as national currency associations. The banks uniting to form such association shall, by their presidents or vice-presidents, acting under authority from the board of directors, make and file with the Secretary of the Treasury a certificate setting forth the names of the banks composing the association, the principal place of business of the association, and the name of the association, which name shall be subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. Upon the filing of such certificate the associated banks therein named shall become a body corporate, and by the name so designated and approved may sue and be sued and exercise the powers of a body corporate for the purposes hereinafter mentioned: Provided, That not more than one such national currency association shall be formed in any city: Provided further, That the several members of such national currency association shall be taken, as nearly as conveniently may be, from a territory composed of a State or part of a State, or contiguous parts of one or more States: And provided further, That any national bank in such city or territory, having the qualifications herein prescribed for membership in such national currency association, shall, upon its application to and upon the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, be admitted to membership in a national currency association for that city or territory, and upon such admission shall be deemed and held a part of the body corporate, and as such entitled to all the rights and privileges and subject to all the liabilities of an original member: And provided further, That each national currency association shall be composed exclusively of banks not members of any other national currency association.

The dissolution, voluntary or otherwise, of any bank in such association shall not affect the corporate existence of the association unless there shall then remain less than the minimum number of ten banks: Provided, however, That the reduction of the number of said banks below the minimum of ten shall not affect the existence of the corporation with respect to the assertion of all rights in favor of or against such association. The affairs of the association shall be managed by a board consisting of one representative from each bank. By-laws for the government of the association shall be made by the board, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. A president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and an executive committee of not less than five members, shall be elected by the board. The powers of such board, except in the election of officers and making of by-laws, may be exercised through its executive committee.

99. Conditions Under Which Banks Belonging to National Currency Associations may Take Out Additional Circulation—Amount Limited to Seventy-five Per Cent of the Cash Value of the Securities and Commercial Paper Deposited—Issue of Additional Circulation on Deposit of State, City, Town, County, or Municipal Bonds Authorized to Extent of Ninety Per Cent of Their Market Value—The Banks and Assets of All Banks Members of Said Association Jointly and Severally Liable to the United States for the Redemption of Such Additional Circulation—Lien of United States Under Section 5230, Revised Statutes, Extended to Cover Assets of All Banks Belonging to the Association—Requirement of Additional Securities—When Association may Sell Securities Deposited With It.—The national currency association herein provided for shall have and exercise any and all powers necessary to carry out the purposes of this section, namely, to render available, under the direction and control of the Secretary of the Treasury, as a basis for additional circulation any securities, including commercial paper, held by a national banking association. For the purpose of obtaining such additional circulation, any bank belonging to any national currency association, having circulating notes outstanding secured by the deposit of bonds of the United States to an amount not less than forty per centum of its capital stock, and which has its capital unimpaired and a surplus of not less than twenty per centum, may deposit with and transfer to the association, in trust for the United States, for the purpose hereinafter provided, such of the securities above mentioned as may be satisfactory to the board of the association. The officers of the association may thereupon, in behalf of such bank make application to the Comptroller of the Currency for an issue of additional circulating notes to an amount not exceeding seventy-five per centum of the cash value of the securities or commercial paper so deposited. The Comptroller of the Currency shall immediately transmit such application to the Secretary of the Treasury with such recommendation as he thinks proper, and if, in the judgment of the Secretary of the Treasury, business conditions in the locality demand additional circulation, and if he be satisfied with the character and value of the securities proposed and that a lien in favor of the United States on the securities so deposited and on the assets of the banks composing the association will be amply sufficient for the protection of the United States, he may direct an issue of additional circulating notes to the association, on behalf of such bank, to an amount in his discretion, not, however, exceeding seventy-five per centum of the cash value of the securities so deposited: Provided, That upon the deposit of any of the State, city, town, county, or other municipal bonds, of a character described in section 3 of this act, circulating notes may be issued to the extent of not exceeding ninety per centum of the market value of such bonds so deposited: And provided further, That no national banking association shall be authorized in any event to issue circulating notes based on commercial paper in excess of thirty per centum of its unimpaired capital and surplus. The term "commercial paper" shall be held to include only notes representing actual commercial transactions, which when accepted by the association shall bear the names of at least two responsible parties and have not exceeding four months to run.

The banks and the assets of all banks belonging to the association shall be jointly and severally liable to the United States for the redemption of such additional circulation; and to secure such liability the lien created by section 5230 of the Revised Statutes shall extend to and cover the assets of all banks belonging to the association, and to the securities deposited by the banks with the association pursuant to the provisions of this act; but as between the several banks composing such association each bank shall be liable only in the proportion that its capital and surplus bears to the aggregate capital and surplus of all such banks. The association may, at any time, require of any of its constituent banks a deposit of additional securities or commercial paper, or an exchange of the securities already on deposit, to secure such additional circulation; and in case of the failure of such bank to make such deposit or exchange the association may, after ten days' notice to the bank, sell the securities and paper already in its hands at public sale, and deposit the proceeds with the Treasurer of the United States as a fund for the redemption of such additional circulation. If such fund be insufficient for that purpose the association may recover from the bank the amount of the deficiency by suit in the circuit court of the United States, and shall have the benefit of the lien hereinbefore provided for in favor of the United States upon the assets of such bank. The association or the Secretary of the Treasury may permit or require the withdrawal of any such securities or commercial paper and the substitution of other securities or commercial paper of equal value therefor.

100. Redemption Fund Below Requirement—Duty of Treasurer of United States.—(§ 2.) That whenever any bank belonging to a national currency association shall fail to preserve or make good its redemption fund in the Treasury of the United States, required by section 3 of the act of June twentieth, eighteen hundred and seventy-four, chapter three hundred and forty-three, and the provisions of this act, the Treasurer of the United States shall notify such national currency association to make good such redemption fund, and upon the failure of such national currency association to make good such fund, the Treasurer of the United States may, in his discretion, apply so much of the redemption fund belonging to the other banks composing such national currency association as may be necessary for that purpose; and such national currency association may, after five days' notice to such bank, proceed to sell at public sale the securities deposited by such bank with the association pursuant to the provisions of section 1 of this act, and deposit the proceeds with the Treasurer of the United States as a fund for the redemption of the additional circulation taken out by such bank under this act.

101. What National Banks may Apply for Authority to Issue Additional Circulation on Bonds Other Than United States Bonds—What Bonds will be Accepted for Such Additional Circulation.—(§ 3.) That any national banking association which has circulating notes outstanding, secured by the deposit of United States bonds to an amount of not less than forty per centum of its capital stock, and which has a surplus of not less than twenty per centum, may make application to the Comptroller of the Currency for authority to issue additional circulating notes to be secured by the deposit of bonds other than bonds of the United States. The Comptroller of the Currency shall transmit immediately the application, with his recommendation, to the secretary of the Treasury, who shall, if in his judgment business conditions in the locality demand additional circulation, approve the same, and shall determine the time of issue and fix the amount, within the limitations herein imposed, of the additional circulating notes to be issued. Whenever after receiving notice of such approval any such association shall deposit with the Treasurer or any assistant treasurer of the United States such of the bonds described in this section as shall be approved in character and amount by the Treasurer of the United States and the Secretary of the Treasury, it shall be entitled to receive, upon the order of the Comptroller of the Currency, circulating notes in blank, registered and countersigned as provided by law, not exceeding in amount ninety per centum of the market value, but not in excess of the par value of any bonds so deposited, such market value to be ascertained and determined under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury.

The Treasurer of the United States, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall accept as security for the additional circulating notes provided for in this section, bonds or other interest-bearing obligations of any State of the United States, or any legally authorized bonds issued by any city, town, county, or other legally constituted municipality or district in the United States which has been in existence for a period of ten years, and which for a period of ten years previous to such deposit has not defaulted in the payment of any part of either principal or interest of any funded debt authorized to be contracted by it, and whose net funded indebtedness does not exceed ten per centum of the valuation of its taxable property, to be ascertained by the last preceding valuation of property for the assessment of taxes. The Treasurer of the United States, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall accept, for the purposes of this section, securities herein enumerated in such proportions as he may from time to time determine, and he may with such approval at any time require the deposit of additional securities, or require any association to change the character of the securities already on deposit.

102. Legal Title of Bonds Deposited to Secure Additional Circulation—Assignment of Bonds by Treasurer to be Countersigned by the Comptroller of the Currency.—(§ 4.) That the legal title of all bonds, whether coupon or registered, deposited to secure circulating notes issued in accordance with the terms of section 3 of this act shall be transferred to the Treasurer of the United States in trust for the association depositing them, under regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury. A receipt shall be given to the association by the Treasurer or any assistant treasurer of the United States, stating that such bond is held in trust for the association on whose behalf the transfer is made, and as security for the redemption and payment of any circulating notes that have been or may be delivered to such association. No assignment or transfer of any such bond by the Treasurer shall be deemed valid unless countersigned by the Comptroller of the Currency. The provisions of sections 5163, 5164, 5165, 5166, 5167 and sections 5224 to 5232, inclusive, of the Revised Statutes respecting United States bonds deposited to secure circulating notes shall, except as herein modified, be applicable to all bonds deposited under the terms of section 3 of this act.

103. Additional Circulation, How Treated—Limit to Amount of Circulation Issued to Each Bank—Limit to Total Amount Outstanding Under This Act.—(§ 5.) That the additional circulating notes issued under this act shall be used, held, and treated in the same way as circulating notes of national banking associations heretofore issued and secured by a deposit of United States bonds, and shall be subject to all the provisions of law affecting such notes except as herein expressly modified: Provided, That the total amount of circulating notes outstanding of any national banking association, including notes secured by United States bonds as now provided by law, and notes secured otherwise than by deposit of such bonds, shall not at any time exceed the amount of its unimpaired capital and surplus: And provided further, That there shall not be outstanding at any time circulating notes issued under the provisions of this act to an amount of more than five hundred millions of dollars.

104. Amount of Redemption Fund.—(§ 6.) That whenever and so long as any national banking association has outstanding any of the additional circulating notes authorized to be issued by the provisions of this act it shall keep on deposit in the Treasury of the United States, in addition to the redemption fund required by section three of the act of June twentieth, eighteen hundred and seventy-four, an additional sum equal to five per centum of such additional circulation at any time outstanding, such additional five per centum to be treated, held, and used in all respects in the same manner as the original redemption fund provided for by said section three of the Act of June twentieth, eighteen hundred and seventy-four.

105. Equitable Distribution of Notes.—(§ 7.) In order that the distribution of notes to be issued under the provisions of this act shall be made as equitable as practicable between the various sections of the country, the Secretary of the Treasury shall not approve applications from associations in any State in excess of the amount to which such State would be entitled of the additional notes herein authorized on the basis of the proportion which the unimpaired capital and surplus of the national banking associations in such State bears to the total amount of unimpaired capital and surplus of the national banking associations of the United States: Provided, however, That in case the applications from associations in any State shall not be equal to the amount which the associations of such State would be entitled to under this method of distribution, the Secretary of the Treasury may, in his discretion, to meet an emergency, assign the amount not thus applied for to any applying association or associations in States in the same section of the country.

106. Secretary of the Treasury to Furnish Information as to the Value and Character of Securities.—(§ 8.) That it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to obtain information with reference to the value and character of the securities authorized to be accepted under the provisions of this act, and he shall from time to time furnish information to national banking associations as to such securities as would be acceptable under the provisions of this act.

107. (§ 9.) See par. 156.

108. (§ 10.) See par. 66.

109. (§ 11.) See par. 75.

110. Circulating Notes to be Redeemed in Lawful Money of the United States.—(§ 12.) That circulating notes of national banking associations, when presented to the Treasury for redemption, as provided in section three of the act approved June twentieth, eighteen hundred and seventy-four, shall be redeemed in lawful money of the United States.

111. All Acts of the Comptroller of the Currency and Treasurer of the United States Under This Act to be Approved by the Secretary of the Treasury.—(§ 13.) That all acts and orders of the Comptroller of the Currency and the Treasurer of the United States authorized by this act shall have the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury who shall have power, also, to make any such rules and regulations and exercise such control over the organization and management of national currency associations as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this act.

112. (§ 14.) See par. 120.

113. (§ 15.) See par. 51.

114. Expenses of Act.—(§ 16.) That a sum sufficient to carry out the purposes of the preceding sections of this act is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

115. Appointment of Monetary Commission.—(§ 17.) That a commission is hereby created, to be called the "National Monetary Commission," to be composed of nine members of the Senate, to be appointed by the presiding officer thereof, and nine members of the House of Representatives, to be appointed by the speaker thereof; and any vacancy on the commission shall be filled in the same manner as the original appointment.

116. Powers of Commission—Commission to Report to Congress.— (§ 18.) That it shall be the duty of this Commission to inquire into and report to Congress at the earliest date practicable, what changes are necessary or desirable in the monetary system of the United States or in the laws relating to banking and currency, and for this purpose they are authorized to sit during the sessions of recess of Congress, at such times and places as they may deem desirable, to send for persons and papers, to administer oaths, to summon and compel the attendance of witnesses, and to employ a disbursing officer and such secretaries, experts, stenographers, messengers, and other assistants as shall be necessary to carry out the purposes for which said commission was created. The commission shall have the power, through subcommittee or otherwise, to examine witnesses and to make such investigations and examinations, in this or other countries, of the subjects committed to their charge as they shall deem necessary.

Said appropriation shall be immediately available and shall be paid out on the audit and order of the chairman or acting chairman of said commission, which audit and order shall be conclusive and binding upon all departments as to the correctness of the accounts of such commission.

118. When Act Expires by Limitation.— (§ 20.) That this act shall expire by limitation on the thirtieth day of June, nineteen hundred and fourteen.

CHAPTER IV.

Regulation of the Banking Business.

119. Place of Business.— (§ 5190.) The usual business of each national banking association shall be transacted at an office or banking house located in the place specified in its organization certificate.

120. Reserve Cities and Reserve Requirements.— (§ 5191.) Every national banking association in either of the following cities: Albany, Baltimore, Boston, Cincinnati, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Louisville, Milwaukee, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, St. Louis, San Francisco, and Washington, shall at all times have on hand, in lawful money of the United States, an amount equal to at least twenty-five per centum of the aggregate amount of [its notes in circulation and] its deposits; and every other association shall at all times have on hand, in lawful money of the United States, an amount equal to at least fifteen per centum of the aggregate amount [of its notes in circulation and] of its deposits. Whenever the lawful money of any association in any of the cities named shall be below the amount of twenty-five per centum of its [circulation and] deposits, and whenever the lawful money of any other association shall be below fifteen per centum of its [circulation and] deposits, such association shall not increase its liabilities by making any new loans or discounts otherwise than by discounting or purchasing bills of exchange payable at sight, nor make any dividends of its profits until the required proportion, between the aggregate amount of its [outstanding notes of circulation and] deposits and its lawful money of the United States, has been restored. And the Comptroller of the Currency may notify any association, whose lawful money reserve shall be below the amount above required to be kept on hand, to make good such reserve; and if such association shall fail for thirty days thereafter so to make good its reserve of lawful money, the Comptroller may, with the concurrence of the Secretary of the Treasury, appoint a receiver to wind up the business of the association, as provided in section fifty-two hundred and thirty-four.

121. What may be Counted as Reserve.—(§ 5191.) Three-fifths of the reserve of fifteen per centum required by the preceding section to be kept, may consist of balances due to an association, available for the redemption of its circulating notes, from associations approved by the Comptroller of the Currency, organized under the act of June three, eighteen hundred and sixty-four, or under this title, and doing business in the cities of Albany, Baltimore, Boston, Charleston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Louisville, Milwaukee, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Richmond, Saint Louis, San Francisco, and Washington. Clearing-house certificates, representing specie or lawful money specially deposited for the purpose, of any clearing-house association, shall also be deemed to be lawful money in the possession of any association belonging to such clearing-house, holding and owning such certificate, within the preceding section.

122. Lawful Money Reserve to be Determined by Deposits. Act June 20, 1874.—(§ 2.) That section thirty-one of "the national bank act" be so amended that the several associations therein provided for shall not hereafter be required to keep on hand any amount of money whatever, by reason of the amount of their respective circulations; but the moneys required by said section to be kept at all times on hand shall be determined by the amount of deposits in all respects, as provided for in the said section.

NOTE.—§ 20. So much of sections two and three of the act of June twentieth, eighteen hundred and seventy-four, entitled "An act fixing the amount of United States notes, providing for a redistribution of the national bank currency, and for other purposes," as provides that the fund deposited by any national banking association with the Treasurer of the United States for the redemption of its notes shall be counted as a part of its lawful reserve as provided in the act aforesaid, is hereby repealed. And from and after the passage of this act such fund of five per centum shall in no case be counted by any national banking association as a part of its lawful reserve. (Act of Dec. 23, 1913.)

123. No Reserve Need be Held Against Deposits of Public Money. Act May 30, 1908.—(§ 14.) That the provisions of section fifty-one hundred and ninety-one of the Revised Statutes, with reference to the reserves of national banking associations, shall not apply to deposits of public moneys by the United States in designated depositaries.

124. Provisions for Redeeming Circulation—Five Per Cent—Redemption Fund. Act June 20, 1874.—(§ 3.) That every association organized, or to be organized, under the provisions of the said act, and of the several acts amendatory thereof, shall at all times keep and have on deposit in the Treasury of the United States, in lawful money of the United States, a sum equal to five per centum of its circulation, to be held and used for the redemption of such circulation; which sum shall be counted as a part of its lawful reserve, as provided in section two of this act; and when the circulating notes of any such associations, assorted or unassorted, shall be presented for redemption, in sums of one thousand dollars, or any multiple thereof, to the Treasurer of the United States, the same shall be redeemed in [United States notes]. All notes so redeemed shall be charged by the Treasurer of the United States to the respective associations issuing the same, and he shall notify them severally, on the first day of each month, or oftener, at his discretion, of the amount of such redemptions; and whenever such redemptions for any association shall amount to the sum of five hundred dollars, such association so notified shall forthwith deposit with the Treasurer of the United States a sum in United States notes equal to the amount of its circulating notes so redeemed. And all notes of national banks, worn, defaced, mutilated, or otherwise unfit for circulation, shall, when received by any assistant treasurer, or at any designated depository of the United States, be forwarded to the Treasurer of the United States for redemption as provided herein. And when such redemptions have been so reimbursed, the circulating notes so redeemed shall be forwarded to the respective associations by which they were issued; but if any of such notes are worn, mutilated, defaced, or rendered otherwise unfit for use, they shall be forwarded to the Comptroller of the Currency and destroyed and replaced as now provided by law: Provided, That each of said associations shall reimburse to the Treasury the charges for transportation and the costs for assorting such notes; and the associations hereafter organized shall also severally reimburse to the Treasury the cost of engraving such plates as shall be ordered by each association respectively; and the amount assessed upon each association shall be in proportion to the circulation redeemed, and be charged to the fund on deposit with the Treasurer: And provided further, That so much of section thirty-two of said national bank act requiring or permitting the redemption of its circulating notes elsewhere than at its own counter, except as provided for in this section, is hereby repealed. (See note to 122.)

125. Clerical Force for Redemption of Circulating Notes. Act March 3, 1875.—That to carry into effect the provisions of section three of the act entitled "An act fixing the amount of United States notes, providing for a redistribution of the national bank currency, and for other purposes," approved June twentieth, eighteen hundred and seventy-four, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to appoint the following force, to be employed under his direction, namely: In the Office of the Treasurer: In the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency. And at the end of each month, the Secretary of the Treasury shall reimburse the Treasury to the full amount paid out under the provisions of this section by transfer of said amount from the deposit of the national banking association with the Treasury of the United States; and at the end of each fiscal year he shall transfer from said deposit to the Treasury of the United States such sum as may have been actually expended under his direction for stationery, rent, fuel, light, and other necessary incidental expenses which have been incurred in carrying into effect the provisions of the said section of the above-named act.

126. Additional Reserve Cities. Act of March 3, 1903, Amending Act of March 3, 1887.—(§ 1.) That whenever three-fourths in number of the national banks located in any city of the United States having a population of twenty-five thousand people shall make application to the Comptroller of the Currency, in writing, asking that the name of the city in which such banks are located shall be added to the cities named in sections fifty-one hundred and ninety-one and fifty-one hundred and ninety-two of the Revised Statutes, the Comptroller shall have authority to grant such request, and every bank located in such city shall at all times thereafter have on hand, in lawful money of the United States, an amount equal to at least twenty-five per centum of its deposits, as provided in sections fifty-one hundred and ninety-one and fifty-one hundred and ninety-five of the Revised Statutes.

127. Disposition of Redemption Account. Act July 14, 1890. (§ 6.) That upon the passage of this act the balances standing with the Treasurer of the United States to the respective credits of national banks for deposits made to redeem the circulating notes of such banks, and all deposits thereafter received for like purpose, shall be covered into the Treasury as a miscellaneous receipt, and the Treasurer of the United States shall redeem from the general cash in the Treasury the circulating notes of said banks which may come into his possession subject to redemption; and upon the certificate of the Comptroller of the Currency that such notes have been received by him and that they have been destroyed and that no new notes will be issued in their place, reimbursement of their amount shall be made to the Treasurer, under such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe, from an appropriation hereby created, to be known as "national bank notes; redemption account," but the provisions of this act shall not apply to the deposits received under section three of the act of June twentieth, eighteen hundred and seventy-four, requiring every national bank to keep in lawful money with the Treasurer of the United States a sum equal to five per centum of its circulation, to be held and used for the redemption of its circulating notes; and the balance remaining of the deposits so covered shall, at the close of each month, be reported on the monthly public debt statement as debt of the United States bearing no interest.

128. Redemption of Lost or Stolen Notes, and of Notes not Properly Signed. Act July 28, 1892.—That the provisions of the Revised Statutes of the United States, providing for the redemption of national bank notes, shall apply to all national bank notes that have been or may be issued to, or received by, any national bank, notwithstanding such notes may have been lost by or stolen from the bank and put in circulation without the signature or upon the forged signature of the president or vice-president and cashier.

130. (§ 5194.) Superseded.

131. Place for Redemption of Circulating Notes to be Designated.— (§ 5195.) Each association organized in any of the cities named in section fifty-one hundred and ninety-one shall select, subject to the approval of the Comptroller of the Currency, an association in the city of New York, [at which it will redeem its circulating notes at par;] and may keep one-half of its lawful money reserve in cash deposits in the city of New York. [But the foregoing provision shall not apply to associations organized and located in the city of San Francisco for the purpose of issuing notes payable in gold. Each association not organized within the cities named shall select, subject to the approval of the Comptroller, an association in either of the cities named, at which it will redeem its circulating notes at par.] The Comptroller shall give public notice of the names of the associations selected [at which redemptions are to be made by the respective associations], and of any change that may be made of the association [at which the notes of any association are redeemed. Whenever any association fails either to make the selection or to redeem its notes as aforesaid, the Comptroller of the Currency may upon receiving satisfactory evidence thereof appoint a receiver, in the manner provided for in section fifty-two hundred and thirty-four, to wind up its affairs.] But this section shall not relieve any association from its liability to redeem its circulating notes at its own counter, at par, in lawful money on demand.

132. National Banks not Required or Permitted to Redeem Their Circulating Notes Elsewhere Than at Their Own Counters. Act June 20, 1874.— (§ 3.) . . . And provided, further, That so much of section thirty-two (section 5195, Revised Statutes) of said national bank act requiring or permitting the redemption of its circulating notes elsewhere than at its own counter, except as provided for in this section, is hereby repealed.

133. Additional Central Reserve Cities. Act March 3, 1887.— (§ 2.) That whenever three-fourths in number of the national banks located in any city of the United States having a population of two hundred thousand people shall make application to the Comptroller of the Currency, in writing, asking that such city may be a central reserve city, like the city of New York, in which one-half of the lawful money reserve of the national banks located in other reserve cities may be deposited, as provided in section fifty-one hundred and ninety-five of the Revised Statutes, the Comptroller shall have authority, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to grant such request, and every bank located in such city shall at all times thereafter have on hand, in lawful money of the United States, twenty-five per centum of its deposits, as provided in section fifty-one hundred and ninety-one of the Revised Statutes.

134. National Banks to Take Notes of Other National Banks at Par.— (§ 5196.) Every national banking association formed or existing under this title, shall take and receive at par, for any debt or liability to it, any and all notes or bills issued by any lawfully organized national banking association. But this provision shall not apply to any association organized for the purpose of issuing notes payable in gold.

135. Limitation upon Rate of Interest Which may be Taken.— (§ 5197.) Any association may take, receive, reserve, and charge on any loan or discount made, or upon any note, bill of exchange, or other evidences of debt, interest at the rate allowed by the laws of the State, Territory, or District where the bank is located, and no more, except that where by the law of any State a different rate is limited for banks of issue organized under State laws, the rate so limited shall be allowed for associations organized or existing in any such State under this title. When no rate is fixed by the laws of the State, or Territory, or District, the bank may take, receive, reserve or charge a rate not exceeding seven per centum, and such interest may be taken in advance, reckoning the days for which the note, bill, or other evidence of debt has to run. And the purchase, discount, or sale of a bona fide bill of exchange, payable at another place than the place of such purchase, discount, or sale, at not more than the current rate of exchange for sight drafts in addition to the interest, shall not be considered as taking or receiving a greater rate of interest.

136. Penalty for Taking Unlawful Interest—Jurisdiction of Suits by or Against National Banks.— (§ 5198.) [As amended 1875.] The taking, receiving, reserving, or charging a rate of interest greater than is allowed by the preceding section, when knowingly done, shall be deemed a forfeiture of the entire interest which the note, bill, or other evidence of debt carries with it, or which has been agreed to be paid thereon. In case the greater rate of interest has been paid, the person by whom it has been paid, or his legal representative, may recover back, in an action in the nature of an action of debt, the amount of the interest thus paid from the association taking or receiving the same; provided such action is commenced within two years from the time the usurious transaction occurred. That suits, actions, and proceedings against any association under this title may be had in any circuit, district, or territorial court of the United States held within the district in which such association may be established, or in any State, county, or municipal court in the county or city in which said association is located having jurisdiction in similar cases.

137. Dividends.— (§ 5199.) The directors of any association may, semi-annually, declare a dividend of so much of the net profits of the association as they shall judge expedient; but each association shall, before the declaration of a dividend, carry one-tenth part of its net profits of the preceding half year to its surplus fund until the same shall amount to twenty per centum of its capital stock.

138. Limitation of Liabilities Which may be Incurred by Any One Person, Company, etc.— (§ 5200.) [As amended 1906.] The total liabilities to any association, of any person, or of any company, corporation, or firm for money borrowed, including in the liabilities of a company or firm the liabilities of the several members thereof, shall at no time exceed one-tenth part of the amount of the capital stock of such associations, actually paid in and unimpaired, and one-tenth part of its unimpaired surplus fund: Provided, however, That the total of such liabilities shall in no event exceed thirty per centum of the capital stock of the association. But the discount of bills of exchange drawn in good faith against actually existing values, and the discount of commercial or business paper actually owned by the person negotiating the same shall not be considered as money borrowed.

139. Associations must not Loan on or Purchase Their Own Stock. (§ 5201.) No association shall make any loan or discount on the security of the shares of its own capital stock, nor be the purchaser or holder of any such shares, unless such security or purchase shall be necessary to prevent loss upon a debt previously contracted in good faith; and stock so purchased or acquired shall, within six months from the time of its purchase, be sold or disposed of at public or private sale; or, in default thereof, a receiver may be appointed to close up the business of the association, according to section fifty-two hundred and thirty-four.

140. Restriction on Bank's Indebtedness.—(§ 5202.) No national banking association shall at any time be indebted, or in any way liable, to an amount exceeding the amount of its capital stock at such time actually paid in and remaining undiminished by losses or otherwise, except on account of demands of the nature following:

First. Notes of circulation.

Second. Moneys deposited with or collected by the association.

Third. Bills of exchange or drafts drawn against money actually on deposit to the credit of the association, or due thereto.

Fourth. Liabilities to the stockholders of the association for dividends and reserve profits.

Fifth. Liabilities incurred under the provisions of the Federal Reserve Act.

The rediscount by any Federal reserve bank of any bills receivable and of domestic and foreign bills of exchange, and of acceptances authorized by this act, shall be subject to such restrictions, limitations, and regulations as may be imposed by the Federal Reserve Board.

141. Restriction upon Use of Circulating Notes.—(§ 5203.) No association shall, either directly or indirectly, pledge or hypothecate any of its notes or circulation, for the purpose of procuring money to be paid in on its capital stock, or to be used in its banking operations, or otherwise; nor shall any association use its circulating notes, or any part thereof, in any manner or form, to create or increase its capital stock.

142. Prohibition upon Withdrawal of Capital—Unearned Dividends Prohibited.—(§ 5204.) No association, or any member thereof, shall, during the time it shall continue its banking operations, withdraw, or permit to be withdrawn, either in the form of dividends or otherwise, any portion of its capital. If losses have at any time been sustained by any such association, equal to or exceeding its undivided profits then on hand, no dividend shall be made; and no dividend shall ever be made by any association, while it continues its banking operations, to an amount greater than its net profits then on hand, deducting therefrom its losses and bad debts. All debts due to any association, on which interest is past due and unpaid for a period of six months, unless the same are well secured, and in process of collection, shall be considered bad debts within the meaning of this section. But nothing in this section shall prevent the reduction of the capital stock of the association under section 5143.

143. Assessment for Failure to Pay Up Capital Stock or for Impairment of Capital.—(§ 5205.) [As amended 1876.] Every association which shall have failed to pay up its capital stock, as required by law, and every association whose capital stock shall have become impaired by losses or otherwise, shall, within three months after receiving notice thereof from the Comptroller of the Currency, pay the deficiency in the capital stock, by assessment upon the shareholders pro rata for the amount of capital stock held by each; and the Treasurer of the United States shall withhold the interest upon all bonds held by him in trust for any such association, upon notification from the Comptroller of the Currency, until otherwise notified by him. If any such association shall fail to pay up its capital stock, and shall refuse to go into liquidation, as provided by law, for three months after receiving notice from the Comptroller, a receiver may be appointed to close up the business of the association, according to the provisions of section 5234: And provided, That if any shareholder or shareholders of such bank shall neglect or refuse, after three months' notice, to pay the association, as provided in this section, it shall be the duty of the board of directors to cause a sufficient amount of the capital stock of such shareholder or shareholders to be sold at public auction (after thirty days' notice shall be given by posting such notice of sale in the office of the bank, and by publishing such notice in a newspaper of the city or town in which the bank is located, or in a newspaper published nearest thereto) to make good the deficiency, and the balance, if any, shall be returned to such delinquent shareholder or shareholders.

144. Prohibition Against Uncurrent Notes.—(§ 5206.) No association shall at any time pay out on loans or discounts, or in purchasing drafts or bills of exchange, or in payment of deposits, or in any other mode pay or put in circulation, the notes of any bank or banking association which are not, at any such time, receivable, at par, on deposit, and in payment of debts by the association so paying out or circulating such notes; nor shall any association knowingly pay out or put in circulation any notes issued by any bank or banking association which at the time of such paying out or putting in circulation is not redeeming its circulating notes in lawful money of the United States.

145. United States Notes not to be Held as Collateral.—(§ 5207.) No association shall hereafter offer or receive United States notes or national bank notes as security or as collateral security for any loan of money, or for a consideration agree to withhold the same from use, or offer or receive the custody or promise of custody of such notes as security, or as collateral security, or consideration for any loan of money. Any association offending against the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars and a further sum equal to one-third of the money so loaned. The officer or officers of any association who shall make any such loan shall be liable for a further sum equal to one-quarter of the money loaned; and any fine or penalty incurred by a violation of this section shall be recoverable for the benefit of the party bringing such suit.

146. Issue of Gold Certificates. Act July 12, 1882.—(§ 12.) That the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and directed to receive deposits of gold coin . . . and issue certificates therefor. . . . Said certificates . . . when held by any national banking association, shall be counted as part of its lawful reserve; and no national banking association shall be a member of any clearing-house in which such certificates shall not be receivable in the settlement of clearing-house balances: . . . And the provisions of section 5207 of the Revised Statutes shall be applicable to the certificates herein authorized and directed to be issued.

147. Penalty for Falsely Certifying Checks.—(§ 5208.) It shall be unlawful for any officer, clerk, or agent of any national banking association to certify any check drawn upon the association unless the person or company drawing the check has on deposit with the association, at the time such check is certified, an amount of money equal to the amount specified in such check. Any check so certified by duly authorized officers shall be a good and valid obligation against the association; but the act of any officer, clerk, or agent of any association, in violation of this section, shall subject such bank to the liabilities and proceedings on the part of the Comptroller as provided for in section 5234.

148. Punishment for Falsely Certifying Checks. Act July 12, 1882.—(§ 13.) That any officer, clerk, or agent of any national banking association who shall willfully violate the provisions of an act entitled "An act in reference to certifying checks by national banks," approved March 3, eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, being section 5208 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, or who shall resort to any device, or receive any fictitious obligation, direct or collateral, in order to evade the provisions thereof, or who shall certify checks before the amount thereof shall have been regularly entered to the credit of the dealer upon the books of the banking association, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, on conviction thereof in any circuit or district court of the United States, be fined not more than five thousand dollars, or shall be imprisoned not more than five years, or both, in the discretion of the court.

149. Penalty for Embezzlement, Abstraction, Willful Misapplication, False Entries, etc.—(§ 5209.) Every president, director, cashier, teller, clerk, or agent of any association, who embezzles, abstracts, or willfully misapplies any of the moneys, funds, or credits of the association; or who, without authority from the directors, issues or puts in circulation any of the notes of the association; or who, without such authority, issues or puts forth any certificate of deposit, draws any order or bill of exchange, makes any acceptance, assigns any note, bond, draft, bill of exchange, mortgage, judgment, or decree; or who makes any false entry in any book, report, or statement of the association, with intent, in either case, to injure or defraud the association or any other company, body politic or corporate, or any individual person, or to deceive any officer of the association, or any agent appointed to examine the affairs of any such association; and every person who with like intent aids or abets any officer, clerk, or agent in any violation of this section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned not less than five years nor more than ten.

150. National Banks not Permitted to Make Contributions in Connection With Election to Political Office. Act January 26, 1907.—That it shall be unlawful for any national bank, or any corporation organized by authority of any laws of Congress, to make a money contribution in connection with any election to any political office. It shall also be unlawful for any corporation whatever to make a money contribution in connection with any election at which Presidential and Vice-Presidential electors or a Representative in Congress is to be voted for, or any election by any State legislature of a United States Senator. Every corporation which shall make any contribution in violation of the foregoing provisions shall be subject to a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, and every officer or director of any corporation who shall consent to any contribution by the corporation in violation of the foregoing provisions shall upon conviction be punished by a fine of not exceeding one thousand and not less than two hundred and fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for a term of not more than one year, or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

151. List of Shareholders.—(§ 5210.) The president and cashier of every national banking association shall cause to be kept at all times a full and correct list of the names and residences of all the shareholders in the association, and the number of shares held by each, in the office where its business is transacted. Such list shall be subject to the inspection of all the shareholders and creditors of the association, and the officers authorized to assess taxes under State authority, during business hours of each day in which business may be legally transacted. A copy of such list, on the first Monday of July of each year, verified by the oath of such president or cashier, shall be transmitted to the Comptroller of the Currency.

152. Reports to Comptroller of the Currency.—(§ 5211.) [As amended 1877.] Every association shall make to the Comptroller of the Currency not less than five reports during each year, according to the form which may be prescribed by him, verified by the oath or affirmation of the president or cashier of such association, and attested by the signature of at least three of the directors. Each such report shall exhibit, in detail and under appropriate heads, the resources and liabilities of the association at the close of business on any past day by him specified; and shall be transmitted to the Comptroller within five days after the receipt of a request or requisition therefor from him, and in the same form in which it is made to the Comptroller shall be published in a newspaper published in the place where such association is established, or if there is no newspaper in the place, then in the one published nearest thereto in the same county, at the expense of the association; and such proof of publication shall be furnished as may be required by the Comptroller. The Comptroller shall also have power to call for special reports from any particular association whenever in his judgment the same are necessary in order to a full and complete knowledge of its condition.

153. Verification of Reports. Act February 26, 1881.—That the oath or affirmation required by section 5211 of the Revised Statutes, verifying the returns made by national banks to the Comptroller of the Currency, when taken before a notary public properly authorized and commissioned by the State in which such notary resides and the bank is located, or any other officer having an official seal, authorized in such State to administer oaths, shall be a sufficient verification as contemplated by said section 5211: Provided, That the officer administering the oath is not an officer of the bank.

154. Report of Dividends.—(§ 5212.) In addition to the reports required by the preceding section, each association shall report to the Comptroller of the Currency, within ten days after declaring any dividend, the amount of such dividend, and the amount of net earnings in excess of such dividend. Such reports shall be attested by the oath of the president or cashier of the association.

155. Penalty for Failure to Make Reports.—(§ 5213.) Every association which fails to make and transmit any report required under either of the two preceding sections shall be subject to a penalty of one hundred dollars for each day after the periods, respectively, therein mentioned, that it delays to make and transmit its report. Whenever any association delays or refuses to pay the penalty herein imposed, after it has been assessed by the Comptroller of the Currency, the amount thereof may be retained by the Treasurer of the United States, upon the order of the Comptroller of the Currency, out of the interest, as it may become due to the association, on the bonds deposited with him to secure circulation. All sums of money collected for penalties under this section shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States.

156. Taxes Payable to the United States.—(§ 5214.) [As amended May 30, 1908.] National banking associations having on deposit bonds of the United States, bearing interest at the rate of two per centum per annum, including the bonds issued for the construction of the Panama Canal, under the provisions of section 8 of "An act to provide for the construction of a canal connecting the waters of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans," approved June twenty-eighth, nineteen hundred and two, to secure its circulating notes, shall pay to the Treasurer of the United States, in the months of January and July, a tax of one-fourth of one per centum each half year upon the average amount of such of its notes in circulation as are based upon the deposit of such bonds; and such associations having on deposit bonds of the United States bearing interest at a rate higher than two per centum per annum shall pay a tax of one-half of one per centum each half year upon the average amount of such of its notes in circulation as are based upon the deposit of such bonds. National banking associations having circulating notes secured otherwise than by bonds of the United States shall pay for the first month a tax at the rate of five per centum per annum upon the average amount of such of their notes in circulation as are based upon the deposit of such securities, and afterwards an additional tax of one per centum per annum for each month until a tax of ten per centum per annum is reached, and thereafter such tax of ten per centum per annum, upon the average amount of such notes. Every national banking association having outstanding circulating notes secured by a deposit of other securities than United States bonds shall make monthly returns, under oath of its president or cashier, to the Treasurer of the United States, in such form as the Treasurer may prescribe, of the average monthly amount of its notes so secured in circulation; and it shall be the duty of the Comptroller of the Currency to cause such reports of notes in circulation to be verified by examination of the banks' records. The taxes received on circulating notes secured otherwise than by bonds of the United States shall be paid into the Division of Redemption of the Treasury and credited and added to the reserve fund held for the redemption of the United States and other notes.

157. Half-yearly Return of Circulation [Deposits and Capital Stock]. (§ 5215.) In order to enable the Treasurer to assess the duties imposed by the preceding section, each association shall, within ten days from the first days of January and July of each year, make a return, under the oath of its president or cashier, to the Treasurer of the United States, in such form as the Treasurer may prescribe, of the average amount of its notes in circulation [and of the average amount of its deposits, and of the average amount of its capital stock, beyond the amount invested in United States bonds] for the six months next preceding the most recent first day of January or July. Every association which fails so to make such return shall be liable to a penalty of two hundred dollars, to be collected either out of the interest as it may become due such association on the bonds deposited with the Treasurer, or, at his option in the manner in which penalties are to be collected of other corporations under the laws of the United States.

158. Penalty for Failure to Make Return.—(§ 5216.) Whenever any association fails to make the half-yearly return required by the preceding section, the duties to be paid by such association shall be assessed upon the amount of notes delivered to such association by the Comptroller of the Currency [and upon the highest amount of its deposits and capital stock, to be ascertained in such manner as the Treasurer may deem best].

159. Enforcing Tax on Circulation.—(§ 5217.) Whenever an association fails to pay the duties imposed by the three preceding sections, the sums due may be collected in the manner provided for the collection of United States taxes from other corporations; or the Treasurer may reserve the amount out of the interest, as it may become due, on the bonds deposited with him by such defaulting association.

160. Refunding Excess Tax.—(§ 5218.) In all cases where an association has paid or may pay in excess of what may be or has been found due from it, on account of the duty required to be paid to the Treasurer of the United States, the association may state an account therefor, which, on being certified by the Treasurer of the United States, and found correct by the First Comptroller of the Treasury, shall be refunded in the ordinary manner by warrant on the Treasury.

161. No Tax to be Paid by Insolvent Banks. Act March 1, 1879.—(§ 22.) That whenever and after any bank has ceased to do business by reason of insolvency or bankruptcy, no tax shall be assessed or collected, or paid into the Treasury of the United States, on account of such bank, which shall diminish the assets thereof necessary for the full payment of all its depositors; and such tax shall be abated from such national banks as are found by the Comptroller of the Currency to be insolvent.

162. State Taxation.—(§ 5219.) Nothing herein shall prevent all the shares in any association from being included in the valuation of the personal property of the owner or holder of such shares, in assessing taxes imposed by authority of the State within which the association is located; but the legislature of each State may determine and direct the manner and place of taxing all the shares of national banking associations located within the State, subject only to the two restrictions, that the taxation shall not be at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of such State, and that the shares of any national banking association owned by nonresidents of any State shall be taxed in the city or town where the bank is located, and not elsewhere. Nothing herein shall be construed to exempt the real property of associations from either State, county, or municipal taxes, to the same extent, according to its value, as other real property is taxed.

CHAPTER V.

Dissolution and Receivership.

163. Two-thirds Vote Required for Liquidation.—(§ 5220.) Any association may go into liquidation and be closed by the vote of its shareholders owning two-thirds of its stock.

164. Notice of Voluntary Liquidation.—(§ 5221.) Whenever a vote is taken to go into liquidation it shall be the duty of the board of directors to cause notice of this fact to be certified, under the seal of the association, by its president or cashier, to the Comptroller of the Currency, and publication thereof to be made for a period of two months in a newspaper published in the city of New York, and also in a newspaper published in the city or town in which the association is located, or if no newspaper is there published, then in the newspaper published nearest thereto, that the association is closing up its affairs, and notifying the holders of its notes and other creditors to present the notes and other claims against the association for payment.

165. Deposit of Lawful Money to Redeem Circulation.—(§ 5222.) Within six months from the date of the vote to go into liquidation, the association shall deposit with the Treasurer of the United States, lawful money of the United States sufficient to redeem all its outstanding circulation. The Treasurer shall execute duplicate receipts for money thus deposited, and deliver one to the association and the other to the Comptroller of the Currency, stating the amount received by him, and the purpose for which it has been received; and the money shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States, and placed to the credit of such association upon redemption account.

166. No Deposit Required for Consolidation.—(§ 5223.) An association which is in good faith winding up its business for the purpose of consolidating with another association shall not be required to deposit lawful money for its outstanding circulation; but its assets and liabilities shall be reported by the association with which it is in process of consolidation.

167. Reassignment of Bonds and Redemption of Notes of Liquidating Banks.—(§ 5224.) [As amended 1875.] Whenever a sufficient deposit of lawful money to redeem the outstanding circulation of an association proposing to close its business has been made, the bonds deposited by the association to secure payment of its notes shall be re-assigned to it, in the manner prescribed by section 5162. And thereafter the association and its shareholders shall stand discharged from all liabilities upon the circulating notes, and those notes shall be redeemed at the Treasury of the United States. And if any such bank shall fail to make the deposit and take up its bonds thirty days after the expiration of the time specified, the Comptroller of the Currency shall have power to sell the bonds pledged for the circulation of said bank, at public auction in New York City, and, after providing for the redemption and cancellation of said circulation, and the necessary expenses of the sale, to pay over any balance remaining to the bank or its legal representatives.

168. Duty of Treasurer, Assistant Treasurers, etc., to Return Notes of Failed or Liquidating Banks to Treasury for Redemption. Act June 20, 1874.—(§ 8.) And it shall be the duty of the Treasurer, assistant treasurers, designated depositaries, and national bank depositaries of the United States to assort and return to the Treasury for redemption the notes of such national banks as have failed, or gone into voluntary liquidation for the purpose of winding up their affairs, and of such as shall hereafter so fail or go into liquidation.

169. Destruction of Redeemed Notes.—(§ 5225.) [As amended 1877.] Whenever the Treasurer has redeemed any of the notes of an association which has commenced to close its affairs, under the five preceding sections, he shall cause the notes to be mutilated and charged to the redemption account of the association; and all notes so redeemed by the Treasurer shall, every three months, be certified to and [burned] in the manner prescribed in section 5184.

170. Protest of Bank Circulation.—(§ 5226.) Whenever any national banking association fails to redeem in the lawful money of the United States any of its circulating notes, upon demand of payment duly made during the usual hours of business, at the office of such association, or at its designated place of redemption, the holder may cause the same to be protested, in one package, by a notary public, unless the president or cashier of the association whose notes are presented for payment [or the president or cashier of the association at the place at which they are redeemable] offers to waive demand and notice of the protest, and, in pursuance of such offer, makes, signs, and delivers to the party making such demand an admission in writing, stating the time of the demand, the amount demanded, and the fact of the nonpayment thereof. The notary public, on making such protest, or upon receiving such admission, shall forthwith forward such admission or notice of protest to the Comptroller of the Currency, retaining a copy thereof. If, however, satisfactory proof is produced to the notary public that the payment of the notes demanded is restrained by order of any court of competent jurisdiction, he shall not protest the same. When the holder of any notes causes more than one note or package to be protested on the same day, he shall not receive pay for more than one protest.

171. Bonds Forfeited if Circulation is Dishonored—Examination by Special Agent.—(§ 5227.) On receiving notice that any national banking association has failed to redeem any of its circulating notes, as specified in the preceding section, the Comptroller of the Currency, with the concurrence of the Secretary of the Treasury, may appoint a special agent, of whose appointment immediate notice shall be given to such association, who shall immediately proceed to ascertain whether it has refused to pay its circulating notes in the lawful money of the United States, when demanded, and shall report to the Comptroller the fact so ascertained. If, from such protest, and the report so made, the Comptroller is satisfied that such association has refused to pay its circulating notes and is in default, he shall, within thirty days after he has received notice of such failure, declare the bonds deposited by such association forfeited to the United States, and they shall thereupon be so forfeited.

172. Suspension of Business After Default.—(§ 5228.) [As amended 1875.] After a default on the part of an association to pay any of its circulating notes has been ascertained by the Comptroller, and notice thereof has been given by him to the association, it shall not be lawful for the association suffering the same to pay out any of its notes, discount any notes or bills, or otherwise prosecute the business of banking, except to receive and safely keep money belonging to it, and to deliver special deposits.

173. Notice to Present Circulation for Redemption—Cancellation of Bonds.—(§ 5229.) Immediately upon declaring the bonds of an association forfeited for nonpayment of its notes, the Comptroller shall give notice, in such manner as the Secretary of the Treasury shall, by general rules or otherwise, direct, to the holders of the circulating notes of such association, to present them for payment at the Treasury of the United States; and the same shall be paid as presented in lawful money of the United States; whereupon the Comptroller may, in his discretion, cancel an amount of bonds pledged by such association equal at current market rates, not exceeding par, to the notes paid.

174. Sale of Bonds at Auction—First Lien for Redeeming Circulation.—(§ 5230.) Whenever the Comptroller has become satisfied, by the protest or the waiver and admission specified in section 5226, or by the report provided for in section 5227, that any association has refused to pay its circulating notes, he may, instead of canceling its bonds, cause so much of them as may be necessary to redeem its outstanding notes to be sold at public auction in the city of New York, after giving thirty days' notice of such sale to the association. For any deficiency in the proceeds of all the bonds of an association, when thus sold, to reimburse to the United States the amount expended in paying the circulating notes of the association, the United States shall have a paramount lien upon all its assets; and such deficiency shall be made good out of such assets in preference to any and all other claims whatsoever, except the necessary costs and expenses of administering the same.

175. Bonds may be Sold at Private Sale.—(§ 5231.) The Comptroller may, if he deems it for the interest of the United States, sell at private sale any of the bonds of an association shown to have made default in paying its notes, and receive therefor either money or the circulating notes of the association. But no such bonds shall be sold by private sale for less than par, nor for less than the market value thereof at the time of sale; and no sales of any such bonds, either public or private, shall be complete until the transfer of the bonds shall have been made with the formalities prescribed by sections 5162, 5163, and 5164.

176. Disposal of Redeemed Notes—Regulations for Redemption Records.—(§ 5232.) The Secretary of the Treasury may, from time to time, make such regulations respecting the disposition to be made of circulating notes after presentation at the Treasury of the United States for payment, and respecting the perpetuation of the evidence of the payment thereof, as may seem to him proper.

177. Redeemed Notes to be Canceled.—(§ 5233.) All notes of national banking associations presented at the Treasury of the United States for payment shall, on being paid, be canceled.

178. Appointment and Duties of Receivers.—(§ 5234.) On becoming satisfied, as specified in sections 5226 and 5227, that any association has refused to pay its circulating notes as therein mentioned, and is in default, the Comptroller of the Currency may forthwith appoint a receiver, and require of him such bond and security as he deems proper. Such receiver, under the direction of the Comptroller, shall take possession of the books, records, and assets of every description of such association, collect all debts, dues, and claims belonging to it, and, upon the order of a court of record of competent jurisdiction, may sell or compound all bad or doubtful debts, and, on a like order, may sell all the real and personal property of such association, on such terms as the court shall direct; and may, if necessary to pay the debts of such association, enforce the individual liability of the stockholders. Such receiver shall pay over all money so made to the Treasurer of the United States, subject to the order of the Comptroller, and also make report to the Comptroller of all his acts and proceedings.

179. Notice to Creditors of Insolvent Banks to Present Claims.—(§ 5235.) The Comptroller shall, upon appointing a receiver, cause notice to be given, by advertisement in such newspapers as he may direct, for three consecutive months, calling on all persons who may have claims against such association to present the same, and to make legal proof thereof.

180. Dividends—Distribution of Assets of Insolvent Banks.—(§ 5236.) From time to time, after full provision has been first made for refunding to the United States any deficiency in redeeming the notes of such association, the Comptroller shall make a ratable dividend of the money so paid over to him by such receiver on all such claims as may have been proved to his satisfaction or adjudicated in a court of competent jurisdiction, and, as the proceeds of the assets of such association are paid over to him, shall make further dividends on all claims previously proved or adjudicated; and the remainder of the proceeds, if any, shall be paid over to the shareholders of such association, or their legal representatives, in proportion to the stock by them respectively held.

181. When Bank may Enjoin Further Proceedings.—(§ 5237.) Whenever an association against which proceedings have been instituted, on account of any alleged refusal to redeem its circulating notes as aforesaid, denies having failed to do so, it may, at any time within ten days after it has been notified of the appointment of an agent, as provided in section 5227, apply to the nearest circuit, or district, or territorial court of the United States to enjoin further proceedings in the premises; and such court, after citing the Comptroller of the Currency to show cause why further proceedings should not be enjoined, and after the decision of the court or finding of the jury that such association has not refused to redeem its circulating notes, when legally presented, in the lawful money of the United States, shall make an order enjoining the Comptroller, and any receiver acting under his direction, from all further proceedings on account of such alleged refusal.

182. Fees and Expenses.—(§ 5238.) All fees for protesting the notes issued by any national banking association shall be paid by the person procuring the protest to be made, and such association shall be liable therefor; but no part of the bonds deposited by such association shall be applied to the payment of such fees. All expenses of any preliminary or other examinations into the condition of any association shall be paid by such association. All expenses of any receivership shall be paid out of the assets of such association before distribution of the proceeds thereof.

183. When Receiver may be Appointed. Act June 30, 1876.—(§ 1.) That whenever any national banking association shall be dissolved, and its rights, privileges, and franchises declared forfeited, as prescribed in section 5239 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, or whenever any creditor of any national banking association shall have obtained a judgment against it in any court of record, and made application, accompanied by a certificate from the clerk of the court stating that such judgment has been rendered and has remained unpaid for the space of thirty days, or whenever the Comptroller shall become satisfied of the insolvency of the national banking association, he may, after due examination of its affairs, in either case, appoint a receiver who shall proceed to close up such association, and enforce the personal liability of the shareholders, as provided in section 5234 of said statutes.

184. Creditor's Bill Against Shareholders. Act June 30, 1876.—(§ 2.) That when any national banking association shall have gone into liquidation under the provisions of section 5220 of said statutes, the individual liability of the shareholders provided for by section 5151 of said statutes may be enforced by any creditor of such association, by bill in equity, in the nature of a creditor's bill, brought by such creditor on behalf of himself and of all other creditors of the association, against the shareholders thereof, in any court of the United States having original jurisdiction in equity for the district in which such association may have been located or established.

185. Appointment, Qualification, and Duties of Shareholders' Agent. Act June 30, 1876, as Amended 1892, 1897.— (§ 3.) That whenever any association shall have been or shall be placed in the hands of a receiver, as provided in section 5234 and other sections of the Revised Statutes of the United States, and when, as provided in section 5236 thereof, the Comptroller of the Currency shall have paid to each and every creditor of such association, not including shareholders who are creditors of such association, whose claim or claims as such creditor shall have been proved or allowed as therein prescribed, the full amount of such claims, and all expenses of the receivership, and the redemption of the circulating notes of such association shall have been provided for by depositing lawful money of the United States with the Treasurer of the United States, the Comptroller of the Currency shall call a meeting of the shareholders of such association by giving notice thereof for thirty days in a newspaper published in the town, city or county where the business of such association was carried on, or if no newspaper is there published, in the newspaper published nearest thereto. At such meeting the shareholders shall determine whether the receiver shall be continued and shall wind up the affairs of such association, or whether an agent shall be elected for that purpose, and in so determining the said shareholders shall vote by ballot, in person or by proxy, each share of stock entitling the holder to one vote, and the majority of the stock in value and number of shares shall be necessary to determine whether the said receiver shall be continued, or whether an agent shall be elected. In case such majority shall determine that the said receiver shall be continued, the said receiver shall thereupon proceed with the execution of his trust, and shall sell, dispose of, or otherwise collect the assets of the said association, and shall possess all the powers and authority, and be subject to all the duties and liabilities originally conferred or imposed upon him by his appointment as such receiver, so far as the same remain applicable. In case the said meeting shall, by the vote of a majority of the stock in value and number of shares, determine that an agent shall be elected, the said meeting shall thereupon proceed to elect an agent, voting by ballot, in person or by proxy, each share of stock entitling the holder to one vote, and the person who shall receive votes representing at least a majority of stock in value and number shall be declared the agent for the purposes hereinafter provided; and whenever any of the shareholders of the association shall, after the election of such agent, have executed and filed a bond to the satisfaction of the Comptroller of the Currency, conditioned for the payment and discharge in full of each and every claim that may thereafter be proved and allowed by and before a competent court, and for the faithful performance of all and singular the duties of such trust, the Comptroller and the receiver shall thereupon transfer and deliver to such agent all the undivided or uncollected or other assets of such association then remaining in the hands or subject to the order and control of said Comptroller and said receiver, or either of them; and for this purpose said Comptroller and said receiver are hereby severally empowered and directed to execute any deed, assignment, transfer, or other instrument in writing that may be necessary and proper; and upon the execution and delivery of such instrument to the said agent the said Comptroller and the said receiver shall by virtue of this act be discharged from any and all liabilities to such association and to each and all the creditors and shareholders thereof.

Upon receiving such deed, assignment, transfer, or other instrument, the person elected such agent shall hold, control, and dispose of the assets and property of such association which he may receive under the terms hereof for the benefit of the shareholders of such association, and he may, in his own name, or in the name of such association, sue and be sued and do all other lawful acts and things necessary to finally settle and distribute the assets and property in his hands, and may sell, compromise, or compound the debts due to such association, with the consent and approval of the circuit or district court of the United States for the district where the business of such association was carried on, and shall at the conclusion of his trust render to such district or circuit court a full account of all his proceedings, receipts, and expenditures as such agent, which court shall, upon due notice, settle and adjust such accounts and discharge said agent and the sureties upon said bond. And in case any such agent so elected shall refuse to serve, or die, resign, or be removed, any shareholder may call a meeting of the shareholders of such association in the town, city, or village where the business of the said association was carried on, by giving notice thereof for thirty days in a newspaper published in said town, city, or village, or if no newspaper is there published, in the newspaper published nearest thereto, at which meeting the shareholders shall elect an agent, voting by ballot, in person or by proxy, each share of stock entitling the holder to one vote, and when such agent shall have received votes representing at least a majority of the stock in value and number of shares, and shall have executed a bond to the shareholders conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties, in the penalty fixed by the shareholders at said meeting, with two sureties, to be approved by a judge of a court of record, and file said bond in the office of the clerk of a court of record in the county where the business of said association was carried on, he shall have all the rights, powers, and duties of the agent first elected as hereinbefore provided. At any meeting held as hereinbefore provided administrators or executors of deceased shareholders may act and sign as the decedent might have done if living, and guardians of minors and trustees of other persons may so act and sign for their ward or wards or cestui que trust. The proceeds of the assets or property of any such association which may be undistributed at the time of such meeting or may be subsequently received shall be distributed as follows:

“First. To pay the expenses of the execution of the trust to the date of such payment.

“Second. To repay any amount or amounts which have been paid in by any shareholder or shareholders of such association upon and by reason of any and all assessments made upon the stock of such association by the order of the Comptroller of the Currency in accordance with the provisions of the statutes of the United States; and “Third. The balance ratably among such stockholders, in proportion to the number of shares held and owned by each. Such distribution shall be made from time to time as the proceeds shall be received and as shall be deemed advisable by the said Comptroller or said agent.”

186. Receiver may Purchase Property to Protect His Trust. Act March 29, 1886.—(§ 1.) That whenever the receiver of any national bank duly appointed by the Comptroller of the Currency, and who shall have duly qualified and entered upon the discharge of his trust, shall find it in his opinion necessary, in order to fully protect and benefit his said trust, to the extent of any and all equities that such trust may have in any property, real or personal, by reason of any bond, mortgage, assignment, or other proper legal claim attaching thereto, and which said property is to be sold under any execution, decree of foreclosure, or proper order of any court of jurisdiction, he may certify the facts in the case, together with his opinion as to the value of the property to be sold, and the value of the equity his said trust may have in the same, to the Comptroller of the Currency, together with a request for the right and authority to use and employ so much of the money of said trust as may be necessary to purchase such property at such sale.

187. Approval of Request. Act March 29, 1886.—(§ 2.) That such request, if approved by the Comptroller of the Currency, shall be, together with the certificate of facts in the case, and his recommendation as to the amount of money which, in his judgment, should be so used and employed, submitted to the Secretary of the Treasury, and if the same shall likewise be approved by him, the request shall be by the Comptroller of the Currency allowed, and notice thereof, with copies of the request, certificate of facts and indorsement of approvals, shall be filed with the Treasurer of the United States.

188. Payment. Act March 29, 1886.—(§ 3.) That whenever any such request shall be allowed as hereinbefore provided, the said Comptroller of the Currency shall be, and is, empowered to draw upon and from such funds of any such trust as may be deposited with the Treasurer of the United States for the benefit of the bank in interest, to the amount as may be recommended and allowed and for the purpose for which such allowance was made: Provided, however, That all payments to be made for or on account of the purchase of any such property and under any such allowance shall be made by the Comptroller of the Currency direct, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, for such purpose only and in such manner as he may determine and order.

189. Penalty for Violation of This Title—Forfeiture of Charter—Individual Liability of Directors.—(§ 5239.) If the directors of any national banking association shall knowingly violate, or knowingly permit any of the officers, agents, or servants of the association to violate any of the provisions of this title, all the rights, privileges, and franchises of the association shall be thereby forfeited. Such violation shall, however, be determined and adjudged by a proper circuit, district, or territorial court of the United States, in a suit brought for that purpose by the Comptroller of the Currency, in his own name, before the association shall be declared dissolved. And in cases of such violation every director who participated in or assented to the same shall be held liable in his personal and individual capacity for all damages which the association, its shareholders, or any other person shall have sustained in consequence of such violation.

190. Appointment of Examiners — Compensation.—(§ 5240.) [As amended 1875.] The Comptroller of the Currency, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall, appoint examiners who shall examine every member bank at least twice in each calendar year and oftener if considered necessary: Provided, however, That the Federal Reserve Board may authorize examination by the State authorities to be accepted in the case of State banks and trust companies and may at any time direct the holding of a special examination of State banks or trust companies that are stockholders in any Federal reserve bank. The examiner making the examination of any national bank, or of any other member bank shall have power to make a thorough examination of all the affairs of the bank and in doing so he shall have power to administer oaths and to examine any of the officers and agents thereof under oath and shall make a full and detailed report of the condition of said bank to the Comptroller of the Currency.

193. Use of the Title "National."—(§ 5243.) All banks not organized and transacting business under the national currency laws, or under this title, and all persons or corporations doing the business of bankers, brokers, or savings institutions, except savings banks authorized by Congress to use the word "national" as a part of their corporate name, are prohibited from using the word "national" as a portion of

The term “board” shall be held to mean Federal Reserve Board; the term “district” shall be held to mean federal reserve district; the term “reserve bank” shall be held to mean federal reserve bank.

FEDERAL RESERVE DISTRICTS.

§ 2. Federal Reserve Cities and Districts.—As soon as practicable, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Agriculture and the Comptroller of the Currency, acting as “The Reserve Bank Organization Committee,” shall designate not less than eight nor more than twelve cities to be known as federal reserve cities, and shall divide the continental United States, excluding Alaska, into districts, each district to contain only one of such federal reserve cities. The determination of said organization committee shall not be subject to review except by the Federal Reserve Board when organized: Provided, That the districts shall be apportioned with due regard to the convenience and customary course of business and shall not necessarily be coterminous with any State or States. The districts thus created may be readjusted and new districts may from time to time be created by the Federal Reserve Board, not to exceed twelve in all. Such districts shall be known as federal reserve districts and may be designated by number. A majority of the organization committee shall constitute a quorum with authority to act.

Organization Committee.—Said organization committee shall be authorized to employ counsel and expert aid, to take testimony, to send for persons and papers, to administer oaths, and to make investigation as may be deemed necessary by the said committee in determining the reserve districts and in designating the cities within such districts where such federal reserve banks shall be severally located.

Federal Reserve Bank.—The said committee shall supervise the organization in each of the cities designated of a federal reserve bank, which shall include in its title the name of the city in which it is situated, as “Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.”

When the organization committee shall have designated the cities in which federal reserve banks are to be organized, and fixed the geographical limits of the federal reserve districts, every national banking association within that district shall be required within thirty days after notice from the organization committee, to subscribe to the capital stock of such federal reserve bank in a sum equal to six per centum of the paid-up capital stock and surplus of such bank, one-sixth of the subscription to be payable on call of the organization committee or of the Federal Reserve Board, one-sixth within three months and one-sixth within six months thereafter, and the remainder of the subscription, or any part thereof, shall be subject to call when deemed necessary by the Federal Reserve Board, said payments to be in gold or gold certificates.

Bank Failing to Signify Acceptance.—Any national bank failing to signify its acceptance of the terms of this act within the sixty days aforesaid, shall cease to act as a reserve agent, upon thirty days' notice, to be given within the discretion of the said organization committee or of the Federal Reserve Board.

Any noncompliance with or violation of this act shall, however, be determined and adjudged by any court of the United States of competent jurisdiction in a suit brought for that purpose in the district or territory in which such bank is located, under direction of the Federal Reserve Board, by the Comptroller of the Currency in his own name before the association shall be declared dissolved. In cases of such noncompliance or violation, other than the failure to become a member bank under the provisions of this act, every director who participated in or assented to the same shall be held liable in his personal or individual capacity for all damages which said bank, its shareholders, or any other person shall have sustained in consequence of such violation.

Dissolution shall not Impair Remedy.—Such dissolution shall not take away or impair any remedy against such corporation, its stockholders or officers, for any liability or penalty which shall have been previously incurred.

Public Subscription.—Should the subscriptions by banks to the stock of said federal reserve banks or any one or more of them be, in the judgment of the organization committee, insufficient to provide the amount of capital required therefor, then and in that event the said organization committee may, under conditions and regulations to be prescribed by it, offer to public subscription at par such an amount of stock in said federal reserve banks, or any one or more of them, as said committee shall determine, subject to the same conditions as to payment and stock liability as provided for member banks.

Public Stock.—No individual, copartnership, or corporation other than a member bank of its district shall be permitted to subscribe for or to hold at any time more than $25,000 par value of stock in any federal reserve bank. Such stock shall be known as public stock and may be transferred on the books of the federal reserve bank by the chairman of the board of directors of such bank.

Said United States stock shall be paid for at par out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, and shall be held by the Secretary of the Treasury and disposed of for the benefit of the United States in such manner, at such times, and at such price, not less than par, as the Secretary of the Treasury shall determine.

Rules and Regulations.—The Federal Reserve Board is hereby empowered to adopt and promulgate rules and regulations governing the transfers of said stock.

Subscribed Capital.—No federal reserve bank shall commence business with a subscribed capital less than $4,000,000. The organization of reserve districts and federal reserve cities shall not be construed as changing the present status of reserve cities and central reserve cities, except in so far as this act changes the amount of reserves that may be carried with approved reserve agents located therein. The organization committee shall have power to appoint such assistants and incur such expenses in carrying out the provisions of this act as it shall deem necessary, and such expenses shall be payable by the Treasurer of the United States upon voucher approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, and the sum of $100,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated, out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the payment of such expenses.

§ 6. If Member Bank Insolvent.—If any member bank shall be declared insolvent and a receiver appointed therefor, the stock held by it in said federal reserve bank shall be canceled, without impairment of its liability, and all cash-paid subscriptions on said stock, with one-half of one per centum per month from the period of last dividend, not to exceed the book value thereof, shall be first applied to all debts of the insolvent member bank of the federal reserve bank, and the balance, if any, shall be paid to the receiver of the insolvent bank.

§ 7. Annual Dividend.—After all necessary expenses of a federal reserve bank have been paid or provided for, the stockholders shall be entitled to receive an annual dividend of six per centum on the paid-in capital stock, which dividend shall be cumulative.

Franchise Tax.—After the aforesaid dividend claims have been fully met, all the net earnings shall be paid to the United States as a franchise tax, except that one-half of such net earnings shall be paid into a surplus fund until it shall amount to forty per centum of the paid-in capital stock of such bank.

Net Earnings Derived by the United States.—The net earnings derived by the United States from federal reserve banks shall, in the discretion of the Secretary, be used to supplement the gold reserve held against outstanding United States notes, or shall be applied to the reduction of the outstanding bonded indebtedness of the United States under regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Should a federal reserve bank be dissolved or go into liquidation, any surplus remaining, after the payment of all debts, dividend requirements as hereinbefore provided, and the par value of the stock, shall be paid to and become the property of the United States and shall be similarly applied.

The shares of any such bank may continue to be for the same amount each as they were before the conversion, and the directors may continue to be directors of the association until others are elected or appointed in accordance with the provisions of the statutes of the United States. When the Comptroller has given to such bank or banking association a certificate that the provisions of this act have been complied with, such bank or banking association, and all its stockholders, officers, and employees, shall have the same powers and privileges, and shall be subject to the same duties, liabilities, and regulations, in all respects, as shall have been prescribed by the Federal Reserve Act and by the national banking act for associations originally organized as national banking associations.

with the provisions of this section or the regulations of the Federal Reserve Board, it shall be within the power of the said board, after hearing, to require such bank to surrender its stock in the federal reserve bank; upon such surrender the federal reserve bank shall pay the cash-paid subscriptions to the said stock with interest at the rate of one-half of one per centum per month, computed from the last dividend, if earned, not to exceed the book value thereof, less any liability to said federal reserve bank, except the subscription liability not previously called, which shall be canceled, and said federal reserve bank shall, upon notice from the Federal Reserve Board, be required to suspend said bank from further privileges of membership, and shall within thirty days of such notice cancel and retire its stock and make payment therefor in the manner herein provided. Deposit from Member Banks or Federal Reserve Banks.—Every federal reserve bank shall receive on deposit at par from member banks or from federal reserve banks checks and drafts drawn upon any of its depositors, and when remitted by a federal reserve bank, checks and drafts drawn by any depositor in any other federal reserve bank or member bank upon funds to the credit of said depositor in said reserve bank or member bank.

Charges.—Nothing herein contained shall be construed as prohibiting a member bank from charging its actual expense incurred in collecting and remitting funds, or for exchange sold to its patrons. The Federal Reserve Board shall, by rule, fix the charges to be collected by the member banks from its patrons whose checks are cleared through the federal reserve bank and the charge which may be imposed for the service of clearing or collection rendered by the federal reserve bank.

Bank to Receive Notes Equal to Par of Bonds Deposited.—Upon the deposit with the Treasurer of the United States of bonds so purchased, or any bonds with the circulating privilege acquired under section four of this act, any federal reserve bank making such deposit in the manner provided by existing law, shall be entitled to receive from the Comptroller of the Currency circulating notes in blank, registered and countersigned as provided by law, equal in amount to the par value of the bonds so deposited. Such notes shall be the obligations of the federal reserve bank procuring the same, and shall be in form prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, and to the same tenor and effect as national bank notes now provided by law. They shall be issued and redeemed under the same terms and conditions as national bank notes except that they shall not be limited to the amount of the capital stock of the federal reserve bank issuing them.

One Year Gold Notes and Thirty Year Three per Centum Gold Bonds.—Upon application of any federal reserve bank, approved by the Federal Reserve Board, the Secretary of the Treasury may issue, in exchange for United States two per centum gold bonds bearing the circulation privilege, but against which no circulation is outstanding, one year gold notes of the United States without the circulation privilege, to an amount not to exceed one-half of the two per centum bonds so tendered for exchange, and thirty year three per centum gold bonds without the circulation privilege for the remainder of the two per centum bonds so tendered: Provided, That at the time of such exchange the federal reserve bank obtaining such one year gold notes shall enter into an obligation with the Secretary of the Treasury binding itself to purchase from the United States for gold at the maturity of such one year notes, an amount equal to those delivered in exchange for such bonds, if so requested by the Secretary, and at each maturity of one year notes so purchased by such federal reserve bank, to purchase from the United States such an amount of one year notes as the Secretary may tender to such bank, not to exceed the amount issued to such bank in the first instance, in exchange for the two per centum United States gold bonds; said obligation to purchase at maturity such notes shall continue in force for a period not to exceed thirty years.

Treasury Notes—Form.—For the purpose of making the exchange herein provided for, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to issue at par Treasury notes in coupon or registered form as he may prescribe in denominations of $100, or any multiple thereof, bearing interest at the rate of three per centum per annum, payable quarterly, such Treasury notes to be payable not more than one year from the date of their issue in gold coin of the present standard value, and to be exempt as to principal and interest from the payment of all taxes and duties of the United States except as provided by this act, as well as from taxes in any form by or under State, municipal, or local authorities.

United States Bonds—Tenor and Effect.—And for the same purpose, the Secretary is authorized and empowered to issue United States gold bonds at par, bearing three per centum interest payable thirty years from date of issue, such bonds to be of the same general tenor and effect and to be issued under the same general terms and conditions as the United States three per centum bonds without the circulation privilege now issued and outstanding.

Bonds in Exchange for One Year Gold Notes.—Upon application of any federal reserve bank, approved by the Federal Reserve Board, the Secretary may issue at par such three per centum bonds in exchange for the one year gold notes herein provided for.

BANK RESERVES.

§ 19. Demand Deposits.—Demand deposits within the meaning of this act shall comprise all deposits payable within thirty days, and time deposits shall comprise all deposits payable after thirty days, and all savings accounts and certificates of deposit which are subject to not less than thirty days' notice before payment.

Reserves.—When the Secretary of the Treasury shall have officially announced, in such manner as he may elect, the establishment of a federal reserve bank in any district, every subscribing member bank shall establish and maintain reserves as follows:

Bank not in a Reserve or Central Reserve City.—(a) A bank not in a reserve or central reserve city as now or hereafter defined shall hold and maintain reserves equal to twelve per centum of the aggregate amount of its demand deposits and five per centum of its time deposits, as follows:

In its vaults for a period of thirty-six months after said date five-twelfths thereof and permanently thereafter four-twelfths.

In the federal reserve bank of its district, for a period of twelve months after said date, two-twelfths, and for each succeeding six months an additional one-twelfth, until five-twelfths have been so deposited, which shall be the amount permanently required.

For a period of thirty-six months after said date the balance of the reserves may be held in its own vaults, or in the federal reserve bank, or in national banks in reserve or central reserve cities as now defined by law.

After said thirty-six months' period said reserves, other than those hereinbefore required to be held in the vaults of the member bank and in the federal reserve bank, shall be held in the vaults of the member bank or in the federal reserve bank, or in both, at the option of the member bank.

Bank in a Reserve City.—(b) A bank in a reserve city, as now or hereafter defined, shall hold and maintain reserves equal to fifteen per centum of the aggregate amount of its demand deposits and five per centum of its time deposits, as follows:

In its vaults for a period of thirty-six months after said date six-fifteenths thereof, and permanently thereafter five-fifteenths.

In the federal reserve bank of its district for a period of twelve months after the date aforesaid at least three-fifteenths, and for each succeeding six months an additional one-fifteenth, until six-fifteenths have been so deposited, which shall be the amount permanently required.

For a period of thirty-six months after said date the balance of the reserves may be held in its own vaults, or in the federal reserve bank, or in national banks in reserve or central reserve cities as now defined by law.

After said thirty-six months' period all of said reserves, except those hereinbefore required to be held permanently in the vaults of the member bank and in the federal reserve bank, shall be held in its vaults or in the federal reserve bank, or in both, at the option of the member bank.

Bank in a Central Reserve City.—(c) A bank in a central reserve city, as now or hereafter defined, shall hold and maintain a reserve equal to eighteen per centum of the aggregate amount of its demand deposits and five per centum of its time deposits, as follows:

In its vaults six-eighteenths thereof.

In the federal reserve bank seven-eighteenths.

The balance of said reserves shall be held in its own vaults or in the federal reserve bank, at its option.

Federal Reserve Bank may Receive as Reserves Eligible Paper.—Any federal reserve bank may receive from the member banks as reserves, not exceeding one-half of each installment, eligible paper as described in section 14 properly indorsed and acceptable to the said reserve bank.

Reserve Deposits Kept in State Bank.—If a State bank or trust company is required by the law of its State to keep its reserves either in its own vaults or with another State bank or trust company, such reserve deposits so kept in such State bank or trust company shall be construed, within the meaning of this section, as if they were reserve deposits in a national bank in a reserve or central reserve city for a period of three years after the Secretary of the Treasury shall have officially announced the establishment of a federal reserve bank in the district in which such State bank or trust company is situate.

Deposit With Nonmember Bank.—Except as thus provided, no member bank shall keep on deposit with any nonmember bank a sum in excess of ten per centum of its own paid-up capital and surplus. No member bank shall act as the medium or agent of a nonmember bank in applying for or receiving discounts from a federal reserve bank under the provisions of this act except by permission of the Federal Reserve Board.

Reserve may be Checked Against.—The reserve carried by a member bank with a federal reserve bank may, under the regulations and subject to such penalties as may be prescribed by the Federal Reserve Board, be checked against and withdrawn by such member bank for the purpose of meeting existing liabilities.

No New Loans Until Reserve Restored.—Provided, however, That no bank shall at any time make new loans or shall pay any dividends unless and until the total reserve required by law is fully restored.

Estimating Reserves.—In estimating the reserves required by this act, the net balance of amounts due to and from other banks shall be taken as the basis for ascertaining the deposits against which reserves shall be determined. Balances in reserve banks due to member banks shall, to the extent herein provided, be counted as reserves.

Banks in Alaska or Outside Continental United States.—National banks located in Alaska or outside the continental United States may remain nonmember banks, and shall in that event maintain reserves and comply with all the conditions now provided by law regulating them; or said banks, except in the Philippine Islands, may, with the consent of the reserve board, become member banks of any one of the reserve districts, and shall, in that event, take stock, maintain reserves, and be subject to all the other provisions of this act.

§ 20. Act of June 20, 1874, Repealed in Part.—So much of sections 2 and 3 of the act of June 20, 1874, entitled "An act fixing the amount of United States notes, providing for a redistribution of the national bank currency, and for other purposes," as provides that the fund deposited by any national banking association with the Treasurer of the United States for the redemption of its notes shall be counted as a part of its lawful reserve as provided in the act aforesaid, is hereby repealed. And from and after the passage of this act such fund of five per centum shall in no case be counted by any national banking association as a part of its lawful reserve.

BANK EXAMINATIONS.

§ 21. Examiners.—Section 5240, United States Revised Statutes, is amended to read as follows:

The Comptroller of the Currency, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall appoint examiners who shall examine every member bank at least twice in each calendar year and oftener if considered necessary.

Examination by State Authorities.—Provided, however, That the Federal Reserve Board may authorize examination by the State authorities to be accepted in the case of State Banks and trust companies and may at any time direct the holding of a special examination of State banks or trust companies that are stockholders in any federal reserve bank.

Powers and Duties of Examiners.—The examiner making the examination of any national bank, or of any other member bank, shall have power to make a thorough examination of all the affairs of the bank, and in doing so he shall have power to administer oaths and to examine any of the officers and agents thereof under oath and shall make a full and detailed report of the condition of said bank to the Comptroller of the Currency.

Salaries of Bank Examiners.—The Federal Reserve Board, upon the recommendation of the Comptroller of the Currency, shall fix the salaries of all bank examiners and make report thereof to Congress.

Expense of Examinations.—The expense of the examinations herein provided for shall be assessed by the Comptroller of the Currency upon the banks examined in proportion to assets or resources held by the banks upon the dates of examination of the various banks.

Special Examination.—In addition to the examinations made and conducted by the Comptroller of the Currency, every federal reserve bank may, with the approval of the federal reserve agent or the Federal Reserve Board, provide for special examination of member banks within its district. The expense of such examinations shall be borne by the bank examined. Such examinations shall be so conducted as to inform the federal reserve bank of the condition of its member banks and of the lines of credit which are being extended by them. Every federal reserve bank shall at all times furnish to the Federal Reserve Board such information as may be demanded concerning the condition of any member bank within the district of the said federal reserve bank.

No Bank Subject to Visitatorial Powers.—No bank shall be subject to any visitatorial powers other than such as are authorized by law, or vested in the courts of justice or such as shall be or shall have been exercised or directed by Congress, or by either House thereof or by any committee of Congress or of either House duly authorized.

Examination of Federal Reserve Bank.—The Federal Reserve Board shall, at least once each year, order an examination of each federal reserve bank, and upon joint application of ten member banks the Federal Reserve Board shall order a special examination and report of the condition of any federal reserve bank.

§ 22. Loan or Gratuity to Bank Examiner.—No member bank or any officer, director, or employee thereof shall hereafter make any loan or grant any gratuity to any bank examiner. Any bank officer, director, or employee violating this provision shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year or fined not more than $5,000, or both; and may be fined a further sum equal to the money so loaned or gratuity given. Any examiner accepting a loan or gratuity from any bank examined by him or from an officer, director, or employee thereof shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year or fined not more than $5,000, or both; and may be fined a further sum equal to the money so loaned or gratuity given; and shall forever thereafter be disqualified from holding office as a national bank examiner.

No Examiner shall Perform Other Service for Compensation.—No national bank examiner shall perform any other service for compensation while holding such office for any bank or officer, director, or employee thereof.

Fee, Commission, Gift, in Connection With Transaction of Bank.—Other than the usual salary or director's fee paid to any officer, director, or employee of a member bank and other than a reasonable fee paid by said bank to such officer, director, or employee for services rendered to such bank, no officer, director, employee, or attorney of a member bank shall be a beneficiary of or receive, directly or indirectly, any fee, commission, gift, or other consideration for or in connection with any transaction or business of the bank.

No examiner, public or private, shall disclose the names of borrowers or the collateral for loans of a member bank to other than the proper officers of such bank without first having obtained the express permission in writing from the Comptroller of the Currency, or from the board of directors of such bank, except when ordered to do so by a court of competent jurisdiction, or by direction of the Congress of the United States, or of either House thereof, or any committee of Congress or of either House duly authorized. Any person violating any provision of this section shall be punished by a fine of not exceeding $5,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both.

Except as provided in existing laws, this provision shall not take effect until sixty days after the passage of this act.

§ 23. Stockholders' Liability.—The stockholders of every national banking association shall be held individually responsible for all contracts, debts, and engagements of such association, each to the amount of his stock therein, at the par value thereof in addition to the amount invested in such stock. The stockholders in any national banking association who shall have transferred their shares or registered the transfer thereof within sixty days next before the date of the failure of such association to meet its obligations, or with knowledge of such impending failure, shall be liable to the same extent as if they had made no such transfer, to the extent that the subsequent transferee fails to meet such liability; but this provision shall not be construed to affect in any way any recourse which such shareholders might otherwise have against those in whose names such shares are registered at the time of such failure.

LOANS ON FARM LANDS.

§ 24. Conditions.—Any national banking association not situated in a central reserve city may make loans secured by improved and unencumbered farm land, situated within its federal reserve district, but no such loan shall be made for a longer time than five years, nor for an amount exceeding fifty per centum of the actual value of the property offered as security. Any such bank may make such loans in an aggregate sum equal to twenty-five per centum of its capital and surplus or to one-third of its time deposits and such banks may continue hereafter as heretofore to receive time deposits and to pay interest on the same.

Board may Add to List of Cities in Which Banks not Permitted to Make Farm Loans.—The Federal Reserve Board shall have power from time to time to add to the list of cities in which national banks shall not be permitted to make loans secured upon real estate in the manner described in this section.

§ 25. Application to Establish Branches in Foreign Countries.—Any national banking association possessing a capital and surplus of

$1,000,000 or more may file application with the Federal Reserve Board, upon such conditions and under such regulations as may be prescribed by the said board, for the purpose of securing authority to establish branches in foreign countries or dependencies of the United States for the furtherance of the foreign commerce of the United States, and to act, if required to do so, as fiscal agents of the United States. Such application shall specify, in addition to the name and capital of the banking association filing it, the place or places where the banking operations proposed are to be carried on, and the amount of capital set aside for the conduct of its foreign business. The Federal Reserve Board shall have power to approve or to reject such application if, in its judgment, the amount of capital proposed to be set aside for the conduct of foreign business is inadequate, or if for other reasons the granting of such application is deemed inexpedient.

Information Concerning the Condition of Branches.—Every national banking association which shall receive authority to establish foreign branches shall be required at all times to furnish information concerning the condition of such branches to the Comptroller of the Currency upon demand, and the Federal Reserve Board may order special examinations of the said foreign branches at such time or times as it may deem best.

Accounts of Foreign Branch.—Every such national banking association shall conduct the accounts of each foreign branch independently of the accounts of other foreign branches established by it and of its home office, and shall at the end of each fiscal period transfer to its general ledger the profit or loss accruing at each branch as a separate item.

§ 26. Parity Provision.—All provisions of law inconsistent with or superseded by any of the provisions of this act are to that extent and to that extent only hereby repealed: Provided, Nothing in this act contained shall be construed to repeal the parity provision or provisions contained in an act approved March 14, 1900 entitled "An act to define and fix the standard of value, to maintain the parity of all forms of money issued or coined by the United States, to refund the public debt, and for other purposes," and the Secretary of the Treasury may for the purpose of maintaining such parity and to strengthen the gold reserve, borrow gold on the security of United States bonds authorized by section 2 of the act last referred to or for one-year gold notes bearing interest at a rate of not to exceed three per centum per annum, or sell the same if necessary to obtain gold. When the funds of the Treasury on hand justify, he may purchase and retire such outstanding bonds and notes.

§ 27. National Currency Associations, Additional National Bank Circulation, and National Monetary Commission.—The provisions of the act of May 30, 1908, authorizing national currency associations, the issue of additional national bank circulation, and creating a National Monetary Commission, which expires by limitation under the terms of such act on the 30th day of June 1914, are hereby extended to June 30, 1915, and sections 5153, 5172, 5191, and 5214, of the Revised Statutes of the United States, which were amended by the act of May 30, 1908, are hereby re-enacted to read as such sections read prior to May 30, 1908, subject to such amendments or modifications as are prescribed in this act:

Tax Rates.—Provided, however, That section 9 of the act first referred to in this section is hereby amended so as to change the tax rates fixed in said act by making the portion applicable thereto read as follows:

National banking associations having circulating notes secured otherwise than by bonds of the United States, shall pay for the first three months a tax at the rate of three per centum per annum upon the average amount of such of their notes in circulation as are based upon the deposit of such securities, and afterward an additional tax rate of one-half of one per centum per annum for each month until a tax of six per centum per annum is reached, and thereafter such tax of six per centum per annum upon the average amount of such notes.

§ 28. Reduction of Capital Stock.—Section 5143 of the Revised Statutes is hereby amended and re-enacted to read as follows: Any association formed under this title may, by the vote of shareholders owning two-thirds of its capital stock, reduce its capital to any sum not below the amount required by this title to authorize the formation of associations; but no such reduction shall be allowable which will reduce the capital of the association below the amount required for its outstanding circulation, nor shall any reduction be made until the amount of the proposed reduction has been reported to the Comptroller of the Currency and such reduction has been approved by the said Comptroller of the Currency and by the Federal Reserve Board, or by the organization committee pending the organization of the Federal Reserve Board.

§ 29. If Part of Act Adjudged Invalid.—If any clause, sentence, paragraph, or part of this act shall for any reason be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, such judgment shall not affect, impair, or invalidate the remainder of this act, but shall be confined in its operation to the clause, sentence, paragraph, or part thereof directly involved in the controversy in which such judgment shall have been rendered.

§ 30. Right to Amend, Alter, or Repeal.—The right to amend, alter, or repeal this act is hereby expressly reserved.

Approved, December 23, 1913.

(Article XX, section 16. Adopted October 10, 1911.)

CIVIL SERVICE ACT.

[Approved June 16, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913.]

§ 1. "Commission."—First. The term "commission" as used in this act means the "state civil service commission" herein created, and the term "commissioner" as used in this act means one of the three members of that commission, all unless such terms are plainly used with some other meaning.

"Position."—Second. The terms "position" and "positions" as used in this act include all offices and employments under State authority, whether there be any salary or other compensation or emolument connected therewith, except offices held by elective officers as such and also except the militia and all offices and employments as now or hereafter provided by virtue of or under article 8 of the constitution of the State, and except county and township offices and employments.

"Appointing Power."—Third. The term "appointing power" as used in this act includes all persons whether acting singly or in conjunction with others in any way whatsoever, either by nomination or confirmation or as a board or commission or otherwise, in selecting anyone to hold any position as that term is so used in this act.

"Appointment."—Fourth. The term "appointment" as used in this act includes all means of selecting and employing anyone to hold any position as that term is so used in this act.

§ 2. Civil Service Commission Created.—There is hereby created a commission known as the "State civil service commission" which shall consist of three commissioners but which may continue to act after being fully constituted if there is not more than one vacancy in such commission. The commission shall be first constituted by three commissioners appointed for terms ending July 1, 1914, July 1, 1916, and July 1, 1917, respectively, and the succeeding terms shall each be for a period of four years. The governor shall appoint all commissioners including those who fill unexpired terms. Any commissioner may be removed by concurrent resolution of both houses of the legislature adopted by a two-thirds vote of each house.

Salary.—The commissioners shall each receive a salary of three thousand dollars per annum, which shall be paid at the same time and in the same manner as the salaries of State officers are paid, and the commissioners shall also be paid necessary traveling expenses incurred in the performance of their duties. The total and items of all expenditures and obligations made, authorized and incurred by the commission shall not exceed the sums appropriated therefor by law.

§ 3. Employees.—The commission shall employ a chief examiner and secretary, which offices may be combined, and such other employees as it may deem necessary or proper to carry out the purposes of this act. Their compensation shall be fixed by the commission, and they may be paid necessary traveling expenses incurred in the discharge of their duties. The duties of the chief examiner, secretary and other employees shall be prescribed by the commission, subject to the provisions of this act. It shall be the duty of the secretary to keep the minutes of the meetings of the commission and perform such other services as may be assigned him by the commission. The commission may select suitable persons to assist in examinations under its direction. The compensation of such assistants shall not exceed five dollars per day, except in the case of special and expert examiners employed in the preparation of questions and rating of candidates; and when the persons so selected are in the official service of the State it shall be deemed a part of their official duty to serve as such assistants without additional compensation.

§ 4. Headquarters.—The commission is authorized to secure in the city of Sacramento suitable and convenient rooms and accommodations and cause the same to be furnished, heated and lighted, for carrying on the work of the commission and the commission may order the necessary stationery, postage stamps, and official seal and other articles to be supplied and the necessary printing to be done for its official use.

§ 5. Duties.—The commission shall:

Classify and Grade Positions.—First. Classify positions to be held under State authority in accordance with the provisions of this act and in accordance with the duties attached to such positions. The commission shall grade all positions within each class with respect to salaries, to the end that like salaries shall be paid for like duties. Such classes and grades may from time to time be amended, added to, consolidated or abolished by the commission, but persons holding positions under the original classification or grade shall not be affected thereby.

Hold Examinations.—Second. Hold examinations to determine the merit, efficiency and fitness of applicants, for positions, and prepare properly classified eligible lists from applicants so examined. All questions for examinations shall be prepared under the supervision of the commission or chief examiner and delivered to the examining board or to the candidates by one of the commissioners or chief examiner or by an examiner specially designated to perform such service.

Enforce Act.—Third. Enforce the provisions of this act and prescribe, and enforce suitable rules and regulations for carrying the same into effect and from time to time amend and repeal the same.

Minutes.—Fourth. Keep minutes of its own proceedings, and records of its examinations and other official actions.

Efficiency Records.—Fifth. Records of individual efficiency of holders of positions in performing their duties shall be established in all offices and places of employment affected by this act. Such records shall be made by the appointing power, unless otherwise directed by the commission, and under and in accordance with such rules and regulations as the commission may prescribe, and a copy of such records shall be filed with the commission. The commission shall investigate all such efficiency records and may make its own records, and shall rate upon such records the item of "ascertained merit" in examinations for promotion. The commission shall establish and enforce rules and regulations under which records of unsatisfactory service may lead to reduction in grade and compensation of the person holding the position concerned, and shall further provide for the manner in which persons falling below the standards of efficiency fixed by its rules and regulations may be removed from their positions by the commission proceeding substantially as provided in this act and with the same effect as in case of removals by the appointing power.

Make Investigations.—Sixth. Make investigations concerning and report upon all matters touching the enforcement and effect of the provisions of this act and the rules and regulations prescribed thereunder; inspect all State institutions, offices, places of employment and services affected by this act, and ascertain whether this act and all such rules and regulations are obeyed. Such investigation may be made by any commissioner, or chief examiner, or by any other authorized agent of the commission. In the course of such investigation any commissioner, or chief examiner or such other authorized agent of the commission, or the secretary of the commission, shall have power to administer oaths, subpoena and require the attendance in this State of witnesses and the production thereby of books, papers, documents and accounts appertaining to the investigation but not requiring the attendance of witnesses either with or without books, papers, documents or accounts unless residing within the same county or within thirty miles of the place of attendance.

Rules Governing Hearings.—Seventh. All hearings and investigations before the commission, or any commissioner, or the chief examiner or such other authorized agent of the commission shall be governed by this act and by rules of practice and procedure to be adopted by the commission, and in the conduct thereof neither the commission, nor any commissioner, nor the chief examiner nor such other authorized agent of the commission shall be bound by the technical rules of evidence. No informality in any proceeding or in the manner of taking testimony before the commission or any commissioner, or the chief examiner or such other authorized agent of the commission shall invalidate any order, decision, rule or regulation made, approved or confirmed by the commission.

Superior Court may Compel Witnesses to Attend.—The superior court in and for the county, or city and county, in which any inquiry, investigation, hearing or proceeding may be held by the commission, or any commissioner, or the chief examiner or such other authorized agent of the commission shall have the power to compel the attendance of witnesses, the giving of testimony and the production of books, papers, documents and accounts, as required by any subpoena issued by the commission, or any commissioner, or such other authorized agent of the commission or the secretary. The commission, or the commissioner, or the chief examiner or such other authorized agent of the commission before whom the testimony is to be given or produced, in case of the refusal of any witness to attend or testify or produce any papers required by such subpoena, may report to the superior court in and for the county, or city and county, in which the proceeding is pending, by petition, setting forth that due notice has been given of the time and place of attendance of said witness, or the production of such books, papers, documents or accounts, and that the witness has been summoned in the manner prescribed in this act, and that the witness has failed and refused to attend or produce such books or papers or documents or accounts required by the subpoena, before the commission, or the commissioner, or the chief examiner, or such other authorized agent of the commission, in the matter named in the notice and subpoena, or has refused to answer questions propounded to him in the course of such proceeding, and ask an order of said court, compelling the witness to attend and testify or produce such books or papers or documents or accounts before the commission, or any commissioner, or the chief examiner or such other authorized agent of the commission. The court, upon the petition of the commission, or any commissioner, or the chief examiner or such other authorized agent of the commission, shall enter an order directing the witness to appear before the court at a time and place to be fixed by the court in such order, the time to be not more than ten days from the date of the order, and then and there show cause why he has not attended and testified or produced said papers before the commission, or such commissioner, or the chief examiner or such other authorized agent of the commission.

Order Directing Witness to Appear.—A copy of said order shall be served upon said witness. If it shall appear to the court that said subpoena was regularly issued by the commission, or any commissioner, or the chief examiner or other authorized agent of the commission or the secretary, the court shall thereupon enter an order that said witness appear before the commission, or such commissioner, or the chief examiner or any other authorized agent of the commission at the time and place fixed in said order, and testify or produce the required books, papers, documents, and accounts, and upon failure to obey said order, said witness shall be dealt with as for contempt of court. The remedy provided in this section is cumulative, and shall not be construed to impair or interfere with the power of the commission, or a commissioner, or the chief examiner, or any such other authorized agent of the commission to enforce the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, papers, documents and accounts.

Depositions.—The commission, or any commissioner, or the chief examiner or such other authorized agent of the commission may, in any investigation or hearing before the commission, or any commissioner, or the chief examiner or such other authorized agent of the commission, cause the deposition of witnesses residing within or without the State to be taken in the manner prescribed by law for like depositions in civil actions in the superior courts of this State and to that end may compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, papers, documents and accounts.

Witness not Excused from Testifying.—No person shall be excused from testifying or from producing any book, paper, document or account in any investigation or inquiry by or hearing before the commission, or any commissioner, or the chief examiner or such other authorized agent of the commission, when ordered to do so, upon the ground that the testimony or evidence, book, paper, document or account required of him may tend to incriminate him or subject him to penalty or forfeiture, but no person shall be prosecuted, punished or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any act, transaction, matter or thing concerning which he shall, under oath, have testified or produced documentary evidence; provided, that no person so testifying shall be exempt from prosecution or punishment for any perjury committed by him in his testimony. Nothing herein contained shall be construed as in any manner giving to any person immunity of any kind otherwise than herein expressly provided.

Biennial Report.—Eighth. Make a biennial report to the governor for transmission to the legislature, showing the action of the commission, including all the rules and regulations adopted by it during such period and those that are in force at the time of making such report, information as to exempted positions as required by this act and the effects of this act and of all proceedings under it and any suggestions the commission or any commissioner may deem practical for the more effectual accomplishment of the purposes of this act.

Meetings.—Ninth. Meet at Sacramento as often as the needs of the public service may require, and at such other places as the commission may designate. A majority of the members of the commission shall constitute a quorum.

§ 6. Duty of State Officers to Aid in Carrying Act into Effect.—It shall be the duty of all persons subject to the authority of the State in that behalf (including all State officers and employees and all State institutions of every kind and character) to aid in all proper ways in carrying into effect the provisions of this act and the rules and regulations prescribed from time to time thereunder and especially, at the request of the commission, to allow the commission the reasonable use of public buildings and to heat and light the same for the purposes of making examinations of applicants and investigations as provided by this act. Everyone subject to the authority of the State in that behalf shall afford to the commission and its members and employees all reasonable facilities and give inspection of all books, papers, documents and accounts applying or in any way appertaining to any and all offices subject to the authority of the State in that behalf, and shall also produce said books, papers, documents and accounts, and shall attend and testify when required to do so by the commission or any commissioner, or the chief examiner, or the secretary or any other authorized agent of the commission. The attorney general shall advise and assist the commission and the district attorneys of the counties shall prosecute violations of this act. The commission may employ special counsel.

§ 7. Appointments to be Under Act.—The appointing power in all cases not excepted or exempted under the provisions of this act, or by virtue of the provisions of the constitution of the State, shall fill positions by appointment, including cases of transfers, reinstatements, promotions and reductions, in strict accordance with the provisions of this act and the rules and regulations prescribed from time to time hereunder, and not otherwise.

Positions Excepted.—Except only and to the extent that the appointing power otherwise requests as hereinafter provided, the positions held in the following specified classes are excepted from such method of appointment:

First—Appointees of the legislature and one person holding a position having a confidential relation, whether as secretary or clerk or stenographer to each such appointee.

Second—Appointees of the governor and one person holding a position having a confidential relation whether as secretary or clerk or stenographer to each such appointee.

Tenth—Persons engaged in work done by co-operation between the State and federal governments.

Eleventh—The State librarian, the chief deputy or assistant State librarian and also one person holding a position having a confidential relation to the State librarian, and appointees under provisions for court, law, teachers, school and county libraries.

Twelfth—The secretary, chief accountant and children's agents of the State board of control.

Thirteenth—The employees of the State railroad commission.

Fourteenth—Superintendents, chiefs, and heads of departments.

All provided that at any time any vacancy in any position in any of the above specified fourteen excepted classes may be filled by the appointing power in the manner provided by this act, in which case the person appointed shall hold, during the tenure of office of said appointing power, such position under the tenure of good behavior and subject to the provisions of this act as if that position had not been so excepted, but upon such appointee ceasing to hold such position that position shall be open as in such excepted class. Upon such appointee ceasing to hold such office by reason of the termination of the tenure of office of said appointing power, said appointee shall be restored to place upon the eligible lists in accordance with such rules and regulations as the commission may prescribe in that behalf.

Declaring Positions Exempt.—Any position subject to the provisions of this act may be declared exempted by resolution passed by concurrence of the three commissioners. Such resolution shall state separately the reasons for each exemption. Not more than one appointment shall be made to or under any position, covered by such resolution unless permission to appoint a different number is given therein. Any exception thus made may be terminated at any time by resolution of the commission. Appointments to exempted positions shall be reported immediately to the commission. The names of each exempted position and the names of the incumbent and the reason for each exemption shall be stated in the biennial reports of the commission.

§ 8. Rules for Classification of Positions.—Within three months after the commission is constituted, it shall make rules for the classification of positions to be held under State authority to be provided by this act, and, subject to the provisions of this act; such rules shall govern appointments, transfers, reinstatements, promotions, reductions and removals, and examination of applicants, and the commission may amend such rules from time to time. Such rules shall be printed for public distribution.

§ 9. Method of Making Appointments.—Subject to the special provisions in this act as to laborers, appointments shall be made to all positions that are not filled by promotion, reinstatement, transfer or reduction, under the provisions of this act and the rules in pursuance thereof, by the appointing power: Said appointing power shall notify the commission of any vacancy to be filled, stating the duties of the position. The commission shall then certify to the appointing power the names and addresses of the three persons standing highest on the eligible list for the class or grade to which the position belongs; but in case there be less than three on such eligible list, the commission shall certify the number thereon; and the appointing power shall fill the position by the appointment of one of the persons certified by the commission therefor. The term of eligibility shall be fixed for each eligible list at not less than one year. Appointments shall be made from the eligible list most nearly appropriate for the position to be filled, and a new list shall be created for a stated position or a group of positions only when there is no appropriate list existing from which appointment may be made. No person shall be appointed under any title not appropriate to the duties to be performed, and no person shall be assigned to perform the duties of any other position than that which he legally holds, except by consent of the commission.

Appointments for Probationary Period.—All appointments shall be for a probationary period to be fixed by the commission but not to exceed six months. Unless such appointee shall have been dismissed within such probationary period by the appointing power, for reasons stated in writing and filed with the commission, his appointment shall become permanent subject to the provisions of this act as to removals, suspensions and changes. Discharged probationers may by unanimous vote of the commission be restored to the list of eligibles for certification to any position within their class other than the one from which they were rejected.

§ 10. Character of Examinations.—The examinations shall be practical in their character, and shall relate to those matters which will fairly test the relative capacity and fitness of the persons examined to discharge the duties of the positions they seek. Applicants for positions in the mechanical trades and occupations may, in the discretion of the commission, be rated solely on experience and physical qualifications which may be determined by such evidence and in such manner as the commission may direct; and such applicants may be submitted to such further tests as the commission may require.

Preliminary Requirements.—The commission shall prepare lists of preliminary requirements and subjects of examinations for the several positions, and shall publish its rules and regulations and such information and advertise such examinations in such manner as the nature of the examination may require. The commission, except as may be otherwise provided in the case of laborers, shall require an applicant to file in its office, in accordance with its rules and regulations, a reasonable length of time before the date of examination, a formal application filled out in his own handwriting.

Application Blanks.—Blank forms of such applications shall be furnished by said commission without charge to all persons requesting the same. The commission may require in connection with applications, including laborers, such certificates of citizens, physicians, public officers or others having knowledge of the applicant, as the good of the service may require.

May Refuse to Examine.—The commission may refuse to examine, or after examination to certify as eligible, anyone who is found to lack any of the established preliminary requirements for the examination or position for which he applies; or who is physically so disabled as to be rendered unfit to perform the duties of the position to which he seeks appointment, or who is addicted to the habitual use of intoxicating beverages to excess; or who has been guilty of a crime or of infamous or notoriously disgraceful conduct; or who has been dismissed from the public service for delinquency or misconduct; or who has intentionally made a false statement of any material facts, or practiced, or attempted to practice, any deception or fraud in his application, in his examination, or in securing his eligibility. Any person appointed to a position under the provisions of this act who has secured his place on the eligible list through fraud shall be removed by the commission from his position and shall not thereafter be eligible for examination for any position under the provisions of this act except by unanimous permission of the commission.

May Require Bond.—When the position to be filled involves fiduciary responsibility, the appointing power may require the appointee to furnish a reasonable bond or other security, and shall notify the commission of the amount and necessary details thereof.

§ 11. Temporary Appointments.—When there is no eligible list from which a position may be filled, the appointing power may, with the consent of the commission, fill such position by temporary appointment, and such temporary appointment shall not continue for a longer period than three months, nor shall successive temporary appointments be made to the same position under this section without the previous consent of the commission, and in no case shall any person hold a position under such successive temporary appointments for a longer period than six months without the unanimous consent of the commission.

§ 12. Emergency Appointments.—The commission shall establish rules and regulations under which emergency appointments may be made when those on the eligible lists are not immediately available, and for the time for which such emergency appointments shall be valid; and may fix a different time for different counties or cities and counties of the State.

§ 13. Promotions.—Vacancies in positions shall be filled, so far as practicable by promotion from among persons holding positions in a lower grade of the department, office or institution in which the vacancy exists. Promotions shall be based upon merit and competition and upon the superior qualifications of the person promoted as shown by his records of efficiency. For the purposes of this section an increase in the salary or other compensation of any person holding an office or position within the scope of the rules and regulations in force hereunder beyond the limit fixed for the grade in which such office and position is classified, shall be deemed a promotion. The commissions may authorize the transfer of any person legally holding a position to a similar position in the same class or grade, and may provide for the reinstatement within one year of persons separated from positions without fault or delinquency on their part, if within that time there is need for their services. No promotion, transfer or reinstatement shall be made from a position in one class to a position in another class, nor shall a person be transferred to or reinstated in a position for original entrance to which there is required by this act or the rules and regulations thereunder an examination involving essential tests or qualifications different from or higher than those required for original entrance to the position held by such person.

§ 14. Tenure of Office.—The tenure of everyone holding a position under the provisions of this act shall be during good behavior, but any such person may be removed for any of the following causes:

(a) Incompetency, or inefficiency.

(b) Dishonesty, intemperance, immoral conduct, insubordination, discourteous treatment of the public or of fellow employees, a violation of the provisions of this act or of the rules and regulations of the commission or any other failure of good behavior. The appointing power that could fill such positions under the provisions of this act if vacant or the commission may remove, as hereinafter provided, for such cause.

Written Charges—Public Hearing.—The appointing power in so proceeding must furnish to the person holding such position written charges setting forth such ground for removal and file copy with the commission and allow the accused a reasonable time and opportunity to file with the commission and furnish to said appointing power written answer and explanation and thereafter said appointing power shall publicly hear and determine such charges after reasonable notice to the accused and the commission of the time and place of said hearing and affording the accused an opportunity at such hearing to present whatever competent evidence the accused may desire in defense. In case of charges presented by or to the commission, it shall proceed in like manner.

Judgment not Subject to Review.—A judgment of removal, in writing, setting forth the findings of said appointing power after such hearing and filed with the commission, shall be final and effect such removal and shall not be subject to review by any other tribunal, except that in case of proceedings against the same person before both the appointing power and the commission the judgment against the accused by either the appointing power or the commission shall control a judgment by the other in favor of the accused.

Suspension.—Such appointing power may from time to time peremptorily suspend, with loss of salary or other compensation during such suspension, such person for such cause, and without trial, but only upon written charges so furnished to such person and filed with the commission and with the privilege to such person to so furnish to the appointing power and file with the commission written answer and explanation, but such suspension or total suspensions by that appointing power of that person shall not exceed thirty days. Either the appointing power or the commission may transfer charges to the other for action or investigation.

§ 15. Employment of Laborers.—The commission shall provide by rule for the employment of laborers in the labor class in the order of priority of application for employment. There shall be separate lists of applicants for different kinds of labor, and the commission may provide separate labor registration lists for departments, institutions, districts or localities. The commission may require an applicant for registration to pass such examination as they may deem proper with respect to his age, residence, physical condition, ability to labor, skill, capacity and experience. The commission shall establish such time as it may deem expedient for the duration of eligible lists in the labor class.

§ 16. Reports of Appointees, etc.—It shall be the duty of each appointing power to report to the commission forthwith upon each appointment the name of the appointee, the title or character of the position, the date of the commencement of such service, and the salary or compensation therefor, and to report from time to time, and upon the date of official action in, or knowledge of each case, any separation of the person from the position, or other changes, and such other information as the commission may require in order to keep the roster hereinafter mentioned.

Official Roster.—The commission shall keep in its office an official roster of all persons holding positions under the provisions of this act and shall enter thereon the name of each and every person who has been appointed to, promoted, reduced, transformed, reinstated or removed from or left any position and require such evidence as it may deem satisfactory as to whether such person was appointed to, promoted, reduced, transferred, reinstated or removed from such position in accordance with the provisions of this act and the rules and regulations of the commission thereunder and as to when and why and how such person was otherwise separated from such position. The official roster shall show opposite, or in connection with, each name, the date of appointment, promotion, reduction, transfer or reinstatement, the compensation of the position, the date of commencement of service and change in or separation from position and when and why and how there was such change or separation.

Names of Persons now Holding Positions to be Certified to Commission.—The names of all persons holding positions at the time of the taking effect of this act which if vacant would be filled under the provisions of this act shall be certified to the commission by the appointing power that could then so fill such position if vacant, and such names shall be entered in said roster, and thereupon shall be deemed appointed under the provisions of this act and persons then holding such positions who have served in such positions a less period than one year and more than sixty days from the date of the classification of such positions as required by this act shall be deemed to be serving the probationary period, and persons who have served in such positions for less than such sixty days shall be deemed temporary appointees.

§ 17. Commission to Certify to Pay-rolls Before Controller Issues Warrant.—It shall be unlawful for the controller or other fiscal officer of the State to draw, sign, issue, or authorize the drawing, signing, or issuing of any warrant on the treasurer or other disbursing officer of the State for the payment of, or for the treasurer or other disbursing officer to pay any salary or compensation to anyone holding any position under the provisions of this act unless the estimate, pay-roll or account for such salary or compensation, containing the name of the person to be paid, shall bear the certificate of the commission that the persons named in such estimate, pay-roll or account are holding positions as provided by this act and the rules and regulations prescribed thereunder. Any sums paid contrary to the provisions of this section may be recovered from anyone making such appointment in violation of the provisions of this act and of the rules and regulations prescribed thereunder or from any officer signing, or countersigning, or authorizing the signing or countersigning of any warrant for the payment of the same, and from the sureties on his official bond in an action in any court of competent jurisdiction of this State maintained by a citizen resident therein, who is assessed for and is liable to pay, or within one year before the commencement of such action has paid, a tax therein. All moneys recovered in any action brought under the provisions of this section must, when collected, be paid into the treasury of the State, except that the plaintiff in any such action shall be entitled to receive for his own use the taxable costs of such action.

§ 18. Penalty for False Marking, Grading, etc., of Persons Examined.—Any commissioner or examiner, or any person who shall willfully by himself or in co-operation with one or more persons, defeat, deceive or obstruct any person in respect to his or her right of examination or registration, according to any rules or regulations prescribed pursuant to the provisions of this act, or who shall willfully and falsely mark, grade, estimate, or report upon the examination or proper standing of any person examined, registered, or certified, pursuant to the provisions of this act, or aid in so doing, or who shall willfully make any false representation concerning the same, or concerning the person examined, or who shall willfully furnish to any person any special or secret information for the purpose of either improving or injuring the prospects or chances of any person so examined, registered, or certified, or to be examined, registered, or certified, or who shall personate any other person, or permit or aid in any manner any other person to personate him, in connection with any examination or registration or application or request to be examined or registered, shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor.

§ 19. Soliciting from Persons on Eligible List Prohibited.—No officer, agent, clerk, or employee under the government of the State shall, directly or indirectly, solicit or receive, or be in any manner concerned in soliciting or receiving, any assessment, subscription, contribution or political service, whether voluntary or involuntary, for any political purpose whatever, from anyone on the eligible lists or holding any position under the provisions of this act.

Political Assessment, Subscription or Contribution.—Every officer, agent, clerk or employee under the government of the State who may have charge or control in any building, office, or room occupied for any purpose of said government is hereby authorized to prohibit the entry of any person, and he shall not permit any person to enter the same, for the purpose of therein making, collecting, receiving or giving notice of any political assessment, subscription or contribution, and no person shall enter, or remain in any said building, office or room, or send or direct any letter or other notice thereto, for the purpose of giving notice of, demanding, or collecting a political assessment, subscription or contribution, nor shall any person therein give notice of, demand, collect or receive, any such assessment, subscription or contribution contrary to the provisions of this section.

§ 20. Promise of Advancement for Political Influence Prohibited.—No one, while holding any public office, or in nomination for, or while seeking a nomination or appointment for, any public office, shall use or promise to use, whether directly or indirectly, any official authority or influence (whether then possessed or merely anticipated) in the way of conferring upon any person, or in order to secure or aid any person in securing any position under the provisions of this act, either in nomination, confirmation, promotion, or increase in salary, or as to any change in any such position, upon a consideration or condition that the vote or political influence or action of the last-named person, or any other, shall be given or used in behalf of any candidate, officer, or party, or upon any other corrupt condition or consideration. And no one, being a public officer, or in nomination for, or while seeking nomination or appointment for any public office or having or claiming to have any authority or influence (whether then possessed or merely anticipated) for the securing or holding of or as to affecting any position under the provisions of this act, shall use, or promise or threaten to use, any such authority or influence, directly or indirectly, in order to coerce or persuade the vote or political action of any person on the eligible lists or holding any position under the provisions of this act.

§ 21. No Salary to Persons Appointed in Violation of Act.—No salary, compensation or other emolument shall be paid to anyone appointed to or retained in any position in violation of this act. Any officer approving or paying such salary shall be liable for such sum on his official bond. Whenever the commission shall notify the auditing officer that any position has been filled in violation of this act or any of the rules and regulations thereunder, no demand for the salary or compensation or other emolument of such position shall be approved or paid except upon the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

§ 22. Appointing Power must Pay Persons Accepting Appointment in Good Faith.—Any person acting in good faith in accepting appointment or employment contrary to the provisions of this act or of the rules and regulations prescribed thereunder, shall be paid by the appointing power the compensation promised by or on behalf of the appointing power or in case no compensation is so promised then the actual value of any service rendered, and the expense incurred in good faith under such attempted appointment or employment, and shall have a cause of action against the appointing power for such sum or sums and for the costs of action. No public officer shall be reimbursed by the State or any of its instrumentalities for any sum so paid or recovered in such action.

§ 23. Political and Religious Recommendation.—No recommendation or question or inquiry under the authority of this act shall relate to the political or religious opinions or affiliations of any person, and no appointment or change in or removal from any position under the provisions of this act shall be in any manner affected or influenced by such opinions or affiliations.

§ 24. Witness Fees.—Witnesses and officers to subpoena and secure the attendance of witnesses before the commission, or any commissioner, or the chief examiner or other authorized agent of the commission, shall be entitled to the same fees as are allowed witnesses in civil cases in courts of record. Such fees need not be prepaid, but the controller shall draw his warrant for the payment of the amount thereof when the same shall have been certified to by the commission and duly proved by affidavit or otherwise to the satisfaction of the controller.

§ 25. Penalty.—Any person willfully violating any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

§ 26. Repealing Clause.—All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed in so far as they are inconsistent with the provisions of this act.

§ 27. Appropriation.—There is hereby appropriated the sum of fifty thousand dollars for carrying into effect the provisions of this act, and for defraying the expenses of the commission during the biennial term of 1913-1914.

- (a) Positions as laborers;
- (b) Positions in the trades and other skilled occupations;
- (c) Positions requiring clerical, professional or scientific qualifications.

§ 2. Applicants to Present Credentials.—Wherever written examinations are required, each applicant whose applications have been approved shall be notified through the postoffice of the time and place of the examination, and such notice shall be the credential of the applicant to take the examination.

§ 3. Labor Applications.—Applicants for laborers' positions must not be over sixty years of age. Laborers shall be appointed according to priority of application, but all such applicants shall be examined as to age, residence, physical condition and experience, and must be found to be in good physical condition and with the capacity to perform hard manual labor.

Separate lists of applicants shall be made for laborers for Sacramento, San Francisco, and Los Angeles. The names of those laborers on the list for Sacramento shall be drafted for positions nearest Sacramento; names of those laborers on the list for San Francisco shall be drafted for positions nearest San Francisco; and the names of those laborers on the list for Los Angeles shall be drafted for positions nearest Los Angeles. When any of these lists become exhausted, names can be certified from the other lists.

All applications for laborers' positions must be on forms furnished by the Commission and shall take precedence according to their receipt in the office of the Commission at Sacramento; each application being given a serial number in the order of its receipt by the Commission.

RULE 3. APPLICATIONS NOT TO BE RETURNED.

Applications and accompanying vouchers not returned for correction shall remain on file in the office of the Commission and in no circumstance will be returned to applicants.

RULE 4. EXAMINATIONS.

§ 1. Examinations to be Free.—All examinations shall be conducted under the supervision of the Commission without any cost or expense to any applicant, except for a medical certificate or examination when required.

§ 2. Questions Placed Under Seal After Approval.—All examination questions shall be first approved by the Commission. The examination questions after approval shall be securely sealed with the official seal of the Civil Service Commission. The seal shall not be broken until the beginning of the examination and then only in the presence of all the candidates at the examination and the authorized agent of the Civil Service Commission.

§ 3. Explanations.—All necessary explanations will be made to the whole class. No question will be explained to any individual candidate. Examiners are forbidden to explain the meaning of, or to make remarks relating to, any question that may assist in its solution.

§ 5. Leaving the Examination-room.—During an examination no candidate will be permitted to leave the room, except in case of extreme necessity, and then only with a representative of the Commission. A luncheon recess may be allowed, however, at the direction of the Commission.

§ 6. Limit of Time.—The limit of time prescribed for such examination will be stated before the examination and shall begin to run when announcement is made by the examiner in charge.

§ 7. Helps.—Candidates are forbidden to receive aid from a fellow candidate or to use helps in any form. Before the commencement of an examination candidates will be required to hand to the examiner any printed or written matter in their possession that might serve to aid them in the examination. Evidence of copying or collusion may result in the cancellation of examination papers and the debarment of the candidate from future examinations. Copies of the questions in the examination may not be made or taken from the examination-room.

§ 8. Rating of Examinations.—All examinations shall be rated on a scale of 100, and the relative weights of the different subjects, including experience, shall be determined by the Commission at the time of the announcement of the examination.

§ 9. Rating of Examination Papers.—Where written examinations are required they shall be so managed that no examination papers will disclose the name or identity of any applicant until all the examination papers shall have been marked.

So far as practicable, questions on different subjects of examination shall be answered on separate sheets and all the answers on a given subject shall be rated by the same examiner. Where the number of examiners will permit, the answers shall be redistributed by subjects for review by other examiners after being rated in the first instance.

Each candidate must write his name and address upon a declaration sheet which must have printed upon it a serial number, to be known as his examination number.

The candidate shall mark upon each examination sheet his examination number only. When the examination papers have been rated the declaration sheet shall be unsealed and the examination papers assigned to the proper name of the person who wrote them.

§ 10. Identification Marks.—Any candidate in any examination who places an identification mark upon his examination papers, other than his serial number, may be deprived of all benefits under such examination.

The following are marks of identification within the meaning of this rule: Name or address of the candidate; any assumed or fictitious name or address; any initials, lines or other characters that might indicate the identity of the candidate.

§ 11. Marking and Grading of Papers—Relative Weights, and Method of Determining Average Percentage.—The relative weight of each subject shall be fixed and announced by the Commission and all examination papers shall be marked and graded under the regulations of the Commission. When during the marking and grading of the papers it becomes apparent that a candidate, whose papers have been partially marked, would receive a general average percentage less than the minimum percentage for eligibility fixed by the Commission, or if the candidate receives less than the minimum percentage required by the Commission on a given subject, then such candidate shall be considered as having failed and the marking of his papers need not be completed.

The different subjects in each examination are given relative weights according to their importance. Those weights represent the value of each subject in the whole examination. The method of obtaining the average percentage of the examination is as follows: Multiply the rating obtained in each subject by the relative weight of that subject, add the products, and divide the sum of the products by the sum of the relative weights. The quotient thus obtained will be the average percentage for that examination.

§ 12. Minimum Standing.—Candidates shall be required to obtain a general average of not less than 70% in order to pass an examination.

§ 13. Notice of Result of Examinations.—As soon as the marking and grading of the papers shall have been completed and the eligible registers established, each candidate shall be notified through the post-office of his general average percentage and relative standing obtained upon examination.

Where the marking of the examination papers has not been completed because the candidate has failed in any given subject, he shall be notified of that fact.

RULE 5. ELIGIBLE REGISTERS.

§ 1. Successful candidates shall be enrolled upon the register of eligibles in the order of their general average percentage upon examination without regard to priority of application or examination, except that two or more candidates receiving the same percentage shall be enrolled according to priority of application.

§ 2. Successful candidates may be enrolled upon two or more eligible registers at the same time.

RULE 6. CERTIFICATIONS.

§ 1. Vacancies.—Whenever a vacancy is to be filled the appointing power shall notify the Commission of that fact, stating the duties of the position.

§ 2. Three Names to be Certified.—The Commission shall then certify to the appointing power the names and addresses of three persons who stand highest on the eligible list for the class or grade to which the position belongs. In case there are less than three upon such eligible list, the Commission shall certify the number thereof and the appointing power shall fill the position by the appointment of one of the persons certified by the Commission.

If an appointing power have at the same time more than one vacancy in the same class and grade to be filled, the Commission shall certify in the manner previously set forth as many names as there are vacancies and two names in addition to the total number of such vacancies if there be that number of names on the register.

The appointing power shall fill the first vacancy by the selection of one of the highest three eligibles so certified. The second and any succeeding vacancy shall be filled in like manner by selection in turn from the highest three remaining names.

If, in any case indicated, there be no additional name or names on the register, or if the number of names which can be certified or which are finally available for appointment be less than the number specified in this rule but at least equal to the number of vacancies to be filled, then the required selection shall be made from the names certified and available.

§ 3. Next in Rank After Waiver.—Whenever an eligible has been certified to the appointing power, and such eligible waives appointment, the Secretary shall forthwith notify the appointing power of such waiver and certify the next highest eligible, whereupon said next highest eligible shall have the same standing as though originally certified.

§ 4. New Positions.—Whenever a new position is created, the appointing power who may fill such position shall immediately make requisition upon the Civil Service Commission for an eligible to fill the position, and shall at the same time furnish the Civil Service Commission with a detailed statement of the duties attached to said position. It shall then be the duty of the Civil Service Commission to classify said position and to certify eligibles in accordance with the provisions of section 2 of this Rule.

§ 5. Examination Papers to be Forwarded With Certification.—Upon certifying eligibles to any appointing power to fill a vacancy, the examination papers of the eligibles shall be transmitted with the notice of certification if required by the appointing power. Within ten days thereafter all examination papers must be returned to the Commission by the appointing power.

RULE 7. FAILURE TO RESPOND.

§ 1. Any eligible who fails to respond within a reasonable time after notice has been sent him to report for duty will be stricken from the eligible register, unless, within thirty days from the date of the notice sent him, he presents reasons satisfactory to the Commission for his failure to report.

When the eligible resides in the city from which the notice has been sent, three days shall be deemed a reasonable time in which to respond. When the eligible resides in some other city or county, the time consumed in transmission of the letter to his place of residence and return shall be added to the three days.

§ 2. Any eligible who fails to respond within a reasonable time after any notice sent him by the Commission requiring an answer will be stricken from the eligible register, but may be restored if at any time during the period of his eligibility he presents reasons satisfactory to the Commission for his failure to respond.

RULE 8. DECLINATION AND WAIVER OF CERTIFICATION.

§ 1. An eligible may at any time have his name temporarily withdrawn from the eligible register upon giving reasons in writing satisfactory to the Commission, and may be restored thereto at the discretion of the Commission upon making application in writing during the period of his eligibility.

§ 2. An eligible may, when his name is reached for appointment to a temporary position, waive certification without losing his position upon the eligible register. A temporary position is one that will last for less than six months.

§ 3. Whenever an eligible has indicated in his application for appointment the locality or institutions in which he will accept employment, he may decline certification to positions in other localities or institutions, without losing his position upon the eligible register.

An eligible may decline appointment after certification without losing his position upon the eligible register for any reason satisfactory to the Civil Service Commission.

In the event of an absolute refusal of a permanent position by an eligible for reasons that are not satisfactory to the Civil Service Commission, his place upon the eligible register shall be declared vacant and his name shall be removed therefrom. The Commission may in its discretion, however, restore his name to the eligible register for the remaining period of his eligibility upon his written application therefor.

RULE 9. APPOINTMENTS.

§ 1. Probationer.—A probationer is one in office more than sixty days previous to classification by the Civil Service Commission, November 14, 1913, and also less than a year previous to August 15, 1913; or one who having been certified and appointed after examination has been employed less than six months.

The probationary period for any appointment is hereby fixed at six months.

§ 2. Permanent Appointments.—A permanent appointee is one who was in office August 15, 1913, and who had been employed for more than one year previous to that date, or one who, having been a probationer, has served more than the required probationary period of six months.

§ 3. Temporary Appointments.—A temporary appointee is one who has been appointed to office after August 15, 1913, without examination, and with the previous consent of the Commission.

Whenever a position is to be filled, the appointing power must make application in writing to the Civil Service Commission to fill the same by the certification of three eligibles in accordance with section 12 of the Civil Service Act.

When there are no eligibles from which to fill the position, the Civil Service Commission may authorize the appointing power to fill such positions by temporary appointment at least not exceeding ninety days from the date of appointment. Until such permission has been given, no authority exists in the appointing power to make a temporary appointment.

Pending the holding of examinations for the various positions in the State Civil Service, it will be necessary for positions to be filled by temporary appointment. All contemplated appointments for at least three months should be included in the request for certification of eligibles to the appointing power. The Civil Service Commission will then pass on the applications and notify the appointing power in writing of the certification of eligibles, or of its permission to make temporary appointments. If the permission is granted, then, and not until then, the appointing power may make legal appointments.

Upon making the appointment it will be incumbent upon the appointing power to notify the Commission, naming the appointee, the title and character of the position, the date of commencement of service, and salary or compensation thereof, as required by section 16 of the Civil Service Act.

§ 4. Emergency Appointments.—Emergency appointments are those made notwithstanding there may be an eligible list, for the reason that eligibles are not immediately available. In certain departments of the State men are employed and discharged almost daily, but they are at such great distance from the heads of their departments that in some cases word cannot be got either to or from them for several days. In order to prevent the stoppage of public business when the necessity of making short-time appointments exists, permission is hereby granted to the appointing power in any department of the State Civil Service to make emergency appointments for not more than fifteen days. The name of the appointee, the duties, the position, the nature of the emergency and the further data required by section 16, of the Civil Service Act must be mailed to the State Service Commission.

Where the appointing power is sufficiently near Sacramento to make application for a temporary appointment with the previous consent of the Commission, a resort to emergency appointments will be deemed an abuse of the privilege of this rule.

Emergency appointments may not be continuous.

RULE 10. REPORT OF APPOINTMENT.

Whenever the names of three eligibles have been certified to the appointing power to fill a vacancy, it shall be the duty of the appointing power to make the appointment forthwith. It shall also be the duty of the appointing power to make immediate report to the Commission of the fact of appointment.

RULE 11. EFFICIENCY RECORDS.

In all offices and places of employment subject to the Civil Service Act, the appointing power shall make records of the individual efficiency of holders of positions in performing their duties, and shall file such records monthly with the Civil Service Commission on or before the fifth day of the month for the calendar month preceding.

The efficiency records shall be rated upon:

- 1st. Quality—meaning the ability of an employee to perform the task to which he or she is assigned, and the degree of excellence attained in its performance.

When temperamental qualities determine the usefulness of employees, as in the case of teachers in a reform school, or nurses in an institution, "temperamental aptitude" shall be rated under "quality."

- 2d. Quantity—meaning amount of work done.
 - 3d. Discipline—including treatment of the public, treatment of fellow employees, sobriety, and obedience to rules.
 - 4th. Attendance—including absence and punctuality.
- Quality, quantity, and discipline shall be rated on a percentage basis.

The grading shall be as follows:

For excellent or exceptional work	90—100
For good or thoroughly satisfactory work.....	80— 90
For fair or not wholly satisfactory work.....	70— 80
For poor or unsatisfactory work.....	70 and below

Eighty-five (85%) per cent is arbitrarily taken by the Civil Service Commission as the marking for an average employee doing thoroughly satisfactory work.

The records for attendance shall be a statement of the number of times tardy, the number of days or parts of days absent.

Where markings above 90 or below 70 are reported, an explanation should accompany, stating briefly the reason therefor. The Civil Service Commission retains the right to investigate such ratings before entering it upon its records.

If the net efficiency of any employee falls below 70 for any one month, the Secretary of the Commission may file a charge for inefficiency against such employee with the Civil Service Commission. If such charge is filed, it shall be the duty of the Civil Service Commission to try the said employee for inefficiency. If, after such trial, it shall find the rating to be just, the Civil Service Commission shall enter judgment, removing the said employee from the Civil Service of the State of California, and his name shall be stricken from the list of eligibles.

In case the net efficiency of any employee shall fall below 80 continuously for three months, the Commission may reduce the salary or grade of such employee.

The efficiency records of any office or department shall be made upon a letter-size form, at the left of which shall be a column for the names of the employees in the said office or department arranged alphabetically. In the first column to the right of the names shall be written the name of the position; in the second column the salary paid; in the third column shall be rated the attendance, and it shall be in a double subcolumn, in the first subcolumn of which shall be recorded the number of times tardy, and in the second subcolumn shall be recorded the number of days absent; in the fourth column shall be rated discipline; in the fifth column shall be rated quality of work; in the sixth column shall be rated the quantity of work; and three and one-half inch columns shall be left at the extreme right for the use of the Civil Service Commission.

The appointing power shall require the immediate supervisor of the persons whose efficiency records are being made up to certify to the appointing power, the record for the quantity and quality of work, discipline and attendance.

From the record thus transmitted to the appointing power or its authorized agent by the said immediate supervisor, the appointing power or its authorized agent shall cause to be made the entries in the efficiency records to be submitted to the Civil Service Commission. A copy of said record shall be kept in the office of the appointing power.

RULE 12. LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Upon application to the Civil Service Commission, a civil service appointee may be granted a leave of absence for a period of more than one month and not to exceed six months without prejudice to his status, provided such application shall have first been approved by the appointing power in the department in which the applicant is employed. The appointing power may grant a leave of absence to a civil service employee for thirty days or less without first securing the approval of the Civil Service Commission.

RULE 13. ABSENCE WITHOUT LEAVE.

§ 1. Absence from duty without leave for any time will be considered good cause for dismissal.

§ 2. Absence from duty without leave for ten consecutive days shall be deemed a resignation from the service by the absentee, and upon the report of such absence by the appointing power to the Civil Service Commission the absentee shall be removed from the service of the State and the fact of removal shall be entered in the official roster; provided, that if at any time within thirty days the person so absenting himself shall make satisfactory explanation to the Civil Service Commission of the cause of his absence, he shall be restored to his position.

RULE 14. REDUCTION IN FORCE.

Whenever for lack of work, or funds, or for purposes of retrenchment, or other causes, it becomes necessary to reduce the number of employees in a given class, the employees in that class shall be laid off according to their records of efficiency as established under the Rules and Regulations of the Civil Service Commission, the least efficient to be laid off first.

Any employee who has been laid off and has received not less than eighty per cent on his efficiency record shall be restored to the eligible register according to his original examination; or, in case the employee was a permanent employee or a probationer on November 14, 1913, then his eligibility shall be rated according to the length of employment, the oldest employees in point of service being rated highest. The period of eligibility, in all cases, shall begin to run from the date of restoration to the eligible register.

If no efficiency records have been required at the time of the reduction in force, lay-offs may be made in the discretion of the appointing power, provided that permanent employees shall not be laid off while work is being performed by probationers or temporary employees of a character for which the permanent employee is fitted.

If efficiency records have been required and the employee has received less than eighty per cent therein, he shall not be restored to the eligibility register.

Preference shall always be given to the oldest employees in length of service in recertification after lay-offs.

RULE 15. TRANSFER.

Transfers, as provided by section 13 of the Civil Service Act, may be made by the appointing power only with the previous consent of the Civil Service Commission.

Persons holding positions in the service of the State on August 15, 1913, who are under the protection of the Civil Service Law, may be assigned to any other positions which they are capable of filling, provided such transfer shall be recommended by the appointing power and approved by the Civil Service Commission. Eligibles appointed after examination to fill a position in a given class may not be transferred to positions in another class.

RULE 16. REINSTATEMENT.

Any person may within one year be reinstated to any position from which he has been separated without fault or delinquency on his part upon petition to and favorable action by the Civil Service Commission.

RULE 17. PROMOTION.

§ 1. Method of Promotion.—Vacancies in positions, unless filled by reinstatement or transfer, shall be filled as far as practicable by promotion from among persons holding positions in the next lower grade of the department, office or institution in which the vacancy exists. An increase of salary beyond the grade of the position occupied shall be deemed a promotion.

Promotion shall be based upon merit determined by competitive examination and by the superior qualifications of the person promoted, as shown by his record of efficiency. Applicants for promotional examination shall register in the office of the Commission at least three days before the date fixed for the examination.

The recommendation of the appointing power, with reasons for the recommendation, shall be a factor in all promotional examinations, and shall be given a rating to be determined by the Commission upon the announcement of the examination.

Whenever a vacancy is to be filled by promotion, and the number of applicants in the next lower grade who present themselves for examination are so few that in the judgment of the Commission the good of the public service requires that such promotion shall be open to all employees in the lower grade of that class, it shall so declare and notify all employees in such lower grades that such examination will be held and of their eligibility, and shall proceed to hold an original competitive examination to such positions.

RULE 18. TRIALS AND DISMISSALS.

§ 1. Charges under section 14 of the Civil Service Act may be made by the appointing power or its representative, the Civil Service Commission or its representative, or any citizens.

Such charges shall be tried either by the appointing power of the Civil Service Commission, and shall be instituted by serving upon the defendant a written complaint setting forth the grounds for removal with such particularity as shall enable the defendant to understand clearly the charges made against him, and filing with the Civil Service Commission a copy thereof.

Within ten days after service upon him of the complaint, the defendant shall file with the Commission and furnish to the prosecutor a written answer thereto.

The appointing power, in case the charges are to be heard by it, shall then notify the defendant and the Civil Service Commission of the time and place of hearing of said charges, and in case the Civil Service Commission shall hear said charges, it shall notify the defendant and the prosecutor of the time and place of hearing said charges.

The time of hearing shall not be less than five nor more than ten days from the service upon the prosecutor of the answer of the defendant.

The defendant at such hearing shall have opportunity to present whatever competent evidence he may desire in his own defense and shall have the right to be represented by counsel. Failure to file an answer within the time allowed shall be construed as an admission of the truth of the charges by the defendant, and judgment of removal shall be entered forthwith and filed with or by the Commission.

Either the appointing power or the Commission may transfer charges to the other for action or investigation.

§ 2. The hearing of charges may be by the Commission, any Commissioner, chief examiner or any other agent of the Commission as it may direct, or the appointing power.

§ 3. Any Civil Service appointee dismissed from employment after trial shall be removed forthwith from all eligible lists and shall not be eligible for examination thereafter without the consent of the Commission. Any eligible or appointee convicted of a felony shall be dismissed from the service of the State and shall have his name stricken from all eligible registers.

RULE 19. REGULAR AND SPECIAL MEETINGS.

Regular meetings shall be held on the first Tuesday of every month in the office of the Commission at the State Capitol, Sacramento, at 9 o'clock A. M.

Special meetings may be called at any time by the President or by a majority of the Commissioners, provided forty-eight hours' notice of such special meeting be given to all members of the Commission. A notice of each special meeting shall state the business for which said meeting is called, but any other business may be transacted at such meeting. Ordinary parliamentary rules shall govern the deliberations of the Civil Service Commission.

RULE 20. PUBLIC INSPECTION.

All the books, records, answers and papers pertaining to examinations or other proceeding shall be open to the inspection of any citizen.

RULE 21. AMENDMENTS TO RULES.

The rules of the Civil Service Commission may be amended at any meeting.

powers, rights and privileges specified in sections 633 to 648a, inclusive, of Title XVI, Part IV, Division I of the Civil Code of the State of California."

Capital.—If formed with a guarantee capital, the sixth subdivision is: "Sixth: That the amount of the capital stock of said corporation is thousand (.....) dollars, and the number of shares into which it is divided is (.....), of the par value of one hundred (100) dollars each, all of which, when issued, shall be set apart as a fixed, permanent and guarantee capital."

Approval of By-laws.—After the articles of incorporation have been executed and filed and the certificate of incorporation received from the Secretary of State, the board of directors named should proceed to organize for business and arrange for the adoption of a code of by-laws for the government of the association. Such by-laws, after being prepared, must be submitted to this office for approval and only such that are approved by this office can be adopted.

Paid-in Capital.—If formed with a guarantee capital, the amount of such capital authorized should not be less than $10,000, and the amount of such actually paid in should not be less than fifty per cent or $5,000.

Subscription to Mutual Shares.—If formed on the mutual plan, either with shares of capital stock, withdrawable, or with membership shares, the amount of such subscriptions must show a bona fide subscription of not less than five hundred installment shares with a monthly payment thereon of not less than fifty cents, thereby insuring at least a monthly income from that source of not less than $250.

The legislature may provide for the settlement of any disputes arising under the legislation contemplated by this section, by arbitration, or by an industrial accident board, by the courts, or by either any or all of these agencies, anything in this constitution to the contrary notwithstanding. (Article XX, section 21. Adopted October 10, 1911.)

(c) Time, How Extended.—The payment of the disability indemnity or death benefit, or any part thereof, or agreement therefor, shall have the effect of extending the period within which proceedings for its collection may be commenced, six months from the date of the agreement or last payment of such disability indemnity or death benefit or any part thereof.

(e) Refusal to Submit to Treatment.—No compensation shall be payable in respect of the death or disability of an employee if his death is caused, or if and so far as his disability is caused, continued, or aggravated, by an unreasonable refusal to submit to medical treatment, or to any surgical treatment, the risk of which is, in the opinion of the commission, inconsiderable in view of the seriousness of the injury.

(f) Later Injury.—The fact that an employee has suffered a previous disability, or receives compensation therefor, shall not preclude him from compensation for a later injury, or his dependents from compensation, shall not, in the absence of any agreement, be construed compensation for the later injury, or death resulting therefrom, his average annual earnings shall be fixed at such sum as will reasonably represent his annual earning capacity at the time of the later injury.

but any such payment, allowance or benefit may be taken into account by the commission in fixing the amount of the compensation to be paid.

§ 17. (a) Average Weekly Earnings One Fifty-second of Average Annual Earnings.—The average weekly earnings referred to in section 15 hereof shall be one fifty-second of the average annual earnings of the employee; in computing such earnings his average annual earnings shall be taken at not less than three hundred and thirty-three dollars and thirty-three cents, nor at more than one thousand six hundred and sixty-six dollars and sixty-six cents and between said limits shall be arrived at as follows:

(1) If Employee has Worked in Same Employment.—If the injured employee has worked in the same employment, whether for the same employer or not, during substantially the whole of the year immediately preceding his injury, his average annual earnings shall consist of three hundred times the average daily earnings, wage or salary which he earned as such employee during the days when so employed.

(2) If Employee has not so Worked in Such Employment.—If the injured employee has not so worked in such employment during substantially the whole of such immediately preceding year, his average annual earnings shall consist of three hundred times the average daily earnings, wage or salary which an employee of the same class, working substantially the whole of such immediately preceding year, in the same or a similar kind of employment, in the same or a neighboring place, earned during the days when so employed.

(3) Where for Any Reason Foregoing Methods cannot be Applied.—In every case where for any reason the foregoing methods of arriving at the average annual earnings of the injured employee cannot reasonably and fairly be applied, such annual earnings shall be taken at such sum as, having regard to the previous earnings of the injured employee, and of other employees of the same or most similar class working in the same or most similar employment, in the same or neighboring locality, shall reasonably represent the average annual earning capacity of the injured employee at the time of the injury in the kind of employment in which he was then working, or in any employment similar thereto.

(b) Board, Lodging, Fuel—Special Expenses.—In determining such average weekly earnings, there shall be included the market value of board, lodging, fuel and other advantages received by the injured employee, as part of his remuneration and which can be estimated in money, but such average weekly earnings shall not include any sum which the employer paid to the injured employee to cover any special expenses entailed on him by the nature of his employment.

(c) Injured Employee a Minor.—If the injured employee is a minor, and his incapacity, whether total or partial, is permanent, his average weekly earnings shall be deemed, within the limits fixed, to be the weekly sum, that under ordinary circumstances he would probably be able to earn, after attaining the age of twenty-one years, in the occupation in which he was employed at the time of the injury, if he had not been injured.

§ 18. Weekly Loss in Wages.—The weekly loss in wages referred to in section 15 hereof shall consist of the difference between the average weekly earnings of the injured employee, computed according to the provisions of said section, and the weekly amount which the injured employee, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, will probably be able to earn during the disability, to be determined in view of the nature and extent of the injury. In computing such probable earnings due regard shall be had to the ability of the injured employee to compete in an open labor market.

§ 19. (a) Conclusively Presumed Dependent.—The following shall be conclusively presumed to be wholly dependent for support upon a deceased employee:

(1) Wife.—A wife upon a husband with whom she was living at the time of his death.

(2) Husband.—A husband upon a wife upon whose earnings he is partially or wholly dependent at the time of her death.

(3) Child.—A child or children under the age of eighteen years (or over said age, but physically or mentally incapacitated from earning), upon the parent with whom he or they are living at the time of the death of such parent or for whose maintenance such parent was legally liable at the time of his death, there being no surviving dependent parent.

(b) Other Cases.—In all other cases, questions of entire or partial dependency and questions as to who constitute dependents and the extent of their dependency shall be determined in accordance with the fact, as the fact may be at the time of the death of the employee.

(c) Relation.—No person shall be considered a dependent of any deceased employee unless a member of the family of such employee or unless such person bears to such employee the relation of husband or wife, child, adopted child or stepchild, father or mother, father in law or mother in law, grandfather or grandmother, brother or sister, nephew or niece.

(d) 1. Persons Wholly Dependent Receive Entire Death Benefit.—If there is one or more persons wholly dependent for support upon a deceased employee, such person or persons shall receive the entire death benefit, and any person or persons partially dependent shall receive no part thereof, unless otherwise ordered by the commission.

2. Death Benefit Divided Among Those Wholly Dependent.—If there is more than one such person wholly dependent for support upon a deceased employee, the death benefit shall be divided equally among them, unless otherwise ordered by the commission.

3. Death Benefit Divided Among Persons Partially Dependent.—If there is more than one person partially dependent for support upon a deceased employee, and no person wholly dependent for support, the amount allowed as the death benefit shall be divided among the persons so partially dependent in proportion to the relative extent of their dependency, unless otherwise ordered by the commission.

(e) Trustee.—The death benefit shall be paid to such one or more of the dependents of the deceased, or to a trustee appointed by the commission, or a commissioner, for the benefit of the person or persons entitled, as may be determined by the commission, and the commission may, anything in this act contained to the contrary notwithstanding, apportion such benefits among the dependents in proportion to their respective needs and as may be just and equitable, and may order payment to a dependent subsequent in right, or not otherwise entitled, upon good cause being shown therefor. The person to whom the death benefit is paid for the use of the several beneficiaries shall apply the same in compliance with the findings and directions of the commission.

§ 20. Notice in Writing of Accident.—No claim to recover compensation under this act shall be maintained unless within thirty days after the occurrence of the accident which is claimed to have caused the injury or death, notice in writing, stating the name and the address of the person injured, the time and the place where the accident occurred, and the nature of the injury, and signed by the person injured or someone in his behalf, or in case of his death, by a dependent or someone in his behalf shall be served upon the employer; provided however, that actual knowledge of such accident and injury on the part of such employer, or his managing agent or superintendent in charge of the work, upon which the injured employee was engaged at the time of the injury, shall be equivalent to such service; and provided, further, that the failure to give any such notice, or any defect or inaccuracy therein, shall not be a bar to recovery under this act if it is found as a fact in the proceedings for the collection of the claim that there was no intention to mislead or prejudice the employer, and that he was not in fact misled or prejudiced thereby.

§ 21. (a) Examination by Physician.—Whenever in case of injury the right to compensation under this act would exist in favor of any employee, he shall, upon the written request of his employer, submit from time to time to examination by a practicing physician, who shall be provided and paid for by the employer, and shall likewise submit to examination from time to time by any physician selected by the commission or any member or referee thereof.

(b) Order for Examination.—The request or order for such examination shall fix a time and place therefor, due regard being had to the convenience of the employee and his physical condition and ability to attend at the time and place fixed. The employee shall be entitled to have a physician provided and paid for by himself present at any such examination. So long as the employee, after such written request of the employer, shall fail or refuse to submit to such examination or shall in any way obstruct the same, his right to begin or maintain any proceeding for the collection of compensation shall be suspended, and if he shall fail or refuse to submit to such examination after direction by the commission, or any member or referee thereof, or shall in any way obstruct the same, his right to the weekly indemnity which shall accrue and become payable during the period of such failure, refusal or obstruction, shall be barred. Any physician who shall make or be present at any such examination may be required to testify as to the results thereof.

§ 22. Time and Place of Hearing.—Upon filing with the commission by any party in interest of an application in writing stating the general nature of any dispute or controversy concerning compensation, or concerning any right or liability arising out of, or incident thereto, jurisdiction over which is vested by this act in the commission, a time and place shall be fixed for the hearing thereof, which shall be not less than ten days nor more than forty days after the filing of such application. The person filing such application shall be known as the applicant and the adverse party shall be known as the defendant. A copy of said application, together with a notice of the time and place of hearing thereof, shall forthwith be served upon all adverse parties and may be served either as a summons in a civil action or in the same manner as any other notice that is authorized or required to be served under the provisions of this act. A notice of the time and place of hearing shall also be served upon the applicant.

§ 23. Answer.—If any defendant desires to disclaim any interest in the subject matter of the claim in controversy, or considers that the application is in any respect inaccurate or incomplete, or desires to bring any fact, paper or document to the attention of the commission as a defense to the claim, or otherwise, he must within five days after the service of the application upon him, file with or mail to the commission his answer setting forth the particulars in which the application is inaccurate or incomplete, and the facts upon which he intends to rely. A copy of such answer must be forthwith served upon all adverse parties.

§ 24. (a) Pleadings—Hearing.—No pleadings, other than the application and answer shall be required. The hearing on the application may be adjourned from time to time and from place to place in the discretion of the commission. Either party shall have the right to be present at any hearing, in person or by attorney or by any other agent, and to present such testimony as shall be pertinent under the pleadings, but the commission may, with or without notice to either party, cause testimony to be taken, or inspection of the premises where the injury occurred to be made, or the time-books and pay-roll of the employer to be examined by any commissioner or any referee appointed by the commission, and may from time to time direct any employee claiming compensation to be examined by a regular physician; the testimony so taken and the results of any such inspection or examination to be reported to the commission for its consideration.

(b) Stipulation.—The parties to a controversy may stipulate the facts relative thereto in writing and file such stipulation with the commission. The commission may thereupon make its findings and award based upon such stipulation, or may in its discretion, set the matter down for hearing and take such further testimony or make such further investigations as may be necessary to enable it to completely determine the matter in controversy.

§ 25. (a) Findings and Award.—After final hearing by the commission, it shall, within thirty days, make and file (1) its findings upon all facts involved in the controversy and (2) its award which shall state its determination as to the rights of the parties.

(b) Award.—The commission in its award may fix and determine the total amount of compensation to be paid and specify the manner of payment, or may fix and determine the weekly disability indemnity to be paid and order payment thereof during the continuance of such disability.

(c) Nominal Indemnity.—If, in any proceeding under sections 12 to 35, inclusive, of this act, it is proved that an accident has happened for which the employer would be liable to pay compensation if disability had resulted therefrom, but it is not proved that any incapacity had resulted, the commission may, instead of dismissing the application, award a nominal disability indemnity, if it appears that disability is likely to result at a future time.

(d) Order, Decision or Award Rescinding, Altering or Amending Prior Order, Decision or Award.—The commission shall have continuing jurisdiction over all its orders, decisions and awards made and entered under the provisions of sections 12 to 35, inclusive, of this act and may at any time, upon notice, and after opportunity to be heard is given to the parties in interest, rescind, alter or amend any such order, decision or award made by it upon good cause appearing therefor; provided, that no award of compensation shall be rescinded, altered or amended after two hundred forty-five weeks from the date of the accident. Any order, decision or award rescinding, altering or amending a prior order, decision or award shall have the same effect as is herein provided for original orders, decisions or awards.

§ 26. (a) Judgment.—Any party affected thereby may file a certified copy of the findings and award of the commission with the clerk of the superior court for any county, or city and county, and judgment must be entered by the clerk in conformity therewith immediately upon the filing of such findings and award.

(b) Judgment-roll.—The certified copy of the findings and award of the commission and a copy of the judgment shall constitute the judgment-roll. The pleadings, all orders of the commission, its original findings and award, and all other papers or documents filed in the cause shall remain on file in the office of the commission.

(c) Stay of Execution.—The commission, or any member thereof, may stay the execution of any judgment entered upon an award of the commission, upon good cause appearing therefor and upon such terms and conditions as may be imposed. A certified copy of such order shall be filed with the clerk entering such judgment.

(d) Satisfaction of Judgment.—Satisfaction of a judgment entered upon the award of the commission may be entered in the manner provided by law for the satisfaction of judgment. When a judgment is satisfied in fact, otherwise than upon an execution, the commission may, upon motion of either party or of its own motion, order the entry of satisfaction of the judgment to be made, and upon filing a certified copy of such order with the said clerk, he shall thereupon enter such satisfaction.

§ 27. Review.—The order, findings, decisions or awards of the commission made and entered under sections 12 to 35, inclusive, of this act may be reviewed by the courts specified in sections 84 and 85 hereof and within the time and in the manner therein specified and not otherwise.

§ 28. Fees—Costs—Interest.—No fees shall be charged by the clerk of any court for the performance of any official service required by this act, except for the docketing of awards as judgments and for certified copies of transcripts thereof. In all proceedings under this act before the commission, costs as between the parties shall be allowed or not in the discretion of the commission, and the commission may in its discretion, where payments of compensation have been unreasonably delayed, allow the beneficiary thereof interest thereon, at not to exceed one and one-half per cent per month, during such period of delay.

§ 29. (a) Assignments.—No claim for compensation shall be assignable before payment, but this provision shall not affect the survival thereof, nor shall any claim for compensation, or compensation awarded, adjudged or paid, be subject to be taken for the debts of the party entitled to such compensation, except as hereinafter provided.

(b) Lien.—The commission may fix and determine and allow as a lien against any amount to be paid as compensation:

(1) Attorney's Fee.—A reasonable attorney's fee for legal services pertaining to any claim for compensation or application filed therefor and the reasonable disbursements in connection therewith.

(2) Expenses.—The reasonable expenses incurred by or on behalf of the injured employee and for which the employer is liable under the provisions of subsection (a) of section 15 hereof.

(3) Burial Expenses.—The reasonable burial expenses of the deceased employee, not to exceed the sum of one hundred dollars.

(c) Notice to Employer of Lien.—If notice in writing be given to the employer setting forth the nature and extent of any claim, that may be allowed as a lien, the said claim shall be a lien against any amount thereafter to be paid as compensation, subject to the determination of the amount and approval thereof by the commission. The commission may, in its discretion, order the amount of such claim as fixed and allowed by it paid directly to the person entitled, either in a lump sum or in installments.

(d) Reasonable Amount.—No claim or agreement for the legal services or disbursements mentioned in paragraph (1) of subsection (b) hereof, or for the expense mentioned in paragraph (2) of said subsection (b), in excess of a reasonable amount, shall be valid or binding in any respect.

(e) Preference.—A claim for compensation for the injury or death of any employee, or any award or judgment entered thereon, shall have the same preference over the other unsecured debts of the employer as is given by law to claims for wages. Such preference shall be for the entire amount of compensation to be paid, but this section shall not impair the lien of any previous award.

§ 30. Liability of Principals and Contractors—Other Than Immediate Employer.—The liability of principals and contractors for compensation under this act, when other than the immediate employer of the injured employee, shall be as follows:

(a) Principal, General Contractor and Intermediate Contractor Liable.—The principal, any general contractor and each intermediate contractor who undertakes to do, or contracts with another to do, or to have done, any work, shall be liable to pay to any employee injured while engaged in the execution of such work, or to his dependents in the event of his death, any compensation which the immediate employer is liable to pay.

(b) Separate Application.—The person entitled to such compensation shall have the right to recover the same directly from his immediate employer, and in addition thereto the right to enforce in his own name, in the manner provided by this act, the liability for compensation imposed upon other persons by this section, either by making such other persons parties to the original application or by filing a separate application; provided, however, that payment in whole or in part of such compensation by either the immediate employer or other person shall, to the extent of such payment, be a bar to recovery against the other by any person entitled to such compensation.

(c) Subrogation.—When any person, other than the immediate employer, shall have paid any compensation for which he would not have been liable independently of this section, he shall, unless he caused the injury, be entitled to recover the full amount so paid from the person primarily liable therefor.

(d) Limitations.—The liability imposed by this section upon such principal, general contractor and intermediate contractor shall be subject to the following limitations:

(1) Injury on Premises.—Such liability shall exist only in cases where the injury occurred on or in or about the premises on which the principal, general contractor or intermediate contractor has undertaken to execute any work, or when such premises or work are otherwise under his control or management.

(2) Compensation Insurance.—Such liability shall not exist in the event that the immediate employer, or other person primarily liable for the compensation shall, previous to the happening of such accident, have taken out, and maintained in full force and effect, compensation insurance with any insurance carrier, covering his full liability for compensation to the injured person or his dependents.

(3) Stay of Execution.—The commission may, in its discretion, order that execution against the principal, general contractor and any intermediate contractor, be stayed until execution against the immediate employer shall be returned unsatisfied.

§ 31. Subrogation of Employer to Rights of Employee.—The making of a lawful claim against an employer for compensation under this act for the injury or death of his employee shall operate as an assignment to the employer of any right to recover damages which the injured employee, or his personal representative, or other person, may have against any other party for such injury or death, and such employer shall be subrogated to any such right and may enforce in his own name the legal liability of such other party. The amount of compensation paid by the employer, or the amount of compensation to which the injured employee or his dependents is entitled, shall not be admissible in evidence in any action brought to recover damages, but any amount collected by the employer, under the provisions of this section, in excess of the amount paid by the employer, or for which he is liable, shall be held by him for the benefit of the injured employee or other person entitled.

§ 32. (a) Contract Exempting Employer.—No contract, rule or regulation shall exempt the employer from liability for the compensation fixed by this act, but nothing in this act contained shall be construed as impairing the right of the parties interested to settle, subject to the provisions herein contained, any liability which may be claimed to exist under this act on account of such injury or death, or as conferring upon the dependents of any injured employee any interest which such employee may not divert by such settlement or for which he, or his estate, shall, in the event of such settlement by him, be accountable to such dependents or any of them.

(b) Settlement Agreement.—The compensation herein provided shall be the measure of the responsibility which the employer has assumed for injuries or death that may occur to employees in his employment when subject to the provisions of this act, and no release of liability or settlement agreement shall be valid unless it provides for the payment of full compensation in accordance with the provisions of this act or until and unless it shall be approved by the commission.

(c) Award Based upon Settlement Agreement.—A copy of any such release or settlement agreement signed by both parties shall forthwith be filed with the commission. When such release or settlement agreement is filed with the commission and approved by it, the commission may of its own motion, or on the application of either party, without notice, enter its award based upon such release or settlement agreement.

(d) Contents of Settlement Agreement.—Every such release or settlement agreement shall be in writing, duly executed and attested by two disinterested witnesses, and shall specify the date of the accident, the average weekly wages of the employee, determined according to section seventeen hereof, the nature of the disability, whether total or partial, permanent or temporary, the amount paid or due and unpaid to the employee up to the date of the release or agreement or death, as the case may be, and, if any, the amount of the payment or benefits then or thereafter to be made, and the length of time that such payment is to continue. In case of death there shall also be stated in such release or settlement agreement the date of death, the name of the widow, if any, the name and ages of all children, if any, and the names of all other dependents, if any, and whether such dependents be total or partial, and the amount paid or to be paid as a death benefit and to whom such payment is to be made.

§ 33. (a) Commutation.—At the time of making its award or at any time thereafter the commission on its own motion, either with or without notice, or upon application of either party with due notice to the other, may in its discretion, commute the compensation payable under this act to a lump sum, if it appears that such commutation is necessary for the protection of the person entitled thereto, or for the best interest of either party, or that it will avoid undue expense or hardship to either party, or that the employer has sold or otherwise disposed of the greater part of his assets, or is about to do so, or that the employer is not a resident of this state, and the commission may order such compensation paid forthwith or at some future time.

(b) Amount of Commuted Payment.—The amount of the commuted payment shall be determined in accordance with the following provisions:

(1) Temporary Disability.—If the accident causes temporary disability, the commission shall estimate the probable duration thereof and the probable amount of the temporary disability indemnity payable therefor in accordance with the provisions of section 15 hereof and shall fix the lump sum payable at such amount so determined.

(2) Permanent Disability or Death.—If the accident causes permanent disability or death, the commission shall fix the total amount of the permanent disability indemnity or death benefit payable therefor in accordance with the provisions of said section 15 and shall estimate the present value thereof, assuming interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, disregarding the probability of the beneficiary's death in all cases except where the percentage of permanent disability is such as to entitle the beneficiary to a life pension, and then taking into consideration the probability of the beneficiary's death only in estimating the present value of such life pension.

(c) Lump Sum Deposit—Payments by Trustee.—The commission in its discretion may order the lump sum payment, determined as hereinbefore provided, paid directly to the injured employee or to his dependents, or deposited with any savings bank or trust company authorized to transact business in this State, that will agree to accept the same as a deposit bearing interest at not less than four per cent, per annum, or the commission may order the same deposited with the state compensation insurance fund. Any such amount so deposited, together with all interest thereon, shall thereafter be held in trust for the injured employee, or in the event of his death, for his dependents, who shall have no further recourse against the employer. Payments from said fund, when so deposited, shall be made by the trustee only in the same amounts and at the same times as fixed by the order of the commission and until said fund and interest thereon shall be exhausted. In the appointment of the trustee preference shall be given, in the discretion of the commission, to the choice of the injured employee or his dependents. Upon the making of such payment, the employer shall present to the commission a proper receipt evidencing the same, executed either by the injured employee or his dependents, or by the trustee, and the commission shall thereupon issue its certificate in proper form evidencing the same, and such certificate, upon filing with the clerk of the superior court in which any judgment upon an award may have been entered, shall operate as a satisfaction of said award and shall fully discharge the employer from any further liability on account thereof.

§ 34. (a) Insurance not Affected.—Nothing in this act shall affect the organization of any mutual or other insurance company, or any existing contract for insurance or the right of the employer to insure in mutual or other companies, in whole or in part, against liability for the compensation provided for by this act; or, to provide by mutual or other insurance, or by arrangement with his employees, or otherwise, for the payment to such employees, their families, dependents or representatives, of sick, accident or death benefits, in addition to the compensation provided for by this act.

(b) Liability not Reduced by Insurance.—Liability for compensation shall not be reduced or affected by any insurance, contribution, or other benefit whatsoever due to or received by the person entitled to such compensation, except as otherwise provided by this act, and the person so entitled shall, irrespective of any insurance or other contract, except as otherwise provided in this act, have the right to recover such compensation directly from the employer, and in addition thereto, the right to enforce in his own name, in the manner provided in this act, either by making the insurance carrier a party to the original application or by filing a separate application, the liability of any insurance carrier, which may, in whole or in part, have insured against liability for such compensation; provided, further, that payment in whole or in part of such compensation by either the employer or the insurance company shall, to the extent thereof, be a bar to recovery against the other of the amount so paid; and provided, further, that as between the employer and the insurance company, payment by either directly to the employee, or to the person entitled to compensation, shall be subject to the conditions of the insurance contract between them.

(c) Insurance Policy.—Every contract insuring against liability for compensation, or insurance policy evidencing the same, must contain a clause to the effect that the insurance carrier shall be directly and primarily liable to the employee and, in the event of his death, to his dependents, to pay the compensation, if any, for which the employer is liable; that, as between the employee and the insurance carrier, the notice to or knowledge of the occurrence of the injury on the part of the employer shall be deemed notice or knowledge, as the case may be, on the part of the insurance carrier; that jurisdiction of the employer shall, for the purpose of this act, be jurisdiction of the insurance carrier and that the insurance carrier shall in all things be bound by and subject to the orders, findings, decisions or awards rendered against the employer under the provisions of this act.

(d) Lien of Employee.—Such policy must also provide that the employee shall have a first lien upon any amount which shall become owing on account of such policy to the employer from the insurance carrier and that in case of the legal incapacity or inability of the employer to receive the said amount and pay it over to the employee or his dependents, the said insurance carrier may and shall pay the same directly to the said employee or his dependents, thereby discharging to the extent of such payment the obligations of the employer to the employee, and such policy shall not contain any provisions relieving the insurance carrier from payment when the employer becomes insolvent or is discharged in bankruptcy, or otherwise, during the period that the policy is in operation or the compensation remains owing.

(e) 1. Assumption of Liability by Insurance Carrier and Substitution.—If the employer shall be insured against liability for compensation with any insurance carrier, and if after the happening of any accident such insurance carrier shall serve or cause to be served upon any person claiming compensation against such employer a notice that it has assumed and agreed to pay the compensation, if any, for which the employer is liable, and shall file a copy of such notice with the commission, such employer shall thereupon be relieved from liability for compensation to such claimant and the insurance carrier shall, without notice, be substituted in place of the employer in any proceeding theretofore or thereafter instituted by such person to recover such compensation, and the employer shall be dismissed therefrom. Such proceeding shall not abate on account of such substitution but shall be continued against such insurance carrier.

2. Notice by Employer of Liability of Insurance Carrier.—If at the time of the happening of an accident for which compensation is claimed, or may be claimed, the employer shall be insured against liability for the full amount of compensation payable, or that may become payable, the employer may serve or cause to be served upon any person claiming compensation on account of the happening of such accident and upon the insurance carrier a notice that the insurance carrier has, in its policy contract or otherwise, assumed and agreed to pay the compensation, if any, for which the employer is liable, and may file a copy of such notice with the commission. If it shall thereafter appear to the satisfaction of the commission that the insurance carrier has, through the issuance of its contract of insurance or otherwise, assumed such liability for compensation, such employer shall thereupon be relieved from liability for compensation to such claimant and the insurance carrier shall, after notice, be substituted in place of the employer in any proceeding theretofore or thereafter instituted by such person to recover such compensation, and the employer shall be dismissed therefrom. Such proceeding shall not abate on account of such substitution, but shall be continued against such insurance carrier.

(f) Subrogation of Insurance Carrier.—Where any employer is insured against liability for compensation with any insurance carrier and such insurance carrier shall have paid any compensation for which the employer was liable, or shall have assumed the liability of the employer therefor, it shall be subrogated to all the rights and duties of the employer and may enforce any such rights in its own name.

§ 35. (a) Limited Compensation Policy.—If any insurance policy shall be issued covering liability for compensation, which policy shall contain any limitation as to the compensation payable, such limitation shall be printed in the body of such policy in bold-face type and in addition thereto the words "limited compensation policy" shall be printed on the top of the policy in bold-faced type not less than eighteen point in size.

(b) Optional Provisions.—No insurance carrier shall insure against the liability of the employer for damages recoverable at law by the injured employee under the optional provisions contained in section 12 hereof, and any insurance carrier liable to any such injured employee for compensation upon the payment of the same shall have the same option given by said section 12 to such employee and shall be fully subrogated to his rights, and may enforce such liability for damages against the employer in its own name, anything in the insurance contract to the contrary notwithstanding.

§ 36. State Compensation Insurance Fund.—There is hereby created and established a fund to be known as the "state compensation insurance fund," to be administered by the industrial accident commission of the State, without liability on the part of the State beyond the amount of said fund, for the purpose of insuring employers against liability for compensation under this act and insuring to employees and other persons the compensation fixed by this act for employees and their dependents.

§ 37. (a) How Constituted.—The State compensation insurance fund shall be a revolving fund and shall consist of such specific appropriations as the legislature may from time to time make or set aside for the use of such fund, all premiums received and paid into the said fund for compensation insurance issued, all property and securities acquired by and through the use of moneys belonging to said fund and all interest earned upon moneys belonging to said fund and deposited or invested, as herein provided.

(b) How Applicable.—Said fund shall be applicable to the payment of losses sustained on account of insurance and to the payment of the salaries and other expenses to be charged against said fund in accordance with the provisions contained in this act.

(c) Intent of Legislature.—Said fund shall, after a reasonable time during which it may establish a business, be fairly competitive with other insurance carriers, and it is the intent of the legislature that said fund shall ultimately become neither more nor less than self-supporting.

§ 38. (a) Jurisdiction Over Fund.—The commission is hereby vested with full power, authority and jurisdiction over the State compensation insurance fund and may do and perform any and all things whether herein specifically designated, or in addition thereto, which are necessary or convenient in the exercise of any power, authority or jurisdiction over said fund in the administration thereof, or in connection with the insurance business to be carried on by it under the provisions of this act, as fully and completely as the governing body of a private insurance carrier might or could do.

(b) Powers of Commission in Connection With Fund.—The commission shall have full power and authority, and it shall be its duty, to fix and determine the rates to be charged by the State compensation insurance fund for compensation insurance, and to manage and conduct all business and affairs in relation thereto, all of which business and affairs shall be conducted in the name of the State compensation insurance fund, and in that name, without any other name or title, the commission may:

(1) Suits.—Sue and be sued in all the courts of the state in all actions arising out of any act, deed, matter or thing made, omitted, entered into, done, or suffered in connection with the State compensation insurance fund, the administration, management or conduct of the business or affairs relating thereto.

(2) Contracts.—Make and enter into contracts of insurance as herein provided, and such other contracts or obligations relating to the State compensation insurance fund as are authorized or permitted under the provisions of this act.

(3) Investments.—Invest and reinvest the moneys belonging to said fund as hereinafter provided.

(4) Business and Affairs.—Conduct all business and affairs, relating to the State compensation insurance fund, whether herein specifically designated or in addition thereto.

(c) Delegation of Powers.—The commission may delegate to the manager of the State compensation insurance fund, or to any other officer, under such rules and regulations and subject to such conditions as it may from time to time prescribe, any of the powers, functions or duties, conferred or imposed on the commission under the provisions of this act in connection with the State compensation insurance fund, the administration, management and conduct of the business and affairs relating thereto, and the officer or officers to whom such delegation is made may exercise the powers and functions and perform the duties delegated with the same force and effect as the commission, but subject to its approval.

(d) Commission not Personally Liable.—The commission shall not, nor shall any commissioner, officer or employee thereof, be personally liable in his private capacity for or on account of any act performed or contract or other obligation entered into or undertaken in an official capacity, in good faith and without intent to defraud, in connection with the administration, management or conduct of the State compensation insurance fund, its business or other affairs relating thereto.

§ 39. Powers of Manager.—In conducting the business and affairs of the State compensation insurance fund, the manager of the said fund or other officer to whom such power and authority may be delegated by the commission, as provided by subsection (c) of section 38 hereof, shall have full power and authority:

(1) To Enter into Contracts.—To enter into contracts of insurance, insuring employers against liability for compensation and insuring to employees and other persons the compensation fixed by this act.

(2) To Sell Annuities.—To sell annuities covering compensation benefits.

(3) To Decline to Insure.—To decline to insure any risk in which the minimum requirements of the commission with regard to construction, equipment and operation are not observed, or which is beyond the safe carrying of the State compensation insurance fund, but shall not have power or authority, except as otherwise provided in this subdivision, to refuse to insure any compensation risk tendered with the premium therefor.

(4) To Reinsure.—To reinsure any risk or any part thereof.

(5) To Inspect and Audit Pay-rolls.—To inspect and audit, or cause to be inspected and audited the pay-rolls of employers applying for insurance against liability for compensation.

(6) To Make Rules and Regulations.—To make rules and regulations for the settlement of claims against said fund and to determine to whom and through whom the payments of compensation are to be made.

(7) To Contract for Treatment.—To contract with physicians, surgeons and hospitals for medical and surgical treatment and the care and nursing of injured persons entitled to benefits from said fund.

§ 40. (a) Commission to Determine Rates With Regard to Hazards. It shall be the duty of the commission to fix and determine the rates to be charged by the State compensation insurance fund for compensation insurance coverage as herein provided, and such rates shall be fixed with due regard to the physical hazards of each industry, occupation or employment and, within each class, so far as practicable, in accordance with the elements of bodily risk or safety or other hazard of the plant or premises or work of each insured and the manner in which the same is conducted, together with a reasonable regard for the accident experience and history of each such insured, and the means and methods of caring for injured persons, but such rates shall take no account of the extent to which the employees in any particular establishment have or have not persons dependent upon them for support.

(b) Basis of Rates.—The rates so made shall be that percentage of the pay-roll of any employer which, in the long run and on the average, shall produce a sufficient sum, when invested at three and one-half per cent interest:

(1) To carry all claims to maturity; that is to say the rates shall be based upon the "reserve" and not upon the "assessment" plan;

(2) To meet the reasonable expenses of conducting the business of such insurance;

(3) To produce a reasonable surplus to cover the catastrophe hazard.

§ 41. Kinds of Contracts—Temporary Cover—Cancellation.—The insurance contracts entered into between the State compensation insurance fund and persons insuring therewith may be either limited or unlimited and issued for one year or, in the form of stamps or tickets or otherwise, for one month or any number of months less than one year, or for one day or any number of days less than one month, or during the performance of any particular work, job or contract; provided, that the rates charged shall be proportionately greater for a shorter than for a longer period and that a minimum premium charge shall be fixed in accordance with a reasonable rate for insuring one person for one day. Nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent any person applying for compensation insurance from being covered temporarily until the application is finally acted upon, or to prevent the insured from surrendering any policy at any time and having returned to him the difference between the premium paid and the premium at the customary short term for the shorter period which such policy has already run. The State compensation insurance fund may at any time cancel any policy, after due notice, upon a pro rata basis of premium repayment.

§ 42. Policies Including Employers.—The State compensation insurance fund may issue policies, including with their employees, employers who perform labor incidental to their occupations, and including also members of the families of such employers engaged in the same occupation, such policies insuring to such employers and working members of their families the same compensations provided for their employees, and at the same rates; provided, that the estimations of their wage values, respectively, shall be reasonable and separately stated in and added to the valuation of their pay-rolls upon which their premium is computed. Such policies may likewise be sold to self-employing persons and to casual employees, who, for the purpose of such insurance, shall be deemed to be employees within the meaning of sections 12 to 35, inclusive, of this act.

§ 43. Treasurer Custodian of Fund.—The treasurer of the State shall be custodian of all moneys and securities belonging to the State compensation insurance fund, except as otherwise provided in this act, and shall be liable on his official bond for the safekeeping thereof. All moneys belonging to said fund collected or received by the commission, or the manager of the State compensation insurance fund, under and by virtue of the provisions of this act, shall be delivered to the treasurer of the State or may be deposited to his credit in such bank or banks throughout the State as he may, from time to time, designate, and such moneys when so delivered or deposited shall be credited by the treasurer to the said fund and no moneys received or collected on account of such fund shall be expended or paid out of such fund without first passing into the State treasury and being drawn therefrom as provided in this act. In like manner there shall be delivered to the treasurer all securities belonging to said fund which shall be held by him until otherwise disposed of as provided in this act.

§ 44. (a) Monthly Estimate of Current Disbursements.—The commission shall submit each month to the State board of control an estimate of the amount necessary to meet the current disbursements from the State compensation insurance fund during each succeeding calendar month and, when such estimate shall be approved by the State board of control, the controller is directed to draw his warrant on said fund in favor of said commission for such amount, and the treasurer is authorized and directed to pay the same.

(b) Monthly Account.—At the end of each calendar month the commission shall account to the State board of control and the State controller for all moneys so received, furnishing proper vouchers therefor.

(c) Semi-annual Valuation.—During the months of January and of July of each year the State board of control or the commission shall cause a valuation to be made of the properties and securities which have been acquired and which are held for said fund, and shall report the results of the same to the state controller, whose duty it shall be to keep a special ledger account showing all of the assets pertaining to the state compensation insurance fund. In the controller's general ledger this fund account may be carried merely as a cash account, like other accounts of funds in the state treasury, and therein only the actual cash coming into the state compensation insurance fund shall be credited to such fund.

§ 45. (a) Investments.—The commission shall cause all moneys in the state compensation insurance fund, in excess of current requirements, to be invested and reinvested, from time to time, in the securities now or hereafter authorized by law for the investment of funds of savings banks.

(b) Estimate of Amount Required for Investment.—The commission shall, from time to time, submit to the state board of control an estimate of the amount required by it for investment, which estimate shall be accompanied by a full description of the kind and character of the investments to be made and, when such estimate shall be approved by the state board of control, the controller is directed to draw his warrant on the state compensation insurance fund in favor of the commission for such amount and the treasurer is authorized and directed to pay the same.

(c) Account.—At the end of each calendar month the commission shall account to the said board of control and the state controller for all moneys so received, furnishing proper vouchers therefor.

(d) All moneys in said fund, in excess of current requirements and not otherwise invested, may be deposited by the state treasurer from time to time in the banks authorized by law to receive deposits of public moneys under the same rules and regulations that govern the deposit of other public funds and the interest accruing thereon shall be credited to the state compensation insurance fund.

§ 46. Public Corporation may Insure.—Each county, city and county, city, school district or other public corporation, within the state, may insure against its liability for compensation, with the state compensation insurance fund and not with any other insurance carrier unless such fund shall refuse to accept the risk when the application for insurance is made, and the premium therefor shall be a proper charge against the general fund of each such political subdivision of the state.

§ 47. Public Officers to Transmit Applications.—When the premium rates for insurance in the state compensation insurance fund shall have been established the commission shall furnish schedules of rates and copies of the forms of policy to the commissioner of labor, to the clerk and to the treasurer of every county, city and county, and city in the state, and it shall be the duty of every public officer to whom the foregoing may be furnished to fill out and transmit to the manager of the state compensation insurance fund applications for compensation insurance in such fund and to receive and transmit to said manager all premiums paid on account of any policy issued or applied for.

§ 48. Quarterly Reports.—The commission shall each quarter make to the governor of the state, reports of the business done by the state compensation insurance fund during the previous quarter, and a statement of the fund's resources and liabilities, and it shall be the duty of the state board of control to audit such reports and to cause an abstract thereof to be published one or more times in at least two newspapers of general circulation in the state. The commission shall likewise make to the state insurance commissioner all reports required by law to be made by other insurance carriers.

§ 49. Misrepresenting Pay-roll—Penalty.—Any employer who shall willfully misrepresent the amount of the pay-roll upon which his premium under this act is to be based shall be liable to the state in ten times the amount of the difference in premium paid and the amount the employer should have paid had his pay-roll been correctly computed, and the liability to the state under this section shall be enforced in a civil action in the name of the state compensation insurance fund and any amount so collected shall become a part of said fund.

§ 50. Misrepresenting Pay-roll—Punishment.—Any person who willfully misrepresents any fact in order to obtain insurance at less than the proper rate for such insurance, or in order to obtain any payments out of such fund, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

§ 51. Terms Construed.—The following terms, as used in sections 51 to 72, inclusive, of this act, shall, unless a different meaning is plainly required by the context, be construed as follows:

§ 67. Penalty for Violation of Safety Provision—Burden of Proof. Every employer, employee or other person who, either individually or acting as an officer, agent or employee of a corporation or other person, violates any safety provision contained in sections 52, 53, 54 or 55 of this act, or any part of any such provision, or who shall fail or refuse to comply with any such provision or any part thereof, or who, directly or indirectly, knowingly induces another so to do is guilty of a misdemeanor. § 74. (a) Notice, Order or Decision—How Served.—Any notice, order or decision required by this act to be served upon any person or party either before, during or after the institution of any proceeding before the commission, may be served in the manner provided by chapter V, title XIV of part II of the Code of Civil Procedure of this state, unless otherwise directed by the commission or a member thereof, in which event the same shall be served in accordance with the order or direction of said commission or member thereof.

It may also, in its discretion, appoint general referees who are residents of the county or city and county for which they are appointed and who shall hold office during the pleasure of the commission. Affidavits may be read and witnesses examined as to such objections.

(d) Oath.—Before entering upon his duties, the referee must be sworn before an officer authorized to administer oaths, faithfully and fairly to hear and determine the allegations and evidence of the parties in relation to the matters in the reference, and to make just findings and report according to his understanding.

(e) Findings.—The referee must report his findings in writing to the commission within twenty days after the testimony is closed. Such report shall be made in the form prescribed by the commission and shall include all matters required to be included in the order of reference or by the rules of the commission. The facts found and conclusions of law must be separately stated.

(f) Action on Report.—Upon the filing of the report of the referee, the commission may confirm, adopt, modify or set aside the same or any part thereof and may, either with or without further proceedings, and either with or without notice, enter its order, findings, decision or award based in whole or in part upon the report of the referee.

§ 77. (a) Rules of Evidence—Informality.—All hearings and investigations before the commission or any member thereof, or any referee appointed thereby, shall be governed by this act and by the rules of practice and procedure adopted by the commission, and in the conduct thereof neither the commission nor any member thereof nor any referee appointed thereby shall be bound by the technical rules of evidence. No informality in any proceeding or in the manner of taking testimony shall invalidate any order, decision, award, rule or regulation made, approved or confirmed by the commission.

(b) Depositions.—The commission or any member thereof or any party to the action or proceeding may, in any investigation or hearing before the commission, cause the deposition of witnesses residing within or without the state to be taken in the manner prescribed by law for like depositions in civil actions in the superior courts of this state, and to that end may compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, documents, papers and accounts.

§ 78. Witnesses.—The commission and each member thereof, its secretary and referees, shall have power to administer oaths, certify to all official acts, and to issue subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses and the production of papers, books, accounts, documents and testimony in any inquiry, investigation, hearing or proceeding in any part of the state. Each witness who shall appear, by order of the commission or a member thereof, or a referee appointed thereby, shall be entitled to receive, if demanded, for his attendance the same fees and mileage allowed by law to a witness in civil cases, which amount shall be paid by the party at whose request such witness is subpoenaed, unless otherwise ordered by the commission. When any witness who has not been required to attend at the request of any party is subpoenaed by the commission his fees and mileage may be paid from the funds appropriated for the use of the commission in the same manner as other expenses of the commission are paid. Any witness subpoenaed, except one whose fees and mileage may be paid from the funds of the commission, may, at the time of service, demand the fee to which he is entitled for travel to and from the place at which he is required to appear, and one day's attendance. If such witness demands such fees at the time of service, and they are not at that time paid or tendered, he shall not be required to attend before the commission, member thereof, or referee as directed in the subpoena. All fees or mileage to which any witness is entitled under the provisions of this section may be collected by action therefor instituted by the person to whom such fees are payable.

§ 79. Authority of Superior Court—Contempt.—The superior court in and for the county, or city and county, in which any inquiry, investigation, hearing or proceeding may be held by the commission or any member thereof or referee appointed thereby, shall have the power to compel the attendance of witnesses, the giving of testimony and the production of papers, including books, accounts and documents, as required by any subpoena issued by the commission or member thereof or referee. The commission or the member thereof or the referee, before whom the testimony is to be given or produced, in case of the refusal of any witness to attend or testify or produce any papers required by such subpoena, may report to the superior court in and for the county, or city and county, in which the proceeding is pending, by petition, setting forth that due notice has been given of the time and place of attendance of said witness, or the production of said papers, and that the witness has been subpoenaed in the manner prescribed in this act, and that the witness has failed and refused to attend or produce the papers required by the subpoena, or has refused to answer questions propounded to him in the course of such proceeding, and ask an order of said court, compelling the witness to attend and testify or produce said papers before the commission. The court, upon the petition of the commission or such member thereof or referee, shall enter an order directing the witness to appear before the court at a time and place to be fixed by the court in such order, the time to be not more than ten days from the date of the order, and then and there show cause why he had not attended and testified or produced said papers before the commission, member thereof or referee. A copy of said order shall be served upon said witness. If it shall appear to the court that said subpoena was regularly issued by the commission or member thereof or referee, the court shall thereupon enter an order that said witness appear before the commission or member thereof or referee at a time and place to be fixed in such order, and testify or produce the required papers, and upon failure to obey said order, said witness shall be dealt with as for contempt of court. The remedy provided in this section is cumulative, and shall not be construed to impair or interfere with the power of the commission or a member thereof to enforce the attendance of witnesses and the production of papers, and to punish for contempt in the same manner and to the same extent as courts of record.

§ 80. (a) Power, Authority and Jurisdiction.—The commission is hereby vested with full power, authority and jurisdiction to do and perform any and all things, whether herein specifically designated, or in addition thereto, which are necessary or convenient in the exercise of any power, authority or jurisdiction conferred upon it under this act.

(b) Power to Issue Writs—Process.—The commission and each member thereof shall have power to issue writs of summons, warrants of attachment, warrants of commitment and all necessary process in proceedings for contempt, in like manner and to the same extent as courts of record. The process issued by the commission or any member thereof shall extend to all parts of the State and may be served by any persons authorized to serve process of courts of record, or by any person designated for that purpose by the commission or any member thereof. The person executing any such process shall receive such compensation as may be allowed by the commission, not to exceed the fees now prescribed by law for similar services, and such fees shall be paid in the same manner as provided herein for the fees of witnesses.

§ 81. (a) Rehearing.—Any party or person aggrieved directly or indirectly by any final order, decision, award, rule or regulation of the commission, made or entered under any provision contained in this act, may apply to the commission for a rehearing in respect to any matters determined or covered by such final order, decision, award, rule or regulation and specified in the application for rehearing within the time and in the manner hereinafter specified, and not otherwise.

(b) No Action in Court Unless Application Made.—No cause of action arising out of any such final order, decision or award shall accrue in any court to any person until and unless such person shall have made application for such rehearing, and such application shall have been granted or denied; provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the enforcement of any such final order, decision, award, rule or regulation in the manner provided in this act.

(c) Application.—Such application shall set forth specifically and in full detail the grounds upon which the applicant considers said final order, decision, award, rule or regulation is unjust or unlawful, and every issue to be considered by the commission. Such application must be verified upon oath in the same manner as required for verified pleadings in the courts of record and must contain a general statement of any evidence or other matters upon which the applicant relies in support thereof. The applicant for such rehearing shall be deemed to have finally waived all objections, irregularities and illegalities concerning the matter upon which such rehearing is sought other than those set forth in the application for such rehearing.

(d) Answer.—A copy of such application for rehearing shall be served forthwith on all adverse parties, if any, and any such adverse party may file an answer thereto within ten days thereafter. Such answer must likewise be verified. If there are no adverse parties, such application may be heard ex parte or the commission may require the application for rehearing to be served on such parties as may be designated by it.

(e) Proceeding on Rehearing.—Upon filing of an application for a rehearing, if the issues raised thereby have theretofore been adequately considered by the commission, it may determine the same by confirming without hearing its previous determination, or if a rehearing is necessary to determine the issues raised, the commission shall order a rehearing thereon and consider and determine the matter or matters raised by such application. Notice of the time and place of such rehearing shall be given to the applicant and the adverse parties, if any, and to such other persons as the commission may order.

(f) Decision After Rehearing.—If after such rehearing and a consideration of all the facts, including those arising since the making of the order, decision or award involved, the commission shall be of the opinion that the original order, decision or award or any part thereof, is in any respect unjust or unwarranted, or should be changed, the commission may abrogate, change or modify the same. An order, decision or award made after such rehearing, abrogating, changing or modifying the original order, decision or award shall have the same force and effect as an original order, decision or award, but shall not affect any right or the enforcement of any right arising from or by virtue of the original order, decision or award, unless so ordered by the commission. An application for a rehearing shall be deemed to have been denied by the commission unless it shall have been acted upon within thirty days from the date of filing; provided, however, that the commission may upon good cause being shown therefor, extend the time within which it may act upon such application for rehearing for not exceeding thirty days.

§ 82. (a) Rehearing of Order Awarding or Denying Compensation—Grounds.—At any time within twenty days after the service of any final order or decision of the commission awarding or denying compensation, or arising out of or incidental thereto, any party or parties aggrieved thereby may apply for such rehearing upon one or more of the following grounds and upon no other grounds:

(1) Excess of Powers.—That the commission acted without or in excess of its powers.

(2) Fraud.—That the order, decision or award was procured by fraud.

(3) Insufficient Evidence.—That the evidence does not justify the finding of fact.

(4) New Evidence.—That the applicant has discovered new evidence, material to him, and which he could not, with reasonable diligence have discovered and produced at the hearing.

(5) Insufficiency of Findings.—That the findings of fact do not support the order, decision or award.

(b) Right of Commission to Review.—Nothing contained in this section shall, however, be construed to limit the right of the commission, at any time within two hundred forty-five weeks from the date of its award, and from time to time, after due notice and upon the application of any party interested, to review, diminish or increase, within the limits provided by this act, any compensation awarded upon the grounds that the disability of the person in whose favor such award was made has either increased or diminished or terminated.

§ 83. (a) Rehearing of Any Other Order—Grounds.—At any time within twenty days after the service of any other final order, decision, rule or regulation made by the commission under the provisions of this act, any party or parties, person or persons aggrieved thereby or otherwise affected, directly or indirectly, may apply for such rehearing upon one or more of the following grounds and upon no other grounds:

(1) Excess.—That the commission acted without or in excess of its powers.

(2) Fraud.—That the order or decision was procured by fraud.

(3) Unreasonableness.—That the order, decision, rule or regulation is unreasonable.

(b) Right of Commission to Adopt New Standards.—Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to limit the right of the commission, at any time and from time to time, to adopt new or different rules or regulations or new or different standards of safety, or to abrogate, change or modify any existing rule, regulation, or standard, or any part thereof, or to deprive the commission of continuing jurisdiction over the same or to prevent the enforcement in the manner provided by this act, of any rules, regulations or standard of the commission, or any part thereof, when so adopted, or changed, or modified.

§ 84. (a) Certiorari.—Within thirty days after the application for a rehearing is denied, or, if the application is granted, within thirty days after the rendition of the decision on the rehearing, any party affected thereby may apply to the Supreme Court of this State or to the District Court of Appeal of the appellate district in which such person resides, for a writ of certiorari or review (hereinafter referred to as a writ of review) for the purpose of having the lawfulness of the original order, decision or award or the order, decision or award on rehearing inquired into and determined.

(b) Return.—Such writ shall be made returnable not later than thirty days after the date of the issuance thereof, and shall direct the commission to certify its record in the case to the court. On the return day the cause shall be heard in the court unless for good cause the same be continued. No new or additional evidence may be introduced in such court but the cause shall be heard on the record to the commission as certified to by it. The review shall not be extended further than to determine whether or not:

(1) Excess.—The commission acted without or in excess of its powers.

(2) Fraud.—The order, decision or award was procured by fraud.

(3) Unreasonableness.—The order, decision, rule or regulation is unreasonable.

(4) Whether Findings Support Decision.—If findings of fact are made, whether or not such findings of fact support the order, decision or award under review.

(c) Findings and Conclusions Conclusive.—The findings and conclusions of the committee on questions of fact shall be conclusive and final and shall not be subject to review; such questions of fact shall include ultimate facts and the findings and conclusions of the commission. The commission and each party to the action or proceeding before the commission shall have the right to appear in the review proceeding. Upon the hearing the court shall enter judgment either affirming or modifying or setting aside the order, decision or award.

(d) Proceedings in the Courts—Jurisdiction to Review—Mandamus. The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure of this State relating to writs of review shall, so far as applicable and not in conflict with this act, apply to proceedings in the courts under the provisions of this section. No court of this State (except the Supreme Court and the District Courts of Appeal to the extent herein specified) shall have jurisdiction to review, reverse, correct or annul any order, decision or award of the commission or to suspend or delay the operation or execution thereof, or to restrain, enjoin or interfere with the commission in the performance of its duties; provided, that a writ of mandamus shall lie from the Supreme Court or the District Courts of Appeal in all proper cases.

§ 85. (a) Effect of Filing Application for Rehearing.—The filing of an application for a rehearing shall have the effect of suspending the order, decision, award, rule or regulation affected, in so far as the same applies to the parties to such application, unless otherwise ordered by the commission, for a period of ten days, and the commission may, in its discretion and upon such terms and conditions as it may by order direct, stay, suspend or postpone the same during the pendency of such rehearing.

(b) Stay of Proceedings on Review.—The filing of an application for, or the pendency of, a writ of review, shall not of itself stay or suspend the operation of the order, decision, award, rule or regulation of the commission subject to review, but the court before which such application is filed may, in its discretion, stay or suspend in whole or in part the operation of the order, decision, award, rule or regulation of the commission, subject to review upon such terms and conditions as it may by order direct.

§ 86. (a) Rule of Construction.—Whenever this act, or any part or section thereof, is interpreted by a court, it shall be liberally construed by such court.

(b) Constitutionality.—If any section, subsection, subdivision, sentence, clause or phrase of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this act. The legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, subsection, subdivision, sentence, clause and phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, subdivisions, sentences, clauses or phrases is declared unconstitutional.

(c) Employers Engaged in Interstate Commerce.—This act shall not be construed to apply to employers or employments which, according to law, are so engaged in interstate commerce as not to be subject to the legislative power of the State or to employees injured while they are so engaged, except in so far as this act may be permitted to apply under the provisions of the constitution of the United States or the acts of Congress.

§ 87. (a) Election to Come Under This Act.—Any employer, having in his employment any employee not included within the term "employee" as defined by section 14 of this act or not entitled to compensation under this act, and any such employee, may, by their joint election, elect to come under the compensation provisions of this act in the manner hereinafter provided.

(b) Election on Part of Employer.—Such election on the part of the employer shall be made by filing with the commission a written statement to the effect that he accepts the compensation provisions of this act, which, when filed, shall operate, within the meaning of section 12 of this act, to subject him to the compensation provisions of this act, and of all acts amendatory thereof, for the term of one year from the date of filing, and thereafter without further act on his part, for successive terms of one year each, unless such employer shall, at least sixty days prior to the expiration of such first or any succeeding year, file in the office of the commission a notice in writing that he withdraws his election. Such acceptance shall not be held to include employees whose employment is both casual and not in the usual course of the trade, business, profession or occupation of the employer, unless expressly mentioned therein.

(c) Employee Deemed to have Accepted.—Any employee in the service of any such employer, shall be deemed to have accepted, and shall, within the meaning of section 12 of this act, be subject to the compensation provisions of this act, and of any act amendatory thereof, if, at the time of the accident for which liability is claimed:

(1) The employer charged with such liability is subject to the compensation provisions of this act, whether the employee has actual notice thereof or not; and

(2) Such employee shall not, at the time of entering into his contract of hire, have given to his employer notice in writing that he elects not to be subject to the compensation provisions of this act; or, in the event that such contract of hire was made in advance of the election

by the employer, such employee shall have given to his employer notice in writing that he elects to be subject to such provisions, or without giving either of such notices, shall have remained in the service of such employer for thirty days after the employer has filed his election.

§ 88. Report to the Governor.—The commission shall, not later than the first day of December of each calendar year, subsequent to the year 1913, make a report to the governor of the State covering its entire operations and proceedings for the previous fiscal year, with such suggestions or recommendations as it may deem of value for public information. Such report shall be printed and a copy thereof furnished to all applicants within this State.

§ 89. Appropriation.—The sum of one hundred eighty-seven thousand four hundred seventy dollars is hereby appropriated out of any money in the State treasury, not otherwise appropriated, to be used by the industrial accident commission in carrying out the purposes of this act, and the controller is hereby directed to draw his warrant on the general fund from time to time in favor of said industrial accident commission for the amounts expended under its direction, and the treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to pay the same.

§ 90. Acts Repealed.—All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

§ 91. Not Voted Active.—The compensation provisions of this act shall not apply to any injury sustained prior to the taking effect thereof.

RULES OF THE INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENT BOARD OF CALIFORNIA.

The following rules went into effect under the provisions of chapter 399, Laws 1911, and will probably be the basis of new rules by the new commission under the act of 1913.

Rule I. Preliminary.—Chapter 399, Laws 1911, may be cited as the "Employers' Liability Act," and these rules as the "Industrial Accident Board Rules." All words and phrases used in these rules shall have the same meaning as is given to the same words and phrases in sections 3 to 31 of the "Employers' Liability Act."

Rule II. Office of Industrial Accident Board.—The office of the Industrial Accident Board is hereby established at room 907, Royal Insurance Building, Pine and Sansome streets, San Francisco. Such office shall be open during such hours as are fixed by law for the transaction of public business. The board may from time to time hold public sessions in such other places in the State as convenience may require.

Rule III. Posting of Notices.—Employers shall immediately post, and keep posted, all notices required to be posted by the Industrial Accident Board, in conspicuous places in their offices and works, where such notices are most likely to be seen and read by their employees.

Rule IV. Reports.—Employers and physicians attending injured employees shall, within ten days after the happening of an accident causing a loss of industrial time lasting more than one week, make a full report thereof to the Industrial Accident Board. In any case where a compromise of liability for accident is made directly by the employer and employees, a full report of such compromise shall be immediately made by the employer to the Industrial Accident Board.

Rule V. Parties to Proceedings.—When a controversy arises concerning any matter over which the Industrial Accident Board has jurisdiction, any party to the controversy may apply to the board for relief. The party making such application shall be known as the "applicant." All other persons necessary to enable the board effectively and completely to adjudicate upon and settle all questions involved, shall be made parties to the application and shall be known as the "respondents."

An application on behalf of the dependents of a deceased workman for the settlement of a controversy may be made by the legal personal representatives (if any) of the deceased workman on behalf of such dependents or by the dependents themselves. All such dependents shall be joined in the application either as applicants or respondents.

An application for the settlement of a controversy respecting medical attendance or the burial expense of a workman who leaves no dependents shall be made by the legal representatives (if any) of the deceased workman. If there are no such personal representatives, the application may be made by any creditor to whom any such expenses are due, and all other such creditors known as the applicant must be joined as respondents. If the amount awarded is not sufficient for the payment of such expenses in full, it shall be divided in proportion to the respective amounts found to be due.

Rule VI. Joinder of Parties.—All persons may be joined as applicants in whom any right to any relief in respect of or arising out of the same transaction or series of transactions is alleged to exist.

All persons may be joined as respondents against whom the right to any relief is alleged to exist, whether jointly, severally, or in the alternative, and the board will of its own motion order that any additional party or parties be joined, when it deems their presence necessary.

Rule VII. Pleadings.—(1) Application. The applicant shall file a written application for relief with the Industrial Accident Board, containing the names of all parties, a general statement of the claim in controversy, the facts relating thereto, and of the relief sought to be obtained. The board will thereupon fix a time and place for the hearing thereof, which shall not be more than forty (40) days after such filing and will serve a copy of such application, together with the notice of hearing, upon each adverse party. Either party shall have the right to be present at any hearing, in person or by attorney or any other agent, and present such testimony as shall be pertinent to the controversy.

(2) Answer. When any respondent desires to disclaim any interest in the subject matter of the claim in controversy, or considers that the application is in any respect inaccurate or incomplete or desires to bring any fact, paper or document to the attention of the board as a defense to the claim or otherwise, he must, within ten days after the service of the application, file with or mail to the board his answer, setting forth the particulars in which the application is inaccurate or incomplete and the facts upon which he intends to rely. A copy thereof must likewise be served upon each party to the proceedings. Any material allegation contained in the application and not controverted in the answer will be deemed to be admitted.

Rule VIII. Service of Pleadings.—Any pleading or document may be served either by delivering to and leaving with the person to be served, a copy thereof, or by mailing to such person, by United States registered mail a copy thereof in a sealed envelope, with the postage thereon fully prepaid, addressed to such person at his last known place of business or residence.

Where a pleading or document is served by mail, it shall, unless the contrary be proved, be deemed to have been served, at the time when the letter containing the same would have been delivered in the ordinary course of post. Proof of such mailing shall be prima facie proof of service.

Rule IX. Awards.—An award may be rendered in favor of or against any one or more of the applicants or respondents, according to their respective rights and liabilities. In every award the compensation to be paid to each person shall be set forth separately.

Rule X. Examiner.—Whenever convenience may require, the Industrial Accident Board will appoint an examiner, whose duty it shall be to aid the board in making settlements between employers and employees, conduct investigations, take testimony, and to make report of any and all matters relating to the claim in controversy to the board. The board may at any time, and with or without notice to either party, cause testimony to be taken, or any other investigation to be made.

Rule XI. Depositions.—Depositions may be taken before any notary public or other officer authorized to administer oaths, and, when so taken, used upon any hearing where the convenience of the witnesses requires. Such depositions shall be taken upon notice in the same manner as in courts of records.

Rule XII. Stenographic Reporter.—Either party may, upon payment of the costs attendant thereon, require that the testimony produced at any hearing be taken down and transcribed by a shorthand reporter.

Rule XIII. Amendments.—The board, or any member thereof, may at any time, with or without notice, upon good cause shown, permit any amendment to any pleading or open up any default.

The board may amend or modify or vacate any order or award upon motion of either party or upon its own motion. The moving party shall serve upon all other parties to the proceeding a notice of such motion five days prior to the time when the same is to be heard, unless otherwise ordered by the board or a member thereof.

Rule XIV. Extension of Time.—The board, or any member thereof, may, either with or without notice, grant extensions of time within which to comply with any rule upon good cause shown, and may likewise grant adjournments of hearings.

Rule XV. Stipulations.—Parties to a controversy may stipulate the facts in writing, and the board may thereupon make its order or award based upon such stipulation.

Rule XVI. Exceptions.—At any hearing had before the board, or before any examiner appointed by it, a note shall be made of any question of law raised or exception taken and of the facts in evidence in relation thereto.

Rule XVII. Appeals.—Any party aggrieved may, within thirty (30) days from the date of the award, file with the Industrial Accident Board an application, in writing, for a review of such award, stating generally the grounds upon which a review is sought, the points upon which he relies, and the facts in evidence relating thereto. A copy of such application shall at the same time be served by the appellant upon all adverse parties. The adverse party or parties may, within ten (10) days thereafter, file with the board an answer to such application for review, stating generally his objections, his points, and the facts in evidence in relation thereto. The board will thereupon prepare and certify a transcript of the testimony taken and transmit the same, together with all documents and papers on file in the matter, to the Superior Court.

It is hereby ordered that the foregoing rules be, and the same are, adopted as the rules governing the Industrial Accident Board, and for the regulation of practice, and that the same go into effect forthwith.
San Francisco, October 25, 1911.

INSTRUCTIONS AND SCHEDULES.

General Notice.—The Rules and Instructions, Rates and Classifications, given herewith take effect January 1, 1914. In every manual there must be, of necessity, opportunities for improper classification, and for the evasion of the true spirit of the manual. The fund must rely upon its representatives to apply the manual fairly and equitably to the conditions encountered in the solicitation of business. An effort to assign a risk to some manual classification, which may be misinterpreted to cover it, is improper, and will not be approved by the fund. Representatives are requested to seek a manual classification which most fairly and adequately represents the hazard involved in the risk. No perversion of the classification or evasion of the requirements of this manual will be permitted.

General Instructions.—Representatives of the fund should read very carefully the rules, classifications, and rates contained in this manual. No deviation or alteration will be permitted, except as they are promulgated officially by the fund. When changes in this manual are made, agents will be notified as promptly as possible, and they shall thereupon enter such changes herein, and be governed thereby.

Representatives must be especially careful to see that every portion of the application or proposal for insurance is correctly prepared, as this is the basis of the insurance contract, and any inaccuracy or uncertainty as to the nature of the risk may lead to serious misunderstanding and result in dissatisfaction to the assured, to the fund and to its representatives. Classifications shall be stated as in the manual, and an estimate of pay-roll, with the proper premium rate, shall appear in all applications or proposals.

Residences, Farms and Estates.—For employees in connection with residences, farms or estates the following rates shall apply:

Residences: For each "chauffeur," see classification.

For each "coachman," see classification.

For each "gardener," "choreman," or "general laborer," $6 per annum.

For each "house servant," $4 per annum.

For intermittent labor (meaning occasional employment of persons for general labor) a blanket charge of $7 per annum.

Farms: For all employees including house servants a rate of $1.50 for each $100 of actual cash wages exclusive of board and lodging.

Estates: For each "chauffeur," see classification.

For each "coachman," see classification.

For each "farm laborer," see classification.

For each "gardener," "choreman," or "general laborer," $6 per annum.

For each "house servant," $4 per annum.

For intermittent labor (meaning occasional employment of persons for general labor) a blanket charge of $7 per annum.

Minimum Premiums.—A minimum premium is an expression of the lowest premium amount for which a single risk can be written and carried for any period. Where the actual premium computed at the rates is less than the minimum premium the minimum premium shall be the controlling premium for the policy, but where the actual premium computed at the rates is more than the minimum premium, the actual premium shall control. In the event of the cancellation of any policy of insurance or contract with the policy-holder according to its terms, if the minimum premium expressed in the policy is the controlling premium, cancellation shall be upon the basis of the minimum and in accordance with the rules respecting cancellation.

In the case of any risk classified in any schedule except the Contractors' Schedule, where work is performed away from shop or plant, the assured shall be instructed in all such cases that a separate record of pay-roll must be kept and proper rates applied thereto in accordance with the rates and classifications contained in the Contractors' Schedule.

Rates.—The rates cover the entire obligation of compensation for bodily injuries imposed by Chapter 176, Laws of 1913, State of California, including the obligation for statutory medical aid provided in paragraph (a) of section 15. It is not permissible to write a compensation coverage policy including statutory medical aid.

The rates are based on the average hazard in each classification, omitting, however, the hazard involved in any part thereof, for which provision for separate rating has been made. In applying these rates to particular risks, additions or deductions will be made according as the physical inspection of each such risk shows it to be above or below the average for which the rate was formed.

The fund further reserves the right to arbitrarily or specifically rate any risk which may, in the opinion of the fund, require such arbitrary or specific rating.

Medical Aid.—Paragraph (a) of section 15 of the compensation law provides that an injured employee shall be furnished such medical, surgical and hospital treatment, including nursing, medicines, medical and surgical supplies, crutches and apparatus, as may reasonably be required at the time of the injury and thereafter during the disability, but not exceeding ninety days, to cure and relieve from the effects of the injury, the same to be provided by the employer; and in case of his neglect or refusal seasonably to do so the employer to be liable for the reasonable expense incurred by or on behalf of the employee in providing the same. This provision is a part of the compensation plan.

Compensation rates include this obligation. Compensation coverage cannot be written to exclude this obligation.

Pay-roll.—The employer who desires to insure his workmen's compensation obligation must cover all its operations and include all pay-roll of any nature at the proper rates. The term "pay-roll" shall be understood to mean any form of remuneration received by an employee of any character or grade, whether such remuneration is in the form of wages, salaries, allowances, bonuses, board, store certificates, contract price for piece-work, or any other consideration moving from the employer to the employee as a part of the contract of employment. The pay-roll shall not, however, include special reward for meritorious achievement, for discovery, nor pure gratuities, nor the results of voluntary profit-sharing arrangements, provided these or any of them are no part of the contract of employment, or actual consideration therefor.

Executive Officers.—"Executive Officers" shall mean those officers of a corporation commonly styled as president, vice-president, secretary or treasurer, and shall include, in addition thereto, any other executive officers enumerated in and employed by the charter or any regularly adopted by-law of the corporation and who are elected or appointed and empowered by the directors.

Employers may be practically classed in three divisions: individual, copartnership and corporation. An individual employer obtains his remuneration from his business in the form of profits rather than wages, and his remuneration forms no part of that remuneration which furnishes the basis for premium computation under these rules. A copartnership employer represents an arrangement under which each of the partners draws his compensation out of the business theoretically under the form of undivided profits, but practically in an agreed amount known in business as "drawing account" of partner. This remuneration of the various members of a copartnership, no matter how many there may be, does not become a part of the remuneration which furnishes the basis for premium computation.

These conditions find no equivalent where the employer is a corporation, and it is and should be the effort of those devising just and equitable rules for premium distribution to bring all risks to the same level, so far as the character of the employer is concerned, leaving differentials entirely to operations rather than to organization.

In the actual transaction of business the executive officers of a corporation as above defined are in most respects quite like the members of a copartnership as regards the contract of employment.

As respects the remuneration of executive officers as above defined the fund will exclude entirely such remuneration from the pay-roll to which premium rates shall apply, as in this manual provided, or will, at the option of the applicant, include such executive officers within the compensation coverage and no premium charge will be made upon any portion of the earnings of any executive officer in excess of $1,666.66 per annum; that amount shall be arbitrarily considered the annual earnings of each executive officer for the purposes of compensation coverage, but this rule shall not apply to other employees or to persons other than executive officers as above defined.

Clerical Office Employees.—It is permissible to state separately in the schedule the remuneration of office employees in strictly clerical duties, and apply thereto the rates provided in this schedule.

Teams.—Where teams are owned or used by an employer the drivers, helpers, and all other employees, either permanently or temporarily employed in connection with such teams shall be included at their actual earnings in the pay-rolls reported. The rate for compensation insurance shall be $1.50 for each $100 of wages, except the following classifications: "Boilers (steam) installation of," "Millwrights,"

"Safe Movers," "Iron Workers" and "Scrap Iron and Junk Dealers," for which the rates for the classifications in the Contractors' Schedule shall apply. Also except for coal dealers and logging and lumbering operations, for which the compensation rates of the classifications "Coal Merchants—receiving or shipping by water or by land and water," "Coal Merchants—receiving or shipping by land but not by water" and "Logging and Lumbering operations with transportation of logs to mill (not including operation of logging railroad)" shall apply.

Where teams, including drivers, are employed under a contract with the owner of such team for a compensation, only a portion of which is the actual pay-roll of the drivers, one-third of the actual amount paid for such teams under the contract with the owner shall be considered as the pay-roll of the drivers, and included in the policy-holder's pay-roll to which the compensation rate is applicable.

In some occupations involving the use of teams it is the practice of employers to temporarily engage helpers who are paid by the job or by the hour and discharged when the particular undertaking is ended. These employers are usually known as "roustabouts" or "lumpers." There is no continuity of employment, nor is there regular periodical employment. A roustabout or lumber employed upon a job to-day may never be employed again or may be employed frequently or infrequently at irregular intervals. The question whether or not this constitutes casual employment which is excluded from the operation of the compensation law is a serious one, but in view of the probable intention of the legislature, it seems reasonable to assume that although such employment is in a sense casual, it is in connection with the regular business operation of the employer and should not be so regarded. The provision respecting casual employment was intended for application in other directions, such, perhaps, as the employment of an expressman to deliver a package or a boy to run an errand, something not constantly occurring and not really a part of an employer's regular business. Employees of this character should be included at their actual earnings in the pay-rolls reported.

Adjacent States.—For drivers of teams operated in states adjacent to and also in the State of California, the home address of the assured being outside of the limits of the State of California, compensation coverage may be provided, while in the State of California, for $7.50 per driver. Under no circumstances is this rule to apply to teams stabled or located in the State of California, even though they may operate a portion of the time in other States.

Loading and Unloading.—The employees engaged in loading and unloading must be covered by compensation coverage in accordance with these rules. Drivers are to be covered at the rate provided for drivers, subject to the exceptions to that rate, and helpers and all others are to be covered in accordance with the classification which describes the operation undertaken. For example, the unloading of structural iron is covered as to employees at the structural iron rate.

Chauffeurs.—"Chauffeurs" shall mean for the purposes of these rules those engaged in the driving of mechanically propelled vehicles customarily used upon the highways, but not including vehicles operated upon tracks. Chauffeurs may be covered under the rules applicable to drivers, but the minimum rate for a chauffeur shall be one-half per cent of his actual pay-roll. This rule applies to chauffeurs both of commercial cars and those engaged in driving private and pleasure cars. Chauffeurs, including those privately employed upon pleasure cars, can only be covered for compensation when their actual pay-roll is included with the regular business of the employer, or, if the employer has no other business pay-roll, a separate policy may be issued to cover the compensation to one or more chauffeurs, in which event the premium rate shall be as above provided. If the chauffeur lives in the household of the employer, or is boarded or supported by him under any arrangement which makes the cost of such board or support a part of his actual earnings, then his cash wages shall be increased by an amount equal to fifty per cent thereof, and such total amount shall be considered and reported as actual pay-roll. No policy upon chauffeurs privately employed apart from the regular business operations of the employer shall be issued for compensation unless the employer shall warrant that he has no other person in his employ, either in his business or in his household, except those included in his policy.

Limited and Unlimited Insurance.—The rates given are for unlimited compensation insurance, but the fund reserves the right to decline to insure any risk in which the minimum requirements of the industrial accident commission with regard to construction, equipment and operation are not observed, or which is beyond the safe carrying of the State compensation insurance fund.

The fund further reserves the right to decline to grant unlimited insurance on any risk which, in the opinion of the fund, includes a catastrophe hazard beyond the safe carrying of the State compensation insurance fund.

All classifications appearing in this manual marked with a dagger (†) cannot be written for unlimited insurance without authorization by the management. If accepted for limited insurance only, the limit for any one accident or disaster shall not exceed fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000), or such an amount less than that sum which, in the opinion of the management, shall be necessary to bring the risk within the safe carrying of the State compensation insurance fund.

For limited compensation insurance the fund may, at its discretion, allow a reduction from the net rate of ten per cent thereof, or such other percentage reduction as may appear to be warranted.

Additional Interests.—Two or more employers engaged in a common enterprise involving a common pay-roll may obtain compensation coverage without additional charge because of the additional interests involved, it being understood that there is but one obligation for compensation.

Draughtsmen.—It is permissible to state separately in the schedule the remuneration of draughtsmen engaged in strictly office duties and apply thereto the rates provided in the manual for clerical office employees.

In the case of draughtsmen supervising, apply the rates applicable to the hazard in connection with which such draughtsmen are employed.

CONTRACTORS' SCHEDULE.

Minimum Premium, $3.00.

Blasting.—Policies written upon classifications in this schedule marked with an asterisk (*) and expressed to exclude blasting, may be written to cover blasting by the use of the manual classification, rules, and rates therefor. The insured must be instructed in all cases where the separate blasting rate applies, that the amount of blasting pay-roll expended, as defined under this classification, must be separately kept and reported.

Railroads.—The rates in this schedule include the construction, maintenance, and operation by policy-holders of temporary work roads in connection with the work insured, provided such roads are constructed, maintained, and operated exclusively for the prosecution of the work covered by the insurance; that such construction, maintenance and operation is wholly by means of employees of the assured carried on his pay-roll, and that such railroad has no connection with or entry upon the tracks of any other railroad. If conditions are not as above stated, then all pay-rolls engaged in the operation of the road, but not in its construction or maintenance, must be separately kept, stated under the classification, and at the rates provided for railroads in the Miscellaneous Schedule.

This entire rule applies only to the Contractors' Schedule, and not otherwise.

MISCELLANEOUS SCHEDULE.Minimum Premium, $1.50.

Stamping.—All rates in this schedule include stamping hazard, if any.

Blasting.—Policies written upon classification in this schedule marked with an asterisk (*) and expressed to exclude blasting, may be written to cover blasting by the use of the manual classification, rules and rates therefor. If a premium is charged for blasting, and no blasting is done, the minimum premium shall be retained.

Railroad Hazard.—For railroads in connection with manufacturing plants, if insured plant does not supply motive power, no separate charge for railroad hazard. If insured plant supplies motive power, and railroad is entirely upon the premises covered by the policy, no separate charge for railroad hazard. If cars are moved by steam capstan or drum, not itself movable, no separate charge for railroad hazard.

Logging railroads shall not be considered as entirely upon the premises of the insured.

Subject to the foregoing, upon all risks in connection with which a railroad is operated, a separate pay-roll of all employees engaged in the operation, maintenance and repair of such railroad shall be rendered and subjected to the premium rate required in this manual.

UNITED STATES MINING LAWS.

Mineral Lands Reserved.—In all cases lands valuable for minerals shall be reserved from sale, except as otherwise expressly directed by law. (R. S. 2318.)

Mineral Lands Open to Purchase by Citizens.—All valuable mineral deposits in lands belonging to the United States, both surveyed and unsurveyed, are hereby declared to be free and open to exploration and purchase, and the lands in which they are found to occupation and purchase, by citizens of the United States and those who have declared their intention to become such, under regulations prescribed by law, and according to the local customs or rules of miners in the several mining districts, so far as the same are applicable, and not inconsistent with the laws of the United States. (R. S. 2319.)

Length of Mining Claims upon Veins or Lodes.—Mining claims upon veins or lodes of quartz or other rock in place bearing gold, silver, cinnabar, lead, tin, copper, or other valuable deposits, heretofore located, shall be governed as to length along the vein or lode by the customs, regulations, and laws in force at the date of their location. A mining claim located after the tenth day of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, whether located by one or more persons, may equal, but shall not exceed, one thousand five hundred feet in length along the vein or lode; but no location of a mining claim shall be made until the discovery of the vein or lode within the limits of the claim located. No claim shall extend more than three hundred feet on each side of the middle of the vein at the surface; nor shall any claim be limited by any mining regulation to less than twenty-five feet on each side of the middle of the vein at the surface, except where adverse rights existing on the tenth day of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, render such limitation necessary. The end lines of each claim shall be parallel to each other. (R. S. 2320.)

Proof of Citizenship.—Proof of citizenship, under this chapter, may consist, in the case of an individual, of his own affidavit thereof; in the case of an association of persons unincorporated, of the affidavit of their authorized agent, made on his own knowledge or upon information and belief; and in the case of a corporation organized under the laws of the United States, or of any State or Territory thereof, by filing of a certified copy of their charter or certificate of incorporation. (R. S. 2321.)

Locators' Rights of Possession and Enjoyment—Extralateral Rights.

The locators of all mining locations heretofore made or which shall hereafter be made, on any mineral vein, lode, or ledge, situated on the public domain, their heirs and assigns, where no adverse claim exists on the tenth day of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, so long as they comply with the laws of the United States, and with State, Territorial and local regulations not in conflict with the laws of the United States governing their possessory title, shall have the exclusive right of possession and enjoyment of all the surface included within the lines of their locations, and of all veins, lodes, and ledges throughout their entire depth, the top or apex of which lies inside of such surface lines extended downward vertically, although such veins, lodes, or ledges may so far depart from a perpendicular in their course downward as to extend outside the vertical side lines of such surface locations. But their right of possession to such outside parts of such veins or ledges shall be confined to such portions thereof as lie between vertical planes drawn downward as above described, through the end lines of their locations, so continued in their own direction that such planes will intersect such exterior parts of such veins or ledges. And nothing in this section shall authorize the locator or possessor of a vein or lode which extends in its downward course beyond the vertical lines of his claim to enter upon the surface of a claim owned or possessed by another. (R. S. 2322.)

Owners of Tunnels, Rights of.—Where a tunnel is run for the development of a vein or lode, or for the discovery of mines, the owners of such tunnel shall have the right of possession of all veins or lodes within three thousand feet from the face of such tunnel on the line thereof, not previously known to exist, discovered in such tunnel, to the same extent as if discovered from the surface; and locations on the line of such tunnel of veins or lodes not appearing on the surface, made by other parties after the commencement of the tunnel, and while the same is being prosecuted with reasonable diligence, shall be invalid, but failure to prosecute the work on the tunnel for six months shall be considered as an abandonment of the right to all undiscovered veins on the line of such tunnel. (R. S. 2323.)

Regulations Made by Miners—Locations, How Marked—Records—Defaulting Co-owners—Money Expended on Tunnel—Assessment Period Commences January 1st Succeeding Date of Location.—The miners of each mining district may make regulations not in conflict with the laws of the United States, or with the laws of the State or Territory in which the district is situated, governing the location, manner of recording, amount of work necessary to hold possession of a mining claim, subject to the following requirements: The location must be distinctly marked on the ground so that its boundaries can be readily traced. All records of mining claims hereafter made shall contain the name or names of the locators, the date of the location, and such a description of the claim or claims located by reference to some natural object or permanent monument as will identify the claim. On each claim located after the tenth day of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, and until a patent has been issued therefor, not less than one hundred dollars' worth of labor shall be performed or improvements made during each year. On all claims located prior to the tenth day of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, ten dollars' worth of labor shall be performed or improvements made by the 1st day of January, eighteen hundred and seventy-five, and each year thereafter, for each one hundred feet in length along the vein until a patent has been issued therefor; but where such claims are held in common, such expenditure may be made upon any one claim; and upon a failure to comply with these conditions the claim or mine upon which such failure occurred shall be open to relocation in the same manner as if no location of the same had ever been made, provided that the original locators, their heirs, assigns, or legal representatives, have not resumed work upon the claim after failure and before such location. Upon the failure of any one of several co-owners to contribute his proportion of the expenditures required hereby, the co-owners who have performed the labor or made the improvements may, at the expiration of the year, give such delinquent co-owner personal notice in writing or notice by publication in the newspaper published nearest the claim for at least once a week for ninety days, and if at the expiration of ninety days after such notice in writing or by publication such delinquent should fail or refuse to contribute his proportion of the expenditure required by this section his interest in the claim shall become the property of his co-owners who have made the required expenditures. (R. S. 2324.)

Where a person or company has or may run a tunnel for the purpose of developing a lode or lodes, owned by said person or company, the money so expended in said tunnel shall be taken and considered as expended on said lode or lodes, whether located prior to or since the passage of said act; and such person or company shall not be required to perform work on the surface of said lode or lodes in order to hold the same. (18 Stats. at Large, 315.)

Provided, that the period within which the work is required to be done annually on all unpatented mineral claims shall commence on the first day of January succeeding the date of location of such claim, and this section shall apply to all claims located since the tenth day of May, Anno Domini eighteen hundred and seventy-two. (21 Stats. at Large, 61.)

Patents for Mineral Lands, How Obtained—Application for Patent by Agent.—A patent for any land claimed and located for valuable deposits may be obtained in the following manner: Any person, association, or corporation authorized to locate a claim under this chapter, having claimed and located a piece of land for such purposes, who has, or have, complied with the terms of this chapter, may file in the proper land office an application for a patent, under oath, showing such compliance, together with a plat and field-notes of the claim or claims in common, made by or under the direction of the United States surveyor general, showing accurately the boundaries of the claim or claims, which shall be distinctly marked by monuments on the ground, and shall post a copy of such plat, together with a notice of such application for a patent, in a conspicuous place on the land embraced in such plat previous to the filing of the application for a patent, and shall file an affidavit of at least two persons that such notice has been duly posted, and shall file a copy of the notice in such land office, and shall thereupon be entitled to a patent for the land, in the manner following: The register of the land office, upon the filing of such application, plat, field-notes, notices, and affidavits, shall publish a notice that such application has been made, for the period of sixty days, in a newspaper to be by him designated as published nearest to such claim; and he shall also post such notice in his office for the same period. The claimant at the time of filing this application, or at any time thereafter, within the sixty days of publication, shall file with the register a certificate of the United States surveyor general that five hundred dollars' worth of labor has been expended or improvements made upon the claim by himself or grantors; that the plat is correct, with such further description by such reference to natural objects or permanent monuments as shall identify the claim, and furnish an accurate description to be incorporated in the patent. At the expiration of the sixty days of publication the claimant shall file his affidavit, showing that the plat and notice have been posted in a conspicuous place on the claim during such period of publication. If no adverse claim shall have been filed with the register and the receiver of the proper land office at the expiration of the sixty days of publication, it shall be assumed that the applicant is entitled to a patent, upon the payment to the proper officer of five dollars per acre, and that no adverse claim exists; and thereafter no objection from third parties to the issuance of a patent shall be heard, except it be shown that the applicant has failed to comply with the terms of this chapter. (R. S. 3925.)

Provided, that where the claimant for a patent is not a resident of or within the land district wherein the vein, lode, ledge, or deposit sought to be patented is located, the application for patent and the affidavits required to be made in this section by the claimant for such patent may be made by his, her, or its authorized agent, where said agent is conversant with the facts sought to be established by said affidavits: And provided, that this section shall apply to the applications now pending for patents to mineral lands. (21 Stats. at Large, 61.)

making the same, and shall show the nature, boundaries, and extent of such adverse claim, and all proceedings, except the publication of notice and making and filing of the affidavit thereof, shall be stayed until the controversy shall have been settled or decided by a court of competent jurisdiction, or the adverse claim waived. It shall be the duty of the adverse claimant, within thirty days after filing his claim, to commence proceedings in a court of competent jurisdiction, to determine the question of the right of possession, and prosecute the same with reasonable diligence to final judgment; and a failure so to do shall be a waiver of his adverse claim. After such judgment shall have been rendered, the party entitled to the possession of the claim, or any portion thereof, may, without giving further notice, file a certified copy of the judgment-roll with the register of the land office, together with the certificate of the surveyor general that the requisite amount of labor has been expended or improvements made thereon, and the description required in other cases, and shall pay to the receiver five dollars per acre for his claim, together with the proper fees, whereupon the whole proceedings and the judgment-roll shall be certified by the register to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and a patent shall issue thereon for the claim, or such portion thereof as the applicant shall appear, from the decision of the court, to rightly possess. If it appears from the decision of the court that several parties are entitled to separate and different portions of the claim, each party may pay for his portion of the claim with the proper fees, and file the certificate and description by the surveyor general, whereupon the register shall certify the proceedings and judgment-roll to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, as in the preceding case, and patents shall issue to the several parties according to their respective rights. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the alienation of a title conveyed by a patent for a mining claim to any person whatever. (R. S. 2326.)

The adverse claim required by section twenty-three hundred and twenty-six of the Revised Statutes may be verified by the oath of any duly authorized agent or attorney in fact of the adverse claimant cognizant of the facts stated; and the adverse claimant, if residing or at the time being beyond the limits of the district wherein the claim is situated, may make oath to the adverse claim before the clerk of any court of record of the United States or the State or Territory where the adverse claimant may then be, or before any notary public of such State or Territory. (22 Stats. at Large, 49.)

Applicants for mineral patents, if residing beyond the limits of the district wherein the claim is situated, may make any oath or affidavit required for proof of citizenship before the clerk of any court of record, or before any notary public of any State or Territory. (22 Stats. at Large, 49.)

Description of Mining Vein or Lode Claims—Patents to Conform to Official Monuments—Monuments to Govern Descriptions.—The description of vein or lode claims upon surveyed lands shall designate the location of the claims with reference to the lines of the public survey, but need not conform therewith; but where patents have been or shall be issued for claims upon unsurveyed lands, the surveyors general, in extending the public survey, shall adjust the same to the boundaries of said patented claims so as in no case to interfere with or change the true location of such claims as they are officially established upon the ground. Where patents have issued for mineral lands, those lands only shall be segregated and shall be deemed to be patented which are bounded by the lines actually marked, defined, and established upon the ground by the monuments of the official survey upon which the patent grant is based, and surveyors general in executing subsequent patent surveys, whether upon surveyed or unsurveyed lands, shall be governed accordingly. The said monuments shall at all times constitute the highest authority as to what land is patented, and in case of any conflict between the said monuments of such patented claims and the descriptions of said claims in the patents issued therefor the monuments on the ground shall govern, and erroneous or inconsistent descriptions or calls in the patent descriptions shall give way thereto. (R. S. 2327.)

Pending Applications—Existing Rights.—Applications for patents for mining claims under former laws now pending may be prosecuted to a final decision in the General Land Office; but in such cases where adverse rights are not affected thereby, patents may issue in pursuance of the provisions of this chapter; and all patents for mining claims upon veins or lodes heretofore issued shall convey all the rights and privileges conferred by this chapter where no adverse rights existed on the tenth day of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-two. (R. S. 2328.)

Conformity of Placer Claims to Surveys, Limit of.—Claims usually called "placers," including all forms of deposit, excepting veins of quartz, or other rock in place, shall be subject to entry and patent, under like circumstances and conditions, and upon similar proceedings, as are provided for vein or lode claims; but where the lands have been previously surveyed by the United States, the entry in its exterior limits shall conform to the legal subdivisions of the public lands. (R. S. 2329.)

Subdivisions of Ten-acre Tracts—Maximum of Placer Locations. Legal subdivisions of forty acres may be subdivided into ten-acre tracts; and two or more persons, or associations of persons, having contiguous claims of any size, although such claims may be less than ten acres each, may make joint entry thereof; but no location of a placer claim, made after the ninth day of July, eighteen hundred and seventy, shall exceed one hundred and sixty acres for any one person or association of persons, which location shall conform to the United States surveys; and nothing in this section contained shall defeat or impair any bona fide pre-emption or homestead claim upon agricultural lands, or authorize the sale of the improvements of any bona fide settler to any purchaser. (R. S. 2330.)

Conformity of Placer Claims to Surveys, Limitation of Claims.—

Where placer claims are upon surveyed lands, and conform to legal subdivisions, no further survey or plat shall be required, and all placer mining claims located after the tenth day of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, shall conform as near as practicable with the United States system of public land surveys, and the rectangular subdivisions of such surveys, and no such location shall include more than twenty acres for each individual claimant; but where placer claims cannot be conformed to legal subdivisions, survey and plat shall be made as on unsurveyed lands; and where by the segregation of mineral lands in any legal subdivision a quantity of agricultural land less than forty acres remains, such fractional portion of agricultural land may be entered by any party qualified by law, for homestead or pre-emption purposes. (R. S. 2331.)

What Evidence of Possession, etc., to Establish a Right to a Patent.—Where such person or association, they and their grantors, have held and worked their claims for a period equal to the time prescribed by the statute of limitations for mining claims of the State or Territory where the same may be situated, evidence of such possession and working of the claims for such period shall be sufficient to establish a right to a patent thereto under this chapter, in the absence of any adverse claim; but nothing in this chapter shall be deemed to impair any lien which may have attached in any way whatever to any mining claim or property thereto attached prior to the issuance of a patent. (R. S. 2332.)

Proceedings for Patent for Placer Claim, etc.—Payment.—Where the same person, association, or corporation is in possession of a placer claim, and also a vein or lode included within the boundaries thereof, application shall be made for a patent for the placer claim, with the statement that it includes such vein or lode, and in such case a patent shall issue for the placer claim, subject to the provisions of this chapter, including such vein or lode, upon the payment of five dollars per acre for such vein or lode claim and twenty-five feet of surface on each side thereof. The remainder of the placer claim or any placer claim not embracing any vein or lode claim shall be paid for at the rate of two dollars and fifty cents per acre, together with all costs of proceedings; and where a vein or lode, such as is described in section twenty-three hundred and twenty, is known to exist within the boundaries of a placer claim, an application for a patent for such placer claim which does not include an application for the vein or lode claim shall be construed as a conclusive declaration that the claimant of the placer claim has no right of possession of the vein or lode claim; but where the existence of a vein or lode in a placer claim is not known, a patent for the placer claim shall convey all valuable mineral and other deposits within the boundaries thereof. (R. S. 2333.)

general of the United States may appoint in each land district containing mineral lands as many competent surveyors as shall apply for appointment to survey mining claims. The expenses of the survey of vein or lode claims, and the survey and subdivision of placer claims into smaller quantities than one hundred and sixty acres, together with the cost of publication of notices, shall be paid by the applicants, and they shall be at liberty to obtain the same at the most reasonable rates, and they shall also be at liberty to employ any United States deputy surveyor to make the survey. The Commissioner of the General Land Office shall also have power to establish the maximum charges for surveys and publication of notices under this chapter; and, in case of excessive charges for publication, he may designate any newspaper published in a land district where mines are situated for the publication of mining notices in such district, and fix the rates to be charged by such paper; and, to the end that the Commissioner may be fully informed on the subject, each applicant shall file with the register a sworn statement of all charges and fees paid by such applicant for publication and surveys, together with all fees and money paid the register and the receiver of the land office, which statement shall be transmitted, with the other papers in the case, to the Commissioner of the General Land Office. (R. S. 2334.)

Verification of Affidavits—Notice of Taking Testimony on Contest.

All affidavits required to be made under this chapter may be verified before any officer authorized to administer oaths within the land district where the claims may be situated, and all testimony and proofs may be taken before any such officer, and, when duly certified by the officer taking the same, shall have the same force and effect as if taken before the register and receiver of the land office. In cases of contest as to the mineral or agricultural character of land, the testimony and proofs may be taken as herein provided on personal notice of at least ten days to the opposing party; or if such party cannot be found, then by publication of at least once a week for thirty days in a newspaper, to be designated by the register of the land office as published nearest to the location of such land; and the register shall require proof that such notice has been given. (R. S. 2335.)

Where Veins Intersect or Unite.—Where two or more veins intersect or cross each other, priority of title shall govern, and such prior location shall be entitled to all ore or mineral contained within the space of intersection; but the subsequent location shall have the right of way through the space of intersection for the purposes of the convenient working of the mine. And where two or more veins unite, the oldest or prior location shall take the vein below the point of union, including all the space of intersection. (R. S. 2336.)

Patents for Nonmineral Lands, Mill Sites, etc.—Where nonmineral land not contiguous to the vein or lode is used or occupied by the proprietor of such vein or lode for mining or milling purposes, such nonadjacent surface ground may be embraced and included in an application for a patent for such vein or lode, and the same may be patented therewith, subject to the same preliminary requirements as to survey and notice as are applicable to veins or lodes; but no location hereafter made of such nonadjacent land shall exceed five acres, and payment for the same must be made at the same rate as fixed by this chapter for the superficies of the lode. The owner of a quartz-mill or reduction works, not owning a mine in connection therewith, may also receive a patent for his mill site, as provided in this section. (R. S. 2337.)

What Conditions of Sale may be Made by Local Legislature.—As a condition of sale, in the absence of necessary legislation by Congress, the local legislature of any State or Territory may provide rules for working mines, involving easements, drainage, and other necessary means to their complete development; and those conditions shall be fully expressed in the patent. (R. S. 2338.)

Vested Rights to Use of Water for Mining—Right of Way for Canals.—Whenever, by priority of possession, rights to the use of water for mining, agricultural, manufacturing, or other purposes, have vested and accrued, and the same are recognized and acknowledged by the local customs, laws, and the decisions of courts, the possessors and owners of such vested rights shall be maintained and protected in the same; and the right of way for the construction of ditches and canals for the purposes herein specified is acknowledged and confirmed; but whenever any person, in the construction of any ditch or canal, injures or damages the possession of any settler on the public domain, the party committing such injury or damage shall be liable to the party injured for such injury or damage. (R. S. 2339.)

Patents, Pre-emption, and Homesteads Subject to Vested and Accrued Water Rights.—All patents granted, or pre-emption or homesteads allowed, shall be subject to any vested and accrued water rights, or rights to ditches and reservoirs used in connection with such water rights, as may have been acquired under or recognized by the preceding section. (R. S. 2340.)

Mineral Lands in Which No Valuable Mines are Discovered Open to Homesteads.—Wherever, upon the lands heretofore designated as mineral lands, which have been excluded from survey and sale, there have been homesteads made by citizens of the United States, or persons who have declared their intention to become citizens, which homesteads have been made, improved, and used for agricultural purposes, and upon which there have been no valuable mines of gold, silver, cinnabar, or copper discovered, and which are properly agricultural lands, the settlers or owners of such homesteads shall have a right of pre-emption thereto, and shall be entitled to purchase the same at the price of one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre, and in quantity not to exceed one hundred and sixty acres; or they may avail themselves of the provisions of chapter five of this Title, relating to "Homesteads." (R. S. 2341.)

Mineral Lands, How Set Apart as Agricultural Lands.—Upon the survey of the lands described in the preceding section, the Secretary of the Interior may designate and set apart such portions of the same as are clearly agricultural lands, which lands shall thereafter be subject to pre-emption and sale as other public lands, and be subject to all the laws and regulations applicable to the same. (R. S. 2342.)

Additional Land Districts and Officers, Power of the President to Provide.—The President is authorized to establish additional land districts, and to appoint the necessary officers under existing laws, wherever he may deem the same necessary for the public convenience in executing the provisions of this chapter. (R. S. 2343.)

Provisions of This Chapter not to Affect Existing Rights.—Nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed to impair, in any way, rights or interests in mining property acquired under existing laws. (R. S. 2344.)

Grant of Lands to States or Corporations not to Include Mineral Lands.—No act passed at the first session of the Thirty-eighth Congress, granting lands to States or corporations to aid in the construction of roads or for other purposes, or to extend the time of grants made prior to the thirtieth day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-five, shall be so construed as to embrace mineral lands, which in all cases are reserved exclusively to the United States, unless otherwise specially provided in the act, or acts, making the grant. (R. S. 2346.)

Citizens of Colorado, Nevada, and the Territories and All Other Mining Districts Authorized to Fell and Remove Timber on the Public Domain for Mining and Domestic Purposes.—All citizens of the United States and other persons, bona fide residents of the State of Colorado, or Nevada, or either of the Territories of New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Wyoming, Dakota, Idaho, or Montana, and all other mineral districts of the United States, shall be, and are hereby, authorized and permitted to fell and remove, for building, agricultural, mining, or other domestic purposes, any timber or other trees growing or being on the public lands, said lands being mineral, and not subject to entry under existing laws of the United States, except for mineral entry, in either of said States, Territories, or districts of which such citizens or persons may be at the time bona fide residents, subject to such rules and regulations as the Secretary of the Interior may prescribe for the protection of the timber and of the undergrowth growing upon such lands, and for other purposes: Provided, the provisions of this act shall not extend to railroad corporations. (20 Stats. at Large, 88.)

It shall be the duty of the register and the receiver of any local land office in whose district any mineral land may be situated to ascertain from time to time whether any timber is being cut or used upon any such lands, except for the purposes authorized by this act, within their respective land districts; and, if so, they shall immediately notify the Commissioner of the General Land Office of that fact; and all necessary expenses incurred in making such proper examinations shall be paid and allowed such register and receiver in making up their next quarterly accounts. (20 Stats. at Large, 88.)

Any person or persons who shall violate the provisions of this act, or any rules and regulations in pursuance thereof made by the Secretary of the Interior, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, and to which may be added imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months. (20 Stats. at Large, 88.)

Costs Where Action Brought and Title not Established in Either Party.—If, in any action brought pursuant to section twenty-three hundred and twenty-six of the Revised Statutes, title to the ground in controversy shall not be established by either party, the jury shall so find, and judgment shall be entered according to the verdict. In such case costs shall not be allowed to either party, and the claimant shall not proceed in the land office or be entitled to a patent for the ground in controversy until he shall have perfected his title. (21 Stats. at Large, 505.)

Reservation in Patents for Right of Way for Ditches and Canals Constructed.—In all patents for lands hereafter taken up under any of the land laws of the United States or on entries or claims validated by this act west of the one hundredth meridian it shall be expressed that there is reserved from the lands in said patent described a right of way thereon for ditches or canals constructed by the authority of the United States. (26 Stats. at Large, 371.)

Town Sites on Mineral Lands Authorized—Reservoir Sites—Lands Entered Under the Mineral Laws not Included in Restriction to Three Hundred and Twenty Acres.—Town site entries may be made by incorporated towns and cities on the mineral lands of the United States, but no title shall be acquired by such towns or cities to any vein of gold, silver, cinnabar, copper, or lead, or to any valid mining claim or possession held under existing law. When mineral veins are possessed within the limits of an incorporated town or city, and such possession is recognized by local authority or by the laws of the United States, the title to town lots shall be subject to such recognized possession and the necessary use thereof, and when entry has been made or patent issued for such town sites to such incorporated town or city, the possessor of such mineral vein may enter and receive patent for such mineral vein, and the surface ground appertaining thereto: Provided, that no entry shall be made by such mineral vein claimant for surface ground where the owner or occupier of the surface ground shall have had possession of the same before the inception of the title of the mineral vein applicant. (26 Stats. at Large, 1095.)

Reservoir sites located or selected and to be located and selected under the provisions of "An act making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, and for other purposes," and amendments thereto, shall be restricted to and shall contain only so much land as is actually necessary for the construction and maintenance of reservoirs, excluding so far as practicable lands occupied by actual settlers at the date of the location of said reservoirs, and that the provisions of "An act making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and ninety-one, and for other purposes," which reads as follows, viz.: "No person who shall after the passage of this act enter upon any of the public lands with a view to occupation, entry, or settlement under any of the land laws shall be permitted to acquire title to more than three hundred and twenty acres in the aggregate under all said laws," shall be construed to include in the maximum amount of lands the title to which is permitted to be acquired by one person only agricultural lands and not include lands entered or sought to be entered under mineral land laws. (26 Stats. at Large, 1095.)

Entry of Lands Chiefly Valuable for Building Stone Under the Placer Mining Laws.—Any person authorized to enter lands under the mining laws of the United States may enter lands that are chiefly valuable for building stone under the provisions of the law in relation to placer mineral claims: Provided, that lands reserved for the benefit of the public schools or donated to any State shall not be subject to entry under this act. (27 Stats. at Large, 348.)

Mining Laws Extended to Saline Lands.—All unoccupied public lands of the United States containing salt springs, or deposits of salt in any form, and chiefly valuable therefor, are hereby declared to be subject to location and purchase under the provisions of the law relating to placer mining claims: Provided, that the same person shall not locate or enter more than one claim hereunder. (31 Stats. at Large, 745.)

REGULATIONS.

NATURE AND EXTENT OF MINING CLAIMS.

1. Classes of Mining Claims.—Mining claims are of two distinct classes: Lode claims and placers.

LODE CLAIMS.

2. Status of Lode Claims Enlarged by Extralateral Right.—The status of lode claims located or patented previous to the tenth day of May, 1872, is not changed with regard to their extent along the lode or width of surface; but the claim is enlarged by sections 2322 and 2328, by investing the locator, his heirs or assigns, with the right to follow, upon the conditions stated therein, all veins, lodes, or ledges, the top or apex of which lies inside of the surface lines of his claim.

3. Possessory Right, How Limited.—It is to be distinctly understood, however, that the law limits the possessory right to veins, lodes, or ledges, other than the one named in the original location, to such as were not adversely claimed on May 10, 1872, and that where such other vein or ledge was so adversely claimed at that date the right of the party so adversely claiming is in no way impaired by the provisions of the Revised Statutes.

4. Who may Locate—Length of Claim Along Course of Vein.—From and after the 10th of May, 1872, any person who is a citizen of the United States, or who has declared his intention to become a citizen, may locate, record, and hold a mining claim of fifteen hundred linear feet along the course of any mineral vein or lode subject to location; or an association of persons, severally qualified as above, may make joint location of such claim of fifteen hundred feet, but in no event can a location of a vein or lode made after the tenth day of May, 1872, exceed fifteen hundred feet along the course thereof, whatever may be the number of persons composing the association.

5. Lateral Extent of Claim.—With regard to the extent of surface ground adjoining a vein or lode, and claimed for the convenient working thereof, the Revised Statutes provide that the lateral extent of locations of veins or lodes made after May 10, 1872, shall in no case exceed three hundred feet on each side of the middle of the vein at the surface, and that no such surface rights shall be limited by any mining regulations to less than twenty-five feet on each side of the middle of the vein at the surface, except where adverse rights existing on the 10th of May, 1872, may render such limitation necessary; the end lines of such claims to be in all cases parallel to each other. Said lateral measurements cannot extend beyond three hundred feet on either side of the middle of the vein at the surface, or such distance as is allowed by local laws. For example: four hundred feet cannot be taken on one side and two hundred feet on the other. If, however, three hundred feet on each side are allowed, and by reason of prior claims but one hundred feet can be taken on one side, the locator will not be restricted to less than three hundred feet on the other side; and when the locator does not determine by exploration where the middle of the vein at the surface is, his discovery shaft must be assumed to mark such point.

6. Maximum Size of Lode Claim.—By the foregoing it will be perceived that no lode claim located after the 10th of May, 1872, can exceed a parallelogram fifteen hundred feet in length by six hundred feet in width, but whether surface ground of that width can be taken depends upon the local regulations or State or Territorial laws in force in the several mining districts; and that no such local regulations or State or Territorial laws shall limit a vein or lode claim to less than fifteen hundred feet along the course thereof, whether the location is made by one or more persons, nor can surface rights be limited to less than fifty feet in width unless adverse claims existing on the 10th of May, 1872, render such lateral limitation necessary.

7. Defining Location.—Locators cannot exercise too much care in defining their locations at the outset, inasmuch as the law requires that all records of mining locations made subsequent to May 10, 1872, shall contain the name or names of the locators, the date of the location, and such a description of the claim or claims located, by reference to some natural object or permanent monument, as will identify the claim.

8. Necessity for Discovery.—No lode claim shall be located until after the discovery of a vein or lode within the limits of the claim, the object of which provision is evidently to prevent the appropriation of presumed mineral ground for speculative purposes, to the exclusion of bona fide prospectors, before sufficient work has been done to determine whether a vein or lode really exists.

9. Location—Discovery Work—Contents of Notice.—The claimant should, therefore, prior to locating his claim, unless the vein can be traced upon the surface, sink a shaft or run a tunnel or drift to a sufficient depth therein to discover and develop a mineral-bearing vein, lode, or crevice; should determine, if possible, the general course of such vein in either direction from the point of discovery, by which direction he will be governed in marking the boundaries of his claim on the surface. His location notice should give the course and distance as nearly as practicable from the discovery shaft on the claim to some permanent, well-known points or objects, such, for instance, as stone monuments, blazed trees, the confluence of streams, point of intersection of well-known gulches, ravines, or roads, prominent buttes, hills, etc., which may be in the immediate vicinity, and which will serve to perpetuate and fix the locus of the claim and render it susceptible of identification from the description thereof given in the record of locations in the district, and should be duly recorded.

10. Location Notice, Additional Data—Marking Corners.—In addition to the foregoing data, the claimant should state the names of adjoining claims, or, if none adjoin, the relative positions of the nearest claims; should drive a post or erect a monument of stones at each corner of his surface ground, and at the point of discovery or discovery shaft should fix a post, stake, or board, upon which should be designated the name of the lode, the name or names of the locators, the number of feet claimed, and in which direction from the point of discovery, it being essential that the location notice filed for record, in addition to the foregoing description, should state whether the entire claim of fifteen hundred feet is taken on one side of the point of discovery, or whether it is partly upon one and partly upon the other side thereof, and in the latter case, how many feet are claimed upon each side of such discovery point.

11. Location Notice, Recording.—The location notice must be filed for record in all respects as required by the State or Territorial laws and local rules and regulations, if there be any.

12. Annual Labor.—In order to hold the possessory title to a mining claim located prior to May 10, 1872, the law requires that ten dollars shall be expended annually in labor or improvements for each one hundred feet in length along the vein or lode. In order to hold the possessory right to a location made since May 10, 1872, not less than one hundred dollars' worth of labor must be performed or improvements made thereon annually. Under the provisions of the act of Congress approved January 22, 1880, the first annual expenditure becomes due and must be performed during the calendar year succeeding that in which the location was made. Where a number of contiguous claims are held in common, the aggregate expenditure that would be necessary to hold all the claims, may be made upon any one claim. Cornering locations are held not to be contiguous.

13. Relocation, When Permitted.—Failure to make the expenditure or perform the labor required upon a location made before or since May 10, 1872, will subject a claim to relocation, unless the original locator, his heirs, assigns, or legal representatives have resumed work after such failure and before relocation.

14. Necessity for Annual Labor Terminates With Entry.—Annual expenditure is not required subsequent to entry, the date of issuing the patent certificate being the date contemplated by statute.

15. Notice to Delinquent Co-owner.—Upon the failure of any one of several co-owners to contribute his proportion of the required expenditures, the co-owners, who have performed the labor or made the improvements as required, may, at the expiration of the year, give such delinquent co-owner personal notice in writing, or notice by publication in the newspaper published nearest the claim for at least once a week for ninety days; and if upon the expiration of ninety days after such notice in writing, or upon the expiration of one hundred and eighty days after the first newspaper publication of notice, the delinquent co-owner shall have failed to contribute his proportion to meet such expenditures or improvements, his interest in the claim by law passes to his co-owners who have made the expenditures or improvements as aforesaid. Where a claimant alleges ownership of a forfeited interest under the foregoing provision, the sworn statement of the publisher as to the facts of publication, giving dates and a printed copy of the notice published, should be furnished, and the claimant must swear that the delinquent co-owner failed to contribute his proper proportion within the period fixed by the statute.

TUNNELS.

16. Rights of Tunnel Proprietors to Blind Lodes.—The effect of section 2323, Revised Statutes, is to give the proprietors of a mining tunnel run in good faith the possessory right to fifteen hundred feet of any blind lodes cut, discovered, or intersected by such tunnel, which were not previously known to exist, within three thousand feet from the face or point of commencement of such tunnel, and to prohibit other parties, after the commencement of the tunnel, from prospecting for and making locations of lodes on the line thereof and within said distance of three thousand feet, unless such lodes appear upon the surface or were previously known to exist. The term "face," as used in said section, is construed and held to mean the first working face formed in the tunnel, and to signify the point at which the tunnel actually enters cover; it being from this point that the three thousand feet are to be counted upon which prospecting is prohibited as aforesaid.

17. Notice of Tunnel Location, How Given.—To avail themselves of the benefits of this provision of law, the proprietors of a mining tunnel will be required, at the time they enter cover as aforesaid, to give proper notice of their tunnel location by erecting a substantial post, board, or monument at the face or point of commencement thereof, upon which should be posted a good and sufficient notice, giving the names of the parties or company claiming the tunnel right; the actual or proposed course or direction of the tunnel, the height and width thereof, and the course and distance from such face or point of commencement to some permanent well-known objects in the vicinity by which to fix and determine the locus in manner heretofore set forth applicable to locations of veins or lodes, and at the time of posting such notice they shall, in order that miners or prospectors may be enabled to determine whether or not they are within the lines of the tunnel, establish the boundary lines thereof, by stakes or monuments placed along such lines at proper intervals, to the terminus of the three thousand feet from the face or point of commencement of the tunnel, and the lines so marked will define and govern as to specific boundaries within which prospecting for lodes not previously known to exist is prohibited while work on the tunnel is being prosecuted with reasonable diligence.

18. Recording Notice of Tunnel Location and Sworn Statement.—A full and correct copy of such notice of location defining the tunnel claim must be filed for record with the mining recorder of the district, to which notice must be attached the sworn statement or declaration of the owners, claimants, or projectors of such tunnel, setting forth the facts in the case; stating the amount expended by themselves and their predecessors in interest in prosecuting work thereon; the extent of the work performed, and that it is bona fide their intention to prosecute work on the tunnel so located and described with reasonable diligence for the development of a vein or lode, or for the discovery of mines, or both, as the case may be. This notice of location must be duly recorded, and, with the said sworn statement attached, kept on the recorder's files for future reference.

PLACER CLAIMS.

19. Discovery.—But one discovery of mineral is required to support a placer location, whether it be of twenty acres by an individual, or of one hundred and sixty acres or less by an association of persons.

20. Placer Entries for Building Stone.—The act of August 4, 1892, extends the mineral land laws so as to bring lands chiefly valuable for building stone within the provisions of said law by authorizing a placer entry of such lands. Registers and receivers should make a reference to said act on the entry papers in the case of all placer entries made for lands containing stone chiefly valuable for building purposes. Lands reserved for the benefit of public schools or donated to any State are not subject to entry under said act.

21. Oil Location Entries.—The act of February 11, 1897, provides for the location and entry of public lands chiefly valuable for petroleum or other mineral oils, and entries of that nature made prior to the passage of said act are to be considered as though made thereunder.¹

22. Ten-acre Tracts are Legal Subdivisions.—By section 2330 authority is given for subdividing forty-acre legal subdivisions into ten-acre tracts. These ten-acre tracts should be considered and dealt with as legal subdivisions, and an applicant having a placer claim which conforms to one or more of such ten-acre tracts, contiguous in case of two or more tracts, may make entry thereof, after the usual proceedings, without further survey or plat.

23. [Omitted.]

24. Ten-acre Tracts, How Described.—A ten-acre subdivision may be described, for instance if situated in the extreme northeast of the section, as the "NE. $\frac{1}{4}$ of the NE. $\frac{1}{4}$ of the NE. $\frac{1}{4}$ " of the section, or, in like manner, by appropriate terms, wherever situated; but, in addition to this description, the notice must give all the other data required in a mineral application, by which parties may be put on inquiry as to the land sought to be patented. The proofs submitted with applications must show clearly the character and extent of the improvements upon the premises.

25. Proof of Improvements.—The proof of improvements must show their value to be not less than five hundred dollars and that they were made by the applicant for patent or his grantors. This proof should consist of the affidavit of two or more disinterested witnesses. The annual expenditure to the amount of $100, required by section 2324, Revised Statutes, must be made upon placer as well as lode locations.

26. Application must Disclose Known Lodes Included in Claim.—Applicants for patent to a placer claim, who are also in possession of a known vein or lode included therein, must state in their application that the placer includes such vein or lode. The published and posted notices must also include such statement. If veins or lodes lying within a placer location are owned by other parties, the fact should be distinctly stated in the application for patent and in all the notices. But in all cases, whether the lode is claimed or excluded, it must be surveyed and marked upon the plat, the field-notes and plat giving the area of the lode claim or claims and the area of the placer separately. An application which omits to claim such known vein or lode must be construed as a conclusive declaration that the applicant has no right of possession to the vein or lode. Where there is no known lode or vein, the fact must appear by the affidavit of two or more witnesses.

27. Location Never to Exceed One Hundred and Sixty Acres.—By section 2330 it is declared that no location of a placer claim, made after July 9, 1870, shall exceed one hundred and sixty acres for any one person or association of persons, which location shall conform to the United States surveys.

28. Conformation to Public Surveys.—Section 2331 provides that all placer mining claims located after May 10, 1872, shall conform as nearly as practicable with the United States system of public land surveys and the rectangular subdivisions of such surveys, and such locations shall not include more than twenty acres for each individual claimant.

29. Maximum Locations Permissible.—The foregoing provisions of law are construed to mean that after the ninth day of July, 1870, no location of a placer claim can be made to exceed one hundred and sixty acres, whatever may be the number of locators associated together, or whatever the local regulations of the district may allow; and that from and after May 10, 1872, no location can exceed twenty acres for each individual participating therein; that is, a location by two persons cannot exceed forty acres, and one by three persons cannot exceed sixty acres.

30. Marking Placer Locations.—The regulations hereinbefore given as to the manner of marking locations on the ground, and placing the same on record, must be observed in the case of placer locations so far as the same are applicable, the law requiring, however, that all placer mining claims located after May 10, 1872, shall conform as near as practicable with the United States system of public land surveys and the rectangular subdivisions of such surveys, whether the locations are upon surveyed or unsurveyed lands.

When Conformity not Required.—Conformity to the public land surveys and the rectangular subdivisions thereof will not be required where compliance with such requirement would necessitate the placing of the lines thereof upon other prior located claims or where the claim is surrounded by prior locations.

The Same.—Where a placer location by one or two persons can be entirely included within a square forty-acre tract, by three or four persons within two square forty-acre tracts placed end to end, by five or six persons within three square forty-acre tracts and by seven or eight persons within four square forty-acre tracts, such locations will be regarded as within the requirements where strict conformity is impracticable.

Policy of Government as to Shape of Locations.—Whether a placer location conforms reasonably with the legal subdivisions of the public surveys is a question of fact to be determined in each case and no location will be passed to patent without satisfactory evidence in this regard. Claimants should bear in mind that it is the policy of the Government to have all entries whether of agricultural or mineral lands as compact and regular in form as reasonably practicable, and that it will not permit or sanction entries or locations which cut the public domain into long narrow strips or grossly irregular or fantastically shaped tracts. (Snow Flake Fraction Placer, 37 L. D. 250.)

REGULATIONS UNDER SALINE ACT.

31. Single Locations Only Permitted.—Under the act approved January 31, 1901, extending the mining laws to saline lands, the provisions of the law relating to placer mining claims are extended to all States and Territories and the district of Alaska, so as to permit the location and purchase thereunder of all unoccupied public lands containing salt springs, or deposits of salt in any form, and chiefly valuable therefor, with the proviso, "That the same person shall not locate or enter more than one claim hereunder."

32. Application for Entry or Patent Limited to One Location.—Rights obtained by location under the placer mining laws are assignable, and the assignee may make the entry in his own name; so, under this act a person holding as assignee may make entry in his own name: Provided, he has not held under this act, at any time, either as locator or entryman, any other lands; his right is exhausted by having held under this act any particular tract, either as locator or entryman, either as an individual or as a member of an association. It follows, therefore, that no application for patent or entry, made under this act, shall embrace more than one single location.

33. Oath Accompanying Application for Patent.—In order that the conditions imposed by the proviso, as set forth in the above paragraph, may duly appear, the application for patent must contain or be accompanied by a specific statement under oath by each person whose name appears therein that he never has, either as an individual or as a member of an association, located or entered any other lands under the provisions of this act. The application for patent should also be accompanied by a showing under oath, fully disclosing the qualifications as defined by the proviso, of the applicants' predecessors in interest. (As amended June 4, 1912.)

PROCEDURE TO OBTAIN PATENT TO MINERAL LANDS.

LODE CLAIMS.

34. Survey, Plat and Field-notes.—The claimant is required, in the first place, to have a correct survey of his claim made under authority of the surveyor general of the State or Territory in which the claim lies, such survey to show with accuracy the exterior surface boundaries of the claim, which boundaries are required to be distinctly marked by monuments on the ground. Four plats and one copy of the original field-notes in each case will be prepared by the surveyor-general; one plat and the original field-notes to be retained in the office of the surveyor general; one copy of the plat to be given the claimant for posting upon the claim; one plat and a copy of the field-notes to be given the claimant for filing with the proper register, to be finally transmitted by that officer, with other papers in the case, to this office, and one plat to be sent by the surveyor general to the register of the proper land district, to be retained on his files for future reference. As there is no resident surveyor general for the State of Arkansas, applications for the survey of mineral claims in said State should be made to the Commissioner of this office, who, under the law, is ex officio the United States surveyor general. (See instructions of July 29, 1911, p. 67.)

35. Survey and Plat must be Filed After Recording of Location Notice.—The survey and plat of mineral claims required to be filed in the proper land office with application for patent must be made subsequent to the recording of the location of the claim (if the laws of the State or Territory or the regulations of the mining district require the notice of location to be recorded), and when the original location is made by survey of a United States mineral surveyor such location survey cannot be substituted for that required by the statute, as above indicated.

36. Number of Survey—Connection Survey—Two Mile Limit.—The surveyors general should designate all surveyed mineral claims by a progressive series of numbers, beginning with survey No. 37, irrespective as to whether they are situated on surveyed or unsurveyed lands, the claim to be so designated at date of issuing the order therefor, in addition to the local designation of the claim; it being required in all cases that the plat and field-notes of the survey of a claim must, in addition to the reference to permanent objects in the neighborhood, describe the locus of the claim with reference to the lines of public surveys by a line connecting a corner of the claim with the nearest public corner of the United States surveys, unless such claim be on unsurveyed lands at a distance of more than two miles from such public corner, in which latter case it should be connected with a United States mineral monument. Such connecting line must not be more than two miles in length, and should be measured on the ground direct between the points, or calculated from actually surveyed traverse lines if the nature of the country should not permit direct measurement. If a regularly established survey corner is within two miles of a claim situated on unsurveyed lands, the connection should be made with such corner in preference to a connection with a United States mineral monument. The connecting line or traverse line must be surveyed by the mineral surveyor at the time of his making the particular survey and be made a part thereof.

37. Report of Survey.—(a) Promptly upon the approval of a mineral survey the surveyor general will advise both this office and the appropriate local land office, by letter (Form 4-286), of the date of approval, number of the survey, name and area of the claim, name and survey number of each approved mineral survey with which actually in conflict, name and address of the applicant for survey, and name of the mineral surveyor who made the survey; and will also briefly describe therein the locus of the claim, specifying each legal subdivision or portion thereof, when upon surveyed lands, covered in whole or in part by the survey; but hereafter no segregation of any such claim upon the official township survey records will be made until mineral entry has been made and approved for patent, unless otherwise directed by this office.

Procedure on Applications for Agricultural Entry Where Patent Applications for Mineral Claims Have Been Filed.—(b) Upon application to make agricultural entry of the residue of any original lot or legal subdivision of forty acres, reduced by mining claims for which patent applications have been filed and which residue has been already reallotted in accordance therewith, the local officers will accept and approve the application as usual, if found to be regular. When such an application is filed for any such original lot or subdivision, reduced in available area by duly asserted mining claims but not yet reallotted accordingly, the local officers will promptly advise this office thereof; and will also report and identify any pending application for mineral patent affecting such subdivision which the agricultural applicant does not desire to contest. The surveyor general will thereupon be advised by this office of such mining claims, or portions thereof, as are proper to be segregated, and directed to at once prepare, upon the usual drawing-paper township blank, diagram of amended township survey of such original lot or legal forty-acre subdivision so made fractional by such mineral segregation, designating the agricultural portion by appropriate lot number, beginning with No. 1 in each section and giving the area of each lot, and will forthwith transmit one approved copy to the local land office and one to this office. In the meantime the local officers will accept the agricultural application (if no other objection appears), suspend it with reservation of all rights of the applicant if continuously asserted by him, and upon receipt of amended township diagram will approve the application (if then otherwise satisfactory) as of the date of filing, corrected to describe the tract as designated in the amended survey.

Application for Segregation of Agricultural and Mineral Lands, Procedure on.—(c) The register and receiver will allow no agricultural claim for any portion of an original lot or legal forty-acre subdivision, where the reduced area is made to appear by reason of approved surveys of mining claims and for which applications for patent have not been filed, until there is submitted by such agricultural applicant a satisfactory showing that such surveyed claims are in fact mineral in character; and applications to have lands asserted to be mineral, or mining locations, segregated by survey, with the view to agricultural appropriation of the remainder, will be made to the register and receiver for submission to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, for his consideration and direction, and must be supported by the affidavit of the party in interest, duly corroborated by two or more disinterested persons, or by such other or further evidence as may be required in any case, that the lands sought to be segregated as mineral are in fact mineral in character; otherwise, in the absence of satisfactory showing in any such case, such original lot or legal subdivision will be subject to agricultural appropriation only. When any such showing shall be found to be satisfactory and the necessary survey is had, amended township diagram will be required and made as prescribed in the preceding section.

38. Contents of Survey of Mining Claim.—The following particulars should be observed in the survey of every mining claim:

(1) The exterior boundaries of the claim, the number of feet claimed along the vein, and, as nearly as can be ascertained, the direction of the vein, and the number of feet claimed on the vein in each direction from the point of discovery or other well-defined place on the claim should be represented on the plat of survey and in the field-notes.

(2) The intersection of the lines of the survey with the lines of conflicting prior surveys should be noted in the field-notes and represented upon the plat.

(3) Conflicts with unsurveyed claims, where the applicant for survey does not claim the area in conflict, should be shown by actual survey.

(4) The total area of the claim embraced by the exterior boundaries should be stated, and also the area in conflict with each intersecting survey, substantially as follows:

	Acres.
Total area of claim.....	10.50
Area in conflict with survey No. 302.....	1.56
Area in conflict with survey No. 948.....	2.33
Area in conflict with Mountain Maid lode mining claim, unsurveyed	1.48

It does not follow that because mining surveys are required to exhibit all conflicts with prior surveys the areas of conflict are to be excluded. The field-notes and plat are made a part of the application for patent, and care should be taken that the description does not inadvertently exclude portions intended to be retained. The application for patent should state the portions to be excluded in express terms.

39. Posting Plat and Notice—Contents of Notice.—The claimant is then required to post a copy of the plat of such survey in a conspicuous place upon the claim, together with notice of his intention to apply for a patent therefor, which notice will give the date of posting, the name of the claimant, the name of the claim, the number of the survey, the mining district and county, and the names of adjoining and conflicting claims as shown by the plat survey. Too much care cannot be exercised in the preparation of this notice, inasmuch as the data therein are to be repeated in the other notices required by the statute, and upon the accuracy and completeness of these notices will depend, in a great measure, the regularity and validity of the proceedings for patent.

40. Filing Copy of Plat, Field-notes, Notice, and Affidavit of Posting. After posting said plat and notice upon the premises, the claimant will file with the proper register and receiver a copy of such plat and the field-notes of survey of the claim, accompanied by the affidavit of at least two credible witnesses that such plat and notice are posted conspicuously upon the claim, giving the date and place of such posting; a copy of the notice so posted to be attached to and form a part of said affidavit.

41. Sworn Statement Accompanying Field-notes.—Accompanying the field-notes so filed must be the sworn statement of the claimant that he has the possessory right to the premises therein described, in virtue of a compliance by himself (and by his grantors, if he claims by purchase) with the mining rules, regulations, and customs of the mining district, State, or Territory in which the claim lies, and with the mining laws of Congress; such sworn statement to narrate briefly, but as clearly as possible, the facts constituting such compliance, the origin of his possession and the basis of his claim to a patent. The vein or lode must be fully described, the description to include a statement as to the kind and character of mineral, the extent thereof, whether ore has been extracted and of what amount and value and such other facts as will support the applicant's allegation that the claim contains a valuable mineral deposit.

Description of Vein or Lode.—The attention of the department having been called to the last clause of paragraph 41 of the mining regulations, the department made the following ruling of June 11, 1909:

"It seems that the expression, 'the extent thereof,' is being construed as meaning that the applicant must affirmatively show by proof of exploration that the vein exists in fact throughout the whole length of the claim.

"This construction of the paragraph is erroneous. By the words quoted it was intended to require the claimant to show the existence of a vein in such workings as he relied on to establish a discovery. By the extent of the vein was meant its size and quality as disclosed. That being done, the presumption exists that the vein extends on its strike throughout the whole length of the claim as located.

"The sole purpose of that part of paragraph 41 quoted was to enable the land department to know, so far as applicant can reasonably show, the definite facts upon which the right to the patent is predicated so as to determine whether a valuable mineral deposit exists in the land claimed."

42. Certified Copy of Location Notice—Abstract of Title.—This sworn statement must be supported by a copy of each location notice, certified by the legal custodian of the record thereof, and also by an abstract of title of each claim certified by the legal custodian of the records of transfers, or by a duly authorized abstracter of titles. The certificate must state that no conveyances affecting, or purporting to affect, the title to the claim or claims appear of record other than those set forth.

Supplemental Abstract.—Outside of the District of Alaska, the application for patent will be received and filed if the abstract is brought down to a day reasonably near the date of the presentation of the application and shows full title in the applicant who must as soon as practicable thereafter file a supplemental abstract brought down so as to include the date of the filing of the application. Publication will not be ordered until the showing as to title is thus completed and the local land officers are satisfied that full title was in the applicant on the day of the filing of the application.

Abstract in Alaska.—In the District of Alaska the application for patent will be received and filed and the order for publication issued if the abstract showing full title in the applicant is brought down to a day reasonably near the date of the presentation of the application. A supplemental abstract of title brought down so as to include the date of the filing of the application must be furnished prior to the expiration of the sixty-day period of publication.

Reliability of Abstract.—No certificate from an abstracter or abstract company will be accepted until approval by the Commissioner of the General Land Office of a favorable report of the chief of field division, or United States district attorney whose division or district embraces the lands in question, as to the reliability and responsibility of such abstracter or company.

43. Lost or Destroyed Records.—In the event of the mining records in any case having been destroyed by fire or otherwise lost, affidavit of the fact should be made, and secondary evidence of possessory title will be received, which may consist of the affidavit of the claimant, supported by those of any other parties cognizant of the facts relative to his location, occupancy, possession, improvements, etc.; and in such case of lost records, any deeds, certificates of location or purchase, or other evidence which may be in the claimant's possession and tend to establish his claim, should be filed.

44. Approval for Publication When Refused—Appeal.—Before approving for publication any notice of an application for mineral patent, local officers will be particular to see that it includes no land which is embraced in a prior or pending application for patent or entry, or for any land embraced in a railroad selection, or for which publication is pending or has been made by any other claimants, and if, in their opinion, after investigation, it should appear that notice of a mineral application should not, for this or other reasons, be approved for publication, they should formally reject the same, giving the reasons therefor, and allow the applicant thirty days for appeal to this office under the Rules of Practice. (As amended August 9, 1911.)

Notice to Railroads.—Local officers will give prompt and appropriate notice to the railroad grantee of the filing of every application for mineral patent which embraces any portion of an odd-numbered section of surveyed lands within the primary limits of a railroad land grant, and of every such application embracing any portion of unsurveyed lands within such limits (except as to any such application which embraces a portion or portions of those ascertained or prospective odd-numbered sections only, within the limits of the grant in Montana and Idaho to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, which have been classified as mineral under the act of February 26, 1895, without protest by the company within the time limited by the statute or the mineral classification whereof has been approved).

Protest by Railroad.—Should the railroad grantee file protest and apply for a hearing to determine the character of the land involved in any such application for mineral patent, proceedings thereunder will be had in the usual manner.

Protest and Appeal Where Railroad Lands Listed or Selected.—Any application for mineral patent, however, which embraces lands previously listed or selected by a railroad company will be disposed of as provided by the first section of this paragraph, and the applicant afforded opportunity to protest and apply for a hearing or to appeal.

Notice to Railroad—Burden of Proof Where Lands Unsurveyed.—Notice should be given to the duly authorized representative of the railroad grantee, in accordance with rule 17 of Practice. When the claims applied for are upon unsurveyed land, the burden of proving that they are situate within prospective odd-numbered sections will rest upon the railroad.

Proof of Service of Notice.—Evidence of service of notice should be filed with the record in each case.

45. Publication of Notice of Application.—Upon the receipt of these papers, if no reason appears for rejecting the application, the register will, at the expense of the claimant (who must furnish the agreement of the publisher to hold applicant for patent alone responsible for charges of publication), publish a notice of such application for the period of sixty days in a newspaper published nearest to the claim, and will post a copy of such notice in his office for the same period. When the notice is published in a weekly newspaper, nine consecutive insertions are necessary; when in a daily newspaper, the notice must appear in each issue for sixty-one consecutive issues. In both cases the first day of issue must be excluded in estimating the period of sixty days.

46. Contents of Notice.—The notices so published and posted must embrace all the data given in the notice posted upon the claim. In addition to such data the published notice must further indicate the locus of the claim by giving the connecting line, as shown by the field-notes and plat, between a corner of the claim and a United States mineral monument or a corner of the public survey, and thence the boundaries of the claim by courses and distances.

47. Character of Newspaper.—The register shall publish the notice of application for patent in a paper of established character and general circulation, to be by him designated as being the newspaper published nearest the land.

48. Certificate of Surveyor General.—The claimant at the time of filing the application for patent, or at any time within the sixty days of publication, is required to file with the register a certificate of the surveyor general that not less than five hundred dollars' worth of labor has been expended or improvements made, by the applicant or his grantors, upon each location embraced in the application, or if the application embraces several contiguous locations held in common, that an amount equal to five hundred dollars for each location has been so expended upon, and for the benefit of, the entire group; that the plat filed by the claimant is correct; that the field-notes of the survey, as filed, furnish such an accurate description of the claim as will, if incorporated in a patent, serve to fully identify the premises, and that such reference is made therein to natural objects or permanent monuments as will perpetuate and fix the locus thereof: Provided, that as to all applications for patents made and passed to entry before July 1, 1898, or which are by protests or adverse claims prevented from being passed to entry before that time, where the application embraces several locations held in common, proof of an expenditure of five hundred dollars upon the group will be sufficient, and an expenditure of that amount need not be shown to have been made upon, or for the benefit of, each location embraced in the application.

49. Surveyor General's Certificate, upon What Based.—The surveyor general may derive his information upon which to base his certificate as to the value of labor expended or improvements made from the mineral surveyor who makes the actual survey and examination upon the premises, and such mineral surveyor should specify with particularity and full detail the character and extent of such improvements, but further or other evidence may be required in any case.

50. Indorsement of Certificate.—It will be convenient to have this certificate indorsed by the surveyor general, both upon the plat and field-notes of survey filed by the claimant as aforesaid.

51. Affidavits of Publication and Posting.—After the sixty days' period of newspaper publication has expired, the claimant will furnish from the office of publication a sworn statement that the notice was published for the statutory period, giving the first and last day of such publication, and his own affidavit showing that the plat and notice aforesaid remained conspicuously posted upon the claim sought to be patented during said sixty days' publication, giving the dates.

52. Payment for Land, Affidavit of Charges and Fees—Issuance of Patent.—Upon the filing of this affidavit the register will, if no adverse claim was filed in his office during the period of publication, and no other objection appears, permit the claimant to pay for the land to which he is entitled at the rate of five dollars for each acre and five dollars for each fractional part of an acre, except as otherwise provided by law, the receiver issuing the usual receipt therefor. The claimant will also make a sworn statement of all charges and fees paid by him for publication and surveys, together with all fees and money paid the register and receiver of the land office, after which the complete record will be forwarded to the Commissioner of the General Land Office and a patent issued thereon if found regular.

53. Protest Against Patent, Grounds of—Who may Protest.—At any time prior to the issuance of patent protest may be filed against the patenting of the claim as applied for, upon any ground tending to show that the applicant has failed to comply with the law in any matter essential to a valid entry under the patent proceedings. Such protest cannot, however, be made the means of preserving a surface conflict lost by failure to adverse or lost by the judgment of the court in an adverse suit. One holding a present joint interest in a mineral location included in an application for patent who is excluded from the application, so that his interest would not be protected by the issue of patent thereon, may protest against the issuance of a patent as applied for, setting forth in such protest the nature and extent of his interest in such location, and such a protestant will be deemed a party in interest entitled to appeal. This results from the holding that a co-owner excluded from an application for patent does not have an "adverse" claim within the meaning of sections 2325 and 2326 of the Revised Statutes. (See Turner v. Sawyer, 150 U. S. 578-586.)

54. Application by Trustee.—Any party applying for patent as trustee must disclose fully the nature of the trust and the name of the cestui que trust; and such trustee, as well as the beneficiaries, must furnish satisfactory proof of citizenship; and the names of beneficiaries, as well as that of the trustee, must be inserted in the final certificate of entry.

55. Annual Expenditure not Involved on Application for Patent.—The annual expenditure of one hundred dollars in labor or improvements on a mining claim, required by section 2324 of the Revised Statutes, is solely a matter between rival or adverse claimants to the same mineral land, and goes only to the right of possession, the determination of which is committed exclusively to the courts.

56. Effect of Failure to Prosecute Application.—The failure of an applicant for patent to a mining claim to prosecute his application to completion, by filing the necessary proofs and making payment for the land, within a reasonable time after the expiration of the period of publication of notice of the application, or after the termination of adverse proceedings in the courts, constitutes a waiver by the applicant of all rights obtained by the earlier proceedings upon the application.

57. Completion After Adverse Claim Filed.—The proceedings necessary to the completion of an application for patent to a mining claim, against which an adverse claim or protest has been filed, if taken by the applicant at the first opportunity afforded therefor under the law and departmental practice, will be as effective as if taken at the date when, but for the adverse claim or protest, the proceedings on the application could have been completed.

PLACER CLAIMS.

58. Patents for Placers, When No Survey Necessary.—The proceedings to obtain patents for placer claims, including all forms of mineral deposits excepting veins of quartz or other rock in place, are similar to the proceedings prescribed for obtaining patents for vein or lode claims; but where a placer claim shall be upon surveyed lands, and conforms to legal subdivisions, no further survey or plat will be required. Where placer claims cannot be conformed to legal subdivisions, survey and plat shall be made as on unsurveyed lands.

59. Proceedings for Patent—Price of Placer Claims.—The proceedings for obtaining patents for veins or lodes having already been fully given, it will not be necessary to repeat them here, it being thought that careful attention thereto by applicants and the local officers will enable them to act understandingly in the matter, and make such slight modifications in the notice, or otherwise, as may be necessary in view of the different nature of the two classes of claims; the price of placer claims being fixed, however, at two dollars and fifty cents per acre or fractional part of an acre.

60. Additional Recitals Necessary.—In placer applications, in addition to the recitals necessary in and to both vein or lode and placer applications, the placer application should contain, in detail, such data as will support the claim that the land applied for is placer ground containing valuable mineral deposits not in vein or lode formation and that title is sought not to control watercourses or to obtain valuable timber but in good faith because of the mineral therein. This statement, of course, must depend upon the character of the deposit and the natural features of the ground, but the following details should be covered as fully as possible: If the claim be for a deposit of placer gold, there must be stated the yield per pan, or cubic yard, as shown by prospecting and development work, distance to bedrock, formation and extent of the deposit, and all other facts upon which he bases his allegation that the claim is valuable for its deposits of placer gold. If it be a building stone or other deposit than gold claimed under the placer laws, it must describe fully the kind, nature, and extent of the deposit, stating the reasons why same is by him regarded as a valuable mineral claim. He will also be required to describe fully the natural features of the claim; streams, if any, must be fully described as to their course, amount of water carried, fall within the claim; and he must state kind and amount of timber and other vegetation thereon and adaptability to mining or other uses.

If the claim be all placer ground, that fact must be stated in the application and corroborated by accompanying proofs; if of mixed placers and lodes, it should be so set out, with a description of all known lodes situated within the boundaries of the claim. A specific declaration, such as is required by section 2333, Revised Statutes, must be furnished as to each lode intended to be claimed. All other known lodes are, by the silence of the applicant, excluded by law from all claim by him, of whatsoever nature, possessory or otherwise.

While this data is required as a part of the mineral surveyor's report under paragraph 167, in case of placers taken by special survey, it is proper that the application for patent incorporate these facts under the oath of the claimant.

Inasmuch as in case of claims taken by legal subdivisions, no report by a mineral surveyor is required, the claimant, in his application in addition to the data above required, should describe in detail the shafts, cuts, tunnels, or other workings claimed as improvements, giving their dimensions, value, and the course and distance thereof to the nearest corner of the public surveys.

As prescribed by paragraph 25, this statement as to the description and value of the improvements must be corroborated by the affidavits of two disinterested witnesses.

Applications awaiting entry, whether published or not, must be made to conform to these regulations, with respect to proof as to the character of the land. Entries already made will be suspended for such additional proofs as may be deemed necessary in each case.

Local land officers are instructed that if the proofs submitted in placer applications under this paragraph are not satisfactory as showing the land as a whole to be placer in character, or if the claims impinge upon or embrace watercourses or bodies of water, and thus raise a doubt as to the bona fides of the location and application, or the character and extent of the deposit claimed thereunder, to call for further evidence, or if deemed necessary, request the specific attention of the Chief of Field Service thereto in connection with the usual notification to him under the circular instructions of April 24, 1907, and suspend further action on the application until a report thereon is received from the field officer.

MILL SITES.

61. Mill Sites must be Nonmineral.—Land entered as a mill site must be shown to be nonmineral. Mill sites are simply auxiliary to the working of mineral claims, and as section 2337, which provides for the patenting of mill sites, is embraced in the chapter of the Revised Statutes relating to mineral lands, they are therefore included in this circular.

62. Application and Patent for Mill Site.—To avail themselves of this provision of law, parties holding the possessory right to a vein or lode claim, and to a piece of nonmineral land not contiguous thereto for mining or milling purposes, not exceeding the quantity allowed for such purpose by section 2337, or prior laws, under which the land was appropriated, the proprietors of such vein or lode may file in the proper land office their application for a patent, under oath, in manner already set forth herein, which application, together with the plat and field-notes, may include, embrace, and describe, in addition to the vein or lode claim, such noncontiguous mill site, and after due proceedings as to notice, etc., a patent will be issued conveying the same as one claim. The owner of a patented lode may, by an independent application, secure a mill site if good faith is manifest in its use or occupation in connection with the lode and no adverse claim exists.

63. Survey and Price Per Acre.—Where the original survey includes a lode claim and also a mill site the lode claim should be described in the plat and field-notes as "Sur. No. 37, A," and the mill site as "Sur. No. 37, B," or whatever may be its appropriate numerical designation; the course and distance from a corner of the mill site to a corner of the lode claim to be invariably given in such plat and field-notes, and a copy of the plat and notice of application for patent must be conspicuously posted upon the mill site as well as upon the vein or lode claim for the statutory period of sixty days. In making the entry no separate receipt or certificate need be issued for the mill site, but the whole area of both lode and mill site will be embraced in one entry, the price being five dollars for each acre and fractional part of an acre embraced by such lode and mill site claim.

64. Patent for Mill Site by Nonowner of Lode.—In case the owner of a quartz-mill or reduction works is not the owner or claimant of a vein or lode claim the law permits him to make application therefor in the same manner prescribed herein for mining claims, and after due notice and proceedings, in the absence of a valid adverse filing, to enter and receive a patent for his mill site at said price per acre.

65. Testimony as to Nonmineral Character.—In every case there must be satisfactory proof that the land claimed as a mill site is not mineral in character, which proof may, where the matter is unquestioned, consist of the sworn statement of two or more persons capable, from acquaintance with the land, to testify understandingly.

CITIZENSHIP.

66. Charter of Corporation to be Filed—Affidavit and Power of Attorney When Association Unincorporated.—The proof necessary to establish the citizenship of applicants for mining patents must be made in the following manner: In case of an incorporated company, a certified copy of their charter or certificate of incorporation must be filed. In case of an association of persons unincorporated, the affidavit of their duly authorized agent, made upon his own knowledge or upon information and belief, setting forth the residence of each person forming such association, must be submitted. This affidavit must be accompanied by a power of attorney from the parties forming such association, authorizing the person who makes the affidavit of citizenship to act for them in the matter of their application for patent.

67. Affidavit of Citizenship by Individual.—In case of an individual or an association of individuals who do not appear by their duly authorized agent, the affidavit of each applicant, showing whether he is a native or naturalized citizen, when and where born, and his residence, will be required.

68. Contents When Naturalized or Intention Declared.—In case an applicant has declared his intention to become a citizen or has been naturalized, his affidavit must show the date, place, and the court before which he declared his intention, or from which his certificate of citizenship issued, and present residence.

69. Affidavit, Before Whom Taken.—The affidavit of the claimant as to his citizenship may be taken before the register or receiver, or any other officer authorized to administer oaths within the land districts; or, if the claimant is residing beyond the limits of the district, the affidavit may be taken before the clerk of any court of record or before any notary public of any State or Territory.

70. Testimony, Where Taken.—If citizenship is established by the testimony of disinterested persons, such testimony may be taken at any place before any person authorized to administer oaths, and whose official character is duly verified.

71. Entries—When Allowed—Subsequent Transfers.—No entry will be allowed until the register has satisfied himself, by careful examination, that proper proofs have been filed upon the points indicated in the law and official regulations. Transfers made subsequent to the filing of the application for patent will not be considered, but entry will be allowed and patent issued in all cases in the name of the applicant for patent, the title conveyed by the patent, of course, in each instance inuring to the transferee of such applicant where a transfer has been made pending the application for patent.

72. Mineral Entries, How Numbered.—The mineral entries will be given the current serial numbers according to the provisions of the circular of June 10, 1908, whether the same are of lode or of placer claims or of mill sites.

73. Duty of Register in Sending Up Papers.—In sending up the papers in a case the register must not omit certifying to the fact that the notice was posted in his office for the full period of sixty days, such certificate to state distinctly when such posting was done and how long continued. The schedule of papers, form 4-252f, should accompany the returns with all mineral applications and entries allowed.

POSSESSORY RIGHT.

74. Title by Adverse Possession.—The provisions of section 2332, Revised Statutes, will greatly lessen the burden of proof, more especially in the case of old claims located many years since, the records of which, in many cases, have been destroyed by fire, or lost in other ways during the lapse of time, but concerning the possessory right to which all controversy or litigation has long been settled.

75. Proof Required.—When an applicant desires to make his proof of possessory right in accordance with this provision of law, he will not be required to produce evidence of location, copies of conveyances, or abstracts of title, as in other cases, but will be required to furnish a duly certified copy of the statute of limitation of mining claims for the State or Territory, together with his sworn statement giving a clear and succinct narration of the facts as to the origin of his title, and likewise as to the continuation of his possession of the mining ground covered by his application; the area thereof; the nature and extent of the mining that has been done thereon; whether there has been any opposition to his possession, or litigation with regard to his claim, and if so, when the same ceased; whether such cessation was caused by compromise or by judicial decree, and any additional facts within the claimant's knowledge having a direct bearing upon his possession and bona fides which he may desire to submit in support of his claim.

76. Certificate of Court.—There should likewise be filed a certificate, under seal of the court having jurisdiction of mining cases within the judicial district embracing the claim, that no suit or action of any character whatever involving the right of possession to any portion of the claim applied for is pending, and that there has been no litigation before said court affecting the title to said claim or any part thereof for a period equal to the time fixed by the statute of limitations for mining claims in the State or Territory as aforesaid other than that which has been finally decided in favor of the claimant.

77. Corroborative Testimony.—The claimant should support his narrative of facts relative to his possession, occupancy, and improvements by corroborative testimony of any disinterested person or persons of credibility who may be cognizant of the facts in the case and are capable of testifying understandingly in the premises.

ADVERSE CLAIMS.

78. Adverse Claim, Where Filed—How Verified.—An adverse claim must be filed with the register and receiver of the land office where the application for patent is filed or with the register and receiver of the district in which the land is situated at the time of filing the adverse claim. It must be on the oath of the adverse claimant, or it may be verified by the oath of any duly authorized agent or attorney in fact of the adverse claimant cognizant of the facts stated.

79. Verification by Agent.—Where an agent or attorney in fact verifies the adverse claim, he must distinctly swear that he is such agent or attorney, and accompany his affidavit by proof thereof.

80. Where Made.—The agent or attorney in fact must make the affidavit in verification of the adverse claim within the land district where the claim is situated.

81. Contents of Adverse Claim.—The adverse claim so filed must fully set forth the nature and extent of the interference or conflict; whether the adverse party claims as a purchaser for valuable consideration or as a locator. If the former, a certified copy of the original location, the original conveyance, a duly certified copy thereof, or an abstract of title from the office of the proper recorder should be furnished, or if the transaction was a merely verbal one he will narrate the circumstances attending the purchase, the date thereof, and the amount paid, which facts should be supported by the affidavit of one or more witnesses, if any were present at the time, and if he claims a locator he must file a duly certified copy of the location from the office of the proper recorder.

82. Plat—When Necessary.—In order that the "boundaries" and "extent" of the claim may be shown, it will be incumbent upon the adverse claimant to file a plat showing his entire claim, its relative situation or position with the one against which he claims, and the extent of the conflict: Provided, however, that if the application for patent describes the claim by legal subdivisions, the adverse claimant, if also claiming by legal subdivisions, may describe his adverse claim in the same manner without further survey or plat. If the claim is not described by legal subdivisions, it will generally be more satisfactory if the plat thereof is made from an actual survey by a mineral surveyor, and its correctness officially certified thereon by him.

83. Notice of Filing by Register or Receiver.—Upon the foregoing being filed within the sixty days' period of publication, the register, or in his absence the receiver, will immediately give notice in writing to the parties that such adverse claim has been filed, informing them that the party who filed the adverse claim will be required within thirty days from the date of such filing to commence proceedings in a court of competent jurisdiction to determine the question of right of possession, and to prosecute the same with reasonable diligence to final judgment, and that, should such adverse claimant fail to do so, his adverse claim will be considered waived and the application for patent be allowed to proceed upon its merits.

84. Stay of Proceedings.—When an adverse claim is filed as aforesaid, the register or receiver will indorse upon the same the precise date of filing, and preserve a record of the date of notifications issued thereon; and thereafter all proceedings on the application for patent will be stayed, with the exception of the completion of the publication and posting of notices and plat and the filing of the necessary proof thereof, until the controversy shall have been finally adjudicated in court or the adverse claim waived or withdrawn.

85. Certified Copy of Judgment-roll.—Where an adverse claim has been filed and suit thereon commenced within the statutory period and final judgment rendered determining the right of possession, it will not be sufficient to file with the register a certificate of the clerk of the court setting forth the facts as to such judgment, but the successful party must, before he is allowed to make entry, file a certified copy of the judgment-roll, together with the other evidence required by Section 2326, Revised Statutes.

86. Order of Dismissal.—Where such suit has been dismissed, a certificate of the clerk of the court to that effect or a certified copy of the order of dismissal will be sufficient.

87. Relinquishment not Accepted.—After an adverse claim has been filed and suit commenced, a relinquishment or other evidence of abandonment of the adverse claim will not be accepted, but the case must be terminated and proof thereof furnished as required by the last two paragraphs.

88. Certificate Where Suit not Commenced.—Where an adverse claim has been filed, but no suit commenced against the applicant for patent within the statutory period, a certificate to that effect by the clerk of the State court having jurisdiction in the case, and also by the clerk of the district court of the United States for the district in which the claim is situated, will be required. (Amended, November 6, 1912.)

APPOINTMENT OF SURVEYORS FOR SURVEY OF MINING CLAIMS AND CHARGES.

89. Maximum Charges for Newspaper Publications.—Section 2334 provides for the appointment of surveyors to survey mining claims, and authorizes the Commissioner of the General Land Office to establish the rates to be charged for surveys and for newspaper publications. Under this authority of law the following rates have been established as the maximum charges for newspaper publications in mining cases:

(1) Where a daily newspaper is designated the charge shall not exceed seven dollars for each ten lines of space occupied, and where a weekly newspaper is designated as the medium of publication five dollars for the same space will be allowed. Such charge shall be accepted as full payment for publication in each issue of the newspaper for the entire period required by law.

It is expected that these notices shall not be so abbreviated as to curtail the description essential to a perfect notice, and the said rates established upon the understanding that they are to be in the usual body type used for advertisements.

(2) For the publication of citations in contests or hearings involving the character of lands the charges shall not exceed eight dollars for five publications in weekly newspapers or ten dollars for publications in daily newspapers for thirty days.

90. Mineral Surveyors—Appointment and Bond.—The surveyors-general of the several districts will, in pursuance of said law, appoint in each land district as many competent surveyors for the survey of mining claims as may seek such appointment, it being distinctly understood that all expenses of these notices and surveys are to be borne by the mining claimants and not by the United States. The statute provides that the claimant shall also be at liberty to employ any United States mineral surveyor to make the survey. Each surveyor appointed to survey mining claims before entering upon the duties of his office or appointment shall be required to enter into a bond of not less than $5,000 for the faithful performance of his duties.

91. Deposit for Survey.—With regard to the platting of the claim and other office work in the surveyor general's office, that officer will make an estimate of the cost thereof, which amount the claimant will deposit with any assistant United States treasurer or designated depository in favor of the United States Treasurer, to be passed to the credit of the fund created by "individual depositors for surveys of the public lands," and file with the surveyor general duplicate certificates of such deposit in the usual manner.

92. Surveyors for Each Mining District.—The surveyors general will endeavor to appoint surveyors to survey mining claims so that one or more may be located in each mining district for the greater convenience of miners.

93. Duties of Surveyor—Not Allowed to Prepare Papers.—The usual oaths will be required of these surveyors and their assistants as to the correctness of each survey executed by them.

The duty of the surveyor ceases when he has executed the survey and returned the field-notes and preliminary plat thereof with his report to the surveyor general. He will not be allowed to prepare for the mining claimant the papers in support of an application for patent, or otherwise perform the duties of an attorney before the land office in connection with a mining claim.

The surveyors general and local land officers are expected to report any infringement of this regulation to this office.

94. Exorbitant Charges.—Should it appear that excessive or exorbitant charges have been made by any surveyor or any publisher, prompt action will be taken with the view of correcting the abuse.

FEES OF REGISTERS AND RECEIVERS.

95. Fees.—The fees payable to the register and receiver for filing and acting upon applications for mineral land patents are five dollars to each officer, to be paid by the applicant for patent at the time of filing, and the like sum of five dollars is payable to each officer by an adverse claimant at the time of filing his adverse claim. (Section 2238, Rev. Stats., par. 9.)

[Paragraphs 96, 97, and 98 omitted.]

HEARINGS TO DETERMINE CHARACTER OF LANDS.

99. Rules of Practice.—The Rules of Practice in cases before the United States district land offices, the General Land Office, and the Department of the Interior will, so far as applicable, govern in all cases and proceedings arising in contests and hearings to determine the character of lands.

100. Mineral Lands Withheld from Entry as Agricultural Lands.—Public land returned by the surveyor general as mineral shall be withheld from entry as agricultural land until the presumption arising from such a return shall be overcome by testimony taken in the manner hereinafter described.

101. Hearings.—Hearings to determine the character of lands:

(1) Lands returned as mineral by the surveyor-general.

When such lands are sought to be entered as agricultural under laws which require the submission of final proof after due notice by publication and posting, the filing of the proper nonmineral affidavit in the absence of allegations that the land is mineral will be deemed sufficient as a preliminary requirement. A satisfactory showing as to character of land must be made when final proof is submitted.

In case of application to enter, locate, or select such lands as agricultural, under laws in which the submission of final proof after due publication and posting is not required, notice thereof must first be given by publication for sixty days and posting in the local office during the same period, and affirmative proof as to the character of the land submitted. In the absence of allegations that the land is mineral, and upon compliance with this requirement, the entry, location, or selection will be allowed, if otherwise regular.

(2) Lands returned as agricultural and alleged to be mineral in character.

Where as against the claimed right to enter such lands as agricultural it is alleged that the same are mineral, or are applied for as mineral lands, the proceedings in this class of cases will be in the nature of a contest, and the practice will be governed by the rules in force in contest cases.

[Paragraphs 102 to 104 omitted.]

105. Testimony on Hearing as to Mineral Character.—At hearings to determine the character of lands the claimants and witnesses will be thoroughly examined with regard to the character of the land; whether the same has been thoroughly prospected; whether or not there exists within the tract or tracts claimed any lode or vein of quartz or other rock in place bearing gold, silver, cinnabar, lead, tin, or copper, or other valuable deposit which has ever been claimed, located, recorded, or worked; whether such work is entirely abandoned, or whether occasionally resumed; if such lode does exist, by whom claimed, under what designation, and in which subdivision of the land it lies; whether any placer mine or mines exist upon the land; if so, what is the character thereof—whether of the shallow surface description, or of the deep cement, blue lead, or gravel deposits; to what extent mining is carried on when water can be obtained, and what the facilities are for obtaining water for mining purposes; upon what particular ten-acre subdivisions mining has been done, and at what time the land was abandoned for mining purposes, if abandoned at all. In every case, where practicable, an adequate quantity or number of representative samples of the alleged mineral-bearing matter or material should be offered in evidence, with proper identification, to be considered in connection with the record, with which they will be transmitted upon each appeal that may be taken. Testimony may be submitted as to the geological formation and development of mineral on adjoining or adjacent lands and their relevancy.

106. Testimony on Hearing—As to Agricultural Character.—The testimony should also show the agricultural capacities of the land, what kind of crops are raised thereon, and the value thereof; the number of acres actually cultivated for crops of cereals or vegetables, and within which particular ten-acre subdivision such crops are raised; also which of these subdivisions embrace the improvements, giving in detail the extent and value of the improvements, such as house, barn, vineyard, orchard, fencing, etc., and mining improvements.

107. Should Show Date When Existence of Minerals First Known. The testimony should be as full and complete as possible; and in addition to the leading points indicated above, where an attempt is made to prove the mineral character of lands which have been entered under the agricultural laws, it should show at what date, if at all, valuable deposits of minerals were first known to exist on the lands.

108. Survey to Segregate Agricultural and Mineral Lands.—When the case comes before this office, such decision will be made as the law and the facts may justify. In cases where a survey is necessary to set apart the mineral from the agricultural land, the proper party, at his own expense, will be required to have the work done by a reliable and competent surveyor to be designated by the surveyor general. Application therefor must be made to the register and receiver, accompanied by description of the land to be segregated and the evidence of service upon the opposite party of notice of his intention to have such segregation made. The register and receiver will forward the same to this office, when the necessary instructions for the survey will be given. The survey in such case, where the claims to be segregated are vein or lode claims, must be executed in such manner as will conform to the requirements in section 2320, Revised Statutes, as to length and width and parallel end lines.

109. Survey to be Sworn to.—Such survey when executed must be properly sworn to by the surveyor, either before a notary public, United States commissioner, officer of a court of record, or before the register or receiver, the deponent's character and credibility to be properly certified to by the officer administering the oath.

110. Verification by Surveyor General.—Upon the filing of the plat and field-notes of such survey with the register and receiver, duly sworn to as aforesaid, they will transmit the same to the surveyor general for his verification and approval, who, if he finds the work correctly performed, will furnish authenticated copies of such plat and description both to the proper local land office and to this office, made upon the usual drawing-paper township blank.

The copy of plat furnished the local office and this office must be a diagram verified by the surveyor general, showing the claim or claims segregated, and designating the separate fractional agricultural tracts in each 40-acre legal subdivision by the proper lot number, beginning with No. 1 in each section, and giving the area in each lot, the same as provided in paragraph 37 in the survey of mining claims on surveyed lands.

111. Effect of Decision That Land is Mineral.—The fact that a certain tract of land is decided upon testimony to be mineral in character is by no means equivalent to an award of the land to a miner. In order to secure a patent for such land, he must proceed as in other cases, in accordance with the foregoing regulations.

Blank forms for proofs in mineral cases are not furnished by the General Land Office.

FOREST RESERVATIONS.

Forest Reservations, When to be Established.—All public lands heretofore designated and reserved by the President of the United States under the provisions of the act approved March 3, 1891, the orders for which shall be and remain in full force and effect, unsuspended and unrevoked, and all public lands that may hereafter be set aside and reserved as public forest reserves under said act, shall be as far as practicable controlled and administered in accordance with the following provisions:

No public forest reservation shall be established, except to improve and protect the forest within the reservation, or for the purpose of securing favorable conditions of water flows, and to furnish a continuous supply of timber for the use and necessities of citizens of the United States; but it is not the purpose or intent of these provisions, or of the act providing for such reservations, to authorize the inclusion therein of lands more valuable for the mineral therein, or for agricultural purposes, than for forest purposes. (30 Stats. at Large, 34, 35, 36.)

Use of Timber, etc., by Settlers, etc.—The Secretary of the Interior may permit, under regulations to be prescribed by him, the use of timber and stone found upon such reservations, free of charge, by bona fide settlers, miners, residents, and prospectors for minerals, for firewood, fencing, buildings, mining, prospecting, and other domestic purposes, as may be needed by such persons for such purposes; such timber to be used within the State or Territory, respectively, where such reservations may be located.

Egress and Ingress of Settlers Within Reservations, etc.—Nothing herein shall be construed as prohibiting the egress or ingress of actual settlers residing within the boundaries of such reservations, or from crossing the same to and from their property or homes; and such wagon roads and other improvements may be constructed thereon as may be necessary to reach their homes and to utilize their property under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior. Nor shall anything herein prohibit any person from entering upon such forest reservations for all proper and lawful purposes, including that of prospecting, locating, and developing the mineral resources thereof: Provided, That such persons comply with the rules and regulations covering such forest reservations.

Restoration of Mineral or Agricultural Lands to the Public Domain.—Upon the recommendation of the Secretary of the Interior, with the approval of the President, after sixty days' notice thereof, published in two papers of general circulation in the State or Territory wherein any forest reservation is situated, and near the said reservation, any public lands embraced within the limits of any forest reservation which, after due examination by personal inspection of a competent person appointed for that purpose by the Secretary of the Interior, shall be found better adapted for mining or for agricultural purposes than for forest usage, may be restored to the public domain. And any mineral lands in any forest reservation which have been or which may be shown to be such, and subject to entry under the existing mining laws of the United States and the rules and regulations applying thereto, shall continue to be subject to such location and entry, notwithstanding any provisions herein contained.

MINERAL LANDS WITHIN NATIONAL FORESTS.

114. Mineral Lands in Forest Reserves Subject to Location.—The act of June 4, 1897, provides that “any mineral lands in any forest reservation which have been or which may be shown to be such, and subject to entry under the existing mining laws of the United States and the rules and regulations applying thereto, shall continue to be subject to such location and entry,” notwithstanding the reservation. This makes mineral lands in the forest reserves subject to location and entry under the general mining laws in the usual manner.

Use of Timber and Stone.—The act also provides that “The Secretary of the Interior may permit, under regulations to be prescribed by him, the use of timber and stone found upon such reservations, free of charge, by bona fide settlers, miners, residents, and prospectors for minerals, for firewood, fencing, buildings, mining, prospecting, and other domestic purposes, as may be needed by such persons for such purposes; such timber to be used within the State or Territory, respectively, where such reservations may be located.”

TRANSFER OF NATIONAL FORESTS.

(Act of February 1, 1905. 33 Stat. 628.)

Scope of Duty of Secretary of Agriculture, How Limited.—The Secretary of the Department of Agriculture shall, from and after the passage of this act, execute or cause to be executed all laws affecting public lands heretofore or hereafter reserved under the provisions of section twenty-four of the act entitled “An act to repeal the timber culture laws, and for other purposes,” approved March 3, 1891, and acts supplemental to and amendatory thereof, after such lands have been so reserved, excepting such laws as affect the surveying, prospecting, locating, appropriating, entering, relinquishing, reconveying, certifying, or patenting of any of such lands.

SURVEYS OF MINING CLAIMS.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

115. Appointment of Surveyors.—Under section 2334, Revised Statutes, the United States surveyor general “may appoint in each land district containing mineral lands as many competent surveyors as shall apply for appointment to survey mining claims.”

116. Application for Appointment.—Persons desiring such appointment should therefore file their applications with the surveyor general for the district wherein appointment is asked, who will furnish all information necessary.

117. Approval.—All appointments of mineral surveyors must be submitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office for approval.

118. Suspension and Revocation.—The surveyors general have authority to suspend or revoke the commissions of mineral surveyors for cause. Before final action, however, the matter should be submitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office for approval.

119. Appeal.—Such surveyors will be allowed the right of appeal from the action of the surveyor general in the usual manner. Such appeal should be filed with the surveyor general, who will at once transmit the same, with a full report, to the General Land Office.

120. Disputed Charges for Field Work.—Neither the surveyor general nor the Commissioner of the General Land Office has jurisdiction to settle differences, relative to the payment of charges for field work, between mineral surveyors and claimants. These are matters of private contract and must be enforced in the ordinary manner, i. e., in the local courts. The Department has, however, authority to investigate charges affecting the official actions of mineral surveyors, and will, on sufficient cause shown, suspend or revoke their appointment.

121. Number of Appointments Unlimited.—The surveyors general should appoint as many competent mineral surveyors as apply for appointment, in order that claimants may have a choice of surveyors, and be enabled to have their work done on the most advantageous terms.

122. Schedule of Charges for Office Work.—The schedule of charges for office work should be as low as is possible. No additional charges should be made for orders for amended surveys, unless the necessity therefor is clearly the fault of the claimant, or considerable additional office work results therefrom.

123. [Omitted.]

124. Instructions to Mineral Surveyors.—Mineral surveyors will address all official communications to the surveyor general. They will, when a mining claim is the subject of correspondence, give the name and survey number. In replying to letters they will give the subject matter and date of the letter. They will promptly notify the surveyor general of any change in postoffice address.

125. Records of Surveys—Field-notes and Reports.—Mineral surveyors should keep a complete record of each survey made by them and the facts coming to their knowledge at the time, as well as copies of all their field-notes, reports, and official correspondence, in order that such evidence may be readily produced when called for at any future time. Field-notes and other reports must be written in a clear and legible hand or typewritten, in noncopying ink, and upon the proper blanks furnished gratuitously by the surveyor general's office upon application therefor. No interlineations or erasures will be allowed.

126. Return by Surveyor must be Signed.—No return by a mineral surveyor will be recognized as official unless it is over his signature as a United States mineral surveyor, and made in pursuance of a special order from the surveyor general's office. After he has received an order for survey he is required to make the survey and return correct field-notes thereof to the surveyor general's office without delay.

127. United States not Responsible for Cost of Survey.—The claimant is required, in all cases, to make satisfactory arrangements with the surveyor for the payment for his services and those of his assistants in making the survey, as the United States will not be held responsible for the same.

128. Duties of Mineral Surveyors.—A mineral surveyor is precluded from acting, either directly or indirectly, as attorney in mineral claims. His duty in any particular case ceases when he has executed the survey and returned the field-notes and preliminary plat, with his report, to the surveyor general. He will not be allowed to prepare for the mining claimant the papers in support of his application for patent, or otherwise perform the duties of an attorney before the land office in connection with a mining claim. He is not permitted to combine the duties of surveyor and notary public in the same case by administering oaths to the parties in interest. It is preferable that both preliminary and final oaths of assistants should be taken before some officer duly authorized to administer oaths, other than the mineral surveyor. In cases, however, where great delay, expense, or inconvenience would result from a strict compliance with this rule, the mineral surveyor is authorized to administer the necessary oaths to his assistants, but in each case where this is done, he will submit to the proper surveyor general a full written report of the circumstances which required his stated action, otherwise he must have absolutely nothing to do with the case, except in his official capacity as surveyor. He will not employ chainmen interested therein in any manner.

METHOD OF SURVEY.

129. Survey, How Made.—The survey made and returned must, in every case, be an actual survey on the ground in full detail, made by the mineral surveyor in person after the receipt of the order, and without reference to any knowledge he may have previously acquired by reason of having made the location survey or otherwise, and must show the actual facts existing at the time. This precludes him from calculating the connections to corners of the public survey and location monuments, or any other lines of his survey through prior surveys made by others and substituting the same for connections or lines of the survey returned by him. The term "survey" in this paragraph applies not only to the usual field work, but also to the examinations required for the preparation of affidavits of five hundred dollars expenditure, descriptive reports on placer claims, and all other reports.

130. Contiguous Locations.—The survey of a mining claim may consist of several contiguous locations, but such survey must, in conformity with statutory requirements, distinguish the several locations, and exhibit the boundaries of each. The survey will be given but one number.

131. Relation of Survey to Location.—The survey must be made in strict conformity with, or be embraced within, the lines of the location upon which the order is based. If the survey and location are identical, that fact must be clearly and distinctly stated in the field-notes. If not identical, a bearing and distance must be given from each established corner of survey to the corresponding corner of the location, and the location corner must be fully described, so that it can be identified. The lines of the location, as found upon the ground, must be laid down upon the preliminary plat in such a manner as to contrast and show their relation to the lines of survey.

132. Corners not to be Changed.—In view of the principle that courses and distances must give way when in conflict with fixed objects and monuments, the surveyor will not, under any circumstances, change the corners of the location for the purpose of making them conform to the description in the record. If the difference from the location be slight, it may be explained in the field-notes.

133. Surveys to Show Course of Vein.—No mining claim located subsequent to May 10, 1872, should exceed the statutory limit in width on each side of the center of vein or fifteen hundred feet in length, and all surveys must close within fifty one-hundredths feet in one thousand feet, and the error must not be such as to make the location exceed the statutory limit, and in absence of other proof the discovery point is held to be the center of the vein on the surface. The course and length of the vein should be marked upon the plat.

134. Courses to Refer to True Meridian.—All mineral surveys must be made with a transit, with or without solar attachment, by which the meridian can be determined independently of the magnetic needle, and all courses must be referred to the true meridian. The variation should be noted at each corner of the survey. The true course of at least one line of each survey must be ascertained by astronomical observations made at the time of the survey; the data for determining the same and details as to how these data were arrived at must be given. Or, in lieu of the foregoing, the survey must be connected with some line the true course of which has been previously established beyond question, and in a similar manner, and, when such lines exist, it is desirable in all cases that they should be used as a proof of the accuracy of subsequent work.

135. Corner No. 1, How Connected.—Corner No. 1 of each location embraced in a survey must be connected by course and distance with nearest corner of the public survey or with a United States location monument, if the claim lies within two miles of such corner or monument. If both are within the required distance, the connection must be with the corner of the public survey.

136. Surveys in Suspended Townships.—Surveys and connections of mineral claims may be made in suspended townships in the same manner as though the claims were upon unsurveyed land, except as hereinafter specified, by connecting them with independent mineral monuments.

At the same time, the position of any public land corner which may be found in the neighborhood of the claim should be noted, so that, in case of the release of the township from suspension, the position of the claim can be shown on the plat.

137. Surveys in Suspended and Regular Townships.—A mineral survey must not be returned with its connection made only with a corner of the public survey, where the survey of the township within which it is situated is under suspension, nor connected with a mineral monument alone, when situated within the limits of a township the regularity and correctness of the survey of which is unquestioned.

138. Corner No. 1, How Established.—In making an official survey, corner No. 1 of each location must be established at the corner nearest the corner of the public survey or location monument, unless good cause is shown for its being placed otherwise. If connections are given to both a corner of the public survey and location monument, corners Nos. 1 should be placed at the corner nearest the corner of the public survey. When a boundary line of a claim intersects a section line, courses and distances from point of intersection to the Government corners at each end of the half mile of section line so intersected must be given.

139. Establishment of New Mineral Monument.—In case a survey is situated in a district where there are no corners of the public survey and no monuments within the prescribed limits, a mineral monument must be established, in the location of which the greatest care must be exercised to insure permanency as to site and construction.

140. Site to be Chosen, How.—The site, when practicable, should be some prominent point, visible for a long distance from every direction, and should be so chosen that the permanency of the monument will not be endangered by snow, rock, or landslides, or other natural causes.

141. Construction of Monument.—The monument should consist of a stone not less than thirty inches long, twenty inches wide, and six inches thick, set halfway in the ground, with a conical mound of stone four feet high and six feet base alongside. The letters U. S. L. M., followed by the consecutive number of the monument in the district, must be plainly chiseled upon the stone. If impracticable to obtain a stone of required dimensions, then a post eight feet long, six inches square, set three feet in the ground, scribed as for a stone monument, protected by a well-built conical mound of stone of not less than three feet high and six feet base around it, may be used. The exact point for connection must be indicated on the monument by an X chiseled thereon; if a post is used, then a tack must be driven into the post to indicate the point.

142. Connections and Hearings.—From the monument, connections by course and distance must be taken to two or three bearing trees or rocks, and to any well-known and permanent objects in the vicinity, such as the confluence of streams, prominent rocks, buildings, shafts, or mouths of adits. Bearing trees must be properly scribed B. T. and bearing rocks chiseled B. R., together with the number of the location monument; the exact point on the tree or stone to which the connection is taken should be indicated by a cross or other unmistakable mark. Bearings should also be taken to prominent mountain peaks, and the approximate distance and direction ascertained from the nearest town or mining camp. A detailed description of the locating monument, with a topographical map of its location, should be furnished the office of the surveyor general by the surveyor.

143. Corners, How Constructed.—Corners may consist of—

First.—A stone at least twenty-four inches long set twelve inches in the ground, with a conical mound of stone one and one-half feet high, two feet base, alongside.

Second.—A post at least three feet long by four inches square, set eighteen inches in the ground and surrounded by a substantial mound of stone or earth.

Third.—A rock in place.

A stone should always be used for a corner when possible, and when so used the kind should be stated.

144. How Marked.—All corners must be established in a permanent and workmanlike manner, and the corner and survey number must be neatly chiseled or scribed on the sides facing the claim. The exact corner point must be permanently indicated on the corner. When a rock in place is used, its dimensions above ground must be stated and a cross chiseled at the exact corner point.

145. Witness Corners.—In case the point for the corner be inaccessible or unsuitable a witness corner, which must be marked with the letters W. C. in addition to the corner and survey number, should be established. The witness corner should be located upon a line of the survey and as near as possible to the true corner, with which it must be connected by course and distance. The reason why it is impossible or impracticable to establish the true corner must always be stated in the field-notes and in running the next course it should be stated whether the start is made from the true place for corner or from witness corner.

146. Bearings.—The identity of all corners should be perpetuated by taking courses and distances to bearing trees, rocks, and other objects, as prescribed in the establishment of location monuments, and when no bearings are given it should be stated that no bearings are available. Permanent objects should be selected for bearings whenever possible.

147. Connections With Other Surveys.—If an official mineral survey has been made in the vicinity, within a reasonable distance, a further connecting line should be run to some corner thereof; and in like manner all conflicting surveys and locations should be so connected, and the corner with which connection is made in each case described. Such connections will be made and conflicts shown according to the boundaries of the neighboring or conflicting claims as each is marked, defined, and actually established upon the ground. The mineral surveyor will fully and specifically state in his return how and by what visible evidences he was able to identify on the ground the several conflicting surveys and those which appear according to their returned tie or boundary lines to conflict, if they were so identified, and report errors or discrepancies found by him in any such surveys. In the survey of contiguous claims which constitute a consolidated group, where corners are common, bearings should be mentioned but once.

148. Topographical Features and Improvements.—The mineral surveyor should note carefully all topographical features of the claim, taking distances on his lines to intersections with all streams, gulches, ditches, ravines, mountain ridges, roads, trails, etc., with their widths, courses, and other data that may be required to map them correctly. All municipal or private improvements such as blocks, streets, and buildings, should be located.

149. Lines of Conflicting Surveys.—If, in running the exterior lines of a claim, the survey is found to conflict with the survey of another claim, the distances to the points of intersection, and the courses and distances along the line intersected from an established corner of such conflicting claim to such points of intersection, should be described in the field-notes: Provided, that where a corner of the conflicting survey falls within the claim being surveyed, such corner should be selected from which to give the bearing, otherwise the corner nearest the intersection should be taken. The same rule should govern in the survey of claims embracing two or more locations the lines of which intersect.

150. Lode Sites and Mill Sites, How Distinguished.—A lode and mill site claim in one survey will be distinguished by the letters A and B following the number of the survey. The corners of the mill site will be numbered independently of those of the lode. Corner No. 1 of the mill site must be connected with a corner of the lode claim as well as with a corner of the public survey or United States location monument.

151. Each Location to be Given Separate Corner No. 1.—When a placer claim includes lodes, or when several contiguous placer or lode locations are included as one claim in one survey, there must be given to the corners of each location constituting the same a separate consecutive numerical designation, beginning with corner No. 1 in each case.

152. Description of Survey.—Throughout the description of the survey, after each reference to the lines or corners of a location, the name thereof must be given, and if unsurveyed, the fact stated. If reference is made to a location included in a prior official survey, the survey number must be given, followed by the name of the location. Corners should be described once only.

153. Area, How Stated.—The total area of each location and also the area in conflict with each intersecting survey or claim should be stated. But when locations embraced in one survey conflict with each other such conflicts should only be stated in connection with the location from which the conflicting area is excluded.

154. Section Lines.—It should be stated particularly whether the claim is upon surveyed or unsurveyed public lands, giving in the former case the quarter section, township, and range in which it is located, and the section lines should be indicated by full lines and the quarter section lines by dotted lines.

155. Title-page of Field-notes.—The title-page of the field-notes must contain the postoffice address of the claimant or his authorized agent.

156. Estimate of Value of Improvements.—In the mineral surveyor's report of the value of the improvements all actual expenditures and mining improvements made by the claimant or his grantors, having a direct relation to the development of the claim, must be included in the estimate.

157. What Included in Estimate and What Excluded.—The expenditures required may be made from the surface or in running a tunnel, drifts, or crosscuts for the development of the claim. Improvements of any other character, such as buildings, machinery, or roadways, must be excluded from the estimate, unless it is shown clearly that they are associated with actual excavations, such as cuts, tunnels, shafts, etc., are essential to the practical development of and actually facilitate the extraction of mineral from the claim.

158. Improvements to be Located and Numbered.—All mining and other improvements claimed will be located by courses and distances from corners of the survey, or from points on the center or side lines, specifying with particularity and detail the dimensions and character of each, and the improvements upon each location should be numbered consecutively, the point of discovery being always No. 1. Improvements made by a former locator who has abandoned his claim cannot be included in the estimate, but should be described and located in the notes and plat.

159. Expenditure on Lode Claim Where Mill Site Included in Survey.—In case of a lode and mill site claim in the same survey the expenditure of five hundred dollars must be shown upon the lode claim.

160. Supplemental Proof of Expenditure.—If the value of the labor and improvements upon a mineral claim is less than five hundred dollars at the time of survey, the mineral surveyor may file with the surveyor general supplemental proof showing five hundred dollars expenditure made prior to the expiration of the period of publication.

161. Preliminary Plat.—The mineral surveyor will return with his field-notes a preliminary plat on blank sent to him for that purpose, protracted on a scale of two hundred feet to an inch, if practicable. In preparing plats the top is north. Copy of the calculations of areas by double meridian distances and of all triangulations or traverse lines must be furnished. The lines of the claim surveyed should be heavier than the lines of conflicting claims.

162. Erroneous Surveys—Joint Survey.—Whenever a survey has been reported in error the surveyor who made it will be required to promptly make a thorough examination upon the premises and report the result, under oath, to the surveyor general's office. In case he finds his survey in error he will report in detail all discrepancies with the original survey and submit any explanation he may have to offer as to the cause. If, on the contrary, he should report his survey correct, a joint survey will be ordered to settle the differences with the surveyor who reported the error. A joint survey must be made within ten days after the date of order unless satisfactory reasons are submitted, under oath, for a postponement. The field work must in every sense of the term be a joint and not a separate survey, and the observations and measurements taken with the same instrument and chain, previously tested and agreed upon.

163. Field-notes on Joint Survey, by Whom Made.—The mineral surveyor found in error, or, if both are in error, the one who reported the same, will make out the field-notes of the joint survey, which, after being duly signed and sworn to by both parties, must be transmitted to the surveyor general's office.

164. Amended Surveys Ordered on Special Instructions.—Inasmuch as amended surveys are ordered only by special instructions from the General Land Office, and the conditions and circumstances peculiar to each separate case and the object sought by the required amendment, alone govern all special matters relative to the manner of making such survey and the form and subject matter to be embraced in the field-notes thereof, but few general rules applicable to all cases can be laid down.

165. Amended Survey—How Made.—The amended survey must be made in strict conformity with, or be embraced within, the lines of the original survey. If the amended and original surveys are identical, that fact must be clearly and distinctly stated in the field-notes. If not identical, a bearing and distance must be given from each established corner of the amended survey to the corresponding corner of the original survey. The lines of the original survey, as found upon the ground, must be laid down upon the preliminary plat in such manner as to contrast and show their relation to the lines of the amended survey.

166. Amended Survey—Field-notes, How Prepared.—The field-notes of the amended survey must be prepared on the same size and form of blanks as are the field-notes of the original survey, and the word "amended" must be used before the word "survey" wherever it occurs in the field-notes.

167. Descriptive Report on Placer Claims.—Mineral surveyors are required to make full examinations of all placer claims at the time of survey and file with the field-notes a descriptive report, in which will be described—

(a) The quality and composition of the soil, and the kind and amount of timber and other vegetation.

(b) The locus and size of streams, and such other matter as may appear upon the surface of the claims.

(c) The character and extent of all surface and underground workings, whether placer or lode, for mining purposes, locating and describing them.

(d) The proximity of centers of trade or residence.

(e) The proximity of well-known systems of lode deposits or of individual lodes.

(f) The use or adaptability of the claim for placer mining, and whether water has been brought upon it in sufficient quantity to mine the same, or whether it can be procured for that purpose.

(g) What works or expenditures have been made by the claimant or his grantors for the development of the claim, and their situation and location with respect to the same as applied for.

(h) The true situation of all mines, salt licks, salt springs, and mill sites which come to the surveyor's knowledge, or a report by him that none exist on the claim, as the facts may warrant.

(i) Said report must be made under oath and duly corroborated by one or more disinterested persons.

168. Parties not to Assist in Making Surveys.—The employing of claimants, their attorneys, or parties in interest, as assistants in making surveys of mineral claims will not be allowed.

169. General Accountability of Surveyor.—The field-work must be accurately and properly performed and returns made in conformity with the foregoing instructions. Errors in the survey must be corrected at the surveyor's own expense, and if the time required in the examination of the returns is increased by reason of neglect or carelessness, he will be required to make an additional deposit for office work. He will be held to a strict accountability for the faithful discharge of his duties, and will be required to observe fully the requirements and regulations in force as to making mineral surveys. If found incompetent as a surveyor, careless in the discharge of his duties, or guilty of a violation of said regulations, his appointment will be promptly revoked.

S. V. PROUDFIT,
Acting Commissioner.

MINING CORPORATIONS.

§ 586. Transfer Agencies.—Any corporation organized in this State for the purpose of mining or carrying on mining operations in or without this State, may establish and maintain agencies in other States of the United States, for the transfer and issuing of their stock; and a transfer or issue of the same at any such transfer agency, in accordance with the provisions of its by-laws, is valid and binding as fully and effectually for all purposes as if made upon the books of such corporation at its principal office within this State. The agencies must be governed by the by-laws and the directors of the corporation.

§ 587. Stock Issued at Transfer Agencies.—All stock of any such corporation, issued at a transfer agency, must be signed by the president and secretary of the corporation, and countersigned at the time of its issue by the agent having charge of the transfer agency. No stock must be issued at a transfer agency unless the certificate of stock, in lieu of which the same is issued, is at the time surrendered for cancellation.

§ 587a. Consolidation of Mining Corporations.—It is lawful for two or more corporations formed, or that may hereafter be formed, under the laws of this State, for mining purposes, which own or possess mining claims or lands adjoining each other, or lying in the same vicinity, to consolidate their capital stock, debts, property, assets, and franchises, in such manner and upon such terms as may be agreed upon by the respective boards of directors or trustees of such corporations so desiring to consolidate their interests; but no such consolidation must take place without the written consent of the stockholders representing two-thirds of the capital stock of each corporation, and no such consolidation can, in any way, relieve such corporations, or the stockholders thereof, from any and all just liabilities; and in case of such consolidation, due notice of the same must be given, by advertising, for one month, in at least one newspaper in the county where the said mining property is situated, if there is one published therein, and also in one newspaper published in the county where the principal place of business of any of said corporation[s] is. And when the consolidation is completed, a certificate thereof, containing the manner and terms of such consolidation, must be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the original certificate of incorporation of each of said corporations is filed, and a copy thereof must be filed in the office of the secretary of state; such certificate must be signed by a majority of each board of trustees or directors of the original corporations, and it is their duty to call, within thirty days after the filing of such certificate, a meeting of the stockholders of all of said corporations so consolidated, to elect a board of trustees or directors for the consolidated corporation, for the year thence next ensuing; and to cause notice of the time and place fixed for such meeting to be mailed to each stockholder of each of such corporations at his last known place of residence or business at least ten days before the time fixed for such meeting. The said certificate must also contain all the requirements prescribed by section two hundred and ninety.

§ 588. Books and Balance-sheets to be Kept by Secretary—Stockholders' Right to Inspect.—It is the duty of the secretary of every corporation formed for the purpose of mining, or conducting mining in California, whether such corporation be formed and organized under the laws of the State of California or any other State, territory, or foreign country, to keep at some place within the State of California an office and in such office to keep a complete set of books showing all receipts and expenditures of such corporation, the sources of such receipts, and the objects of such expenditures, and also all transfers of stock. All books and papers must, at all times during business hours, be open to the inspection of any stockholder. He is entitled to be accompanied by an expert, and to make copies of extracts from any such books or papers. He may, at reasonable hours, examine such mining property, accompanied by an expert, take samples, and make such other examination as he may deem necessary. It is the duty of the directors, on the second Monday of each and every month, to cause to be made an itemized account or balance-sheet for the previous month, embracing a full and complete statement of all disbursements and receipts, showing from what sources such receipts were derived, and to whom and for what object or purpose such disbursements or payments were made; also all indebtedness or liabilities incurred or existing at the time, and for what the same were incurred, and the balance of money, if any, on hand. Such account or balance-sheet must be verified under oath by the president and secretary, and posted in some conspicuous place in the office of the company. It is the duty of the superintendent, on the first Monday of each month, to file with the secretary an itemized account, verified under oath, showing all receipts and disbursements made by him for the previous month, and for what said disbursements were made. Such account must also contain a verified statement showing the number of men employed under him, and for what purpose, and the rate of wages paid to each. He must attach to such account a full and complete report, under oath, of the work done in said mine, the amount of ore extracted, from what part of mine taken, the amount sent to mill for reduction, its assay value, the amount of bullion received, the amount of bullion shipped to the office of the company or elsewhere, and the amount, if any, retained by the superintendent. It is his duty to forward to the office of the company a full report, under oath, of all discoveries of ores or mineral-bearing quartz made in said mine, whether by boring, drifting, sinking, or otherwise, together with the assay value thereof. All accounts, reports, and correspondence from the superintendent must be kept in some conspicuous place in the office of said company, open to the inspection of all stockholders.

§ 589. Right of Stockholders to Visit Mine With Expert.—Any stockholder of a corporation formed under the laws of this State for the purpose of mining, is entitled to visit, accompanied by his expert, and examine the mine or mines owned by such corporation, and every part thereof, at any time he may see fit; and when such stockholder applies to the president of such corporation, he must immediately cause the secretary thereof to issue and deliver to such applicant an order, under the seal of the corporation, directed to the superintendent, commanding him to show and exhibit such parts of said mine or mines as the party named in said order may desire to visit and examine. It is the duty of the superintendent, on receiving such order, to furnish such stockholder every facility for making a full and complete inspection of said mine or mines, and of the workings therein, and to accompany said stockholder either in person, or to furnish some person familiar with said mine or mines to accompany him in his visit to and through such mine or mines, and every part thereof. If the superintendent fails to obey such order, such stockholder is entitled to recover, in any court of competent jurisdiction, against the corporation, the sum of one thousand dollars, and traveling expenses to and from the mine, as liquidated damages, together with costs of suit. In case of such refusal, it is the duty of the directors of the corporation forthwith to remove the officer so refusing, and thereafter he must not be employed directly or indirectly by the corporation, nor must any salary be paid to him.

§ 590. Liability of Presidents and Directors.—In case of the refusal or neglect of the president to cause to be issued by the secretary the order mentioned in section 589, such stockholder is entitled to recover against said president the sum of one thousand dollars and costs, as provided in the last section. If the directors fail to have the report and accounts current made and posted as provided in section 588, they are liable, either severally or jointly, to an action by any stockholder complaining thereof, and on proof of such refusal or failure, he may recover judgment for actual damages sustained by him, with costs of suit. Each of such defaulting directors is also liable to removal for such neglect.

§ 1425. Meaning of Hydraulic Mining.—Hydraulic mining, within the meaning of this title, is mining by means of the application of water, under pressure, through a nozzle, against a natural bank.

§ 7. Owner.—The word "owner" in this act shall apply to lessee as well.

§ 8. Right of Action.—For any injury to person or property occasioned by any violation of this act, or any willful failure to comply with its provisions, a right of action shall accrue to the party injured for any direct damages he or she may have sustained thereby, before any court of competent jurisdiction.

§ 9. Liability.—For any willful failure or negligence on the part of the overseer of any coal mine, he shall be liable to conviction of misdemeanor, and punished according to law; provided, that if such willful failure or negligence is the cause of the death of any person, the overseer, upon conviction, shall be deemed guilty of manslaughter.

§ 10. Boilers.—All boilers used for generating steam in and about coal mines shall be kept in good order, and the owner or agent thereof shall have them examined and inspected, by a competent boiler-maker, as often as once in three months.

§ 11. This act shall not apply to opening a new coal mine.

SYSTEM OF MINE BELL SIGNALS.

(Approved March 8, 1893. Stats. 1893, p. 82.)

§ 1. Code of Mine Bell Signals.—Every person, company, corporation, or individual operating any mine within the State of California—gold, silver, copper, lead, coal, or any other metal or substance where it is necessary to use signals by means of bell or otherwise for shafts, inclines, drifts, crosscuts, tunnels, and underground workings—shall, after the passage of this bill, adopt, use, and put in force the following system or code of mine bell signals, as follows:

1 bell, to hoist. (See rule 2.)

1 bell, to stop if in motion.

2 bells to lower. (See rule 2.)

3 bells, man to be hoisted; run slow. (See rule 2.)

4 bells, start pump, if not running, or stop pump if running.

1—3 bells, start or stop air compressor.

5 bells, send down tools. (See rule 4.)

6 bells, send down timbers. (See rule 4.)

7 bells, accident; move bucket or cage by verbal orders only.

1—4 bells, foreman wanted.

2—1—1 bells, done hoisting until called.

2—1—2 bells, done hoisting for the day.

2—2—2 bells, change buckets from ore to water, or vice versa.

3—2—1 bells, ready to shoot in the shaft. (See rule 3.)

Engineer's signal, that he is ready to hoist, is to raise the bucket or cage two feet and lower it again. (See rule 3.)

Levels shall be designated and inserted in notice hereinafter mentioned. (See rule 5.)

§ 2. Rules.—For the purpose of enforcing and properly understanding the above code of signals, the following rules are hereby established:

Rule 1. In giving signals make strokes on bell at regular intervals. The bar (—) must take the same time as for one stroke of the bell, and no more. If timber, tools, the foreman, bucket, or cage, are wanted to stop at any level in the mine, signal by number of strokes on the bell, the number of the level first before giving the signal for timber, tools, etc. Time between signals to be double bars (— —). Examples:

6 — — 5, would mean stop at sixth level with tools.

4 — — 1—1—1— —1, would mean stop at fourth level, man on, hoist.

2 — — 1—4, would mean stop at second level with foreman.

Rule 2. No person must get off or on the bucket or cage while the same is in motion. When men are to be hoisted, give the signal for men. Men must then get on bucket or cage, then give the signal to hoist. Bell-cord must be in reach of man on the bucket or cage at stations.

Rule 3. After signal "Ready to shoot in shaft," engineer must give his signal when he is ready to hoist. Miners must then give the signal of "Men to be hoisted," then "spit fuse," get into the bucket, and give the signal to hoist.

Rule 4. All timbers, tools, etc., "longer than the depth of the bucket," to be hoisted or lowered, must be securely lashed at the upper end to the cable. Miners must know they will ride up or down the shaft without catching on rocks or timbers, and be thrown out.

Rule 5. The foreman will see that one printed sheet of these signals and rules for each level and one for the engine-room are attached to a board not less than twelve inches wide by thirty-six inches long, and securely fasten the board up where signals can be easily read at the places above stated.

Rule 6. The above signals and rules must be obeyed. Any violation will be sufficient grounds for discharging the party or parties so doing. No person, company, corporation, or individuals operating any mine within the State of California shall be responsible for accidents that may happen to men disobeying the above rules and signals. Said notice and rules shall be signed by the person or superintendent having charge of the mine, who shall designate the name of the corporation or the owner of the mine.

§ 3. Penalty.—Any person or company failing to carry out any of the provisions of this act shall be responsible for all damages arising to or incurred by any person working in said mine during the time of such failure.

§ 4. This act shall take effect immediately.

§ 1. Extracting Minerals from Waters.—Minerals contained in the waters of any stream or lake in this State shall not be extracted from said waters except upon charges, terms and conditions prescribed by law. No person, firm, corporation or association shall hereafter gain the right to extract or cause to be extracted said minerals from said waters by user, custom, prescription, appropriation, littoral rights, riparian rights, or in any manner other than by lease from or express permission of the State as prescribed by law; and no such lease or permission shall be granted for a longer period than twenty-five years.

§ 2. All acts or parts of acts in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

LEASES OF LAKES AND STREAMS, THE WATERS OF WHICH CONTAIN MINERALS IN COMMERCIAL QUANTITIES.

(Approved April 27, 1911. Stats. 1911, p. 1154.)

§ 1. Waters Containing Minerals Withdrawn from Sale.—There is hereby withdrawn from selection and sale all of the lands embraced within the original meander lines of streams and lakes belonging to the State, the waters of which contain minerals in commercial quantities, and all such lands which may hereafter inure to the State by virtue of its sovereignty, excepting such lands now contracted to be sold under sections 3493m to 3493t, both inclusive, of the Political Code.

§ 2. Water may be Taken Only Under This Act.—No person, firm or corporation shall take water from such streams or lakes containing minerals and extract from such waters such minerals, except under the terms and conditions of this act; and no person, firm or corporation may lease any land herein referred to and extract therefrom minerals deposited therein or thereon, except under the terms and conditions of this act.

§ 3. Statement to be Filed With County Assessor and State Controller.—Every person, firm or corporation taking from the waters of such stream, lakes or lands any minerals, shall file, on or before the last Monday in January of each year, with the county assessor of the county in which any such stream or lake is situated, and also with the State controller, a written statement, duly verified, showing in tons of two thousand pounds, the amount of mineral taken by such person, firm or corporation from such water or land during the year ending December 31st last preceding and sold by said person, firm or corporation during the said year preceding. Any such person, firm or corporation neglecting or refusing to furnish such statement shall be subject to a fine of one hundred dollars for each day after the said last Monday in January such person, firm or corporation shall fail to furnish such statement, and, in addition to said fine, shall forfeit all leases granting the right to extract such minerals from said water and said land. Any person who shall, either on behalf of himself or any firm or corporation, verify any such statement which shall be untrue in any material part, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

§ 4. Examination of Statement.—In case either the assessor or the State controller shall not be satisfied with the statement as returned, he may make an examination of the matters necessary to verify or correct said statement, and, for that purpose, may subpoena witnesses and call for and compel the production of necessary books and papers belonging to the person, firm or corporation making the returns.

§ 5. Royalty.—The county assessor of the county shall, after examination and approval by him and the State controller of such statement, proceed to collect from such person, firm or corporation a royalty of twenty-five cents for each ton of two thousand pounds of mineral taken from such water or land by such person, firm or corporation and sold during the preceding year, in the manner provided for the collection of personal property taxes; provided, that the royalty on sodium bicarbonate and on sodium hydrate so taken shall be fifty (50) cents for each ton of two thousand pounds.

§ 6. Application to Lease Lands.—Any person, firm or corporation desiring to lease any lands under this act must make application therefor to the surveyor general of the State, describing the lands sought to be leased by legal subdivisions, or, if the legal subdivisions are unknown to the applicant, by metes and bounds. The application must be accompanied by a filing fee of ten dollars.

§ 7. Survey of Lands.—Upon the receipt of such application, the surveyor general shall direct the county surveyor of the county in which such lands are situated to survey the land sought to be leased. The county surveyor shall make an actual survey of the land, at the expense of the applicant, establishing the four corners to each quarter section, and connecting the same with a United States survey; and within thirty days file with the surveyor general a copy, under oath, of his field-notes and plat. If the county surveyor fails to make the survey as herein provided, the surveyor general shall immediately direct another person to make the survey at the expense of the applicant, and said survey shall be made and completed within thirty days after the authorization, and the field-notes and plats, or copies thereof, shall be sworn to by the surveyor making them and shall be filed with the surveyor general.

§ 8. Approval or Rejection of Application.—All applications to lease land under this act shall be approved or rejected by the surveyor general within ninety days after the receipt thereof. Immediately after the approval of the application, the surveyor general shall execute and deliver to the applicant a lease of the lands described in the application.

§ 9. Rental.—The lands designated in this act shall be leased at the rate of two dollars and fifty cents per acre, per year, payable yearly in advance. All moneys received as rental for such lands and as royalty upon the mineral product of the waters of the lakes, streams or lands above mentioned, shall be paid into the State school land fund.

§ 10. First Payment—Limit of Lease.—Whenever any lease is delivered to the applicant by the surveyor general, the lessee shall, within fifteen days thereafter, present said lease to the treasurer of the State of California, and make payment of the first annual rental. The treasurer shall receive the money and give a receipt therefor. All subsequent annual payments of rental must be paid to the state treasurer, in like manner, within fifteen days after they become due. In case payments are not made as herein provided, the lease and all rights thereunder shall cease and terminate. No lease shall run for more than twenty-five years; provided, that upon the expiration of any lease, such lease may be extended for a period of twenty-five years upon such terms and conditions as may then be prescribed by law.

§ 11. Reservations to State.—All leases made under the authority of this act shall contain a reservation to the State of a right to locate rights of way across such leased lands, subject only to the requirements that the rights of way shall be located in such manner as to cause the least injury to the leased lands across which the same may be located, and that any damage suffered by the lessee of such lands shall be compensated by the lessee of the lands for whose benefit the right of way is required; and every such lease shall be subject to, and shall contain a reservation of, the right of any city and county or incorporated city or town of this State to at any time appropriate and take, under the laws of this State relative to the appropriation of waters, water from any stream or lake tributary to or discharging into any stream or lake of the character mentioned in section 1 of this act for any use or uses within the authorized powers of such city and county, or incorporated city or town.

§ 12. Lease to Rights of Way.—Leases of rights of way, not exceeding one hundred feet in width, for access to any waters or lands designated by this act, may be applied for and granted in the manner herein provided for leasing lands. Such rights of way shall be leased at an annual rental of two dollars and fifty cents an acre, and the same shall be paid as herein provided for leased lands.

§ 13. Termination of Lease.—All leases of mineral lands provided for by this act shall cease and terminate on December 31st of any year if the lessee or assigns has not, during the year preceding, extracted or removed from such land and water an amount of mineral equal, in the aggregate, to a minimum of five tons per acre of land leased; provided, that when a lease is not delivered to the lessee until after the fifteenth day of January of any year, the minimum tonnage for such year shall be less than five (5) tons, and shall be proportional to the number of days remaining in such year after the completion of the works.

MINER'S LIEN.

Any person who performs labor in any mining claim or claims, or in or upon any real property worked as a mine, either in the development thereof or in working thereon by the subtractive process or furnishes materials to be used or consumed therein, has a lien upon the same and the works owned and used by the owners for milling or reducing the ores from the same, for the value of the work or labor done or materials furnished by each respectively, whether done or furnished at the instance of the owner of such mining claim or claims or real property worked as a mine, or his agent, and every contractor, subcontractor, superintendent or other person having charge of any mining or work or labor performed in and about such mining claim or claims or real property worked as a mine, either as lessee or under a working bond or contract thereon shall be held to be the agent of the owner for the purposes of this chapter. [Part of Code Civ. Proc. 1183, as amended 1911.]

EIGHT HOUR LAW.

§ 1. Period of Employment.—That the period of employment for all persons who are employed or engaged in work in underground mines in search of minerals, whether base or precious, or who are engaged in such underground mines for other purposes, or who are employed or engaged in any other underground workings, whether for the purpose of tunneling, making excavations or to accomplish any other purpose or design, or who are employed in smelters and other institutions for the reduction or refining of ores or metals shall not exceed eight hours within any twenty-four hours, and the hours of employment in such employment or work day shall be consecutive, excluding, however, any intermission of time for lunch or meals; provided, that, in case of emergency where life or property is in imminent danger, the period may be a longer time during the continuance of the exigency or emergency.

§ 2. Penalty.—Any person who shall violate any provision of this act, and any person who as foreman, manager, director or officer of a corporation, or as the employer or superior officer of any person, shall command, persuade or allow any person to violate any provision of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars ($50) nor more than three hundred dollars ($300), or by imprisonment of not more than three months. And the court shall have discretion to impose both fine and imprisonment as herein provided.

§ 3. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

TELEPHONE SYSTEM IN MINES.

(Approved June 13, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913.)

§ 1. Telephone System.—In all mines operated and worked in this State where a depth of more than five hundred feet underground has been reached, a telephone system must be established, equipped and maintained by the owners or lessees thereof with stations at each working level below the depth aforesaid, communicating with a station thereof on the surface of any such mine.

§ 2. Penalty.—The failure or refusal of any owner or lessee to install or maintain such telephone system shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor and punished accordingly.

DEBRIS LAW.

ACT TO CREATE THE CALIFORNIA DEBRIS COMMISSION AND REGULATE HYDRAULIC MINING IN THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

California Debris Commission Created—Appointment—Authority and Power.—Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That a commission is hereby created, to be known as the California Debris Commission, consisting of three members. The President of the United States shall, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoint the commission from officers of the Corps of Engineers, United States Army. Vacancies occurring therein shall be filled in like manner. It shall have the authority, and exercise the powers hereinafter set forth, under the supervision of the Chief of Engineers and direction of the Secretary of War.

§ 2. Organization—Compensation—Rules, etc., of Procedure.—That said commission shall organize within thirty days after its appointment by the selection of such officers as may be required in the performance of its duties, the same to be selected from the members thereof. The members of said commission shall receive no greater compensation than is now allowed by law to each, respectively, as an officer of said Corps of Engineers. It shall also adopt rules and regulations, not inconsistent with law, to govern its deliberations and prescribe the method of procedure under the provisions of this act.

§ 3. Jurisdiction—Injurious Hydraulic Mining Prohibited.—That the jurisdiction of said commission, in so far as the same affects mining carried on by the hydraulic process shall extend to all such mining in the territory drained by the Sacramento and San Joaquin river systems in the State of California. Hydraulic mining, as defined in section 8 hereof, directly or indirectly injuring the navigability of said river systems, carried on in said territory other than as permitted under the provisions of this act is hereby prohibited and declared unlawful.

§ 4. Duty of Commission—Plans—Improving Navigability of Rivers, etc.—Certain Hydraulic Mining Permitted.—That it shall be the duty of said commission to mature and adopt such plan or plans, from examinations and surveys already made and from such additional examinations and surveys as it may deem necessary, as will improve the navigability of all the rivers comprising said systems, deepen their channels, and protect their banks. Such plan or plans shall be matured with a view of making the same effective as against the encroachment of and damage from debris resulting from mining operations, natural erosion or other causes, with a view of restoring, as near as practicable and the necessities of commerce and navigation demand, the navigability of said rivers to the condition existing in 1860, and permitting mining by the hydraulic process, as the term is understood in said State, to be carried on, provided the same can be accomplished without injury to the navigability of said rivers or the lands adjacent thereto.

§ 5. Surveys of Storage Sites for Debris, Reservoirs, etc.—Examination of Hydraulic and Other Mines, etc.—That it shall further examine, survey, and determine the utility and practicability, for the purposes hereinafter indicated, of storage sites in the tributaries of said rivers and in the respective branches of said tributaries, or in the plains, basins, sloughs, and tule and swamp lands adjacent to or along the course of said rivers, for the storage of debris or water or as settling reservoirs, with the object of using the same by either or all of these methods to aid in the improvement and protection of said navigable rivers by preventing deposits therein of debris resulting from mining operations, natural erosion, or other causes, or for affording relief thereto in flood time and providing sufficient water to maintain scouring force therein in the summer season; and in connection therewith to investigate such hydraulic and other mines as are now or may have been worked by methods intended to restrain the debris and material moved in operating such mines by impounding dams, settling reservoirs, or otherwise, and in general to make such study of and researches in the hydraulic mining industry as science, experience and engineering skill may suggest as practicable and useful in devising a method or methods whereby such mining may be carried on as aforesaid.

§ 6. Noting Condition of Navigable Channels.—That the said commission shall from time to time note the conditions of the navigable channels of said river systems, by cross-section surveys or otherwise, in order to ascertain the effect therein of such hydraulic mining operations as may be permitted by its orders and such as is caused by erosion, natural or otherwise.

§ 7. Annual Report—Contents.—That said commission shall submit to the Chief of Engineers, for the information of the Secretary of War, on or before the 15th day of November of each year a report of its labors and transactions, with plans for the construction, completion, and preservation of the public works outlined in this act, together with estimates of the cost thereof, stating what amounts can be profitably expended thereon each year. The Secretary of War shall thereupon submit same to Congress on or before the meeting thereof.

§ 8. “Hydraulic Mining” and “Mining by the Hydraulic Process” Defined.—That for the purposes of this act “hydraulic mining” and "mining by the hydraulic process," are hereby declared to have the meaning and application given to said terms in said State.

§ 9. Hydraulic Miners must File Petition With Commission.—That the individual proprietor or proprietors, or in case of a corporation its manager or agent appointed for that purpose, owning mining ground in the territory in the State of California mentioned in section 3 thereof, which it is desired to work by the hydraulic process, must file with said commission a verified petition, setting forth such facts as will comply with law and the rules prescribed by said commission.

§ 10. Surrender to United States of Right to Regulate the Working, etc.—Use of Other Processes, etc., not Affected—Proviso—Navigability of Rivers.—That said petition shall be accompanied by an instrument duly executed and acknowledged, as required by the law of the said State, whereby the owner or owners of such mine or mines surrender to the United States the right and privilege to regulate by law, as provided in this act, or any law that may hereafter be enacted, or by such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by virtue thereof the manner and method in which the debris resulting from the working of said mine or mines shall be restrained, and what amount shall be produced therefrom; it being understood that the surrender aforesaid shall not be construed as in any way affecting the right of such owner or owners to operate said mine or mines by any other process or method now in use in said State: Provided, That they shall not interfere with the navigability of the aforesaid rivers.

§ 11. Joint Petition by Mining Claim Owners Requiring a Common Dumping Ground, etc.—That the owners of several mining claims situated so as to require a common dumping ground or dam or other restraining works for the debris issuing therefrom in one or more sites may file a joint petition setting forth such facts in addition to the requirements of section 9 hereof; and where the owner of a hydraulic mine or owners of several such mines have and use common dumping sites for impounding debris or as settling reservoirs which sites are located below the mine of an applicant not entitled to use same, such fact shall also be stated in said petition. Thereupon the same proceedings shall be had as provided for herein.

§ 12. Notice of Petition, etc., to be Published—Examination Pending Publication—Affidavits, Plans, etc., may be Filed—Hearings.—A notice specifying briefly the contents of said petition and fixing a time previous to which all proofs are to be submitted shall be published by said commission in some newspaper or newspapers of general circulation in the communities interested in the matter set forth therein. If published in a daily paper such publication shall continue for at least ten days; if in a weekly paper in at least three issues of the same. Pending publication thereof said commission, or a committee thereof, shall examine the mine and premises described in such petition. On or before the time so fixed all parties interested, either as petitioners or contestants, whether miners or agriculturists, may file affidavits, plans, and maps in support of their respective claims. Further hearings, upon notice to all parties of record, may be granted by the commission when necessary.

§ 13. Favorable Decisions Within Thirty Days—Order Directing Methods of Mining, Conditions, etc.—Taxes on Gross Proceeds—Proviso—Expenses.—That in case a majority of the members of said commission, within thirty days after the time so fixed, concur in a decision in favor of the petitioner or petitioners, the said commission shall thereupon make an order directing the methods and specifying in detail the manner in which operations shall proceed in such mine or mines; what restraining or impounding works, if facilities therefor can be found, shall be built, and maintained; how and of what material; where to be located; and in general set forth such further requirements and safeguards as will protect the public interests and prevent injury to the said navigable rivers, and the lands adjacent thereto, with such further conditions and limitations as will observe all the provisions of this act in relation to the working thereof and the payment of taxes on the gross proceeds of the same: Provided, That all expense incurred in complying with said order shall be borne by the owner or owners of such mine or mines.

§ 14. Plans, etc., to be Submitted to Commission—Commencement of Works—Supervision and Inspection—Completion of Works—Permission to Commence Mining.—That such petitioner or petitioners must within a reasonable time present plans and specifications of all works required to be built in pursuance of said order for examination, correction, and approval by said commission; and thereupon work may immediately commence thereon under the supervision of said commission or representative thereof attached thereto from said Corps of Engineers, who shall inspect same from time to time. Upon completion thereof, if found in every respect to meet the requirements of the said order and said approved plans and specifications, permission shall thereupon be granted to the owner or owners of such mine or mines to commence mining operations, subject to the conditions of said order and the provisions of this act.

§ 15. Conditions, etc., as to Commencing Operations—Proviso—Navigation, etc., Sufficiently Protected.—That no permission granted to a mine owner or owners under this act shall take effect, so far as regards the working of a mine, until all impounding dams or other restraining works, if any are prescribed by the order granting such permission, have been completed and until the impounding dams or other restraining works or settling reservoirs provided by said commission have reached such a stage as in the opinion of said commission, it is safe to use the same: Provided, however, That if said commission shall be of the opinion that the restraining and other works already constructed at the mine or mines shall be sufficient to protect the navigable rivers of said systems and the work of said commission, then the owner or owners of such mine or mines may be permitted to commence operations.

§ 16. Allotment of Expenses for Constructing Common Dumps, etc.—Subsequent Petitioners to Pay for Dumping Privilege—Apportionment of Such Payment to Original Owners—Maintenance, etc.—Location.—That in case the joint petition referred to in section 11 hereof is granted, the commission shall fix the respective amounts to be paid by each owner of such mines toward providing and building necessary impounding dams or other restraining works. In the event of a petition being filed after the entry of such order, or in case the impounding dam or dams or other restraining works have already been constructed and accepted by said commission, the commission shall fix such amount as may be reasonable for the privilege of dumping therein, which amount shall be divided between the original owners of such impounding dams or other restraining works in proportion to the amount respectively paid by each party owning same. The expense of maintaining and protecting such joint dam or works shall be divided among mine owners using the same in such proportion as the commission shall determine. In all cases where it is practicable, restraining and impounding works are to be provided, constructed and maintained by mine owners near or below the mine or mines before reaching the main tributaries of said navigable waters.

§ 17. Limit of Debris Washed Away.—That at no time shall any more debris be permitted to be washed away from any hydraulic mine or mines situated on the tributaries of said rivers and the respective branches of each, worked under the provisions of this act, than can be impounded within the restraining works erected.

§ 18. Modification, etc., of Orders.—That the said commission may at any time when the condition of the navigable rivers or when the capacities of all impounding and settling facilities erected by mine owners or such as may be provided by government authority require same, modify the order granting the privilege to mine by the hydraulic mining process so as to reduce amount thereof to meet the capacities of the facilities then in use, or, if actually required in order to protect the navigable rivers from damage, may revoke same until the further notice of the commission.

§ 19. Forfeiture for Violating Conditions—Work to Cease upon Service of Notice—Enforcement of Orders, etc.—That an intentional violation on the part of a mine owner or owners, company, or corporation, or the agents or the employees of either, of the conditions of the order granted pursuant to section 13, or such modifications thereof as may have been made by said commission, shall work a forfeiture of the privileges thereby conferred, and upon notice being served by the order of said commission upon such owner or owners, company or corporation, or agent in charge, work shall immediately cease. Said commission shall take necessary steps to enforce its orders in case of the failure, neglect, or refusal of such owner or owners, company, or corporation, or agents thereof, to comply therewith, or in the event of any person or persons, company or corporation working by said process in said territory contrary to law.

§ 20. Visiting Mines—Report.—That said commission, or a committee therefrom or officer of said corps assigned to duty under its orders, shall, whenever deemed necessary, visit said territory and all mines operating under the provisions of this act. A report of such examination shall be placed on file.

§ 21. Use of Public Lands and Material—Withdrawal of Lands from Sale and Entry.—That the said commission is hereby granted the right to use any of the public lands of the United States, or any rock, stone, timber, trees, brush, or material thereon or therein, for any of the purposes of this act; and the Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized and requested, after notice has been filed with the Commissioner of the General Land Office by said commission, setting forth what public lands are required by it under the authority of this section, that such land or lands shall be withdrawn from sale and entry under the laws of the United States.

§ 22. Willful Injury to Works a Misdemeanor—Penalty—Violation of This Act a Misdemeanor—Penalty—Proviso—Operative Date.—That any person or persons who willfully or maliciously injure, damage, or destroy, or attempt to injure, damage, or destroy, any dam or other work erected under the provisions of this act for restraining, impounding, or settling purposes, or for use in connection therewith, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not to exceed the sum of five thousand dollars or be imprisoned not to exceed five years, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. And any person or persons, company or corporation, their agents or employees, who shall mine by the hydraulic process directly or indirectly injuring the navigable waters of the United States, in violation of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court: Provided, That this section shall take effect on the first day of May, 1893.

§ 23. Tax on Gross Proceeds of Hydraulic Mines—Ascertainment and Payment of Tax—Regulations, etc.—A "Debris Fund" Created—Expenditures from Same by the Commission—Provisos—Money Advances from Mine Owners—Refund of Same When Tax is Paid—Limitation.—That upon the construction by the said commission of dams or other works for the detention of debris from hydraulic mines and the issuing of the order provided for by this act to any individual, company, or corporation to work any mine or mines by hydraulic process, the individual, company, or corporation operating thereunder working any mine or mines by hydraulic process, the debris from which flows into or is in whole or in part restrained by such dams or other works erected by said commission, shall pay a tax of three per centum on the gross proceeds of his, their, or its mine so worked; which tax of three per centum shall be ascertained and paid in accordance with regulations to be adopted by the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Treasurer of the United States is hereby authorized to receive the same. All sums of money paid into the Treasury under this section shall be set apart and credited to a fund to be known as the "Debris Fund," and shall be expended by said commission under the supervision of the Chief of Engineers and direction of the Secretary of War, in addition to the appropriations made by law in the construction and maintenance of such restraining works and settling reservoirs as may be proper and necessary: Provided, That said commission is hereby authorized to receive and pay into the Treasury from the owner or owners of mines worked by the hydraulic process, to whom permission may have been granted so to work under the provisions thereof, such money advances as may be offered to aid in the construction of such impounding dams or other restraining works, or settling reservoirs, or sites therefor, as may be deemed necessary by said commission to protect the navigable channels of said river systems, on condition that all moneys so advanced shall be refunded as the said tax is paid into the said debris fund: And provided further, That in no event shall the government of the United States be held liable to refund same except as directed by this section.

§ 24. Commission may Consult With State Commission of Engineers—Report on Conference—Approval.—That for the purpose of securing harmony of action and economy of expenditures in the work to be done by the United States and the State of California, respectively, the former in its plans for the improvement and protection of the navigable streams and to prevent the depositing of mining debris or other materials within the same, and the latter in its plans authorized by law for the reclamation, drainage, and protection of its lands, or relating to the working of hydraulic mines, the said commission is empowered to consult thereon with a commission of engineers of said State, if authorized by said State for said purpose, the result of such conference to be reported to the Chief of Engineers of the United States Army, and if by him approved shall be followed by said commission.

§ 25. Appropriations from Debris Fund to be Expended in Restraining Works, etc., Above Head of Navigation, etc.—Recommendations Adopted and Made the Basis of Operations—Appropriations.—That said commission, in order that such material as is now or may hereafter be lodged in the tributaries of the Sacramento and San Joaquin river systems resulting from mining operations, natural erosion, or other causes, shall be prevented from injuring the said navigable rivers or such of the tributaries of either as may be navigable and the land adjacent thereto, is hereby directed and empowered, when appropriations are made therefor by law, or sufficient money is deposited for that purpose in said debris fund, to build at such points above the head of navigation in said rivers and on the main tributaries thereof, or branches of such tributaries, or at any place adjacent to the same, which in the judgment of said commission will effect said object (the same to be of such material as will insure safety and permanency), such restraining or impounding dams and settling reservoirs with such canals, locks, or other works adapted and required to complete same. The recommendations contained in Executive Document Numbered Two Hundred and Sixty-seven, Fifty-first Congress, Second Session, and Executive Document Numbered Ninety-eight, Forty-seventh Congress, First Session, as far as they refer to impounding dams, or other restraining works are hereby adopted, and the same are directed to be made the basis of operations. INSTRUCTIONS TO OWNERS AND OPERATORS OF HYDRAULIC MINES IN CALIFORNIA.

1. The California Debris Commission is composed of three officers of the Corps of Engineers, United States Army, who are appointed by the President of the United States, with the advice and consent of the Senate, under the authority of the act of Congress, approved March 1, 1893. The Commission is charged by this act with the enforcement of its provisions, including such regulation and control of hydraulic mining in the drainage areas of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers of the State of California as is necessary to cause the tailings from such mining to be so impounded in the vicinity of the mine as to prevent injury to the navigable rivers and adjacent lands. The owners and operators of such mines are required by this law to comply strictly with such requirements of the commission as may be deemed necessary to effect this purpose. An extreme penalty of $5,000 fine and one year's imprisonment is provided for violation of the act.

2. Hydraulic mining embraces all mining operations where water is used under pressure through a nozzle against any bank of earth, gravel, or other similar material, thus eroding the bank. It is forbidden by law except under the supervision of the commission.

3. The law requires that in all cases a license or written permission must be obtained from the commission before hydraulic mining in the regions mentioned can be legally carried on.

4. Licenses or permission to mine by the hydraulic process are revocable by the commission, and will not be given unless the requirements of the commission are complied with as to sufficiency of suitable restraining barriers or dams. Licenses, when granted, will be suspended or revoked for failure to properly maintain such barriers or dams or for failure to make the reports and furnish information asked for by the commission.

5. Licenses are obtained by making application to the California Debris Commission, San Francisco, Cal., on the special blank form issued by the commission, copies of which will be sent on request, free of cost.

6. Licenses are not transferable and are valid only for the operations of the individual or company, and for the special mine named in the license.

7. By the terms of the law an application for a license must be advertised by the commission in the newspapers to allow any protests to be filed with the commission. This advertising usually takes about three weeks.

8. As soon as practicable after advertising an application, the sites proposed by the applicants for the restraining works are visited, and if found satisfactory, authority to construct the dams or barriers is given with the commission's specifications and instructions for the work. Any dam built before such authorization is built wholly at the builder's risk, and may not be accepted by the commission. Any variation in location or character of work from that specified by the commission may also cause rejection of the dam.

9. When such authorized dams are completed, the commission should be promptly notified so that an inspection may be made as soon as practicable thereafter. If found satisfactory, a revocable license to mine will be issued. Until the license is issued it is illegal to mine.

10. When mining has been begun under a license, a report every month must be submitted on one of the blank forms furnished for this purpose by the commission upon request. If no mining is carried on for any month, the small form is to be used, otherwise, the large form must be forwarded. All blank spaces should be carefully and accurately filled.

11. In case of any accident to a restraining dam affecting its efficiency, mining must immediately cease and the commission must be promptly notified.

12. When a dam becomes full of debris, mining must cease until more impounding capacity is provided either by raising the dam or by the construction of new dams. The permission of the commission must be obtained to raise dams, and the work when completed must be inspected and approved by the commission before mining may be resumed.

13. Dams must be kept water tight and a pool at least 3 feet deep must be maintained as a settling basin above each dam while mining is in progress. Leaks must be promptly checked.

14. Names of mines must not be changed without due notice to the commission.

15. No charges or fees of any kind are required or allowed, all expenses of inspection being borne by the United States.

16. The mine owners are usually expected to meet the inspector at the nearest railway or stage station and take him to the mine and back. As many regions where mines are located are inaccessible in winter time, applications for licenses and inspections should be submitted as early in the season as practicable. Delay in attending to this promptly may occasion the loss of considerable time if not an entire season.

17. To avoid delay due to loss of letters it is suggested that requests be repeated within a reasonable time, if not promptly acknowledged or acted upon. All communications should be addressed to the Secretary, California Debris Commission, San Francisco, Cal.

By direction of the California Debris Commission:

S. A. CHENEY,
Major Corps of Engineers.
Secretary.

No certificate of citizenship received by any such Clerk which may be defaced or injured in such manner as to prevent its use as herein provided shall in any case be destroyed, but such certificate shall be returned to the said Bureau; and in case any such Clerk shall fail to return or properly account for any certificate furnished by the said Bureau, as herein provided, he shall be liable to the United States in the sum of fifty dollars, to be recovered in an action of debt, for each and every certificate not properly accounted for or returned.

That payment for the additional clerical assistance herein authorized shall be in the manner and under such regulations as the Secretary of Commerce and Labor may prescribe.

§ 14. Records, How Bound and Numbered.—That the declarations of intention and the petitions for naturalization shall be bound in chronological order in separate volumes, indexed, consecutively numbered, and made part of the records of the court. In any such proceedings the party holding the certificate of citizenship alleged to have been fraudulently or illegally procured shall have sixty days personal notice in which to make answer to the petition of the United States; and if the holder of such certificate be absent from the United States or from the district in which he last had his residence, such notice shall be given by publication in the manner provided for the service of summons by publication or upon absentees by the laws of the State or the place where such suit is brought.

Return to Country of Nativity Within Five Years.—If any alien who shall have secured a certificate of citizenship under the provisions of this act shall, within five years after the issuance of such certificate, return to the country of his nativity, or go to any other foreign country, and take permanent residence therein, it shall be considered prima facie evidence of a lack of intention on the part of such alien to become a permanent citizen of the United States at the time of filing his application for citizenship, and, in the absence of countervailing evidence, it shall be sufficient in the proper proceeding to authorize the cancellation of his certificate of citizenship as fraudulent, and the diplomatic and consular officers of the United States in foreign countries shall from time to time, through the Department of State, furnish the Department of Justice with the names of those within their respective jurisdictions who have such certificates of citizenship and who have taken permanent residence in the country of their nativity, or in any other foreign country, and such statements, duly certified, shall be admissible in evidence in all courts in proceedings to cancel certificates of citizenship.

Cancellation of Certificate of Record.—Whenever any certificate of citizenship shall be set aside or canceled, as herein provided, the court in which such judgment or decree is rendered shall make an order canceling such certificate of citizenship and shall send a certified copy of such order to the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization; and in case such certificate was not originally issued by the court making such order it shall direct the Clerk of the court to transmit a copy of such order and judgment to the court out of which such certificate of citizenship shall have been originally issued. And it shall thereupon be the duty of the Clerk of the court receiving such certified copy of the order and judgment of the court to enter the same of record and to cancel such original certificate of citizenship upon the records and to notify the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization of such cancellation.

The provisions of this section shall apply not only to certificates of citizenship issued under the provisions of this act, but to all certificates of citizenship which may have been issued heretofore by any court exercising jurisdiction in naturalization proceedings under prior laws.

NATURALIZATION REGULATIONS.

1. Naturalization Jurisdiction of State Courts.—Since September 26, 1906, naturalization jurisdiction of State courts is confined to such as have “a seal, a Clerk, and jurisdiction in actions at law or equity, or law and equity, in which the amount in controversy is unlimited.”

2. Alien Declaring Prior to September 27, 1906.—Any alien who prior to September 27, 1906, has declared his intention in conformity with the law in force at the date of his declaration, shall not be required to renew such declaration.

3. Aliens Declaring After June 29, 1906, and Prior to September 27, 1906.—Aliens who lawfully declared their intention on and after June 29, 1906, and prior to September 27, 1906, must comply with all of the requirements of the naturalization act of June 29, 1906, in petitioning for naturalization.

Aliens Declaring Prior to June 29, 1906.—Aliens who declared their intention prior to June 29, 1906, in accordance with the requirements of law, must comply with all of the requirements of the naturalization act of June 29, 1906, in petitioning for naturalization, except that they will not be required to sign their petitions in their own handwriting, or to speak the English language.

4. Alien Declaring After June 29, 1906.—Any alien who declares his intention after June 29, 1906, and files his petition thereon, must sign said petition in his own handwriting, and must be able to speak the English language, unless excepted by the provisos in section 8 of the naturalization act. If an alien is physically unable to speak, that fact should be stated in his petition in lieu of the statement, “I am able to speak the English language.” Aliens who arrive in the United States before reaching eighteen years of age cannot obtain citizenship without making declaration of intention, which may be made at the place of their established residence after reaching that age.

5. Blank Forms—“Facts for Declaration of Intention”—“Facts for Petition for Naturalization.”—Blank forms “Facts for declaration of intention” (Form 2213) and “Facts for petition for naturalization” (Form 2214) are provided Clerks of courts for the preliminary use of persons making declaration of intention or petition for naturalization, and may be taken away from the office of the Clerk in order that the information called for may be obtained in full. When either of said forms is returned to the Clerk he shall examine it to see that all the information required is furnished before proceeding to make out a declaration or petition.

In all cases where aliens have arrived in this country after June 29, 1906, they should be given the form, “Application for certificate of arrival,” Form 2226, at the time they desire to file petitions for naturalization, instead of Form 2214. This application has attached to it the facts required in a petition for naturalization. The application and other blanks on the form should all be carefully filled out by the alien and mailed to the Chief of the Division of Naturalization to enable him to obtain and transmit the required certificate of arrival to the Clerk of court for filing with the petition. The Clerk of the court should not commence the execution of the petition until he has received the certificate of arrival.

6. Declarations of Intention Furnished in Bound Volumes.—Declarations of intention will be furnished in bound volumes (Form 2202, 50 leaves; 2202A, 150 leaves; or 2202B, 250 leaves), as a court record, varied in number of pages according to the requirements of the court. In addition to the bound records, the duplicate and triplicate declarations of intention (Form 2203) will be furnished as loose sheets attached together and perforated, so that they can be readily torn apart, the triplicate to be given to the declarant and the duplicate to be forwarded to the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization (Division of Naturalization). Each bound record will contain an index in addition to the original declarations of intention, and will be paged in consecutive order. At the time the original declarations of intention in the bound volumes are filled out and signed the names of the declarants must be entered in the index. The declarations shall be numbered consecutively, beginning with No. 1 in volume 1 and continuing the sequence from volume to volume.

7. Originals of the Petitions for Naturalization.—The originals of the petitions for naturalization will also be furnished in bound volumes (Form 2204, 100 leaves, or 2204B, 250 leaves) paged in consecutive order and provided with an index. The duplicate petitions (Form 2205) will be furnished as loose sheets, and when executed must be forwarded to the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization (Division of Naturalization) by registered mail, as provided in Rule 22 of these regulations. The original petitions for naturalization in the bound volumes must be filled out and signed, the names of the petitioners entered in the index, and retained as part of the permanent records of the office in which filed. Petitions shall be numbered consecutively, beginning with No. 1 in volume 1 and continuing in order in the following volumes. The first petition in volume 2 must not be numbered "1," but shall receive the number following that given the last petition in volume 1.

8. Certificates of Naturalization.—Certificates of naturalization (Form 2207) will be supplied in bound volumes consisting of original and duplicate certificates and stubs. Each original and duplicate certificate and the stub will be given the same serial number, the stub to the original certificate bearing a page number in addition to its serial number. Each book will bear a volume number, and the volume number and page of the stub must be given on the face of the certificate. The original certificate will be given to the petitioner in accordance with the final order of the court, and the duplicate shall be forwarded to the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization (Division of Naturalization) by registered mail, as provided in Rule 22 of these regulations, the stub to the original constituting a part of the permanent records of the court. The bound volumes, containing the declarations, petitions, and certificates, constitute the "records" and dockets required by sections 6 and 14 of the naturalization act. The Department requires no other dockets to be kept.

9. Certificate of Naturalization Issued After Judge has Signed Order. No certificate of naturalization shall be issued to a petitioner until after the judge of the court granting naturalization has signed the order to that effect.

10. Requisition Blanks.—Clerks of courts will be furnished with requisition blanks (Form 2201) on which are listed, by number and title, all blank forms, including record and order books, to be used in the naturalization of aliens, and these forms must be obtained exclusively from the Department of Commerce and Labor (Division of Naturalization), none other being official. Manila envelopes or jackets (Form 2211) will be furnished to Clerks in which to place the triplicate declaration of intention or the original certificate of naturalization before delivering it to the person making the declaration or to the person naturalized.

11. First Supply of Blank Forms—Certificate of Attorney General of State.—The first supply of blank forms will be furnished upon the written application of the Clerks of courts having jurisdiction to naturalize aliens, accompanied, in the case of Clerks of State courts, by authoritative evidence (preferably the certificate of the Attorney General of the State) that the courts of which such Clerks are officers have "a seal, a Clerk, and jurisdiction in actions at law or equity, or law and equity, in which the amount in controversy is unlimited." Subsequent supplies of such blank forms will be furnished the Clerks of courts having jurisdiction to naturalize aliens upon the receipt by the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization (Division of Naturalization) of requisitions made on Form 2201.

12. Application for Blank Forms.—Clerks of courts when first making application to the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization (Division of Naturalization) for the supplies of the blank forms required in the naturalization of aliens shall state whether any declarations of intention have been filed or orders of naturalization made by their courts since September 26, 1906.

All applications for supplies of certificates of naturalization (Form 2207) should be accompanied by a statement of the number, if any, of certificates of naturalization issued by the Clerks of courts making such applications since June 1, 1903, if such certificates failed to comply with the requirements of the immigration act of March 3, 1903.

13. Where Same Court Holds Sessions at Different Places, Separate Supplies Kept.—Where the same court holds sessions at different places, whether a Clerk is appointed at each of said places or the one Clerk is required to transact the business of the court wherever it may sit, separate supplies shall be kept, in order to comply with the requirements of section 14 of the naturalization act, which provides that the bound declarations of intention and of petitions for naturalization shall be in chronological order.

14. Change of Name of Naturalized Alien.—In every case in which the name of a naturalized alien is changed by order of court, as provided in section 6, the Clerk of the court is required to report both the original and the new name of the said person to the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization (Division of Naturalization) when transmitting to it the duplicate of the certificate of naturalization of the alien whose name is changed.

15. Monthly Report of Petition and Hearings.—On the first working day of each month the Clerk shall inform the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization (Division of Naturalization) on Form 2209 of the date of posting notice on Form 2206, as required by section 5, and of the day, month, and year, as near as may be, for the final hearing of each and every petition for naturalization filed and posted during the preceding month. These reports on Form 2209 must specify only the petitions filed in the month to which the report relates and no others. The specific dates of postponed hearings shall also be reported promptly on Form 2209, using a separate sheet, and in such continued cases notice on Form 2206 must be amended to show the postponed date and remain posted until final action is had.

16. Monthly Report of Naturalizations Refused.—On the first working day of each month following the sitting of a court in naturalization cases the Clerk of such court shall forward to the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization (Division of Naturalization) on Form 2210 a list containing the name of each and every alien who, during such sitting of court, has been denied naturalization and shall state the reason or reasons for such denial.

17. Issuance of Declarations of Intention or Certificates of Naturalization in Lieu of Declarations or Certificates Claimed to have Been Lost or Destroyed.—Applications for the issuance of declarations of intention (Form 2203) or certificates of naturalization (Form 2207), in lieu of declarations of intention or certificates of naturalization claimed to have been lost or destroyed, shall be made under oath to the Clerk of the court by which any such declarations of intention or certificates of naturalization were originally issued, and shall contain full information in regard to the lost or destroyed papers, and as to the time, place, and circumstances of such alleged loss or destruction. The Clerk shall forward to the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization (Division of Naturalization) the above-mentioned applications, together with such information as he may have bearing upon the merits thereof, for investigation, and no such paper so applied for shall be issued until the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization (Division of Naturalization) reports the results of its investigation as to the merits of the application.

Entry on Original Declaration Showing the Issuance of Certified Copy.—In every case in which the Clerk of the court issues, in accordance with the foregoing, a declaration of intention (Form 2224) or a certificate of naturalization (Form 2207), upon proof of the loss or destruction of the original, he shall make an entry on the original declaration showing the issuance of a certified copy, or on the stubs of both the new and the old certificates of naturalization, showing the issuance of a new certificate, giving the numbers of the new and old certificates, and shall immediately thereafter forward to the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization (Division of Naturalization) the duplicate of any such paper so issued.

Certified Copies of Declarations.—Certified copies of declarations of intention (Form 2215) and certificates of naturalization (Form 2216) may be provided by Clerks of courts under their hand and the seal of the court out of which the papers originally issued, only for the use of persons who make entry upon public lands of the United States, and who are required to submit proof that they have declared their intention to become citizens, or have become naturalized. When issued these forms must be made in duplicate, one to be given to the person applying therefor and the duplicate forwarded with other naturalization papers on the first working day of the succeeding month to the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization (Division of Naturalization). Unless the applicant presents to the Clerk his original declaration or certificate for comparison, these forms can under no conditions be issued.

Fees for the Issuance of Copies.—The fees to be collected for the issuance of each of the copies of declarations of intention and of certificates of naturalization described in this regulation, and the disposal to be made of such fees when collected, will be determined in accordance with the law and the rules in force in the respective courts. No part of these fees is required to be forwarded to this Department. Clerks are, however, required to make quarterly reports, on Form 2217, on the first working day of January, April, July, and October, of the number of such papers issued during the preceding quarter.

This rule applies exclusively to naturalization papers issued since September 26, 1906.

18. Original Declarations Surrendered to General Land Office.—Original declarations of intention, or certificates of naturalization, issued subsequent to September 26, 1906, and surrendered to the General Land Office in support of entries upon public land, may be returned upon proper application. In cases of declarations of intention the Clerk will forward the application to the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization (Division of Naturalization), accompanied by a certified copy on Form 2215. In cases of certificates, the application will be accompanied by a personal description of the applicant. In both instances, a description of the land should be included, giving the section, township, and range, together with the date and place of making the entry. The originals will then be procured from the General Land Office and returned to the Clerk of the court.

19. Affidavits of Substituted Witnesses.—For recording the affidavits of substituted witnesses under section 5, of the act of June 29, 1906, blank forms (Form 2218) have been prepared as pasters to be affixed to the backs of petitions in the bound volume, following the "Order of court admitting petitioner." Copies of this form may be procured by the usual requisition (Form 2201).

20. Aliens must Sign Names in Full.—Aliens making declarations of intention, or filing petitions for naturalization, must sign their names in full and without abbreviation in the appropriate places on the various blank forms, and the entries of their names by the Clerk must correspond in every particular. Where a name contains an initial which is used only to distinguish one individual from another with the same surname that fact should be noted on the paper.

21. Petitions from Other Aliens Than White Persons and Persons of African Nativity or Descent—Persons not Residing in Judicial District.—Clerks of courts shall not receive declarations of intention (Form 2202) or file petitions for naturalization (Form 2204) from other aliens than white persons and persons of African nativity or of African descent, nor from persons not residing in the judicial district within which the court is held.

22. Forwarding Duplicates to Department—Monthly Report.—On the first working day of each and every month, and not otherwise, Clerks of courts shall forward to the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization (Division of Naturalization) duplicates of all declarations of intention, petitions for naturalization, and certificates of naturalization filed or issued during the preceding month. Duplicate petitions for naturalization and duplicate certificates of naturalization shall be forwarded by registered mail; and duplicate declarations of intention as well as other papers may be inclosed therewith provided the combined weight of the documents does not exceed four pounds, otherwise they shall be forwarded separately by unregistered mail. The same course should be followed in forwarding naturalization papers to the Bureau which have been returned for correction. Each Clerk making a shipment of naturalization papers other than papers returned for correction is required to forward therewith a report on Form 2208 showing the number of such papers filed or issued during the month reported. Where petitions for naturalization have been filed the report on Form 2209 showing the approximate dates of final hearings shall also be inclosed with such shipment. When no naturalization business has been transacted during any month it is unnecessary to render monthly reports to that effect, but report should be made as prescribed in Rule 23.

23. "Abstract of Collections"—Final Fee of Two Dollars.—All fees provided for in section 13 of the act of June 29, 1906, shall be accounted for on the "Abstract of collections" (Form 2212) within thirty days after the close of each quarter of a fiscal year. These quarters end September 30th, December 31st, March 31st, and June 30th, respectively. One-half of all moneys so collected, up to $6,000, and all in excess thereof, shall be remitted to the Chief of the Division of Naturalization, Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization, with said quarterly account, such remittance to be made payable to the order of the "Secretary of Commerce and Labor," preferably by draft. The Comptroller of the Treasury has decided that section 13 requires the collection of the final fee of $2 whether the certificate of naturalization be issued or denied.

In cases where no naturalization business is transacted during any quarter, Form 2212 shall be forwarded as aforesaid with the words "No transactions" noted thereon.

24. Honorably Discharged Soldier, Member of the Navy, or Member of the Marine Corps.—An alien of the age of twenty-one years and upward may be admitted to become a citizen without making declaration of his intention if he has been honorably discharged from the armies of the United States, or after a service of five consecutive years in the United States Navy, or after one enlistment of four years in the United States Marine Corps. Clerks of courts, instead of giving the information regarding declarations of intention, should appropriately insert in lieu thereof on petition (Forms 2204 and 2205): "Petitioner is an honorably discharged (soldier, member of the Navy, or member of the Marine Corps) and makes application for citizenship under (section 2166, U. S. R. S., or act of July 26, 1894). He enlisted in the (name of organization) on the (day, month, and year)." In the last paragraph preceding the signature of the petitioner that portion of the sentence relating to the declaration of intention and certificate of arrival should be struck through when the alien arrived on or prior to June 29, 1906. When the arrival was after that date, only the words "my declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States and" should be struck out. The statement following the signature of the petitioner to the body of the petition should be struck out entirely in cases of aliens arriving on or before June 29, 1906; but for those arriving after that date only the words "Declaration of Intention" should be struck out, and in both cases the entry in lieu thereof should be made "Honorable discharge certificate of petitioner was exhibited to me this . . . day of" An appropriate note should also be entered upon the stub of the certificate issued to said applicant.

Aliens Under Act of June 25, 1910.—Certain aliens are permitted to petition for naturalization under the terms of the act of June 25, 1910, without proof of previous declaration of intention. Clerks of courts should state in lieu of the information regarding the declaration of intention "Filed under provisions of section 3 of the act of Congress approved June 25, 1910," and the statement following the first signature of the petitioner should be changed so as to read "Declaration of intention omitted under the terms of the act of June 25, 1910."

25. Envelopes.—So far as practicable the Clerks of courts having jurisdiction under the provisions of the naturalization laws will be furnished, upon requisition therefor on Form 2201, with appropriately addressed envelopes for communicating with the Bureau. When not using such envelopes, however, all communications, in addition to the other necessary address, should be plainly marked "Division of Naturalization."

26. Instructions.—Clerks of courts having jurisdiction to naturalize under the provisions of the act of June 29, 1906, are requested, in case the foregoing rules and regulations fail to remove from their minds doubt as to the proper course of action in any case, to write to the Chief of the Division of Naturalization, Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization, for instructions before taking such action.

Acting Secretary.

OIL LAWS.

ACT TO AUTHORIZE THE ENTRY AND PATENTING OF LANDS CONTAINING PETROLEUM AND OTHER MINERAL OILS UNDER THE PLACER MINING LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES.

Entry and Patenting of Lands Containing Petroleum and Other Mineral Oils Under the Placer Mining Laws.—Any person authorized to enter lands under the mining laws of the United States may enter and obtain patent to lands containing petroleum or other mineral oils, and chiefly valuable therefor, under the provisions of the laws relating to placer mineral claims: Provided, That lands containing such petroleum or other mineral oils which have heretofore been filed upon, claimed, or improved as mineral, but not yet patented, may be held and patented under the provisions of this act the same as if such filing, claim, or improvement were subsequent to the date of the passage hereof. (29 Stats. at Large, 526.)

WITHDRAWAL ACT.

(As amended June 25, 1910. 36 Stat. 847.)

Purposes.—The President may, at any time in his discretion, temporarily withdraw from settlement, location, sale, or entry any of the public lands of the United States including the District of Alaska, and reserve the same for water-power sites, irrigation, classification of lands, or other public purposes to be specified in the orders of withdrawals, and such withdrawals or reservations shall remain in force until revoked by him or by an act of Congress.

§ 2. Lands Withdrawn Open to Exploration.—That all lands withdrawn under the provisions of this act shall at all times be open to exploration, discovery, occupation, and purchase under the mining laws of the United States, so far as the same apply to metalliferous minerals.

Occupant or Claimant of Oil or Gas Bearing Lands.—Provided, That the rights of any person who, at the date of any order of withdrawal heretofore or hereafter made, is a bona fide occupant or claimant of oil or gas bearing lands and who, at such date, is in the diligent prosecution of work leading to the discovery of oil or gas, shall not be affected or impaired by such order so long as such occupant or claimant shall continue in diligent prosecution of said work.

Claims Initiated After Withdrawal.—Provided further, That this act shall not be construed as a recognition, abridgment, or enlargement of any asserted rights or claims initiated upon any oil or gas bearing lands after any withdrawal of such lands made prior to June 25, 1910.

Homestead or Desert-land Entry.—And provided further, That there shall be excepted from the force and effect of any withdrawal made under the provisions of this act all lands which are, on the date of such withdrawal, embraced in any lawful homestead or desert-land entry theretofore made, or upon which any valid settlement has been made and is at said date being maintained and perfected pursuant to law; but the terms of this proviso shall not continue to apply to any particular tract of land unless the entryman or settler shall continue to comply with the law under which the entry or settlement was made.

Forest Reserve.—And provided further, That hereafter no forest reserve shall be created, nor shall any additions be made to one heretofore created, within the limits of the States of California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Colorado, or Wyoming, except by act of Congress. [Amendment approved August 24, 1912.]

Instructions Under Acts of June 22 and 25, 1910, and March 3, 1909.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, March 6, 1911.

The COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

SIR: The act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 847), provides that the President may at any time in his discretion temporarily withdraw from settlement, location, sale, or entry any of the public lands of the United States, including Alaska, and reserve the same for water-power sites, irrigation, classification, or other public purposes, to be specified in the orders of withdrawal, such withdrawal to remain in force until revoked by him or by an act of Congress.

Section 2 of the act¹ provides that lands so withdrawn shall at all times be open to exploration, discovery, occupancy and purchase under the mining laws, excepting those relating to coal, oil, gas and phosphates, there being a further provision, however, to the effect that the order of withdrawal shall not impair or affect the rights of any person who, prior to the date of the withdrawal, is a bona fide occupant or claimant of oil or gas bearing lands, and who at such date is in diligent prosecution of work leading to the discovery of oil or gas. No hard-or-fast rule can be established fixing the amount of work which must have been done by the occupant prosecuting work leading to the discovery of oil or gas. Each case must rest upon its own showing of diligence when application for patent is filed.

The chief of field division should be advised of all such applications and should be prepared to submit showing if possible, before the issuance of final certificate of entry.

This section contains further provision to the effect that there shall be excepted from the force and effect of any withdrawal all lands which are on the date of withdrawal embraced in any lawful homestead, or desert-land entry theretofore made or upon which any valid settlement has been made, and is at that time being maintained and perfected pursuant to law. Applications to make nonmineral entries by settlers claiming the benefits of the above-mentioned provisions of section 2 will be referred to the chief of the appropriate field division for investigation and report before final action is taken thereon.

Withdrawals provided for under this act include those made for the purpose of classifying coal lands, and it seems that after the passage of this act the previous coal withdrawals were renewed thereunder.

The act of March 3, 1909 (35 Stat. 844), is for the protection of surface rights of nonmineral entrymen where the lands were subsequently classified, claimed, or reported as being valuable for coal, and the act of June 22, 1910 (36 Stat. 583), provides for the allowance of certain nonmineral entries for land having been withdrawn or classified as coal lands. These acts have separated the surface from the coal deposits for the purpose of allowance of certain nonmineral entries, and it is not believed that the act of June 25, 1910, under consideration was intended to repeal said acts. Therefore, where applications are presented to make final proof on nonmineral entries made prior to withdrawal, for the purposes of classifying the coal deposits, the disposition of such applications should be made with especial reference to the provisions of the act of March 3, 1909, supra, and as to such lands certain nonmineral entries may be allowed, as provided for by the act of June 22, 1910, supra, notwithstanding their withdrawal under act of June 25, 1910.

Mineral applications for mining claims perfected upon oil, gas, or phosphate lands prior to withdrawal, or for such claims upon lands chiefly valuable for other minerals, whether perfected before or after withdrawal, or for claims of the latter class within power-site withdrawals, and applications to submit final proof upon homestead, desert-land, and settlement claims initiated prior to a withdrawal, will be referred to the chief of field division, with the appropriate notation of the character of the withdrawal involved, in accordance with the practice under paragraphs 5 et seq., of the circular of April 24, 1907, supra, for field examination and full report of all facts touching the character of the land and affecting the validity of the location, claim, or entry, as the case may be, including the possibility of water-power development, if any.

In the administration of the act hereunder you will also be governed by the circular approved January 27, 1911, relative to co-operation between the Geological Survey and the General Land Office.

It is believed that the foregoing will enable you to properly advise the local officers in all matters necessary to put this act into operation; and where an application is received not specifically provided for herein, you will act upon the same, affording aggrieved parties the usual right of appeal.

Very respectfully,

R. A. BALLINGER,
Secretary.

Modification of Outstanding Orders of Withdrawal.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,

GENERAL LAND OFFICE,

Washington, October 21, 1912.

REGISTERS AND RECEIVERS,

United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Your attention is called to the act of Congress approved August 24, 1912 (Public. No. 316), amending section 2 of the act of Congress approved June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 847), copy of which is herewith attached.

You will note that the provision of the said act of June 25, 1910, that all lands withdrawn under the provisions of that act shall, at all times, be open to exploration, discovery, occupation, and purchase under the mining laws of the United States, "so far as the same apply to minerals other than coal, oil, gas, and phosphates," is changed by the amendment, so as to provide that such lands shall, at all times, be open to exploration, discovery, occupation, and purchase under the mining laws of the United States, "so far as the same apply to metalliferous minerals." By the approval, on August 24, 1912, of the said act, all outstanding orders of withdrawal under the act of June 25, 1910, were modified to conform to the act approved June 25, 1910, as amended by the act of August 24, 1912; and, upon the approval of said last-named act, the lands embraced in such orders of withdrawal ceased to be and are not open to exploration, discovery, occupation, or purchase under the mining laws of the United States, except for metalliferous minerals.

These instructions are in addition and supplementary to instructions of March 6, 1911 (36 L. D. 544).

You will exercise care in the enforcement of this important modification of the withdrawal orders.

Very respectfully,

FRED DENNETT,
Commissioner.

Approved October 21, 1912.

SAMUEL ADAMS,
First Assistant Secretary.

Act to Protect the Locators in Good Faith of Oil and Gas Lands.

(36 Stat. 1015.)

In no case shall patent be denied to or for any lands heretofore located or claimed under the mining laws of the United States containing petroleum, mineral oil, or gas solely because of any transfer or assignment thereof or of any interest or interests therein by the original locator or locators, or any of them, to any qualified persons or person, or corporation, prior to discovery of oil or gas therein, but if such claim is in all other respects valid and regular, patent therefor not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres in any one claim shall issue to the holder or holders thereof, as in other cases: Provided, however, That such lands were not at the time of inception of development on or under such claim withdrawn from mineral entry. (Approved, March 2, 1911.)

Instructions Concerning Oil Locations Made Prior to March 2, 1911.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, June 15, 1911.

REGISTERS AND RECEIVERS,

United States Land Offices, and Chiefs of Field Division.

SIRS: The Secretary in a communication to this office dated May 17, 1911, instructed that the act of March 2, 1911 (36 Stat. 1015), should be brought to the attention of the local officers with the direction that, upon the presentation of every case within the purview of the act, they shall—

Advise the chiefs of field division, in order that the latter may make such field examinations as are advisable or necessary, particularly if the land involved has been embraced in a withdrawal, as to the time when the development work was begun, and be prepared to submit the results, if possible, before entry is allowed. Each such case will be considered and adjudicated upon its record in the regular manner.

Observing that the operation of the act is retrospective only, being confined to locations made prior to the date thereof, you will, upon the presentation of any application for patent affected by the provisions of said act, immediately communicate to the proper chief of field division due and full information thereof, to the end that he may procure to be made such investigations as may be necessary to ascertain the facts concerning the inception and subsequent prosecution of development operations, the extent and character of such works, and any other facts bearing upon and affecting the validity of the claim, including the continuousness and diligence with which development proceeded from the date of inception.

Report made of the results of such examinations will be submitted to this office, upon receipt of which the local officers will be advised as to the action to be taken.

Very respectfully,

FRED DENNETT,
Commissioner.

Approved July 11, 1912.

First Assistant Secretary.

ACT TO PREVENT INJURY TO OIL, GAS OR PETROLEUM-BEARING STRATA OR FORMATIONS BY THE PENETRATION OR INFILTRATION OF WATER THEREIN.

(Approved March 20, 1909. Stats. 1909, p. 586.)

§ 1. Duty to Shut Off Water.—It shall be the duty of the owner of any well now drilled or that may be drilled in the State of California on lands producing or containing oil, gas or petroleum, to properly case such well or wells, with metal casing in accordance with most approved methods, and to effectually shut off all water overlying or underlying the oil-bearing strata and to effectually prevent any water from penetrating such oil-bearing strata.

§ 2. Duty to Withdraw Casing.—It shall be the duty of the owner of any well referred to in section 1 of this act, before abandoning the same to withdraw the casing therefrom, and to securely fill such well with clay, earth or cement mortar, or other good and sufficient materials, used alone or in suitable combination, and thoroughly pack and tamp the same into such well to a point as far above the upper oil-bearing strata as the commissioner hereinafter provided for may decide shall be necessary, and while withdrawing the casing therefrom to effectually and permanently shut off and exclude all water underlying and overlying said oil-bearing strata, and to the satisfaction of the commissioner, whether any oil-bearing strata has been encountered or not.

§ 4. “Owner”—“Oil-bearing Strata.”—The term “owner” as herein used shall mean and include each and every person, persons, partnership, copartnership, association or corporation owning, leasing, managing, operating, drilling or possessing any well mentioned in sections 1 and 2 of this act, either as principal or principals, lessee or lessees of such principal or principals, contractor or contractors, and their and each of their employees. The term “oil-bearing strata” as herein used shall mean and include any bed, seam or stratum of rock or sand or other material which contains, includes, or yields earth oil, rock oil, or petroleum oil or natural gas or either of them.

Commissioner.—In order to carry out the provisions of sections 1 and 2 of this act, upon petition of three or more operating oil companies, within the county, it shall be the duty of the board of supervisors of said county to appoint a commissioner who shall be a practical oil man, whose term of office shall be until December 31st of the year following time of appointment or until his successor is appointed.

Duties of Commissioner.—The duties of said commissioner shall be to see that the provisions of this act shall be enforced.

Compensation.—The compensation of said commissioner shall be fixed by the board of supervisors and shall be paid out of the general county fund.

Complaint—Investigation.—Upon the filing of a complaint with said commissioner alleging the violation of any of the provisions of sections 1 or 2 of this act, it shall be the duty of the hereinbefore mentioned commissioner of the county, if so requested by the complainants, to make or cause to be made, a thorough investigation of the well in question, to determine whether or not any of the provisions of this act have been violated and for such purpose he is hereby empowered to appoint all necessary agents and assistants to conduct such examination and such agents and assistants may enter upon the premises where such well is situated and may take charge of such well for the purpose of making such investigations. If the defendant in the action shall be convicted of a violation of any of the provisions of sections 1 or 2 of this act, he shall, in addition to the penalties hereafter set forth, pay all reasonable and proper costs incident to the making of such investigations.

Nuisance.—Any well drilled and abandoned, in violation of sections 1 or 2 of this act is hereby declared a public nuisance.

Duty of Commissioner.—If any well, under the provisions of sections 1 or 2 of this act be declared a public nuisance, it shall be the duty of commissioner of the county in which such well is situated to enter upon the premises, take possession of such well and to abate said nuisance and to take all necessary steps to prevent the percolation or penetration of water into the oil-bearing strata. He shall keep an accurate account of the expense of such work and all expenses so incurred shall be a charge against the owner of such well and a lien upon the same.

Penalty.—Any person violating the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Any owner of any well referred to in sections 1 or 2 of this act, who refuses to permit the commissioner to inspect the same or who willfully hinders or delays the commissioner in the performance of his duty is guilty of a misdemeanor.

ACT TO PROTECT THE LOCATORS IN GOOD FAITH OF OIL AND GAS LANDS WHO SHALL HAVE EFFECTED AN ACTUAL DISCOVERY OF OIL OR GAS ON THE PUBLIC LANDS OF THE UNITED STATES, OR THEIR SUCCESSORS IN INTEREST.

(Act of March 2, 1911, c. 201.)

Locators of Mineral Oil Lands—Patents not to be Denied, Solely for Transfer Before Discovery, etc.—In no case shall patent be denied to or for any lands heretofore located or claimed under the mining laws of the United States containing petroleum, mineral oil, or gas solely because of any transfer or assignment thereof or of any interest or interests therein by the original locator or locators, or any of them, to any qualified persons or person, or corporation, prior to discovery of oil or gas therein, but if such claim is in all other respects valid and regular, patent therefor not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres in any one claim shall issue to the holder or holders thereof, as in other cases; Provided, however, that such lands were not at the time of inception of development on or under such claim withdrawn from mineral entry. PATENTS.

(BY CARLOS P. GRIFFIN, Pacific Building, San Francisco.)

Source of Patent Laws.—The clause in the constitution is found in article 1, section 8, and is as follows: "Congress shall have power . . . to promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries."

Congress, in response to the suggestion here made, has enacted laws for the protection of the classes of persons here mentioned, and the great wisdom of the laws is seen in the advanced situation of this country with respect to others in the matter of manufactures. This country leads the world in such matters, and that nation we hear so much about just now as the coming nation of the east, the Japanese, when sending their scholars out over the world to find and adopt good ideas, adopted a patent system that is modeled on that of this country.

The principal enactment with which the inventor is concerned is contained in section 4886 of the Revised Statutes.

§ 4886. Who may Patent.—Any person who has invented or discovered any new and useful art, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvements thereof, not known or used by others in this country, before his invention or discovery thereof, and not patented or described in any printed publication in this or any foreign country, before his invention or discovery thereof, or more than two years prior to his application, and not in public use or on sale in this country for more than two years prior to his application, unless the same is proved to have been abandoned, may, upon payment of the fees required by law, and other due proceeding had, obtain a patent therefor.

It will be noticed that this clause of the patent laws is very broad, permitting any person whatsoever to obtain a patent, the only requisite being that he shall have invented, or discovered, something which falls into one of the classes of things established by it. It classifies them as an "art," "machine," "manufacture," or "composition of matter," and improvements thereon. Almost all things that human endeavor is directed toward the accomplishment of may be placed in one of these categories.

The actual granting of the patent lies in the power of the Patent Office, and the statute governing this is section 4888, Revised Statutes. It is as follows:

§ 4888. Application.—Before an inventor or discoverer shall receive a patent for his invention or discovery, he shall make application therefor, in writing, to the Commissioner of Patents, and shall file in the Patent Office a written description of the same, and of the manner and process of making, constructing, compounding, and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art or science to which it appertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make, construct, compound, and use the same; and in case of a machine, he shall explain the principle thereof, and the best mode in which he has contemplated applying that principle, so as to distinguish it from other inventions; and he shall particularly point out and distinctly claim the part, improvement, or combination which he claims as his invention or discovery. The specification and claim shall be signed by the inventor and attested by two witnesses.

This section gives the requisites of the specification, and shows that it is intended that the inventor must fully disclose to the Patent Office his full invention, in order that there may be a return to the nation for the right granted him.

Further regulations for the guidance of the Patent Office in what to require as a complete application are found in the following sections:

§ 4889. Drawings.—When the nature of the case admits of drawings, the applicant shall furnish one copy signed by the inventor or his attorney in fact, and attested by two witnesses, which shall be filed in the Patent Office, and a copy of the drawing, to be furnished by the Patent Office shall be attached to the patent as a part of the specification.

§ 4890. Specimens.—When the invention or discovery is of a composition of matter, the applicant, if required by the commissioner, shall furnish specimens of ingredients and of the composition, sufficient in quantity for the purpose of experiment.

§ 4891. Models.—In all cases which admit of representation by model, the applicant, if required by the commissioner, shall furnish a model of convenient size to exhibit advantageously the several parts of his invention or discovery.

§ 4892. Oath.—The applicant shall make oath that he does verily believe himself to be the original and first inventor or discoverer of the art, machine, manufacture, composition, or improvement for which he solicits a patent; that he does not know and does not believe that the same was ever before known or used; and shall state of what country he is a citizen. Such oath may be made before any person within the United States authorized by law to administer oaths, or, when the applicant resides in a foreign country, before any minister, charge d'affairs, consul or commercial agent holding commission under the government of the United States, or before any notary public, judge, or magistrate having an official seal and authorized to administer oaths in the foreign country in which the applicant may be, whose authority shall be proved by certificate of diplomatic or consular officer of the United States.

The last four sections of the statutes are intended to give the Patent Office the necessary power to require the filing of the proper kind of a drawing, and the filing of specimens, or models, when necessary to the understanding of a case. The last section is intended to give some of the parts of the oath the inventor must take to have his case completely filed.

What the duties of the commissioner of patents are when the application of the inventor has been filed are outlined in the following section of the statute:

§ 4893. Examination.—On the filing of any such application and the payment of the fees required by law, the Commissioner of Patents shall cause an examination to be made of the alleged new invention or discovery; and if on such examination it shall appear that the claimant is justly entitled to a patent under the law, and that the same is sufficiently useful and important, the Commissioner shall issue a patent therefor.

This is the secret of the success of our patent system over that of some other countries. This examination that the Commissioner is empowered to make gives the granted patent a very strong ground to stand on; for any application that can run the gauntlet of this examination is pretty sure to have many features that are not found in any other thing of its kind. The courts construe this to be sufficient to raise a presumption of the validity of the patent upon its mere production.

Just what is granted to the inventor is shown in the following section of statutes:

§ 4884. Contents of Patent.—Every patent shall contain a short title of description of the invention or discovery, correctly indicating its nature and design, and a grant to the patentee, his heirs or assigns, for the term of seventeen years, of the exclusive right to make, use and vend the invention or discovery throughout the United States and territories thereof, referring to the specifications for the particulars thereof. A copy of the specification and drawings shall be annexed to the patent and be a part thereof.

This section gives to the inventor the exclusive right to his invention or discovery for the term of seventeen years, and, in case of his death, it passes the right on to his heirs.

Since what a thing is worth is determined by its salability, the patent laws give such salability to patents in several sections enacted for that express purpose. They are, including the one above:

§ 4895. Assignment.—Patents may be granted and issued or re-issued to the assignee of the inventor or discoverer; but the assignment must first be entered of record in the Patent Office. And in all cases of an application by an assignee for the issue of a patent, the application shall be made and the specification sworn to by the inventor or discoverer; and in all cases of an application for a reissue of any patent, the application must be made and the corrected specification be signed by the inventor or discoverer, if he is living, unless the patent was issued and the assignment made before the eighth day of July, 1870.

If any such assignment, grant, or conveyance of any patent shall be acknowledged before any notary public of the several States or Territories or the District of Columbia, or any commissioner of the United States Circuit Court, or before any secretary of legation or consular officer authorized to administer oaths or perform notarial acts under section seventeen hundred and fifty of the Revised Statutes, the certificate of such acknowledgment, under the hand and official seal of such notary or other officer, shall be prima facie evidence of the execution of such assignment, grant or conveyance.

§ 4898. Recordation of Assignment.—Every patent or any interest therein shall be assignable in law by an instrument in writing, and the patentee or his assigns or legal representatives may in like manner grant and convey an exclusive right under his patent to the whole or any specified part of the United States. An assignment, grant or conveyance shall be void as against any subsequent purchaser or mortgagee for a valuable consideration, without notice, unless it is recorded in the Patent Office within three months from the date thereof.

This clause gives the mode of assignment of the patent, and provides the means by which the sale shall be evidenced, making it the valuable thing that it is.

In order that the Commissioner may expeditiously conduct the affairs of his office, the statutes provide that he may promulgate "Rules" for the conduct of the business therein.

The section of the statutes giving the Commissioner the power to regulate matters in his office, within the enactment of the laws, is:

§ 4883. Rules.—The Commissioner of Patents, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, may from time to time establish regulations, not inconsistent with law, for the conduct of proceedings in the Patent Office.

The patentee is not given the right to his patent without restrictions of any kind, for the public is entitled to have some notice that he is the exclusive owner of the ideas that are presented in the patent, before it is liable to him for the infringement of his rights. The section that shows him his duties to the public is as follows:

§ 4900. Duty of Patentee.—It shall be the duty of all patentees, and their assigns and legal representatives, and of all persons making or vending any patented article for or under them, to give sufficient notice to the public that the same is patented; either by fixing thereon the word "patented," together with the day and year the patent was granted; or when, from the character of the article, this cannot be done, by fixing to it, or to the package wherein one or more of them is inclosed, a label containing the like notice; and in any suit for infringement, by the party failing so to mark, no damage shall be recovered by the plaintiff, except on proof that the defendant was duly notified of the infringement, and continued, after such notice, to make, use, or vend the article so patented.

The complement of this section is found in the section below, which provides a heavy penalty for the unauthorized use of the word "patented," or anything that simulates it in any way. The section is:

§ 4901. Fraudulent Use of Word "Patented" etc.—Every person who, in any manner, marks upon anything made, used, or sold by him for which he has not obtained a patent, the name or imitation of the name of any person who has obtained a patent therefor, without the consent of such patentee, or his assigns or legal representatives; or

Who, in any manner, marks upon or affixes to any such patented article the word "patent" or "patentee," or the words "letters patent," or any word of like import, with intent to imitate or counterfeit the mark or device of the patentee, without having the license or consent of such patentee or his assigns or legal representatives; or

Who, in any manner, marks upon or affixes to any unpatented article the word "patent" or any word importing that the same is patented, for the purpose of deceiving the public, shall be liable, for every such offense, to a penalty of not less than one hundred dollars, with costs; one-half of said penalty to the person who shall sue for the same, and the other to the use of the United States, to be recovered by suit in any District Court of the United States within whose jurisdiction such offense may have been committed.

§ 4919. Damages.—Damages for the infringement of any patent may be recovered by action on the case, in the name of the party interested either as patentee, assignee, or grantee. And whenever in any such action a verdict is rendered for the plaintiff, the court may enter judgment thereon for any sum above the amount found by the verdict as the actual damages sustained, according to the circumstances of the case, not exceeding three times the amount of such verdict, together with the costs.

It sometimes happens that a mistake has been made in the prosecution of an application for patent, and through no fault of the inventor he has little or nothing secured to him when he should have secured much broader protection for his invention. Such mistakes are cured by means of what is called a "reissue" of his patent, the necessary claims being added to the reissue. The reissue is not entitled to have anything new added to it, nor does it increase the term of the patent, but it often does give added protection, which should have been given the inventor in the first place.

The enactment of the statute is:

§ 4916. Reissue.—Whenever any patent is inoperative or invalid, by reason of a defective or insufficient specification, or by reason of the patentee claiming as his own invention or discovery more than he had a right to claim as new, if the error has arisen by inadvertence, accident, or mistake, and without any fraudulent or deceptive intention, the Commissioner shall, on the surrender of such patent and the payment of the duty required by law, cause a new patent for the same invention, and in accordance with the corrected specification, to be issued to the patentee, or, in case of his death or of an assignment of the whole or any undivided part of the original patent, then to his executors, administrators, or assigns, for the unexpired part of the term of the original patent. Such surrender shall take effect upon the issue of the amended patent. The Commissioner may, in his discretion, cause several patents to be issued for distinct and separate parts of the thing patented, upon demand of the applicant, and upon payment of the required fee for a reissue for each of such reissued letters patent. The specifications and claim in every such case shall be subject to revision and restriction in the same manner as original applications are. Every patent so issued, together with the corrected specifications, shall have the same effect and operation in law, on the trial of all actions for causes thereafter arising, as if the same had been originally filed in such corrected form; but no new matter shall be introduced into the specification, nor in case of a machine patent shall the model or drawing be amended, except each by the other; but when there is neither model nor drawing, amendments may be made upon proof satisfactory to the Commissioner that such new matter or amendment was a part of the original invention, and was omitted from the specification by inadvertence, accident, or mistake, as aforesaid.

A further advantage is afforded the inventor in that he may have used his invention in some foreign country, but if it has not been patented or described in a printed publication in that country he may still have a patent granted to him in this country. The section of the law is:

§ 4923. Previous Use in Foreign Country.—Whenever it appears that a patentee, at the time of making his application for the patent, believed himself to be the original and first inventor or discoverer of the thing patented, the same shall not be held to be void on account of the invention or discovery, or any part thereof, having been known or used in a foreign country, before his invention or discovery thereof, if it had not been patented or described in a printed publication.

Growing out of the various laws relating to the patent system is a large amount of litigation over the rights of inventors, and to apply the laws to the given conditions is the duty of the courts. In their exercise of this duty they make many statements about the patent law in their decisions, which statements become as much the law of the patent system as the enactments themselves, or at least they are as much the law as that until a higher court overrules them, or until a statute is enacted which does the same thing. Many decisions are of very great interest, not only to the legal profession, but to the inventor as well, since they give the inventor an idea of what is required of him better than he can obtain from the rigid language of the statute.

DIGEST.

A short digest of the various points relating to the patent law is here appended.

Abandonment.—The law requires and favors diligence in prosecuting the claims to an exclusive right, and an inventor cannot, without cause, hold his application pending during a long period of years, leaving the public uncertain whether he ever intends to prosecute it, and keeping the field of his invention closed against other inventors.

An application must be completed within one year from the time of filing the petition, and action must be taken on any letter from the Patent Office within one year of the mailing thereof, or the application becomes abandoned.

Mere delay, after invention made, works no forfeiture of right.

Abandonment by inventor is rarely presumed.

Forfeitures and abandonments are not favored.

Acquiescence in the public use of the invention is abandonment of the invention and of the patent.

Aggregation.—The mere aggregation of two things is not patentable.

A patent for an aggregation of parts which have no common function is void for want of invention.

An aggregation of devices, each of which is old, so that each works out its own effect, without the production of something new from the co-operation of the devices, is not patentable.

A series of old devices may be patentable, if by their combination a new result is effected.

Applications.—The description is sufficient when a skilled mechanic can construct the machine from it.

An amendment to the application cannot introduce matter not in the case originally.

An application for a joint patent must be made by all the joint inventors.

The specification is always open to amendment and to the addition of new matter of description and claims, within the scope of the case as originally filed.

Where there is no abandonment of a first application subsequent ones relate back to it.

A machine and the process of using it may be included in one application where they cannot be considered as separate things.

A rejected application is no publication and is not a bar to the grant of a patent.

A new and useful art may be patented.

Copies of applications may be had from the Patent Office only by persons who are parties to the record, except that the inventor may consent to the furnishing of such copies.

Assignment.—An assignment requires no special form, but must clearly identify the case to which it refers, and must be in writing.

Inventions may be assigned before they are patented.

A full assignment of the patent by the inventor gives to the assignee the whole benefit of the invention, including the original and any extended term.

Damage for infringement may be recovered, even though the plaintiff has parted with his interest at the time the suit is brought.

An assignment of the entire right in the patent for a particular part of the country may be made.

An assignment of the patent may be made by the administrators of a deceased inventor.

An assignment, grant, or conveyance is void as against any subsequent purchaser or mortgagee for a valuable consideration, without notice, unless it is recorded in the Patent Office within three months from the date thereof.

An assignment of an unpatented invention which does not contain a request that the patent issue to the assignee does not convey legal title to the patent.

A patent cannot issue to the assignee unless the assignment contains a request to that effect and is duly recorded.

An unrecorded assignment is valid against the assignor.

The record of an assignment, whenever made, is notice to a subsequent purchaser.

An assignment of a patent covering all modifications and reissues of the same does not cover a later machine doing the same thing by different means.

Since any person may obtain a patent, any person may assign it, but minors must do so by guardian.

An assignment of all the property of an inventor does not include a patent right, if it excepts property legally exempt.

A right of action for damages for past infringement may be assigned.

An assignee may maintain a suit for infringement, but his assignment must first be of record.

The inventor cannot affect assignee's right by an unauthorized re-issue.

A licensee is estopped to deny the validity of the patent as against the patentee.

A statute requiring a note to bear the words, "Given for a patent right," when such is the case, is unconstitutional.

An assignee can sue in his own name for the infringement of his exclusive right.

A trustee in insolvency does not, by virtue of the appointment as trustee, acquire the patent rights of the insolvent person.

Claims.—A combination claim does not cover the elements separately.

A claim so expansive as to include all previous and future inventions for the same purpose is invalid.

The first inventor in the field is entitled to have his claims construed broadly.

A claim for an effect or a function cannot be sustained; it must contain the means by which the result is attained.

A claim must be either to the physical structure, a combination of devices, or to a method of operation.

The court should, if possible, construe the claims to sustain the patent.

A claim should be construed liberally, but it must be limited by the state of the art at the time the application was filed.

The whole specification should be consulted in construing a claim.

A patentee is limited to his claim.

A patentee is bound by his claim.

Our law requires the patentee to specify what he considers to be new, and if he claims a combination of elements each one is material.

The claim is an attempt, on the part of the inventor, to describe the very thing that he has invented and for which he seeks a patent.

The office of the claim is to define the limits of the thing patented by the inventor.

A patentee takes no more than he has claimed, and a failure to claim raises a presumption of abandonment.

Combination.—Where a patent is for a combination simply, it is a presumption that all the elements are old.

A new combination of old devices is patentable, but the useful result must be the result of the combination.

The combination is to be regarded as a unit.

Combinations must be maintained as entireties.

To eliminate what is a plainly declared element of a combination is beyond the power of judicial construction.

Proof of want of novelty must go to the entire combination as a unit, not to elements.

To establish novelty it is not necessary to establish the novelty of all the parts.

A patent for a combination which proves inoperative is void.

A new combination of old elements is patentable when it produces a new result.

To infringe a combination every element must be used.

Composition of Matter.—A new composition of matter is patentable if useful.

The omission of an ingredient, before believed to be essential, is patentable.

If substantially the same substance is made by a new process, it is still an infringement of the old one, if patented.

Copyrights.—There was no common-law copyright.

The author of a dramatic composition does not abandon it by causing it to be acted for his benefit.

Property in a manuscript does not depend on the intention or will of the author as to publication.

A chart consisting of a single sheet of paper may be a "book," within the meaning of the copyright laws.

Strict compliance with the law is required to perfect a copyright.

Date of Invention.—The date of invention is the date of the discovery of the principle involved and the attempt to embody it in a machine.

In the absence of other proof, the date of invention will be considered to be the date of the application for patent.

Reduction to practice is the embodiment of the idea in some distinct form, capable of attaining the result.

Drawings and sketches made before filing of an application for patent may be used to show invention before that time.

Designs.—Appearance and not utility controls the issue of a design.

Substantial identity to a casual observer causes infringement of a design patent.

Design patents are subject to the general principles of mechanical patents, as to construction.

It is not necessary that the design be copied in every particular for it to infringe the patent.

The mottled appearance of enameled ware was held not patentable.

Employer and Employee.—Persons are not deprived of their rights to their inventions while in the employment of others, unless they have been hired and paid for that purpose.

An inventor under a contract with an employer to make improvements in certain machines is not bound to give other improvements made after his contract had expired.

A government workman cannot be held liable in a court of the United States for doing work that is an infringement of a patent.

An employee may be enjoined from disclosing the secret invention of his employer.

An assignment of inventions may be made to an employer in advance of their invention.

A patent to one of two partners is not partnership property. If one person furnishes the money and the other does the work, they cannot obtain a joint patent.

Equivalent.—The word “equivalent” has two meanings—the results, and the mechanism by which the results are produced.

An equivalent of any substance is one that will produce similar results and which has similar properties.

In a patent for a combination the use of equivalents, known at the date of the patent, may be excluded.

The inventor of a new combination is entitled to the benefit of mechanical equivalents known at the time of his invention, if used in the same combination.

A mechanical equivalent is a device which performs substantially the same result by substantially the same mechanical means.

Evidence.—Where a witness testifies, after a patent has become valuable, that on some particular occasion, long ago, he suggested the idea to the patentee, the testimony should be received with hesitation.

Models and drawings may be introduced in evidence.

The file contents and application record are evidence of a patentee's intention in construing his patent.

It is the highest evidence possible of patentability that a machine produces an article with a great economy of time and labor.

Experiments.—A mere principle or idea, until it assumes practical form, is not patentable.

Crude and imperfect experiments are not sufficient to confer a patent right.

Prior imperfect contrivances will not defeat the novelty of an invention.

An abandoned experiment will not defeat a patent.

The fact that a preceding device made no impression on the trade and was not a practical success is an indication of an abandoned experiment.

An abandoned experiment does not constitute an infringement on which an injunction will be granted.

Fees.—Rule 202. Nearly all the fees payable to the Patent Office are positively required by law to be paid in advance. . . . For the sake of uniformity and convenience, the remaining fees will be required to be paid in the same manner.

Rule 208. Money paid by actual mistake . . . will be refunded, but a mere change of purpose after payment . . . will not entitle a party to demand such return.

Improvements.—A new idea ingrafted on an old conception is patentable.

An inventor may patent an improvement on his own invention.

The addition of a useless appendage does not defeat the charge of infringement.

A patented improvement does not confer the right to use the original invention.

An improvement on a patented process does not give a right to use the latter.

A patented improvement does not of itself give the right to use the thing improved.

An improver cannot use the thing improved without a license, if it is patented.

An improver who infringes is liable therefor, even though he has obtained a patent.

Infringement.—Infringement involves substantial identity.

To infringe it is not necessary that the patent be copied in every particular, if the parts are substantially the same it is sufficient.

A better result will not avoid infringement where the means used is substantially the same.

If a patented invention is not operative, it cannot be infringed by one that is.

An article incapable of performing the functions of a patented device cannot be an infringement. A device which may be forced to operate like the patented device is not an infringement if such use is not an object of construction.

To make a patented article in order to experiment with it as a basis for proposed improvement by the maker is not infringement.

Infringement is not a question whether one machine does as well as another that is patented, but whether its principle or combination is the same.

A patent for several improvements is infringed by the use of one of those improvements.

The same result obtained by other means than those of the patent is not an infringement.

A difference of form or size will not avoid infringement.

An infringement may be committed by the use, after a patent issues, of a device constructed before the issue of the patent.

A patentee is estopped from denying the validity of the patent in a suit for infringement brought against him by his assignee.

To make for use in order to see whether the use will be profitable, and using for that purpose, is infringement.

The possession of infringing articles bought for use, but not yet used, is an infringement.

There may be an infringement though the infringer does not know of the patent.

A sale of an infringing device by an agent is an infringement by the principal.

Any party making profits by an infringement is a wrongdoer and is liable to the patentee.

One who licenses others to use certain improvements of his own does not infringe the original patent improved upon.

The use of an infringing device is not justified by the fact that the patentee failed for some years to manufacture his device.

Nor by the refusal of the patentee to furnish his device when required.

No infringement can be committed before the issue of the patent.

A patent does not give the right to sell in foreign countries exclusively, but the patentee may reserve the right to make and sell for export to himself.

Infringement consists in the making, using or selling a patented machine.

It is an infringement to make a patented article, even if it is never used.

Where a machine is licensed for a particular territory it is not lawful to remove it to some other place.

The infringement of a patent is a tort, i. e., a private wrong.

Parties actually making an infringing machine may be held liable, even though employed by a third party.

A person who sells an infringing machine for another may be enjoined, even though he has no interest in it himself.

Injunctions.—A bond may be taken where the infringer is able to pay damages.

There is no fixed rule as to what term will entitle the patentee to a preliminary injunction.

Long public acquiescence in an inventor's right is sufficient to warrant a preliminary injunction where the infringement is clear.

A preliminary injunction will not be granted on an insufficient or defective specification.

A preliminary injunction will not be granted where on the same proofs final relief would be denied.

Where infringement is doubtful a preliminary injunction will be refused.

The court will not decide doubtful questions on a motion for a preliminary injunction.

It is no objection to a motion for an injunction that a jury has not passed on the case.

The right of granting an injunction lies in the sound discretion of the court.

An injunction may be granted against a licensee if he does not act within his license.

Interferences.—An interference is a proceeding instituted for the purpose of determining the question of priority of invention between two or more parties claiming substantially the same patentable invention. Rule 93.

The party whose application was last to be filed has the burden of proof as to date of invention.

The Patent Office must determine that a given invention is patentable before it declares an interference.

Invention.—"Invention" in the patent law is the finding out, contriving, devising or creating something new and useful which did not exist before, by an operation of the intellect.

Invention may consist in the application of old elements to a new use.

Substitution of a new element in an old combination involves invention.

A simple change in position which others failed to discover, and which avoided a grave defect, constitutes a patentable invention.

Any change in position of old elements, whereby new and better results are attained, is patentable.

Rearranging an old machine so as to dispense with certain expensive parts, whereby it is simplified, is invention.

Where a difference in form is productive of new and useful results, it is patentable.

It is of no consequence to the validity of a patent how much, or how little, labor or study the invention cost.

It is no objection to the validity of a patent that the combination appears simple.

Invention appearing, the law does not attempt to measure its degree.

Mere change of form does not amount to invention.

That a device has gone into general use, displacing all others, is evidence of its patentability.

To make in a single casting what has been before made in parts is not invention.

To provide a machine with wheels to make it portable is not invention.

A patent cannot embrace more than one invention.

Distinct improvements in one machine may be embodied in one patent.

The burden of proving prior invention or use is on the person seeking to have the patent declared void.

A product cannot be embraced in a claim for the process.

To entitle a person to a patent, he must be the original and first inventor of the thing sought to be patented.

Of two inventors of the same thing, the first only is entitled to a patent.

The fact that a person has an idea in his head, or has sketched it, does not make him the first inventor; he must proceed with it and reduce it to practice.

Where the money to experiment is furnished by one person to another, both cannot obtain a joint patent, but an assignment may be made.

Jurisdiction.—Decisions of the patent office do not bind the courts.

The federal courts have jurisdiction of cases where the validity of the patent is questioned.

The State courts have jurisdiction of contracts relating to patents where the validity of the patent is not questioned, where the parties reside in the same State.

A State cannot tax a patent, but may tax the income from it.

United States courts are empowered to take up a patent and decide any question in relation to it without regard to a jury.

The patent laws have no effect outside the United States; except that they are of force in certain of the possessions of the United States.

The court cannot correct mistakes in a patent; it merely construes what is in the patent.

License.—A license to manufacture at a certain place is personal and not transferable.

A patentee may forfeit his right to a patent by permitting others to use the invention before the patent is granted.

A conveyance of the right to make and sell the invention includes the right to use it.

A license to use one machine does not give the right to use two, even though both were never in use at the same time.

A license may be granted before the issuance of the patent.

A personal license granted for a certain period will expire at the death of the licensee unless also granted to his assignees.

A license to a partnership is not affected by a change of members in the firm.

A license to manufacture "at their shop" in a place described is not transferable.

A license to use "at his own establishment" does not cover a use at a shop owned by himself and others.

A license to use a device on a certain railroad does not carry the right to use the device on the cars of the licensee over whatever railroad they may be run.

A license to a railroad company to use a patented device on their road extends no further than the road was built and used by it at the time the license was given, the use on roads built or leased afterward not being protected.

A license "to use to the extent of one machine" includes the right to make for such use and to repair indefinitely.

The words "licensed to use only" if stamped on an invention are notice that it is used under such a license and that the license expires on its first use.

A license is estopped from denying the validity of the patent.

Licenses are not required to be in writing, nor is the amount of the license fee required to be in writing.

A State may refuse a license to be taken out to use an article, and the fact that it is patented will not defeat this right.

A licensee who fails to comply with the terms of his license may be enjoined as an infringer.

A party who is a mere licensee cannot maintain a suit for infringement in his own name.

Marking "Patented."—The law makes it the duty of the manufacturer to give the public notice of the patent by marking the articles, or the packages containing them, with the word "patented," or with words of similar import.

Under the law, the patentee can recover nothing for infringements unless he has marked the articles as above, unless he shows that he had notified the defendant.

Prior to the grant of the patent, the inventor may mark articles made in accordance with the invention "Patent applied for."

If articles are marked "Patented" illegally, the law allows any person to sue for a penalty of $100, one-half of which goes to the use of the United States.

Patentability.—A combination made by inserting in a groove at the end of a lead pencil, an eraser, so that one end may be used to write with and the other to erase with, is not patentable. There is no new result, no joint operation.

In the case of doubt as to invention, it will be congenial to the policy of the law to grant the petitioner his patent.

The patentability of an invention is, in many cases, best shown by its utility.

Placing an old apparatus in a new location on a machine is not sufficient to support a patent.

The mere function of a machine is not patentable.

New contrivances applied to old objects are patentable.

The statutes do not require inventions to be superior to or better than all others of their kind to be patentable.

An old process used under new conditions and producing new results is patentable.

Process.—A process and an apparatus may be related and may approach each other so nearly that it will be difficult to distinguish the process from the function of the machine.

When a process and an apparatus are so related as to constitute a single unitary invention, they may be claimed in a single application.

A process and its product may be claimed in a single case, where they are so closely related as to be indivisible.

A patentee is not bound by his theory of the operation of a process, if it happens to be different.

In the language of the patent law, a process is an "art."

Though the product may not be new, the process by which it is made may be.

An inventor may obtain a patent for a process and another for the product.

Public Use.—Secret use will not invalidate a patent. In the patent law, "Public Use" is proved by a single use by any person, not the inventor, or by the inventor, if the use was not experimental.

The law permits an inventor to construct a machine and place it in friendly hands for the purpose of testing it, and if the use is strictly for that purpose the right of the inventor remains unimpaired.

Experimental use in public will not impair an inventor's rights, even though for more than two years.

Prior use in a foreign country will not invalidate a patent, but the patentee must be the original inventor.

To invalidate a patent, two years' public use must be clearly proved beyond a doubt, and the machine must be a practical and operative invention.

The burden of proof is on the party who sets up the defense of "Public Use."

The making of a machine without using it is not public use.

Reissues.—Rule 85. A reissue is granted . . . when the original patent is inoperative or invalid by reason of a defective or insufficient specification, or by reason of the patentee claiming as new more than he had a right to claim as new, provided the error has arisen through inadvertence, accident, or mistake, and without any fraudulent or deceptive intention.

A reissue after two years will not be granted unless special circumstances are present, but a reissue to narrow the claims will be granted after a lapse of any number of years.

A claim rejected and canceled in the original application cannot be reinstated in a reissue.

If the application for a reissue is refused, the original patent remains precisely as it was before the reissue application was made.

Insufficiency of claim is such inoperativeness as will sustain a reissue.

The reissue does not extend the term of the original patent.

Reduction to Practice.—This expression does not mean bringing the invention into actual use, but simply reducing it to such form that it may be used and is not mere theory.

An inventor has reduced his invention to practice when he has described it upon paper, with such drawings as will enable any person skilled in the art to make and use it, but he is not obliged to furnish drawings till he makes application for a patent.

When an inventor has complied with the law by filing an application for a patent fully describing his invention, the application being verified by an oath, he has reduced the invention to practice for the purpose of obtaining a patent.

Putting into use generally is strong evidence of a reduction to practice.

Trademarks.—A trademark is a symbol or device used by a manufacturer or a merchant to distinguish the products, manufactures, or merchandise which he produces, or sells, from that of others, and must not be descriptive.

Words, devices, or even a name in certain cases, may be adopted as a trademark.

The office of a trademark is to point out the origin or ownership of the article to which it is affixed.

A trademark is a mark without any special meaning.

The following have been held to be valid trademarks: "Celluloid," "Cottolene," "Cuticura," "Flinch," "Pigs in Clover," "Uneda."

The following have been held to be invalid trademarks: Best Soap, Borax Soap, Chill Stop, Fitmeasy, Gold Leaf Flour, Malted Milk, Prime Leaf Lard, Steel Shod Shoes, Taffy Tolu.

A trademark is the sign of the goodwill or reputation of a business.

The right of property of a person in a trademark will be protected by the courts irrespective of fraud or intent of the infringer.

To be covered by a single trademark the goods must be of substantially the same character.

A sign or label must be used by a proprietor in good faith, so as not to deceive the public, to receive the protection of the courts.

The courts take a liberal view of the construction of representations made concerning goods, and are not disposed to give them their strictest interpretation.

A person may not designate a thing with his own name in order to deceive the public into thinking it is the goods of another of that name.

The Singer sewing-machine became known to the trade by that name, and when the patent expired it was held that the use of that name became public.

The various fees of the Patent Office are as follows:

COPYRIGHTS.

Copyrights are granted by the United States for the term of twenty-eight years, and may be renewed for a term of fourteen years, to any citizen of the United States or resident therein, who shall be the author, inventor, or proprietor of any book, map, chart, dramatic or musical composition, engraving, cut, print, photograph or negative thereof, or of a painting, drawing, chromo, statue, model, or design not intended for use as a trademark or label.

The total cost of a copyright is $5.

FOREIGN PATENTS.

The attention of inventors is called to the ever-widening field for the manufactures of this country in foreign markets, and to properly place your goods in these fields it is necessary that you have them protected there. Any goods placed in a foreign market without restrictions of any kind will be sure to bring you nothing more than discouragements unless you have them patented. No sooner does a good machine appear in these markets than the manufacturers at once try to pirate it, unless there is a patent on it in the given country, and in many of them the requirements are not as severe as in the United States, so that unless the invention is protected in that country there will be little profit in introducing the invention there.

The entire charges for foreign patents run from $50.00 for a Canadian patent to $250 for some of the South American countries, and the average for foreign patents will be about the same as the total charges for a United States patent. The terms of foreign patents vary for different countries. In Great Britain the term is fourteen years, while in Mexico the term is twenty years, and a few other countries allow the patent to run as long as twenty years. In addition to the preliminary fee, many of the countries require a payment of some kind in the nature of a tax each year, but this is not a serious matter, if the invention proves to be worth anything at all. In Japan the fees of the government are $5 for the first filing of the case and $5 for each year thereafter with an increase of $2.50 for each period of three years, and the total time the patent is allowed to run is fifteen years. This Japanese system, it may be remarked, is substantially the same as our own, as regards the working of the laws.

The following table gives the cost of foreign patents in a number of the foreign countries and is intended to cover the more simple cases. The charges are for the government fee and the attorney fee.

Working Foreign Patents.—An important feature of many of the foreign patent laws is that they require the patentee, or someone for him, to work the invention to retain his right to the exclusive practice of it. Unless the patent is thus kept in use the grant becomes void.

Another feature of the foreign patent systems of several countries is that any public knowledge of the patent in this country will invalidate the patent in that country. In all cases where it is contemplated to file applications in countries abroad it is better to file the application in those countries before any public knowledge of the invention is allowed to be disseminated here.

International Union for the Protection of Industrial Property.—This union comprises the following named countries, and is for the purpose of better protecting the rights of inventors in those countries: Australia, Austria, Belgium, Brazil, Ceylon, Cuba, Denmark, Dominican Republic, Dutch Indies, France, Germany, Great Britain, Hungary, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Surinam, Sweden, Switzerland, Trinidad, Tunis, and the United States of America. Any person filing an application for a patent in the United States may within twelve months file an application in any one of these countries and the date will relate back to the date of filing in the United States. In such cases acts which would have invalidated the patent in these countries must have occurred before the filing of the application in the United States.

ATTORNEYS—RULES OF PRACTICE BEFORE THE BUREAU OF PENSIONS.

Rule 1. Authority to Prosecute Claims.—A person appearing of record in the Bureau of Pensions as having complied with the regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior for the recognition of agents or attorneys before the Department of the Interior will be held authorized to prosecute any claim for pension or bounty land, in which the law does not prohibit the payment of an attorney's fee, on filing a power of attorney from the claimant: Provided, however, that the Commissioner of Pensions, in his discretion, may recognize such person without compensation in any claim for pension or bounty land heretofore filed, or that may hereafter be filed, in which the law prohibits the payment of such fee.

Rule 2. Transfers of Attorneyship.—Transfers of attorneyship will be governed by the following rules:

(a) Transfers of attorneyship must be acknowledged before some officer authorized to administer oaths for general purposes in the presence of two witnesses who must sign their names to the instrument of transfer.

(b) In all transfers of attorneyship a separate slip must be filed for each claim transferred, showing its number, the name of the claimant, the name of the soldier or sailor, the service on which the claim is based, the name and address of the transferee, and an acknowledgment by the transferee of the transfer.

(c) A transfer not general in character, but of a limited number of claims, from one agent, attorney, or firm to another, must be accompanied also by a schedule, alphabetically arranged, showing for each claim the data required on said slips.

(d) A transfer made by the legal representative of a deceased or incompetent agent or attorney must be accompanied by a duly authenticated certificate of an officer of the court having jurisdiction, showing the authority of such representative.

(e) The written consent of the claimant is necessary to entitle a transferee to recognition in an incomplete claim, the transfer of attorneyship in all such cases being subject to protest.

Rule 3. Consent to Assignment.—No agent or attorney shall have power to make a valid assignment of any claim in which he has been recognized, even with the written consent of the claimant, unless he is at the time of such assignment and of such consent in good standing before the Bureau of Pensions.

Rule 4. Power of Attorney—Execution.—No power of attorney purporting to be executed by a claimant will be recognized as good and valid unless the same is signed in the presence of two witnesses and acknowledged before an officer duly authorized to administer oaths for general purposes, whose official signature is certified under seal.

Rule 5. Articles of Agreement—Pension Claims—Execution.—No articles of agreement filed under the act of July 4, 1884, will be recognized as valid, and no fee will be paid thereunder, unless the claimant's signature thereto is witnessed by two attesting witnesses and acknowledged before some officer authorized to administer oaths for general purposes, whose official signature is certified under seal.

The attorney's acceptance of such agreement must also be executed before some officer duly authorized to administer oaths for general purposes, whose official signature is certified under seal.

Rule 6. Articles of Agreement—Pension Claims, Forms, Requirements.—Articles of agreement, to be recognized as valid by the Commissioner of Pensions, must be in duplicate and in the form prescribed by order of July 8, 1884, and have printed upon the reverse: "Notice to Claimant," "This agreement is permissible under the law, but not compulsory," and a copy of the act of July 4, 1884.

Rule 7. Articles of Agreement—Bounty Land Claims.—When a claim for bounty land has been allowed and the warrant issued, one approved copy of the articles of agreement will be forwarded to the agent or attorney of record and the other preserved in the files of the claim. The bounty land warrant will be forwarded direct to the party entitled to the possession thereof.

Rule 8. Postage.—An agent or attorney may request and receive from a claimant a sum not exceeding fifty cents for postage in the prosecution of any one claim, original or increase, but compliance with such request of the agent or attorney is optional with the claimant.

Agents and attorneys are not allowed to demand a sum for postage as a right, or to refuse to prosecute a claim where the request for postage is not complied with.

Rule 9. Articles of Agreement—Attorney to Stipulate Amounts Received.—When in the adjudication of any claim for pension or bounty land in which articles of agreement have been or may hereafter be filed, it shall appear that the claimant, prior to the execution thereof, had paid to the agent or attorney any money for fee, postage (other than as allowed by Rule 8), or expenses in connection with the prosecution of the claim, and the amount so paid is not stated in the acceptance of agreement by the agent or attorney, then every such claim shall be adjudicated as if the articles of agreement contained no stipulation as to a fee, and from the fee of ten dollars allowed by law such sums as are shown to have been paid to the agent or attorney shall be deducted.

Rule 10. Attorney not to Act as Notary, etc., or Attesting Witness. No power of attorney or articles of agreement will be accepted as valid wherein the claimant's acknowledgment is taken before an officer who is the agent or attorney named therein, or where the agent or attorney acts as one of the attesting witnesses to claimant's signature to such instrument.

A declaration, affidavit, or any paper, requiring execution, or acknowledgment in connection with a claim for pension, or bounty land, must be executed or acknowledged before an officer duly authorized to administer oaths for general purposes, who is not interested in the prosecution of the claim to which said paper pertains, and the jurat must so show. An agent or attorney who shall file any paper containing in the jurat a false statement that the officer before whom such paper was executed, or acknowledged, is not interested in the prosecution of the claim, or any statement equivalent thereto, when in truth and in fact, such agent or attorney has entered into a contract, agreement, or understanding, with such officer, by virtue of which said officer is to receive compensation, or a commission, from such agent or attorney, in the event of the allowance of the claim, will subject himself to suspension or disbarment from practice before the Bureau of Pensions.

Rule 11. Limitation—Date of Filing.—All articles of agreement in claims for pension or bounty land that conform to the requirements of the law and regulations will be accepted if filed prior to the date of the issue of the certificate or of the bounty land warrant.

Rule 12. Limitation—Title to Fees.—No request of an agent or attorney for consideration of his title to a fee will be entertained unless the same is filed in the Bureau of Pensions within three years from the date of issue of the certificate upon which such fee is claimed.

Rule 13. Disbarment—Effect on Payment of Fee.—If an agent or attorney is disbarred pending the adjudication of a claim, and if, while such disbarment is in force, the claim is adjudicated and the certificate issued without certification of a fee by reason of such disbarment, and if thereafter said agent or attorney is restored to practice, and if claimant has not, by reason of such disbarment, canceled or revoked the authority theretofore existing, upon such restoration as aforesaid the lawful fee will be certified and paid to such agent or attorney.

Rule 14. Same—Estoppel.—When a claimant during the disbarment of his agent or attorney of record employs another, who prosecutes the claim to final adjudication, no fee will be certified the disbarred agent or attorney upon his restoration to practice, but his disbarment will operate by way of estoppel to bar any claim for fee.

Rule 15. No Fee to Guardians.—No fee will be allowed to a guardian who prosecutes the claim of his ward, nor to a firm of attorneys of which the guardian is a member.

Rule 16. Failure to Furnish Evidence—Estoppel.—When an agent or attorney is called upon by the Commissioner of Pensions to furnish evidence in any claim, he will be allowed ninety days within which to furnish same or to give reasons why he fails to do so: Provided always, that before such agent or attorney is dropped or another recognized, at any time within one year, he shall be given thirty days' notice to show cause why he is not guilty of laches. In the event that such answer be not filed within thirty days from the mailing of such notice, or that the answer thereto be held by the Commissioner of Pensions to be insufficient, claimant shall be notified of such failure and may file the same, either by himself or by such other attorney as he may elect; and upon the recognition of such other attorney the former agent or attorney will be estopped from claiming any fee.

Rule 17. Call Slips.—To call up a case will not be held of itself a substantial compliance with any specific requirement of the Commissioner of Pensions.

Rule 18. Effect of Neglect.—An agent or attorney will be required to exercise due diligence in all cases in which he is recognized. Neglect to prosecute a claim for one year will be held, in default of cause shown, conclusive evidence of the abandonment of a claim by the agent or attorney, and claimant will be so advised.

Rule 19. Rejection—Reconsideration—Appeal.—Upon the rejection of a claim for pension or bounty land the agent or attorney of record will be notified of such rejection and the reason therefor, and will be allowed ninety days from the date of such notice within which to file a motion for reconsideration, supported by material evidence, or within which to enter an appeal to the Secretary of the Interior; and on his failure to do either he will be held to have abandoned the case, and the claimant may employ any other duly qualified agent or attorney further to prosecute the claim.

Rule 20. Order of Consideration of Claims.—No claim pending in the Bureau of Pensions will be considered out of its regular order upon the request of an agent or attorney, or any other person whomsoever, except for good cause shown and upon the order of the Commissioner of Pensions.

Rule 21. Circular Letters, etc., to be Approved by Commissioner Before Use.—Every agent, attorney, or other person recognized by the Department of the Interior as entitled to practice before the Bureau of Pensions, shall submit to the Commissioner of Pensions copies of all proposed advertising matter framed and intended to solicit business before the Bureau of Pensions, and if the same be not disapproved by the Commissioner of Pensions and the agent or attorney so notified within ten days from the date of filing them, they will be held, prima facie, approved.

Advertising matter may contain clear, correct, and explicit statements of the law, the name and address of the attorney, and the information that he prosecutes claims for pension and bounty land.

The use by an agent or attorney of the characters "U. S.," or the words "United States," as a part of his title or of the title of his business is misleading and will not be permitted.

Rule 22. Increase Claims not in Prohibited Class.—A claim for increase of pension will not be considered or held as a claim pending within the prohibition of section 190, Revised Statutes of the United States.

Rule 23. Solicitation of Services of United States Officers in Aid of Prosecution of Claims, Prohibited.—Every agent, attorney, or other person who shall, directly or indirectly, request of any member of either House of Congress, or of any United States government official or representative (other than one whose duty it is under the law to supervise and administer the laws, rules and regulations governing the granting of pensions and bounty land) aid or assistance in the prosecution of a pension or bounty land claim, or who shall, directly or indirectly request or advise a claimant to seek such aid in the prosecution of a pension or bounty land claim, will be held to have abandoned the claim as agent or attorney and will thereby forfeit his agency or attorneyship in such claim.

Rule 24. Penalty for Violating Above Rule.—Every agent, attorney, or other person recognized by the Department of the Interior as entitled to practice before the Bureau of Pensions who shall violate the provisions of Rule 23, above, will be held thereafter incompetent to prosecute claims before said Bureau within the meaning of section 5 of the act of July 4, 1884, and will thereby subject himself to suspension or disbarment from practice before the Bureau of Pensions.

Rule 25. Itemized Account of Expenses to be Filed Before Demanding or Receiving Payment.—Where an agent, attorney, or other person incurs any expense in the prosecution of a claim before the Bureau of Pensions, he must file a sworn itemized account of such expense with the Commissioner of Pensions and secure the approval thereof, before demanding or receiving reimbursement from the claimant or pensioner.

Rule 26. Accrued Claims—Fee Limited.—In a claim under the act of March 2, 1895, for the accrued pension due in an admitted case from the date of last payment to pensioner's death, the agent or attorney of record is permitted, upon the allowance of the claim, to receive as a fee, direct from the claimant or beneficiary, ten per centum of the amount of the accrued pension paid; but in no event will such agent or attorney be permitted to demand, receive, or retain a fee in excess of ten dollars in any one claim.

Rule 27. Attorney must Refund Fee Erroneously Paid.—Where, through a mistake of fact or fraud on the part of an agent or attorney, a fee to which he is not entitled has been paid to him he will be required to refund the same on demand by the Commissioner of Pensions; and his failure or refusal to refund, after such demand, will render him liable to suspension or disbarment from practice before the Bureau of Pensions.

Rule 28. Increase Claims—Neglect to Furnish Evidence Called for, Effect of.—When in an invalid claim for increase the Commissioner of Pensions issues a call for evidence to show that claimant's disability has increased, as a prerequisite to a medical examination, and no evidence is filed in response to such call within ninety days, or thereafter before there is presented on behalf of claimant another declaration for increase, then the claim in which said call was issued is to be held rejected without ordering a medical examination, unless there was on file in the claim at the time of the issue of said call, medical evidence which had not been considered, tending to show that the claimant's disability had increased.

Any declaration for increase filed within ninety days from date of a call, under a prior declaration, for evidence to show increase of disability, will be held a duplicate of such prior declaration.

Rule 29. Repeal.—All rules and orders inconsistent with the foregoing are hereby abrogated.

RULES OF PRACTICE IN PENSION AND BOUNTY LAND APPEALS.

Rule I. Appeals.—Except as herein otherwise provided, an appeal may be taken to the Secretary of the Interior from the final action or order of the Commissioner of Pensions in all matters relating to pensions or bounty land, and a separate appeal must be filed in each claim.

Rule II. Filed With Commissioner of Pensions—To be Acted on Within Thirty Days—If Action be Adhered to, the Appeal, Report Thereon, and Record to be Sent to Department—Docketing—Decision to be on the Record—Copy of Decision to be Sent to Appellant or His Attorney.—Appeals must be filed with the Commissioner of Pensions. The Commissioner will thereupon, within thirty days from the filing of said appeal, consider and determine whether the action or order from which the appeal is taken shall be adhered to; and if he shall determine not to recede therefrom, he shall, within said period of thirty days, forward said appeal, together with the record in the case and a report stating his reasons for the action or order complained of, to the Department; and said appeal shall thereupon be entered upon a docket kept for that purpose. Upon the perfection of such appeal, by transmission and docketing aforesaid, the jurisdiction of the Commissioner shall cease and determine, and the case will be decided by the Secretary on the record. The decision of the Secretary shall be in duplicate and the same shall be transmitted with said record to the Commissioner of Pensions for action in accordance therewith. One copy of the decision shall be transmitted by the Commissioner to the appellant or his duly accredited attorney.

Rule III. Limitation as to Filing.—No appeal will be entertained unless filed within one year from the date of notice of final action or order of which complaint is made.

Rule IV. Will not Lie for Refusal to Recognize Attorney in Case Where Law Prohibits Fee.—No appeal will be entertained from the refusal of the Commissioner of Pensions to recognize attorneys or agents in prosecuting claims for pension or bounty land under any law wherein the payment of a fee for such service is prohibited.

Rule V. Grounds to be Specified (See Rule XI).—In each appeal, the name and service of the soldier, on account of whose service the claim is based, must be stated, together with the number of claim, the law under which the claim is prosecuted, and the date and substance of the action from which the appeal is taken.

Rule VI.—Attorney, When Recognized in Case on Appeal.—An appeal by an attorney will not be entertained unless he has filed a duly executed power of attorney for this purpose from the appellant, or is entitled under the rules to recognition.

Rule VII. Attorney, Suspended or Disbarred—Appeal by, not Entertained.—An appeal taken on behalf of a claimant by or through a suspended or disbarred attorney will not be entertained.

Rule VIII. Attorney Fee—Refundment of.—No appeal pertaining to the allowance of a fee when the refundment has been called for will be entertained unless refundment as required shall have been made.

Rule IX. Commissioner of Pensions to Return Defective Appeal to Appellant.—The Commissioner of Pensions shall return to the appellant any appeal not in conformity with the provisions of Rules III to VIII, inclusive, stating wherein the appeal is defective.

Rule X. Appellant may Apply to Secretary for Order Directing Commissioner of Pensions to Certify Record, etc., to Department for Consideration When Said Commissioner has Decided Adversely as to Appellant's Right to Appeal.—In proceedings before the Commissioner in which he shall decide that a party has no right to appeal to the Secretary or that said appeal may not be entertained under the provisions of the foregoing rules such party may apply to the Secretary for an order directing the Commissioner to certify said action together with the record in the case to the Department; and such application shall be in writing, under oath, and shall fully and specifically set forth the grounds upon which the same is based.

Rule XI. Appeal must Contain Specific Assignments of Alleged Mistakes of Fact or Errors of Law (See Rule V).—Each appeal must contain specific assignments of the alleged mistake or error of law or of fact in the adjudication of said claim by the Commissioner of Pensions; and any appeal insufficient in this respect may be dismissed by the Secretary.

Rule XII. Reconsideration of Departmental Decisions, Motions for—Limitations.—A motion for reconsideration of any departmental decision may be filed with and entertained by the Secretary, in his discretion, if filed within six months from the date when such decision was rendered. It must be shown in said motion that some material feature of the case has not been considered in said decision, or that there was error of law or of fact.

Rule XIII. Division of Pension, Act March 3, 1899—Practice—Limitation.—Upon the adjudication of a claim for division of pension under the act of March 3, 1899, in the Bureau of Pensions, both parties will be promptly notified by the bureau, by registered letter, of the action taken. Each party will, in the absence of waiver, be allowed thirty days from receipt of said notice to appeal from said action, the appeal to be accompanied by due proof of service of a copy thereof upon the appellee, as required by Rule XIV. Unless such bureau action is appealed from within thirty days from receipt of said notice, the bureau action shall be deemed to be final to the extent that all payments of divisions of pension in accordance with such bureau action will not, in the absence of fraud or mistake of fact, be disturbed: Provided, the unexplained failure of a pensioner to appear, answer, or in any way plead to the claimant's application, after due notice thereof by the Bureau, will be deemed a waiver of his right to appeal to the extent that, if the claim be allowed, final orders for division of pension may issue at once.

Rule XIV. First, Second, and Third Provisos of Act March 3, 1899—Proof of Service of Notice on Appellee Prerequisite.—Appeals from bureau action in cases under the first, second, and third provisos of the act of March 3, 1899, should be accompanied by due proof of service of a copy of the appeal upon the appellee or his or her attorney of record.

Proof of service must be such as will satisfy the Commissioner of Pensions that the appellee has been informed of the appeal and the contents thereof, and may consist of, first, a written acceptance of service by the appellee or his or her attorney of record; or, second, a postal registry return receipt card, signed by appellee or attorney of record, accompanied by an affidavit, showing that on a certain date a copy of the appeal was mailed in a registered letter, postpaid, to the appellee or the attorney of record, addressed to a certain postoffice (naming it), that the card was returned in acknowledgment of the receipt of such letter; or, third, an affidavit showing that on a certain day and at a certain place a copy of the appeal was personally delivered to the appellee or his or her attorney of record.

Appeals in this class of cases unaccompanied by due proof of service, or a satisfactory reason why personal service cannot be made, will not be filed, or considered, but will be promptly returned to the appellant, or his or her attorney of record, for compliance with this rule.

Rule XV. During Pendency of Appeal Payment of One-half of Pension Suspended—Limitation as to Period for Filing Answer.—Appeals from Bureau action in cases under the first, second and third provisos of the act of March 3, 1899, when accompanied by due proof of service of a copy thereof upon the appellee, will be filed, and the appellant and appellee promptly notified thereof. The appeal will operate to suspend further payment of the one-half pension in controversy until a decision shall have been rendered therein by the Department, and the appellee will be allowed thirty days from the date of filing the appeal in which to file an answer, brief or argument, in opposition to the appeal or in support of the bureau action appealed from.

Rule XVI. Appeals Under Act of March 3, 1899, not to be Joined With Appeals Under Other Laws.—Appeals from the Bureau action in cases under the first, second, or third provisos of the act of March 3, 1899, should be confined to cases under that act, and not joined with an appeal from action in an invalid claim or claims under other acts of Congress, and when perfected by due proof of service of a copy of the appeal upon the appellee, as required by Rule XIV, should be addressed to the Commissioner of Pensions. This appeal should state the post-office address of the appellant and appellee and the certificate number and the service (company and regiment, etc.) of the pensioner, and should briefly, but specifically, state the error of law or fact complained of and the grounds relied upon for reversing or modifying the bureau action appealed from.

Evidence.—No additional evidence upon the merits of the claim should be filed by either appellant or appellee, or considered on appeal.

Rule XVII. Review of Departmental Decisions in Cases for Division of Pensions, Motions for—To be Addressed to Secretary—Specifications—Proof of Service.—Motions for review of departmental decisions in cases for division of pension under the act of March 3, 1899, should be addressed to the Secretary of the Interior and refer to the docket number of appeal, stating the names of the parties. The motion should briefly but specifically state the error of law or of fact in the decision sought to be reversed or modified and clearly indicate the grounds relied upon for reversing or modifying the decision and may be accompanied by brief or argument in support thereof. The motion should be accompanied with due proof of service of a copy of the motion upon the opposite party, or his or her attorney, as indicated in Rule XIV of Practice.

Limitation as to Filing Answer, etc.—The opposite party will be allowed thirty days in which to reply to said motion, if desired, by answer, brief, or argument, and thereupon the motion will be promptly considered by the department, and a copy of the departmental decision or order, on the motion for review, will be duly forwarded to the parties or their attorneys by the Bureau of Pensions.

Suspension of Payment Only at Department's Direction.—No motion for review of a departmental decision under said act shall operate to suspend payment of one-half the pension in controversy unless expressly directed by this department.

Rules XIV and XVI, Supra, Applicable.—The requirements of Rules XIV and XVI of Practice, as to appeals, are applicable to motions for review under said act.

Rule XVIII. Cases on Appeal to be Decided in Regular Order—Motion to Advance—How Supported—When Granted.—All cases on appeal will be considered and decided in regular order according to their places upon the docket, unless, for cause shown, a case may be advanced, on motion, for earlier hearing and determination. Every such motion shall set forth succinctly the grounds upon which it is based and must be supported by the affidavits of at least two disinterested parties cognizant of the facts upon which the motion is based. No such motion will be granted except in cases involving points of pension law of general application affecting other claims, unless it appears that the appellant is in extreme indigent circumstances or is ill without reasonable hope of recovery.

REGULATIONS AND INSTRUCTIONS RELATING TO PENSION CLAIMS.

DECLARATIONS AND EVIDENCE.

Declarations and Affidavits.—All declarations and affidavits must be executed before some officer duly authorized to administer oaths for general purposes, in accordance with the provisions of the act of Congress approved July 26, 1892.

Blank Forms.—Blank forms of declarations will be furnished to claimants upon application therefor. They will not be furnished to agents or attorneys in bulk, but sample forms will be sent on request.

Claimant may Prosecute by Attorney or in Person.—A claimant may prosecute his claim by attorney or in person, and if he prosecute it in person it will receive the same consideration by the Bureau of Pensions as it would receive if prosecuted by an attorney.

PENSIONS TO SURVIVORS OF WARS PRIOR TO 1861, AND TO THEIR WIDOWS.

1. War of the Revolution, Service Pensions.—(a) Widows of soldiers who served for fourteen days or more, or were in battle during the war, are entitled, provided they have not remarried, to $8 per month from March 9, 1878, and $12 per month from March 19, 1886. (b) The widow of a Revolutionary soldier who, in his lifetime, was granted a pension, is entitled, under section 4743, Revised Statutes, to pension at the same rate as was paid the husband, notwithstanding remarriage, upon proof of present widowhood. (c) There is no law granting pension to the daughters or other descendants of soldiers of the Revolution. The daughters of Revolutionary soldiers now drawing pensions were placed on the pension-roll by special acts of Congress.

2. War of 1812, Service Pensions.—(a) Under the act of March 9, 1878, soldiers and sailors who served fourteen days or more, or were in any engagement, during this war, and were honorably discharged, and the widows of such soldiers and sailors, irrespective of the date of marriage, are entitled to $8 per month from March 9, 1878. Under the act of March 19, 1886, widow pensioners mentioned in this paragraph are entitled to $12 per month from that date. (b) There is no law granting service pensions to the descendants of soldiers or sailors of the War of 1812.

3. Indian Wars from 1832 to 1842, Service Pensions.—(a) The act of July 27, 1892, provides pensions for the surviving officers and enlisted men, including marines, militia, and volunteers, who were in the military or naval service of the United States for thirty days in the Black Hawk War, the Creek War, the Cherokee disturbances, or the Florida War with the Seminole Indians, and were honorably discharged; or who were personally named in any resolution of Congress for specific services therein; and for their widows, provided they have not remarried. Claimants under this act must be actual and bona fide residents of the United States at the date of making application. All pensions under this act are fixed at $8 per month, irrespective of rank, are not subject to increase for any cause, and are payable from July 27, 1892; the pension of a widow whose husband was living on that date commences from the day of his death.

Indian Wars from 1817 to 1858.—The provisions of the foregoing act of July 27, 1892, were extended by the act of June 27, 1902, from the date of its passage, to the surviving officers and enlisted men, including marines, militia, and volunteers of the military and naval service of the United States who served for thirty days or more and were honorably discharged under the United States military, State, Territorial, or provisional authorities in certain specified Indian wars occurring from 1817 to 1858. This act also made provisions for the surviving widows, who have not remarried, of such officers and men. In establishing these claims a record of pay by the United States is accepted to prove record of enlistment and service.

Indian Wars, etc., from 1855 to 1860.—The provisions of the foregoing act of July 27, 1892, were extended by the act of May 30, 1908, to the surviving officers and enlisted men of the Texas volunteers who served in the defense of the frontier of that State against Mexican marauders and Indian depredations from the year 1855 to the year 1860, inclusive, and to the surviving widows, who have not remarried, of such officers and men. In establishing these claims, where there is no record of enlistment or muster into the service of the United States, the fact of reimbursement to the State of Texas by the United States, as evidenced by the muster-rolls and vouchers on file in the

4. Mexican War, Service Pensions.—(a) Under the act of January 29, 1887, officers and enlisted men who were in the military or naval service of the United States for sixty days in the Mexican War, or on the coasts or frontier thereof, or en route thereto, or who were in a battle and were honorably discharged, or who were personally named in any resolution of Congress for specific service therein, are entitled to pension if sixty-two years of age; or, if not, upon proof of pensionable disability or dependence, but disability incurred while voluntarily aiding or abetting the late rebellion does not give title to pension. (b) Widows of officers and enlisted men who served as above are entitled to pension upon the same conditions as to age or dependence as apply to officers and enlisted men. (c) Pensions under this act commence on January 29, 1887, if a pensionable condition existed at that date, in survivors' claims, by reason of age, dependence, or disability, and in widows' claims, by reason of age or dependence; if not, then on the date the applicant becomes sixty-two years of age, or dependent, or disabled within the meaning of the law. (d) The rate of pension to survivors is $8 per month, irrespective of rank. This rate for survivors was increased by the act of January 5, 1893, to $12 per month, but its benefits were limited to those who were pensioners on January 5, 1893. To secure this increase the act requires that a pensioner must show that he is wholly disabled for manual labor and in such destitute circumstances that $8 per month is a sum insufficient to provide him with the necessities of life. The act of April 23, 1900, removed the limitation imposed in the act of January 5, 1893. The act of March 3, 1903, pensions all survivors of the Mexican War at $12 per month, irrespective of the conditions named in the act of January 5, 1893, and the act of April 23, 1900. (e) The pension to a widow under this act is $8 per month, and is not subject to increase. (f) Descendants of deceased Mexican soldiers are not entitled to service pension.

Act of February 6, 1907.—Under this act any person who served sixty days in the War with Mexico in the military or naval service of the United States and has been honorably discharged therefrom, and who has reached the age of sixty-two years or over, is entitled to a pension at the following rates, irrespective of rank: At sixty-two years, $12 per month; at seventy years, $15 per month; and at seventy-five years or over, $20 per month. Pension commences from the date of filing claim in the Bureau of Pensions subsequent to February 6, 1907, after attaining the specified age.

5. Pensions for Disability or Death Due to Service Prior to March 4, 1861.—(a) Soldiers who were wounded or injured, or who contracted disease in the line of duty, are entitled to pension corresponding in rate to the degree of the disability incurred in the service. Persons who rendered naval service are entitled to a like pension, under the same conditions, excepting that no pension may be granted to an engineer, fireman, or coalheaver for disability incurred prior to August 31, 1842. (b) The widows, or children, under sixteen years of age, of soldiers who served prior to March 4, 1861, are entitled to pension, if the soldier's death was due to causes originating in time of actual war, and not otherwise. Widows, or children, under sixteen, of sailors who served prior to March 4, 1861, are entitled to pension only when the death of the sailor occurred in the service and in the line of duty. (c) Pensions mentioned in this paragraph, if not applied for within three years from the discharge or death of the person on whose account the right to pension exists, or within three years of the termination of a pension previously granted on account of the service and death of such person, commence from the date of filing, by the person prosecuting the claim, of the last paper necessary to establish it. (d) The rate of pension allowed to one whose pensionable rights accrued prior to March 4, 1861, is subject to variation, after July 25, 1866, in accordance with the laws passed since March 4, 1861. (e) There is no provision of law granting pensions to the parents, brothers, or sisters of persons who rendered military or naval service prior to March 4, 1861.

PENSIONS TO INVALIDS SINCE MARCH 4, 1861.

Sections 4692 and 4693, Revised Statutes.—The declaration should set forth the company and regiment in which the applicant served, the name of the commanding officer of the company or organization, and the dates of enlistment and discharge, with personal description at enlistment. In Navy cases, the vessels on which claimant served should be stated. If the claim is made on account of a wound or injury, the declaration should set forth the nature and locality of the wound or injury, the time when, the place where, and the circumstances under which it was received, and the duty upon which the applicant was engaged.

Circumstances Under Which Wound Received.—If the wound or injury was accidental, the applicant should state whether it happened through his own agency, or that of other persons, and he should detail minutely the circumstances under which it was received.

Disease.—If the claim is made on account of disability from disease, the applicant should state in said declaration when the disease first appeared, the place where he was when it appeared, and the duty upon which he was engaged at the time. He should also detail the circumstances of exposure, and the causes which, in his opinion, produced the disease. Whether the application be made on account of disability from wound, injury, or disease, the claimant should state the names, addresses, and localities of all hospitals in which he received medical or surgical treatment, giving the dates of his admission thereto, as correctly as he may be able.

Service.—The applicant should state whether he was in the military or naval service prior to, or after, the term of service in which his disability originated.

Address.—The applicant should state his postoffice address, including street and number, or rural free delivery route, if any.

Identity.—The identity of the applicant must be shown by the testimony of two competent, credible witnesses, who must appear with him before the officer whose jurat is attached to the declaration.

EVIDENCE REQUIRED IN A CLAIM FOR INVALID PENSION.

Military and Medical History.—As soon as practicable after the receipt of an application for pension a call will be made by the Bureau of Pensions, in Army cases, upon the Adjutant General, United States Army, for the full military and medical history of the applicant, as shown by the records of the War Department. In Navy cases, calls for such evidence will be made upon the proper bureaus of the Navy Department.

Evidence That Disability Originated in Service.—When the records of the War or Navy Departments do not furnish satisfactory evidence that the disability on account of which the claim is made originated in the service of the United States, and in the line of duty, the claimant will be required to furnish such evidence, in accordance with the instructions hereinafter given, and compliance with such requirement must be full and definite. If the disability resulted from a wound or injury, the nature and location of the wound or injury, the time when, the place where, and the manner in which it was received, whether in battle or otherwise, should be shown by the evidence of someone who was a commissioned officer and had personal knowledge of the facts.

Commissioned Officer—Surgeon.—If the person called upon to give evidence is still in the service as a commissioned officer, his certificate will be accepted in lieu of his affidavit. If there is no record of the disability claimed, the applicant will be called upon to furnish the testimony of the surgeon by whom he was treated, showing the location and nature of the wound or injury, and the circumstances under which it was received. If the disability arose from disease, the testimony of the person who was surgeon or assistant surgeon of the regiment to which the applicant belonged, or of the vessel on which he served, should be furnished, if possible, showing the name or nature of the disease, the time when, the place where, it was contracted, and the circumstances of exposure to the causes which, in his opinion, produced the same. The surgeon should state whether, in his opinion, the habits of the applicant were contributory to the origin or development of the disease.

Other Persons.—In any claim, whether based on wound, injury, or disease, if it be shown that the testimony of a surgeon, assistant surgeon, or other commissioned officer, cannot be produced as evidence of the origin of the disability alleged, the testimony of other persons having personal knowledge of the facts will be considered.

Physicians.—In a claim on account of disability from disease, the applicant must furnish the testimony of physicians who have attended him since the date of discharge, explicitly setting forth the history of the disease and the disability since its first appearance. It is especially important that the physician who first attended the applicant after his discharge state the date at which the attendance commenced and the condition found at the time. If it should not be possible for the applicant to show the condition of his health during the whole period since the date of his discharge by the testimony of physicians, the cause of his inability to do so should be stated by him, under oath. The testimony of other persons on this point may then be presented. Statements of witnesses in regard to the manner in which the applicant was affected should be full and definite, and should show how such witnesses obtained a knowledge of the facts to which they testify.

Act of June 27, 1890, as Amended by Act of May 9, 1900.—Any officer, soldier, sailor, or marine who served ninety days or more in the military or naval service of the United States during the late War of the Rebellion, who has been honorably discharged therefrom, and who is suffering from disability of a permanent character, not the result of his own vicious habits, which incapacitates him from the performance of manual labor in such a degree as to render him unable to earn a support, is entitled to a pension under this act of not less than $6 nor more than $12 per month.

The act of May 9, 1900, amending the act of June 27, 1890, provides that, in determining inability to earn a support, each and every infirmity shall be considered, and the aggregate of the disabilities shown be rated. These acts require an honorable discharge from each and every term of service rendered during the War of the Rebellion. A modification of this requirement has resulted, by reason of the provisions of section 2 of the joint resolution of July 1, 1902, as amended by the joint resolution of June 28, 1906. As the law now stands the honorable discharge of any soldier or sailor from any subsequent contract of service entered into by him during the late War of the Rebellion is regarded as an honorable discharge from all previous contracts of service previously entered into by him with the United States during the said war, if the service under such subsequent contract was for not less than six months, and was faithful, and if he had not received by reason of the subsequent service any bounty or gratuity, other than from the United States, in excess of that to which he would have been entitled if he had continued to serve faithfully until honorably discharged under any contract of service previously entered into by him during the War of the Rebellion. The limitation of section 4716, Revised Statutes, operated against claimants under these acts until July 1, 1902, the date of the passage of the joint resolution above referred to, the first section of which removed the limitation as to disloyalty, except as to those who enlisted in the Army or Navy of the United States after January 1, 1865.

Act of February 6, 1907.—By the terms of this act any person who served ninety days or more in the military or naval service of the United States during the late Civil War, and who has been honorably discharged therefrom, is entitled to a pension at the following rates, irrespective of rank: At sixty-two years of age, $12 per month; seventy years of age, $15 per month; seventy-five years or over, $20 per month. Pension commences from the date of filing claim in the Bureau of Pensions, subsequent to February 6, 1907, after attaining the specified age.

The bases of title under this act, except as herein otherwise stated, are the same as under the act of June 27, 1890, as amended by the act of May 9, 1900.

Claims for Increase of Invalid Pensions.—The pensioner who may deem himself entitled to an increase of pension should file a declaration setting forth the grounds upon which he bases his claim for increase. Upon the receipt of a declaration the claimant will be advised of the evidence necessary to complete his claim, and, if it is warranted, a medical examination will be ordered.

Order for Medical Examination Will not Issue.—An order for medical examination will not issue where the claimant is in receipt of the maximum rate, under the law and the rulings of the department, for the pensioned disability, such as "loss of sight of one eye," "total deafness of one ear," "hernia," "loss of limb," or any other specific or minor specific disability, for which the rate is fixed by law or departmental rulings, and where no complications are shown. Claimant will be notified that he is receiving the maximum rate of pension for the pensioned disability.

Claims for Renewal of Pension.—Application for renewal of pension must be made by a declaration executed as in original claims, setting forth that the cause for which pension was granted still continues.

In cases of unclaimed pensions (sec. 4719, Rev. Stats.) there must be filed evidence specifically accounting for the failure to claim the pension, and, in the case of invalids, medical evidence showing the continuance of the disability on account of which pension was allowed.

NAVY SERVICE PENSIONS.

Enlisted Men and Petty Officers.—Under sections 4756 and 4757, Revised Statutes, pensions for twenty years' service and for ten years' service, respectively, are allowed by the Secretary of the Navy to enlisted men and appointed petty officers who have not been discharged for misconduct. Pension commences from the date of filing the claim therefor in the Navy Department; and for twenty years' service amounts to one-half the monthly pay of the applicant's rating at his discharge; for ten years' service the pension cannot exceed the rate for total disability and is fixed, as is also its duration, by the Navy Department. An application for pension under the sections referred to should be made to the Secretary of the Navy, and all subsequent communications should be addressed to the Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

PENSIONS TO WIDOWS SINCE MARCH 4, 1861.

Sections 4702 and 4703, Revised Statutes.—To obtain title to pension under these sections it must be shown that the soldier or sailor died of a disability contracted in the service and in the line of duty. The date, place, and cause of death of the soldier or sailor through whom the pension is claimed should be shown by a verified transcript of the public record. When the public record is indefinite as to the cause of death, and when it is necessary to show the pathological connection between the death-cause as shown in the record and the disability as proven of service origin, the testimony of the attending physician should be filed, giving a full history of the soldier's fatal illness and the mode and manner of death, but when this is impossible the testimony of other persons who are acquainted with the circumstances may be furnished.

Proof of Marriage.—The marriage of the applicant to the person on account of whose service and death the claim is made should be shown—

- (1) By a duly verified copy of a public or church record; or
- (2) By the affidavit of the clergyman or magistrate who officiated; or
- (3) By the testimony of two or more eye-witnesses to the ceremony; or
- (4) By a duly verified copy of the church record of baptism of the children; or
- (5) By the testimony of two or more witnesses who know that the parties lived together as husband and wife, and were recognized as such, and who shall state how long, within their knowledge, such cohabitation continued.

Section 4705, Revised Statutes, provides that in the claims of the widows and children of colored and Indian soldiers and sailors there need be no other evidence of marriage than satisfactory proof that the parties were joined in marriage by some ceremony deemed by them obligatory, or habitually recognized each other as man and wife, and were so recognized by their neighbors, and lived together as such up to the date of enlistment, when such soldier or sailor died in the service, or, if otherwise, to the date of his death.

Proof of Dates of Birth of Children.—The dates of birth of children should be proved—

- (1) By a duly verified copy of the public records of births, or the church record of baptism; or
- (2) By the affidavit of the physician who attended the mother; or
- (3) By the testimony of persons who were present at the births, who should state how they are now able to fix the precise dates.

If any child of the person on whose account the claim is made died after the date at which the widow's pension would commence, the date of death must be shown.

Act of June 27, 1890, as Amended by Act of May 9, 1900.—Pensions under these acts are granted to widows upon proof—

(1) That the soldier or sailor served at least ninety days during the War of the Rebellion.

(2) That he was honorably discharged.

(3) That he is dead, but his death need not have been the result of his Army or Navy service. Under the act of March 13, 1896, the death of the soldier or sailor may be presumed.

(4) That the widow is without means of support other than her daily labor and an actual net income not exceeding $250 per annum.

(5) That she married the soldier or sailor prior to June 27, 1890.

Act of April 19, 1908.—Pensions under this act are granted to widows upon proof—

(1) That the soldier or sailor served at least ninety days during the Civil War.

(2) That he was honorably discharged.

(3) That he is dead, but his death need not have been the result of his Army or Navy service. Under the act of March 13, 1896, his death may be presumed.

(4) That she was married to the soldier or sailor prior to June 27, 1890.

PENSIONS TO MINORS SINCE MARCH 4, 1861.

Sections 4702 and 4703, Revised Statutes.—To obtain title to pension under these sections it must be shown that the father of the minor children died of a disability contracted in the service and in the line of duty; and, in addition, proof must be furnished as follows:

(1) The cause and date of the father's death, the marriage of the parents, and the dates of birth of the children, must be established. When, however, satisfactory proof upon these points has been furnished in the claim of the widow, it will not again be required in the claim on behalf of the minors.

(2) If the mother of the children is dead, the date of her death must be proved. If she remarried, her remarriage must be shown in the same manner that her marriage to the father of the children is required to be established. If the claim is based on the fact that the widow has abandoned the care of the children, or that she is an unsuitable person, by reason of immoral conduct, to have the custody of them, and such fact be duly certified under seal, by any court having probate jurisdiction, the children are given a pensionable status by section 4706, Revised Statutes, to the exclusion of the widow, until they severally attain the age of sixteen years, to commence from the date of last payment to the widow, if she be a pensioner, and if not, from the date on which her pensionable rights accrued.

(3) If the mother of the children died before the father, it must be shown whether he again married.

(4) It must be shown whether the father left any other pensionable child than the minors for whose benefit the claim is made, and, if so, why such child was not mentioned in the application. A guardian is not entitled on account of a child that died prior to the date of the application for pension.

Act of June 27, 1890, as Amended by Act of May 9, 1900.—Minor children have title under these acts upon the death or remarriage of the widow of the soldier or sailor. Where, however, the widow was married to the soldier or sailor subsequent to June 27, 1890, and his death-cause did not originate in the service and in the line of duty; or where she has forfeited her title to pension by open and notorious adulterous cohabitation, the minor takes title, even though the widow be alive and unmarried.

PENSIONS TO HELPLESS CHILDREN.

Minor Child Physically or Mentally Helpless.—The first proviso of the third section of the act of June 27, 1890, as amended by the act of May 9, 1900, continues the pension of a minor child who is insane, idiotic, or otherwise physically or mentally helpless, after it becomes 16 years of age, during the life of said child, or during the period of such disability. The benefits of this proviso are extended to all pensions granted before June 27, 1890, or thereafter granted, under any statute. The pension allowed by the proviso commences from the date of the filing of the application therefor in the Bureau of Pensions. In order to obtain title, the helplessness of the child must have originated prior to attaining the age of sixteen years, and have continued thereafter.

PENSIONS TO DEPENDENT RELATIVES.

Section 4707, Revised Statutes.—To obtain title to pension under this statute, it must be shown that the soldier or sailor died of a disability contracted in the service and in line of duty.

Dependent Mothers.—A mother must show her relationship, the date and cause of the son's death, whether he left a widow or minor children surviving, and her dependence upon him for support at the time of his death.

Proof of Dependence.—In proof of dependence, it must be shown that previous to the date of the said son's decease, her husband had died, or that he had permanently abandoned her, or that, on account of disability from injury or disease, he was unable to support her. If the husband is dead, the date of his death must be proved. If he abandoned the support of his family, the date of the abandonment, and all the facts of the case, showing whether he ever returned, or ever afterwards contributed to the support of the claimant, must be fully set forth. If he was disabled, the nature and cause of the disability, when, and to what extent, it rendered him unable to support the claimant, must be shown by the testimony of his physician. The extent of his disability during the period from the son's death to the present time should also be shown.

Value of Property.—The value of the property of the claimant and her husband, the income derived therefrom, and the other means of support possessed by her, while she was receiving the contributions of the son on account of whose service and death pension is claimed, and from that time to the present, should be shown by the testimony of credible and disinterested witnesses, who must state how they know the facts. The value of property assessed for taxation may be shown by the testimony of the officer having custody of the records relative thereto, who should also state the ratio of the assessed to the actual or cash value of such property.

To What Extent Son Contributed.—It must be shown to what extent, for what period, and in what manner, her said son contributed to her support, by the testimony of persons for whom the son labored, to whom he paid rent, of whom he purchased groceries, fuel, clothing, or other necessary articles for the mother's use, or of those who otherwise had a knowledge of the contributions of the son, and who must state how they obtained such knowledge. Any letter from the son, bearing upon the question of support, should be filed. If the son, in any other manner than by actual contributions, acknowledged his obligation to support his mother, or was, by law, bound to such support, the facts should be shown.

Dependent Fathers.—A father claiming a pension on account of the death of a legitimate son, upon whom he was dependent for support, must prove—

(1) The cause of his son's death;

That said son left no widow or minor child surviving;

The cause and extent of claimant's disability during the period in which the son contributed to his support, and from that time to the present;

The amount of his property, and all other means of support possessed by him during that period, and the extent of his dependence upon his son for support.

The facts of the case, in each respect, should be shown by such testimony, as is required in the claim of a mother.

(2) The date of the claimant's marriage to the mother of the soldier or sailor, the date of birth of the son, and the date of the death of said mother, must be proved.

In case the mother applied for pension, reference should be made to her application, and the number of the same, or of her certificate, should be given. Evidence upon any point established in a mother's claim will not again be required.

Minor Brothers and Sisters.—In a claim on behalf of minor brothers and sisters, there must be proved—

The cause and date of death of the brother on whose account the claim is made;

His celibacy;

The dates of death of the mother and father, or death of the father and remarriage of the mother;

The dates of birth of the claimant and other dependents upon the brother for support.

If the mother or father applied for pension, the number of his or her application, or of his or her certificate, should be given.

Evidence upon any point established in the claim of the mother or the father will not again be required.

In the administration of the pension laws no distinction is made between brothers and sisters of the half-blood and those of the whole blood.

Act of June 27, 1890 (construed as amending sec. 4707, R. S., as to dependent parents).—The same evidence is required in claims under this act as under section 4707, Revised Statutes, in its original form, except as to contributions by the soldier or sailor, and as to date of dependence, which is removed from the date of the soldier's or sailor's death to the date of the filing of the application for pension under this law.

Rate of Pension.—The rate of pension under section 4707, Revised Statutes, in its original form, and under section 1 of the act of June 27, 1890, is governed by the rank of the soldier or sailor on account of whose service and death pension may be claimed.

Attorney's Fee.—If the claim is prosecuted under section 4707, Revised Statutes, the attorney's fee may be $25; if prosecuted under section 1 of the act of June 27, 1890, the fee is $10.

CLAIMS FOR RENEWAL AND RESTORATION.

Application for Renewal.—Application for renewal of pension (sec. 4719, Rev. Stats.) must be submitted to the Commissioner of Pensions by a declaration executed as in an original claim, setting forth fully the reasons for failure to draw pension, accompanied by evidence satisfactorily accounting for such failure.

Restoration of Pension.—The act of March 3, 1901, amending section 4708, Revised Statutes, and the act of February 28, 1903, amendatory of said act of 1901, provided for restoration of pension to certain remarried widows on renewed widowhood. The applicant under these acts must show that she was the wife of the officer, soldier, or sailor during the period of his service in any war; that her name was dropped from the roll by reason of her marriage to another person, who has since died, or from whom she has been divorced upon her application, and without fault on her part; and that she is without other means of support than her daily labor and a net income not exceeding $250 per annum. The fact that the widow was originally barred from pension by the terms of the act of March 3, 1865, by reason of her marriage, does not deprive her of title to restoration under the act of February 28, 1903.

PENSIONS TO ARMY NURSES.

Act of August 5, 1892.—By this act all women employed by the Surgeon General of the Army as nurses during the late War of the Rebellion, for a period of six months or more, and who were honorably relieved from such service, are entitled to a pension, provided they are unable to earn a support. Applications for pension under this act should be made in the form prescribed by the Commissioner of Pensions.

DIVISION OF PENSION.

Act of March 3, 1899.—Applications for division of pension under this act will be adjudicated in accordance with the following rules:

Rule 1. Prima Facie Case.—All claimants under the act of March 3, 1899, will be required to file with their declarations proof in support thereof sufficient to establish a prima facie case under the law.

Rule 2. Claim by Wife, Alleging Desertion.—Where the claim is filed by the wife, alleging that the pensioner has deserted her for a period of over six months subsequent to March 3, 1899, and prior to the filing of the declaration, the declaration must be accompanied by evidence showing that she is the wife of the pensioner; that the pensioner has deserted her for the period alleged in the declaration, and that she is a woman of good moral character and in necessitous circumstances.

Rule 3. Claim by Wife Alleging Pensioner is Inmate of Home.—Where the claim is filed by the wife, alleging that the pensioner is an inmate of a State Soldiers' or Sailors' Home, or a National Soldiers' Home, the declaration must be accompanied by evidence showing that the claimant is the wife of the pensioner and that she is a woman of good moral character and in necessitous circumstances.

Rule 4. Claim by Pensioner, Alleging Desertion.—Where the claim is filed by or on behalf of the minor child or children, under sixteen years of age, of a pensioner, alleging that pensioner has deserted said child or children, the declaration must be accompanied by evidence showing the marriage of the parents; the date of birth of each child; death or divorce of the mother of the minor child or children, or that she has no title under the said act; that the pensioner has deserted such child or children for the period alleged; and, in the event of the death or divorce of the mother of the minor child or children, that the pensioner had not remarried prior to the statutory date of desertion, or that his present wife has no title under said act.

Rule 5. Claim by Minor Alleging Pensioner is Inmate of Home.—Where the claim is filed by or on behalf of the minor child or children, under sixteen years of age, of the pensioner, alleging that the pensioner is an inmate of a State Soldiers' or Sailors' Home or a National Soldiers' Home, the declaration must be accompanied by evidence showing the marriage of the parents; date of the birth of each child; the death or divorce of the mother of the minor child or children; or that she has no title under the act of March 3, 1899; and, in the event of the death or divorce of the mother of said minor child or children, that the pensioner had not remarried prior to the statutory date of entrance into the home, or that his present wife has no title under said act.

Rule 6. Claim by Permanently Helpless and Dependent Child, Alleging Desertion.—Where the claim is filed by or on behalf of a permanently helpless and dependent child of a pensioner, alleging that pensioner has deserted such child, the declaration must be accompanied by evidence showing the marriage of the parents; the date of birth of the child; the death or divorce of the mother of the child, or that she has no title under the said act; that the pensioner has deserted such child for the period alleged; that the child is permanently helpless and dependent; and in the event of the death or divorce of the mother of such child, that the pensioner had not remarried prior to the statutory date of desertion, or that his present wife has no title under said act.

Rule 7. Claim by Permanently Helpless and Dependent Child, Alleging Pensioner Inmate of Home.—Where the claim is filed by or on behalf of a permanently helpless and dependent child of a pensioner, alleging that pensioner is an inmate of a State Soldiers' or Sailors' Home or a National Soldiers' Home, the declaration must be accompanied by evidence showing the marriage of the parents; the date of birth of the child; the death or divorce of the mother of such child; or that she has no title under the act of March 3, 1899; that such child is permanently helpless and dependent; and in the event of the death or divorce of the mother of said child that the pensioner had not remarried prior to the statutory date of entrance into the Home, or that his present wife has no title under said act.

Rule 8. Declaration, Unaccompanied by Evidence.—A declaration, unaccompanied by evidence as indicated herein sufficient to establish a prima facie case, will not be considered as conferring any right upon the claimant, or as serving notice upon the Bureau sufficient to warrant the suspension or the withholding of any part of the pension due or owing to the pensioner. Upon the receipt of a declaration, unaccompanied by evidence as indicated herein, it should be promptly returned to the claimant with a notification that until the application is perfected in accordance therewith it cannot be considered.

Rule 9. Suspension of One-half of Pension.—Upon the filing by the wife, minor child or children, or permanently helpless and dependent child of a pensioner, of a declaration accompanied by sufficient evidence to show a prima facie case under the act of March 3, 1899, the United States pension agent will at once be instructed to suspend payment of one-half of the unpaid pension due the pensioner for the period from the date of statutory desertion, or his entrance into a State or National Soldiers' Home, and to withhold from him one-half of the pension due and payable to him for the period from the date of the filing of the declaration, and during the pendency of the claim under the act cited.

Entry.—The United States pension agent, upon the receipt of a notice from the Commissioner of Pensions to suspend payment of one-half the pension of the pensioner, will make a record entry thereof, and promptly acknowledge receipt of said notice of suspension, and thereafter he will make no payment of the one-half suspended portion of the pension to any person until further directed by the Commissioner of Pensions.

Notice of Suspension.—In case the pensioner is an inmate of a National Soldiers' Home, the treasurer of said Home will, on the same date of the notice of suspension to the United States pension agent, be duly advised, through the Governor of said Home, of said notice of suspension. If, on the date of receipt of said notice by the treasurer of the Home, he shall be in possession of any unexpended pension money drawn in pensioner's behalf, or to which the pensioner became entitled during his residence in said Home subsequent to March 3, 1899, the treasurer shall withhold and retain in his possession one-half of said unexpended pension money, subject to the future order of the Commissioner of Pensions.

Rule 10. Stay Pending Adjudication.—The filing of an application by a claimant under the act of March 3, 1899, like an appeal by claimant or pensioner, shall serve the same purpose as a writ of supersedeas, or other similar writ, and shall stay further Bureau proceedings, so far as they involve further payment of the one-half of the pension in controversy, pending the adjudication of the claim by the Commissioner of Pensions.

Rule 11. Date of Desertion.—In all cases filed under the act of March 3, 1899, and allowed, the claimant is entitled to one-half of so much of the unpaid pension as is due or owing to the pensioner at the date of the filing of the declaration, and covering the period from the date of the statutory desertion, subsequent to the passage of the act of March 3, 1899, or covering the period from the entrance of the pensioner into a State Soldiers' or Sailors' Home or a National Soldiers' Home subsequent to the passage of the act of March 3, 1899. In cases of desertion, where the desertion occurred prior to the passage of the act of March 3, 1899, the date of statutory desertion will be accepted as March 4, 1899. In cases where the desertion occurred subsequent to March 3, 1899 (the date of the passage of the act), the date of the actual desertion will be accepted as the date of the commencement of the statutory desertion. No right can accrue to a wife-claimant until the pensioner has been in actual desertion for a period of over six months prior to the execution of her declaration, and no right of application by a wife, under the act, can accrue on account of desertion, until six months have expired from the date of such desertion.

Rule 12. Date of Entrance into Home.—In cases filed under the act of March 3, 1899, where the pensioner is an inmate of a State Soldiers' or Sailors' Home or a National Soldiers' Home, the actual date of entrance into the Home subsequent to March 3, 1899, will govern. If at the date of the passage of the act the pensioner was an inmate of a State Soldiers' or Sailors' Home or a National Soldiers' Home March 4, 1899, will be considered as the statutory date of the pensioner's entrance into the Soldiers' Home, and payment, if the claim is allowed, shall be one-half of so much of the pension as remained unpaid and due and owing to the pensioner at the date of the filing of the declaration.

Rule 13. Increase of Pension.—When an increase of pension is allowed a pensioner subsequent to the allowance of a claim under the act of March 3, 1899, the beneficiary shall be entitled to one-half of only so much of the pension as is due the pensioner, covering the period subsequent to the statutory desertion established in the claim, or subsequent to the date of the entrance of the pensioner into the Soldiers' Home subsequent to the passage of the act of March 3, 1899.

Rule 14. Promptness.—As promptness in the adjudication of claims filed under the act of March 3, 1899, is imperative, to avoid vexatious charges against one or the other, both the claimant and the pensioner will be required to answer calls made for evidence promptly.

Rule 15. Answer.—Where a prima facie case under the act of March 3, 1899, has been filed the pensioner will receive the usual notice of the filing of the claim, and will be allowed thirty days, as herein provided, from the receipt of said notice, to answer the allegations made therein. Where the pensioner has made answer, and in rebuttal filed evidence, the claimant will be allowed thirty days from the receipt of a notice of such evidence to answer same and complete the claim in accordance with the terms of the act of March 3, 1899. Should the claimant fail to complete the claim, or fail to give a satisfactory reason for so doing, the case should be rejected, on the ground that claimant has failed to establish title within the meaning of the act of March 3, 1899.

Rule 16. Waiver of Answer.—Where the pensioner receives the usual thirty-day notice of the filing of the claim under the act of March 3, 1899, and fails to make answer within thirty days from the receipt thereof, he will be considered as waiving his right of answer, and the registry return receipt card, or other evidence, showing his receipt thereof, will be considered as proof of service upon him of notice of the filing of the claim and his waiver of answer thereto.

Rule 17. Right of Appeal.—Upon the adjudication of a claim under the act of March 3, 1899, the Bureau will promptly notify both parties of the action taken, by registered letter, informing both that thirty days from the receipt of said notice will be allowed for the purpose of appealing from the decision of the Bureau, and there shall be inclosed, to both claimant and pensioner, a copy of Rules of Practice in Appealed Claims. No payment will be made until the expiration of said thirty days, unless the right of appeal shall be sooner waived: Provided, however, that the unexplained failure of a pensioner to appear, answer, or in any way plead to the claimant's application, after due notice thereof, shall be deemed a waiver of his right of appeal to the extent that, if the claim is allowed, final orders for division of pension shall issue at once.

Rule 18. Upon Filing of Appeal, Payment Suspended.—Upon the filing of an appeal, in accordance with the rules of the Department, payment will be still suspended, pending the decision of the Department upon the appeal, as required by Rule 14 of Rules of Practice in Appealed Claims.

Rule 19. If No Appeal Filed.—If no appeal is filed within thirty days from the date as shown by the registry return receipt card, payment will be made in all cases allowed, and suspension of payment will be removed in all cases rejected, and the full amount of pension restored to the pensioner in the last-named cases.

Rule 20. Payments to Beneficiaries.—Any and all payments of one-half the pension to any of the beneficiaries named in the first three provisos of said act of March 3, 1899, shall hereafter be made by and through the United States pension agents, and, in future, no payment shall be made to any of said beneficiaries by the treasurer of a National Soldiers' Home, except one-half of so much of the pensioner's pension as shall be in the hands of the treasurer of said Home, and unexpended, at the date of filing the claim under said act, in which case the treasurer shall withhold and disburse upon the order of the Commissioner of Pensions, as provided in Rule 9, supra.

Rule 21. Applications for Reconsideration.—Applications for reconsideration or reopening of the Bureau action in cases under the first, second, or third provisos of the act of March 3, 1899, should be in the form of a motion, or petition, stating briefly, but specifically, the grounds upon which the application is based, and which, if true, would warrant a modification or reversal of the Bureau action. The motion should be accompanied by evidence sufficient, if true, to establish the grounds for reconsideration, or reopening, relied upon by the applicant, and by due proof of service of copies of the motion, or petition, and the supporting evidence upon the opposite party or his or her attorney.

Proof of Service.—Proof of service must be such as will satisfy the Bureau that the opposite party has been informed of the motion, or petition, and the supporting evidence, and may consist of, first, a written acceptance of service by the opposite party or his or her attorney of record; or second, a postal registry return receipt card signed by the opposite party or attorney of record, accompanied by an affidavit showing that on a certain date copies of the motion, or petition, and the supporting evidence were mailed in a registered letter, postpaid, to the opposite party or the attorney of record, addressed to a certain postoffice (naming it); and that the card was returned in acknowledgment of receipt of such letter; or third, an affidavit, showing that on a certain date and at a certain place copies of the motion, or petition, and of the supporting evidence were personally delivered to the opposite party or his or her attorney of record.

Applications for reconsideration, or reopening, not conforming to the foregoing requirements, or showing satisfactory reason why personal service cannot be made, will not be considered by the Bureau, but will be promptly returned to the applicant, or his or her attorney of record, for compliance therewith.

Action upon Acceptance of Application for Reconsideration.—Upon the acceptance by the Bureau of Pensions of an application for reconsideration, or reopening, the opposite party will be advised, and allowed thirty days within which to answer or demur thereto. Payment of one-half of the pension in question will be suspended, pending the consideration of the application, and such suspension will be continued for a period of thirty days from the date of receipt of notice of the bureau action upon the application, to permit the filing of an appeal, unless the right of appeal shall have been waived by the party in interest.

CLAIMS FOR SHARE OF PENSION PAID TO INMATES OF THE GOVERNMENT HOSPITAL FOR THE INSANE.

Act of February 2, 1909.—By the terms of this act, the pension accruing to an inmate of the Government Hospital for the Insane must be paid to the superintendent or disbursing agent of such hospital, and the money so paid shall be disbursed and used, under the regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, for the benefit of the pensioner, and in the case of a male pensioner, his wife, minor children, and dependent parents, or, if a female pensioner, her minor children, if any, in the order named. All questions affecting the right of a claimant to a share of the pension of an inmate of the hospital are determined upon evidence submitted to the Commissioner of Pensions, in accordance with the practice obtaining in such cases. The findings of the Commissioner of Pensions upon the evidence are submitted to the Secretary of the Interior for approval, and, upon the latter's direction, the disbursing officers of said hospital will make proper distribution of the pension money to the dependents enumerated in said act.

Applications for Allotment.—Applications to the Commissioner of Pensions for allotment of a share of the pension in cases under the act of February 2, 1909, should be made under oath, and the applicant should state the relationship to the insane person, the certificate number of such person, if known, the aggregate value of all property owned by the applicant, as well as the sources of income and means of support of said applicant. All allegations should be sustained by the testimony of persons competent to testify from personal knowledge of the facts, and the witnesses should state their ages, means of knowledge of the facts to which they testify, and their postoffice addresses, giving the street and number, or rural free delivery route, if any. In case the application is made by the wife, she should furnish a certified copy of the public or church record of her marriage to pensioner, or, if no such record exists, the affidavit of the person who performed the ceremony, or the testimony of competent witnesses, who were present at the marriage, showing the date thereof. If either applicant or pensioner had been previously married, the death or divorce of the former consort should be proved, in case of death, by a verified copy of the public or church record, or by the testimony of credible witnesses if no record of death exist; and, in case of divorce, by a certified copy of the decree of the court. If there was no prior marriage on the part of the applicant or the pensioner, this fact should be shown by the testimony of at least two credible witnesses who have known the applicant and the pensioner from the time they became of marriageable age.

Relationship.—In the cases of minor children or dependent parents, the relationship of the applicants to the pensioner must be satisfactorily shown.

Evidence.—The application and the evidence necessary to establish the claim should be filed at the same time.

CLAIMS FOR PAYMENT OF PENSION TO WIVES OF INSANE PENSIONERS, OR TO WIVES OF PENSIONERS UNDERGOING SENTENCE OF IMPRISONMENT.

Act of August 8, 1882.—Where an insane invalid pensioner has no guardian and has a wife or children dependent upon him, the wife being a woman of good character, the Commissioner of Pensions is authorized, in his discretion, to cause the pension to be paid to the wife, upon her properly executed voucher, or, if there is no wife, to the guardian of the children, upon his properly executed voucher, and, in like manner, to make payment of the pension due invalid pensioners who are imprisoned for offenses against the law, to their wives, or the guardians of their children.

Evidence.—Under this statute evidence showing the pensioner's insanity or imprisonment, and, in the case of a wife, her good character, as well as the proof required in claims under the act of February 2, 1909, supra, must be furnished.

ACCRUED AND REIMBURSED CLAIMS.

Act of March 2, 1895.—An accrued pension is payable, under the terms of this act, whether the certificate issues prior or subsequent to the death of the person entitled to the pension, first, to his widow, second, if there is no widow, to his child or children under sixteen years of age, third, in case of a widow, to her minor children who were under sixteen years of age at the date of her death. No other person is entitled to receive the accrued pension, as a matter of right, nor is it considered a part of the assets of the estate of the deceased pensioner. It is not liable for the debts of the estate, in any case whatsoever, but inures to the sole and exclusive benefit of the widow or children. The proof necessary to establish a claim for accrued pension is identical with that required to establish the claim of a widow or minor child to original pension, in so far as the relationship of the claimant for the accrued pension and the pensioner is concerned. Full instructions will be given by the Commissioner of Pensions to an applicant for accrued pension as to the character of the evidence necessary to establish a claim.

Claim for Reimbursement.—A claim for reimbursement may be made by the person who bore the expenses of the last sickness and burial of any pensioner who died, leaving no widow, or child under sixteen years of age, surviving, provided the pensioner did not leave sufficient assets to meet such expenses. An application for reimbursement should be accompanied by the following evidence:

(a) Bills of All Expenses of Last Sickness and Burial.—If paid by the claimant for reimbursement the bills must be properly receipted to said claimant. If unpaid, the parties to whom said bills are due should note on each bill, over their signatures, that they hold the claimant responsible for the payment. If the bill be for medical treatment it must show the dates of visits or treatment and the charge for each. A bill for nursing and care must show the dates between which the services were rendered, and the rate per day or week. The bill of the undertaker must be itemized, and show the date on which the services were rendered.

Each bill must show that the service was rendered for the pensioner on account of whom reimbursement is claimed.

All claims should be presented in the name of one person.

Bills which are forwarded become a part of the records of the Bureau of Pensions, and cannot be returned. Claimants should therefore secure duplicates of such bills if needed by them.

(b) The Pension Certificate Which was Issued in the Name of the Pensioner.—If such certificate is not in possession of the claimant a statement showing its whereabouts or final disposition should be made.

WITNESSES AND TESTIMONY.

Declaration Before Attorney.—A declaration executed before an officer who is claimant's attorney is accepted by the Bureau of Pensions as good and valid, but under the practice such magisterial act vacates any rights which may be conferred on him in the power of attorney therein embodied.

Evidence Executed Before Person Who has Interest Therein.—Evidence executed before an officer who is claimant's attorney or before any person who has a manifest interest therein will not be considered. It is held by the Secretary of the Interior, however, that evidence so executed, wherein the certificate of such officer contains a clause setting forth that "he is in nowise interested in the claim nor concerned in its prosecution" is good and valid, but the rights such officer may have had as attorney in the case are thereby abandoned. All certificates of executing officers should certify that they have no interest in the claim.

Testimony of Persons Other Than Relatives.—It is desirable that the facts required to be proved in the prosecution of a claim for pension should, if possible, be shown by the testimony of persons other than near relatives of the claimant.

Best Evidence.—Every fact required to be proved should be shown by the best evidence obtainable. Every witness should state whether he has any interest, direct or indirect, in the prosecution of the claim in which he may testify, and should give his postoffice address, with street and number, or rural free-delivery route, if any.

Detailed Statement of Facts—Credibility of Witnesses.—Witnesses should not merely confirm the statements of other parties, but should give a detailed statement of the facts known to them in regard to the matter concerning which they testify, and should state how they obtained a knowledge of such facts. The officer taking the deposition or affidavit should certify in his own handwriting as to his knowledge of the credibility of the witnesses. If they sign by mark, the signature must be attested by two witnesses who can write, and the officer must certify that the contents of their depositions or affidavits were read to them before he administered the oath.

Interlineations and Erasures.—It is desirable that affidavits should be free from interlineations and erasures. When an alteration is made in an affidavit, or an addition is made thereto, it must appear by the certificate of the officer who administered the oath that such alteration or addition was made with the knowledge and sworn consent of the affiant.

Affidavits from Surgeons or Physicians.—In all affidavits from surgeons or physicians it is desirable that the portion detailing the nature of the disability, dates of treatment, and date of death, symptoms and opinions as to connection between diseases or injury and disease, should be in the handwriting of the party by whom it is signed. The testimony of any person testifying as an expert should be prepared by some one professionally competent to do so.

Official Certificates.—The official certificates of judicial officers using a seal or of commissioned officers of the Army or Navy in actual service will be accepted without being sworn to, but all other witnesses must testify under oath.

COPIES OR ORIGINALS OF PAPERS.

Papers or Exhibits.—All papers or exhibits filed as evidence in claims for pension become a part of the record. Copies of same or originals can be returned only within the discretion of the Commissioner of Pensions upon application by the parties properly entitled thereto.

Certified Copies of Declarations and Affidavits.—Certified copies of declarations and affidavits on file in claims for pension will be furnished only upon the call of the court or the department wherein the same are to be used as evidence, and if for use in a court upon the following conditions:

Suit—Parties—Court.—The Bureau of Pensions should be advised of the nature of the suit, the names of the parties thereto, and in what court the action is pending.

Evidence Material.—The party who desires to use the certified copies should state what he expects to prove by them and make oath in due form that this evidence is material to his cause; that the object of its use cannot be attained by the substitution of any other evidence; that without it he may suffer irreparable injury, and that the United States government is not involved as a party to the action nor interested in the result thereof.

Request from Judge.—With such affidavit he should file a request from the judge of the court in which the action is pending for the production of such certified copies.

Papers Should be Clearly Specified.—The papers of which copies are desired should be clearly specified, and the name of the soldier upon whose service the claim was based, the designation of the organization in which he served, and, if possible, the number of the claim or the certificate should be stated, in order that the case may be identified and unnecessary delay avoided.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Certificate of Service.—Applications for certificate of service in lieu of lost discharge should be filed with the Adjutant General, United States Army, War Department, in Army cases, and with the Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, in Navy cases.

Back Pay, Extra Pay, Bounty Money or Prize Money.—Applications for back pay, extra pay, or bounty money for military service should be filed with the Auditor for the War Department; for bounty, extra pay, or prize money for naval services, with the Auditor for the Navy Department.

Artificial Limbs or Mechanical Appliances.—Applications for artificial limbs or mechanical appliances should be filed with the Surgeon General, United States Army, War Department.

Section 4699, Revised Statutes, provides that the rate of $18 per month may be proportionately divided for any degree of disability established for which section 4695 makes no provision.

The act of August 27, 1888, provides a $30 rate for total deafness and authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to grant such proportion thereof in cases of partial deafness as he may deem equitable. Act January 15, 1903, increases rate for total deafness to $40. Rates on partial degrees not affected.

The act of March 2, 1895, provides that "all pensioners now on the rolls, who are pensioned at less than six dollars per month, for any degree of pensionable disability, shall have their pensions increased to six dollars per month; and that, hereafter, whenever any applicant for pension would, under existing rates, be entitled to less than six dollars for any single disability or several combined disabilities such pensioner shall be rated at not less than six dollars per month: Provided, also, that the provisions hereof shall not be held to cover any pensionable period prior to the passage of this act, nor authorize a rerating of any claim for any part of such period, nor prevent the allowance of lower rates than six dollars per month, according to the existing practice in the Pension Office in pending cases covering any pensionable period prior to the passage of this act."

Where the widow has died, remarried, or has no title, the minor children under 16 years of age succeed to the widow's rights.

In claims under the act of June 27, 1890, both in its original and amended forms, the additional pension of $2 per month is granted. In addition provision is made in said act for the continuance of pension granted to an insane, idiotic, or otherwise physically or mentally helpless minor child, during its life or during the period of disability. This proviso is applicable to minors' claims under any statute.

POSTAL SERVICE.

ORGANIZATION.

Congress.—Congress is the ruling head of the United States post-office. It defines the limits of what can and cannot be done, leaving to the Postoffice Department the duty of formulating regulations and organizing the machinery by which its will may be carried out.

Postmaster General.—The executive head of the postoffice system is the Postmaster General. Assisting him, and, under him, controlling the different branches of the service, are the four Assistant Postmasters General. Advising him is the Assistant United States Attorney General for the postoffice, a member of the Department of Justice; and checking his accounts is the Auditor for the postoffice, a member of the Treasury Department. Attached to his own office is the Chief Inspector, through whom, and the Inspection Division, he keeps in touch with the whole fabric of the system.

Postoffice Department.—These offices form what is known as the Postoffice Department as distinguished from the postoffice service at large.

First Assistant Postmaster General.—The First Assistant Postmaster General handles the appointment of postmasters, the establishment of new offices, the establishment and control of free delivery (carrier delivery), the general supervision of postoffice employees, their appointment and separation from the service, their pay-rolls and the allowances for expenditures in the various postoffices.

Second Assistant Postmaster General.—The Second Assistant Postmaster General handles the Railway Mail Service and all its employees, the relation of the Department to all modes of transportation, and the foreign mails.

Third Assistant Postmaster General.—The Third Assistant Postmaster General handles the finances, the stamps, their manufacture, sale and redemption, the money order system, the registry system, the postal savings system, and all matters of classification, including the second-class privilege for newspapers and the use of the permit privilege, or payment of postage in money, for third-class matter, and parcel post packages.

Fourth Assistant Postmaster General.—The Fourth Assistant Postmaster General handles the supplies of the Department, the Dead Letter Division, the rural delivery and rural carriers, the control and establishment of rural routes, and the control and establishment of star (mostly stage) routes.

Assistant Attorney General.—The Assistant Attorney General for the Postoffice Department handles all questions involving the construction of the postal laws and regulations, questions of lotteries, of prohibitive and unmailable matter, of scurrilous, obscene or defamatory matter, and of the delivery of mail in dispute.

Chief Clerk.—The Chief Clerk of the Postoffice Department attached to the Postmaster General's office handles all matters of general information.

Auditor and Chief Inspector.—The Auditor and the Chief Inspector, except in special cases, deal only with the service.

Publications.—The Chief Clerk of the Postoffice Department also handles the distribution of such publications, maps and guides as the Postoffice Department issues for the information of the public. These publications include:

Post route maps of the different states containing the location of all postoffices and mail routes, with such other information as is appropriate.

The Postal Guide, an annual publication with twelve monthly supplements, containing lists of all postoffices and general information regarding the service. This is furnished for $3 a year, which includes the annual guide and all supplements. The annual guide alone may be purchased for twenty-five cents.

Parcel Post maps, showing the different units of area and zone lines for the regular postoffice desired (see parcel post zone system) and the Parcel Post Guide, showing the unit of area in which each postoffice is located. General information regarding the parcel post system is also included. Both are issued for seventy-five cents, the map alone for forty cents and the guide for thirty-five cents.

Postoffices.—Postoffices are divided into first, second, third and fourth class offices. The first, second and third classes are known as Presidential postoffices, their postmasters being appointed by the President, the appointment being confirmed by the United States Senate. Fourth-class postmasters are appointed by the Postmaster-General without confirmation. The division into classes is determined by the receipts of the office.

Every large postoffice is divided generally into a division of finance, of money orders, of dispatch of mail, of delivery of mail, and of registry of mail, with an executive division controlling all. Parcel post is included in the dispatch and delivery. The postal savings system is included in the department of finance.

When large enough, postoffices are supplemented by stations designated as regular and contract stations. A regular station is always designated by a letter or a name. A contract station is designated by a number. Regular stations are equipped to transact all classes of postoffice business. The work is handled by regular employees of the postoffice. Contract stations are handled by persons not regularly employed by the Department, who are under special contract to conduct the station, presumably in connection with their other business, for a fixed sum per year. Contract stations are intended to be a convenience only. They handle no ordinary mail and do no postal savings business. They sell stamps (ordinary, special and postal savings), register mail, issue money orders, and, when specially designated, do a parcel post business. Except under special arrangement they do no foreign money order business.

It is obvious that when transacting postoffice business of any particular nature, or involving any special knowledge of the service, patrons should go to a regular station or to the main office.

Postoffices may be established wherever the Postmaster General deems expedient. A postoffice will not be established in a bar-room or in any room directly connected therewith, and mail must not be opened or delivered in any room in which liquor is sold at retail, except in the case of a drug-store where liquor is sold for medicinal purposes only.

Postoffices must not be allowed to become resorts for loungers or disorderly persons, or the scenes of disputes or controversies. Whenever necessary, postmasters are instructed to call on the civil authorities to preserve order and if this call be disregarded the office will be closed. Smoking may be prohibited in the lobbies. In large post-offices it is usually the custom to forbid persons to watch callers at the general delivery windows.

Postmasters.—Postmasters are independent of each other. They are advised and controlled by the Postoffice Inspector in charge of the district and the Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service division in which they are, but their responsibility lies directly to the Postoffice Department. Postmasters must be citizens or must have declared their intention to become citizens, and they must live in the city or town in which their office is located. They may deliver mail arriving after 9 P. M., but they are not obliged to do so. They are forbidden to give out any information regarding mail or addresses. They are warned not to give information concerning mail matter over the telephone unless the voice be recognized, and even then they do so at their own risk. They are forbidden to give any testimonial, recommendation or indorsement and they are not allowed to try mechanical devices submitted for experimental purposes by persons outside the service, unless by permission of the Department. They are responsible for their offices until their successors have been installed. Their sureties may examine their accounts but must not examine mail or addresses in their care.

MAIL MATTER.

Mail.—The first business of the postal system is to handle mail. Mail may be designated generally into two classes—domestic and foreign. Each branch has its own peculiar regulations but there are some matters that are common to both. These will be considered first. The special regulations for each will be taken up under separate headings under the designations "Domestic" and "Foreign." The parcel post system will be taken up by itself.

Inviolability of Seal.—No postoffice inspector, postmaster, or any other persons connected with the postal service, except those employed for that purpose in the Division of Dead Letters, in Washington, D. C., has authority to break the seal of any sealed matter passing through the mails.

Preparation of Mail.—There are many ways in which mail may be prepared for posting which, without adding cost or trouble to the sender, will greatly assist the postoffice in handling the mail, and consequently will insure for it a quicker dispatch.

All mail should be legibly addressed to street and number, if possible, or to a box number, and to postoffice and State. All mail should bear the address of the sender. This should be upon the front of the envelope, preferably in the upper left-hand corner, and a request to return it in a certain number of days, not less than three, in case it be found impossible to deliver it. It takes time to search for a return card on the back of an envelope; also it is often overlooked.

Advertising matter must not be printed upon an envelope in such a manner as to encroach on the space necessary for a clear and legible postmark or address.

Stamps should be placed on the upper right-hand corner of the envelope. To place them elsewhere means that they will not be canceled by the mechanical canceling machines in use in large offices, and will cause annoyance to the clerks and delay to the mail by making it necessary that they be specially canceled by hand.

There should be space on the address side for all permissible notations of the postoffice, such as rating, carriers' notations for failure to deliver, etc., and any words necessary for forwarding or return.

Newspapers and periodicals must be wrapped in such a manner that the wrappers can be removed and replaced without destroying or injuring their inclosures.

Third-class matter must be placed either under band, upon a roller, upon boards, in a case open at one side or end, in an unsealed envelope, or wrapped so as to be easily examined; or it may be tied with a string. Address cards and all printed matter in the form of an unfolded card may be mailed without band, envelope, fastening or fold. When matter is so wrapped as to prevent examination it may be subject to the first-class rate.

Stickers bearing a resemblance to postage stamps in their ordinary form, or bearing numerals, are forbidden on all classes of matter, either on the address side or on the reverse side. Stickers that have no resemblance to stamps and do not bear numerals may be placed upon the back or reverse side of mail matter. As a matter of fact it is better not to use stickers at all. Many foreign countries forbid them altogether.

In all cases directions for transmission, delivery, forwarding or return shall be deemed a part of the address.

Upon matter of the third class the sender may write his own name, occupation, residence, or business address, preceded by the word "From," and may make marks other than by written or printed words to call attention to any word or passage in the text, and may correct any typographical errors.

A simple manuscript dedication or inscription not of the nature of personal correspondence may be placed upon the blank leaves or cover of a book, or photograph, or printed matter. Also, on third class or parcel post, on the package, wrapper or envelope, or on the tag or label attached thereto, there may be placed either in writing or otherwise the words "Please do not open until Christmas," or words to that effect.

Post mail early; three or four times a day at least. Put a return address on everything. Keep large mailings faced. If addressed from mailing lists, tie them up in towns, using twine or rubber bands, or envelope boxes. If made up from the register of voters, tie them up in precincts. Bring large mailings to the nearest regular station. It delays them, and other mail, to crowd them into street letter boxes.

Do not use too much moisture in sealing envelopes or they will stick together, and will be missent. A large percentage of the cases of mis-sending and of delay are due to the fact that the envelope has adhered to another, oozing paste, and has gone to the address on the upper envelope before being separated.

Use standard size envelopes unless their use is impossible.

Window Envelopes.—Mail may be inclosed in window envelopes when they conform to the following conditions: The window shall be not larger than $5\frac{1}{2}$ inches by $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches, and must not occupy any space within $1\frac{3}{8}$ inches of the top or $\frac{3}{8}$ of an inch from the bottom or ends; the windows shall not be colored and shall be made or located so as to be as transparent as possible. (These two provisions will be effective January 1, 1914.) Window envelopes must bear the return cards of the senders; a complete address must be exposed, and the address must be legible or the envelopes will be laid aside for treatment after the disposition of other mail. Should the address not be legible on close scrutiny the envelopes will be returned to the senders. Nothing but the address should show through the window.

To insure legibility in the address the inclosure should be of white paper and the address should be written or printed in black ink or typewritten with an unfaded ink ribbon so there will be a strong contrast between the inclosure and the address.

Letters Opened by Mistake.—A letter that has been opened inadvertently or upon a wrong delivery should be indorsed "Opened by Mistake," with the name of the one so opening it. Such letters may be returned to the writer without additional charge of postage when they bear a card or return request. Postmasters are not allowed to open letters to ascertain the name and address of the writer.

Unmailable Matter.—Unmailable matter includes all matter which is by law, regulation or treaty stipulation prohibited from being transmitted in the mails, or by reason of ineligible, incorrect or insufficient address, it is found impossible to forward to destination. Unmailable matter is divided into the following classes:

a. Matter which is insufficiently prepared to entitle it to be dispatched in the mails.

b. Matter without address or so incorrectly, insufficiently or ineligible addressed that it cannot be transmitted to its destination;

c. Matter which from its harmful nature is forbidden to be in the mails. Among these are poisons, explosives or inflammable articles, vinous, spirituous and malt liquors; and matter liable to decomposition. (See Parcel Post—Unmailable).

d. Obscene matter. This embraces every obscene, lewd or lascivious, and every filthy book, pamphlet, picture or paper, writing, print, or other publication of an indecent character; every article or thing designed or intended for the prevention of conception or to procure an abortion; every article or thing adapted or intended for any indecent or immoral use; every written or printed card, circular, book, pamphlet, advertisement or notice of any kind giving information, directly or indirectly, where, how, or from whom, or by what means any of the hereinbefore mentioned matters, articles or things may be obtained or made. It will be noted that this matter is unmailable whether sealed or exposed to view.

e. Every letter upon the outside of the envelope of which, or postal card upon which, or any outside cover or wrapper upon which indecent, lewd, obscene or lascivious delineations, epithets, terms or language, may be printed or written; or upon which there is anything written or printed of an obscene, libelous, insulting, scurrilous, defamatory or threatening character or calculated by the terms or language or style of display and obviously intended to reflect injuriously upon the character or conduct of another. It will be noted this refers only to such matter as is unsealed or exposed to view.

f. Letters and circulars known to be concerning lotteries, so-called gift concerts or similar enterprises offering prizes, or concerning schemes devised or intended to deceive and defraud the public for the purpose of obtaining money under false pretenses.

g. Publications violating copyrights granted by the United States.

h. Postal cards or letters bearing upon their outside evidence of being a request for a past due account; otherwise, dunning letters or cards. Cards calling for accounts due in the future, such as statements, notices of dues for fraternal orders, etc., before due and delinquent, are permissible. Card notices of suit containing the names of both parties and the date of trial, are mailable.

i. Cards bearing particles of glass, metal, mica, sand, tinsel, or other similar substances, are unmailable except when inclosed in envelopes or when treated in such manner as will prevent the objectionable substances from being rubbed off or injuring persons handling the mails.

This applies also to all classes of mail matter as well as to post cards.

j. Lotteries, and all matter pertaining to them, are prohibited. This includes newspapers that advertise lotteries, or run news accounts of lotteries, or lottery drawings. This prohibition, however, has so far been confined only to newspapers offered for transportation through the mails—the mailing editions. The postoffice does not interfere with editions that are sold on the street, delivered by carrier or transported by means other than the mails.

k. Collection agency mail bearing any evidence of its character, except a single return card of the regulation size, is prohibited; and even when otherwise not objectionable, if the envelope be of lurid or conspicuous color, it is unmailable. It has been held that an envelope bearing an eye over the collection agency's return card, also shackles and chains, and the representation of a prison cell, is unmailable. Also the Department has ruled that a collection agency's return card must not be printed on an envelope in a manner unnecessarily conspicuous or in a type larger than ordinarily used for a return request.

Lotteries.—A lottery is a contest or an opportunity to win a prize, the prize being awarded in any manner in which chance is an essential element, or in which there is any uncertainty, either as to who will win, or what particular prize will be won by any particular contestant. This includes all guessing contests, raffles and drawings or contests where a matter of judgment may supply the element of chance, as in limerick or poetry contests.

Card parties, where prizes are awarded, and where a fee for entrance or for play is charged, are lotteries.

Endless chain enterprises designed for the sale or disposition of merchandise or other things of value are held to embrace the elements of a lottery, also they are held to be fraudulent. It has also been held that an endless chain prayer, containing a threat of retribution should the chain be broken and the prayer not continued, is unmailable.

Fraud Orders.—Fraud orders are issued by the Postoffice Department against any person or firm using the mails for an illegal purpose. Mail addressed to a person or firm against whom a fraud order has been issued will not be delivered. It will be returned to the sender marked "Fraudulent," or in default of a return address it will be sent to the Dead Letter Office in Washington, D. C.

Money orders drawn in favor of such persons or firms will not be cashed for them. Advertisements of persons or firms against whom a fraud order has been issued will not be permitted in newspapers carried through the mails.

Rulings.—Postmasters are not allowed to give any opinion or ruling as to the mailability of any matter under these regulations. Matters of this kind must be taken up with the Postoffice Department.

Delivery of Mail.—The aim of the postal service is to deliver mail, not to hold it, so it is deemed that as soon as a letter is placed in the care of the service the addressee has a definite right to have it delivered to him, and a good reason must be assigned before delivery to him or his accredited representative can be prevented. Therefore, regulations are to be construed with a view to facilitate delivery rather than to hamper it.

It is the general rule that the responsibility of the postoffice ceases when mail is delivered as addressed or at the place of usual delivery.

Regulations Governing Delivery.—In general, the regulations governing delivery are as follows:

To Individuals.—Mail is supposed to be delivered to the person addressed, or to someone known to be a responsible agent for him, such as a relative, a known servant, someone in possession of his residence or place of business, or someone bearing his written order or evidence of authority to act for him.

In Care.—Delivery may be made either to the addressee or to the one in whose care the mail is addressed. An address "in care of" does not of itself give the right to open mail by the one in whose care it is addressed.

To Husband and Wife.—Neither husband nor wife can control delivery of mail addressed to the other. When so instructed, the postmaster must refuse to deliver letters to the husband which are addressed to the wife, or those to the wife which are addressed to the husband. In the absence of instructions to the contrary, the wife's letters may be placed in the husband's box or delivered to him with his own letters unless they be known to live separately.

To Minors.—Where minor children reside with their parents, the father, or if he be dead, the mother generally is entitled to direct the disposition of mail matter addressed to such minors, and unless the minors be under guardianship, may authorize another to receive mail matter addressed to them, although they be not residing with the parent; and postmasters will deliver mail accordingly, requiring directions in writing if deemed necessary. In the absence of directions from the parent or guardian, or one authorized to control a minor, mail matter may be delivered to such minor. When a minor is not dependent upon a parent for maintenance and support, and does not reside with a parent or guardian, he has the right to control his own correspondence.

To Students.—At colleges and similar institutions where students have been placed in charge of the principal by their parents or guardians, and where the rules of the institution provide that the principal shall have control of mail addressed to such students as are minors, delivery will be made in accordance with the order of the principal. If, however, the principal has no authority from the parent or guardian to control mail of the children placed under his care (which authority is understood by an acceptance of the rules, that being one), the delivery must not be made to the principal against the wishes of the scholar.

For Deceased Persons.—Mail addressed to a deceased person must be delivered to his legal representative. In default of such, delivery may be made to a surviving husband or wife unless there be other claimants, in which case the matter must be referred to the Department. Mail addressed to a deceased minor may be delivered to the parent or guardian, or if there be such, to the surviving husband or wife.

In Apartment Houses.—Mail will be delivered to private mailing boxes in an apartment house, or to some responsible person on the lower floor, who will accept and care for all mail coming to the house. It will not be delivered above the first floor.

In Dispute.—When mail is claimed by more than one addressee, it is "in dispute." The postmaster will then refuse to deliver such mail to anyone, but will hold the mail pending the appointment of a disinterested party by the disputants, to whom the mail can be delivered and who will turn it over to the proper party. In default of the appointment of such disinterested party within thirty days, he shall mark "In dispute" all mail received for the disputed address, such mail as bears a return address being returned to the senders, and the remainder being sent to the Dead Letter Office. Also, a statement of the case will be submitted to the Postoffice Department for decision, or the postmaster will await the decision or order of a court.

As Addressed.—In all cases of dispute or similarity of name, where more than one address is involved, the address shall govern, and mail shall be delivered at the street number to which it is addressed. Thus mail in dispute, addressed to a certain firm indefinitely, that is, not to street and number, shall not be delivered except as set forth, but when each disputant shall establish a street address of his own, mail addressed to such street address is presumed to have been intentionally so addressed, and will be delivered to the street address it bears.

To Business Firms.—Mail for a business firm may be delivered at the office of the firm or to anyone apparently in charge. It may be delivered to any officer of a corporation, or to any partner in a copartnership. Its delivery may be controlled by any officer of a corporation, entitled to use the seal, generally the president or secretary, or both, or by any member of a copartnership.

By Title.—When addressed to "President," "Secretary," "Superintendent," etc., it will be delivered to the person holding that office at the usual place of delivery, regardless of the name of the person addressed.

To Agents.—Mail addressed to persons as agent will be delivered to the person holding such position when the agency is of some public matter or of the business of some corporation, but not when the agency is merely of an individual or firm.

Priority of Name.—In case two firms of the same or similar names, claim mail addressed by name only, it shall be delivered to the one longest using the name in question.

To Receivers or Assignees.—Mail will be delivered to the assignee or receiver of a firm, corporation or individual when the instrument of assignment authorizes such delivery, and a copy is filed with the postmaster; or when the order of court appointing such receiver directs him to receive it; or when the assignor consents that he shall receive it; or when the assignor has not resumed business under the same name, so that he may have correspondence not relating to business or property under assignment; or when the receiver has been appointed to take charge of, continue, or wind up the business of an existing corporation. Mail matter addressed to a firm or person under assignment shall be delivered to the assignor when it reasonably appears that the matter does not relate to the business assigned; or when the assignor has not consented to the delivery to the assignee; or when the order of court directs that it shall be delivered to the assignor.

On Agreement.—When parties interested in mail matter agree as to its delivery, and instruct the postmaster as to whom he shall deliver it, he will deliver accordingly until his instructions have been changed by mutual consent of the parties, or until instructed to do so by order of court.

Under Sale.—Where a business is sold, delivery of mail will be made according to the agreement entered into by the parties. In default of such agreement, the postmaster will make delivery according to the directions of the vendor, or the plain provisions of the contract of sale, but he must not construe contracts or determine rights. In the absence of directions by the vendor, or any provisions in the contract of sale, delivery will be made to the addressee. The authority of the vendee to receive mail is not revocable by the vendor if there be a right to the mail in the vendee.

On Order.—Any number of persons may employ an agent and give him a written order on the postmaster for their mail. Mail for such parties and mail addressed in care of such parties will be delivered to the agent named, responsibility of the postmaster ceasing on such delivery.

Under Suit.—Where mail is the subject of suit, the postmaster will deliver it according to the decree of the court.

To Fictitious Addresses.—Mail addressed to fictitious persons or firms, to initials or to no particular person or firm, unless directed to be delivered at a designated place as a postoffice box, street and number, or to the care of a certain person or firm within the delivery of the postoffice cannot be delivered. Whenever a postmaster has reason to believe that a street or number, designated place, box or address in care of another, is being used by anyone for conducting under a fictitious address, correspondence forbidden circulation in the mails, he must at once report it to the Postoffice Department.

A person engaged in a legitimate business may adopt a business name and when duly identified may receive his mail, registered or ordinary, by that name as well as by his proper name.

To Diseased and Infected Houses.—Mail matter addressed to houses containing cases of contagious diseases may be sent to the addressees by the hands of some responsible person known to the postmaster. He will refuse to receive mail from such houses.

Sunday Delivery.—By act of Congress postoffices are closed on Sunday except for special delivery mail and mail for hotels, newspapers and newspapers for news agents. Also, under certain circumstances the general public may get mail by making application therefor.

In making this application, the postoffice of origin must be given and the letter described as closely as possible so that it can be found in the mails with the least possible expenditure of time. The application for Sunday mail must be accompanied by a special delivery stamp for each piece of mail desired. This stamp will be affixed to the piece of mail and it will be delivered by special delivery messenger as addressed or to any address that may be given for delivery in the request for Sunday mail. These requests for Sunday mail must be indorsed "Application for Sunday mail" so that they may be readily found in the mail for the postmaster and may not lie over until the following Monday if his office be closed on Sunday. Also, they should be in the postoffice early Saturday evening in order to give the clerks ample time in which to locate the mail and prepare it for delivery. This applies to box holders and general delivery patrons as well as to patrons served by carrier.

Debtors' Mail.—A postmaster has no right to withhold the delivery of mail on the ground that the addressee is indebted to him.

Prisoners' Mail.—A letter addressed to a person imprisoned to await trial upon indictment or pending indictment should be delivered in accordance with the order of the person addressed. In the absence of an order the mail may be delivered to the sheriff or officer having charge of the prisoner.

To Several Persons.—Mail matter addressed to several persons may be delivered to any one of them.

Methods of Delivery.—There are five ways in which the Postoffice Department effects delivery of mail. These are: Free delivery (by city carriers); special delivery (by special messengers); general delivery, box delivery, and delivery on rural routes by rural carriers.

Free Delivery.—Free delivery is the term applied by the Department to the delivery of mail by city carriers. Under the regulations, letter carriers shall be employed at every incorporated city containing a population of 50,000, and they may be employed at other cities or towns containing a population of not less than 10,000, or at any postoffice which produced a gross revenue for the preceding fiscal year of not less than $10,000.

Applications for the establishment of free delivery should be addressed to the First Assistant Postmaster General. They should give the population of the city according to the last United States census, and the gross revenue of the office for the preceding fiscal year. It is also required that the streets upon which the carriers will be employed shall be graded and lighted, that there shall be good sidewalks; that the houses shall be numbered and the names of the streets posted up, and that mail receptacles shall be provided, or slots shall be cut in the doors, so that delivery may not be delayed.

Letter-carriers.—Carriers are assigned to definite routes and fixed schedules. They may not deviate from either. Their hours of work are limited to eight, and these eight must be completed within ten hours from the time they report for duty. They are forbidden to loiter or lose time on their routes, to enter houses, except places of business and then they may go only a reasonable distance from the entrance, and must not go above the street floor. They are not allowed to give information about mail or addresses. They are responsible for the exercise of all due and reasonable care in the delivery of their mail, and they are expected to use discretion in the case of evident mistakes. They may purchase stamps and register mail for patrons on their routes when to do so will not unduly delay them or interfere with the service on their districts.

They are not compelled to enter where vicious dogs are kept, or where there is contagious disease. They are expected to be civil, prompt, courteous and obliging at all times. The service will protect them from insult and assault by statutes that provide a fine and imprisonment for the offender. They are not allowed to put mail under a door unless written instructions have been given to that effect. They are not allowed to deliver mail to patrons when meeting them on their routes. They are supposed to deliver all mail at a known place of business or residence. Unless there is a private mailing box or a slot in the door, or written orders have been given to slip mail under the door, and this is possible, a carrier on finding a place closed will return all the mail for that address to his station and take it out again on a subsequent trip. If in doubt, he will insist on proper identification before delivering mail. A definite address will generally govern his delivery of mail, but need not do so if he has reason to suspect error.

Special Delivery.—Special delivery is furnished at all offices and will insure the delivery of mail immediately upon its receipt. At offices not free delivery offices, special delivery will be made at any point within a mile of the postoffice. At free delivery offices special delivery service will be given to any point within the delivery of the office.

By regulation the hours of special delivery are set at from 7 A. M. to 11 P. M., 11 P. M. being the closing time of the special delivery office and not of the special delivery of letters. All letters arriving before 11 P. M. will be delivered that night. Special delivery service is given for a fee of ten cents in stamps, either the special delivery special stamp or ordinary stamps, these in addition to the necessary postage on the mail. Should ordinary stamps be affixed to the mail matter it is necessary to indorse it "Special Delivery"; otherwise the extra fee will be taken as an intention to register the piece and it will be registered.

The fee for special delivery gives the piece but one attempt at such delivery. If for any reason the attempt at special delivery fails, the piece will be placed in the ordinary mail and be delivered by carrier or general delivery, as the case may be, as soon as possible.

Special delivery mail forwarded before special delivery treatment has been given it, will be delivered by special delivery at the office to which it has been forwarded. If given special delivery at the office of address it will not be given special delivery treatment elsewhere. The signature of the addressee or his agent or some responsible person who will deliver it to him is a necessary part of the delivery of special delivery mail. (See Sunday Delivery.)

Box Delivery.—The use of a box is restricted to the renter thereof and those connected with him in a family or business way.

Mail addressed to members of the household of a box-holder, including visitors, servants, and transient and temporary boarders, or in his care, and mail for confidential or official employees may be placed in his box.

A firm renting a box may have placed therein all mail addressed to its name and mail addressed to any of its official employees. By the consent of all the members of a firm, any member thereof may have mail addressed to himself or members of his family deposited in the box assigned to its use.

Where a box is rented by a corporation, association, or society, mail for its officials may be placed therein.

Mail matter addressed to students and employees at a college, seminary, or school, who board therein, or to inmates or employees of any public institution, may be placed in the box rented by such college, school, or institution, if consistent with the usage and rules thereof.

Mail addressed to guests or transient boarders at a hotel or boarding house, should be placed in the box assigned to such hotel or house, or to the proprietor thereof.

Mail addressed to merely the number of a box may be delivered to the holder thereof so long as no improper or unlawful business is conducted in this manner.

Bills and circulars must not be placed in boxes by postmasters for themselves personally, or anyone else, without payment of regular postage thereon.

Postmasters may hand out mail from lock boxes or drawers where the holder or such person as may be authorized to take the mail has forgotten the key or cannot open the box and when such applicant is known or can be identified.

Postmasters will keep careful scrutiny over the list of box-holders in order that a box be not used for an unlawful purpose. A postmaster will require identification of an applicant for a box and will make careful inquiry as to the nature of his business.

The locks on all boxes surrendered, when locks are used, are changed before the boxes are rented again in order that the new box-holder may be protected from the use of any keys the former box-holder may have retained in his possession.

General Delivery.—General delivery is the most uncertain method of delivering mail and, in a free delivery office, should not be resorted to except under the most exceptional circumstances.

When callers are not known they must be prepared to identify themselves.

Rural Routes.—Rural routes are established on petition of those patrons living along or near the roads over which it is desired the route shall operate. A route of twenty-four miles or more should have one hundred families upon it, and one of a shorter length should have a proportionate number of deliveries. The road over which the route is to be established must be in good condition, free from gates (except automatic gates) and must be bridged over every stream not fordable at all ordinary seasons. Service will generally be performed daily except Sundays, but may be reduced to a tri-weekly service when the number of patrons or a decrease in the amount of mail handled makes such reduction advisable. All routes must start from a postoffice. Persons living within a quarter of a mile of a postoffice from which a route starts will not be given service on the route unless by specific instructions from the Department. When such postoffice is an incorporated city or town rural delivery will not be established within the limits of that town. Persons residing within the corporate limits of a city where free delivery is in operation may be served by rural carrier.

All persons served by rural carriers must place boxes of an approved design—weatherproof and properly safeguarded against depredations. Rural delivery is governed by the same rules as govern other deliveries.

Undelivered Mail.—Mail matter found undelivered at the address on the envelope is placed in the general delivery and held there a certain length of time awaiting possible request for it. At the end of that time first-class mail is advertised, a fee of one cent being charged for such advertisement upon delivery of the mail. Lists of advertised letters are kept on view at all postoffices. First-class mail remaining undelivered after advertisement is sent to the Dead Letter Office at Washington, D. C., where it is opened and if the contents furnishes information as to the address of the sender it is forwarded to him for delivery. Undelivered matter of the second class is destroyed or under a recent ruling of the Postoffice Department, in the case of magazines or newspapers of general interest, it may be given to charitable institutions, hospitals, etc., the publisher being notified that the address to which it is coming is an undeliverable one.

Undelivered mail matter of the third class, unless of obvious value, is destroyed. If of obvious value and it bears the address of the sender, or even if not of obvious value and it bears the address of the sender with a guarantee to pay return postage, the sender will be notified that it is being held and it will be handled according to his order.

Return of Mail to Sender.—Undelivered matter of the first class (except single postal cards and post cards) bearing the name and address of the sender without a return request specifying the number of days, will not be advertised but will be returned to the sender at the expiration of five days if intended for delivery by city or rural carrier, ten days if intended for general delivery service at an office having city carrier service, fifteen days from offices not having city carrier service unless intended for delivery by rural carrier.

If the mail bears a stated number of days in which the sender desires return (not less than three days being allowed), the mail will be returned at the expiration of that time.

Unpaid, misdirected, unmailable and unclaimed domestic postal cards and post cards, deposited for local delivery, shall be returned to the sender when they bear his card address. All other undeliverable domestic cards shall be held for reclamation two weeks and then, if not delivered, shall be destroyed.

Undeliverable postal cards and post cards of foreign origin shall be sent to the Dead Letter Office.

Undeliverable matter of the second and third classes may be returned, but only after the postage for such return shall have been paid. The rate of postage for the return of third-class matter is the same as that chargeable when it was first mailed. For second-class matter, it is one cent for every four ounces or fraction thereof.

An unclaimed letter bearing the card of a hotel, school, or college, or other public institution printed upon the envelope as an advertisement, will not be returned unless the card include a definite printed or written request for a return.

Backstamping.—Backstamping to show the time of receipt of mail for delivery has been discontinued. It has been found that the time consumed in such work is not compensated by the benefits accruing.

Collection of Mail.—The collection of mail is made from street boxes and from chute boxes in large buildings. It is governed by regulations that aim to cut down as low as possible the interval of time between the collection of the boxes and the deposit of the collection in the dispatching office. The collector, therefore, is not allowed to loiter, lose time, or deviate from his route or schedule.

Collectors may accept mail for dispatch handed to them in the street if it does not overload or delay them. They are forbidden to give any information regarding the mail which they collect, and are not allowed to give back to any one mail claimed to have been wrongly posted or addressed. They may inform an inquirer what time the mail from a particular box will reach the dispatching office, and may receive such a description of wrongly posted or misaddressed mail as will enable them to identify the mail at the dispatching office, should they take it in themselves, and so be able to hand it to some one in charge with the least delay. They may not go further than this.

Mail Boxes.—Mail boxes are for the use of the public generally. They are not supposed to be used by any single person or firm to the exclusion of others. Large mailings must, therefore, be distributed among several boxes, or must be taken to the nearest regular station.

Mail boxes are placed wherever necessary, but with a due regard for the service in the vicinity and at large, and for the facility of collection. A postmaster will not place a box in such a location as will cause unwarranted delay to the remainder of the collection route. Mail placed outside of a mail box is not in the care of the postoffice and the postmaster is not responsible for it. Such mail should be brought to the nearest regular station.

Mail Chutes.—Mailing chutes and receiving boxes may be placed, subject to the approval of the postmaster, in public buildings, railroad stations, hotels of not less than five stories in height, business or office buildings of not less than four stories in height, and apartment houses comprising not less than fifty residential apartments. Buildings in which receiving boxes are or shall be located shall be open to the general public, without restriction, at all times during the hours prescribed for mail collections, in order to afford access to such receiving boxes for the deposit of mail matter therein.

No receiving box with which a mailing chute is connected should be placed more than fifty feet from the main entrance of the building in which located; and if in the judgment of the postmaster the efficient handling of the mails requires the placing of such box nearer to such entrance, it shall be so placed, and at such point as he may direct. No receiving box shall be placed elsewhere than on the ground floor of any building.

Every mailing chute shall be made wholly of metal and glass, and so constructed that all portions of its interior may be easily reached by postal authorities, but not by other persons. It shall extend in a continuously vertical line from the point of beginning to the receiving box, and be so placed as to be conveniently accessible throughout its entire length. In no case shall a mailing chute be placed behind an elevator screen or partition, or run through any part of a building to which the public is denied access.

Authority to permit the installation of mailing chutes and receiving boxes conforming to these regulations is vested exclusively in the postmaster. To him shall be submitted the contract and specifications for any proposed chute and box, with a plan of the building showing the contemplated location therein of the whole of such chute and the box connected therewith. If the postmaster approve such contract and specifications, and the location proposed, he shall indorse his approval upon such contract, and make report of his action to the Postoffice Department.

Forwarding of Mail.—Letters prepaid at one full rate (two cents), parcels fully prepaid at the first-class rate, postal cards, private mailing cards (post cards), and official matter, may be forwarded from one post-office to another without additional charge.

Mail matter of the third class and parcel post mail may be remailed or forwarded, but not until there has been prepaid additional postage thereon at the same rate at which the matter was originally mailed. Prepayment must be made every time the matter is reforwarded.

Matter of the second class (newspapers and magazines) may also be forwarded or remailed, but at the rate of one cent for each four ounces, or fraction thereof, prepaid.

The changing of a street number to secure delivery at the postoffice of address is not regarded as forwarding and does not subject matter to additional postage.

Requests to forward mail matter made by any other person than the addressee, or his lawful agent, or the person in whose care the matter is addressed, will be disregarded. The husband of addressee will be presumed to be her agent when she has not directed her mail to be withheld from his control.

A direction may be changed and matter reforwarded upon request as many times as may be necessary to reach the addressee.

The address on all missent matter, which by the aid of a street directory or other reliable books of reference it is reasonably certain can be delivered at another office, will be corrected and forwarded to such office.

Mail received by a postmaster under cover with a request to post such mail in his office for delivery or for forwarding elsewhere, will be stamped, "Received at under cover from the postoffice at" The stamps will be canceled and the mail forwarded in the ordinary manner after such indorsement.

Registry of Mail.—Valuable matter may be registered for a fee of ten cents, paid by the special registry stamp or in ordinary stamps, this in addition to the necessary postage on the mail.

Registered matter is sent through the mails in special equipment and is receipted for as it passes from hand to hand. A return receipt will be given to the sender if the registered piece upon being registered is indorsed "Return Receipt Requested."

Registered mail addressed "Deliver to Addressee Only" will be so delivered or returned to the sender. If no special directions be given the registered piece will be delivered as addressed, if possible, or if not, to some one known to be responsible or to be the agent of the addressee. House servants are not considered agents for the purposes of delivery. Registers will be delivered to anyone upon the order of the addressee unless such piece is indorsed "Deliver to Addressee Only."

An indemnity of a maximum of $50 or the value of the parcel will be paid for loss, damage, or destruction to a register upon proper proof of loss. Registers may be forwarded upon the order of the addressee or upon the order of the sender. They must bear in addition to a legible and complete delivering address the name and address of the sender.

Registered mail is subject to all regulations that apply to the mailability of ordinary mail.

Withdrawal of Mail.—Mail matter may be withdrawn by the sender before dispatch from the office of mailing by making proper identification of himself as the sender, and of the particular piece of mail to be withdrawn to the postmaster, who will then withdraw the piece of mail and return it to the sender, taking his receipt for it.

After dispatch from the office of mailing, a piece of mail may be withdrawn upon telegraphic or mailed instructions of the postmaster at the office of mailing to the postmaster of delivery, or to the railway mail clerk who may handle the mail in transit. If by telegraph, the applicant for withdrawal must pay all expenses at the commercial rate, but the telegram must go over the name of the dispatching postmaster. The same is true in the case of a request for withdrawal sent by mail. The same identifications are required as in withdrawing mail before dispatch. Mail withdrawn will be returned to the postmaster at the office of dispatch for delivery to the sender.

POSTAL SAVINGS SYSTEM.

Purpose.—The Postal Savings System has been established to provide a safe depository for savings too small to be offered to a savings bank or held by persons that wish government protection for what money they have accumulated.

Depositories.—Postal savings depositories have been established in all postoffices of any size, and in the larger offices the system has been extended to the stations as well.

Opening Accounts.—No deposit of less than a dollar is received, nor is an account opened for less than a dollar. To provide a means for smaller savings a system of stamps and cards has been established, and these are kept on sale at all postal savings offices, and the stations attached to them. A postal savings card is sold for ten cents. This card bears nine spaces in each of which may be placed a postal savings stamp that may be purchased for ten cents, the card and the nine stamps representing a possible saving of one dollar. This card and the nine stamps attached will be accepted at any postal savings depository either as a deposit of one dollar on an account already opened, or for the opening of a new account.

Deposits.—Deposits are limited to one hundred dollars a month, and the total account allowed to stand in any name is five hundred dollars. The matter of increasing the limit of deposit at any one time or in any month, as well as the limit of five hundred dollars on any account, is now under consideration by the Postoffice Department.

Bond System.—It is possible to increase the amount in the care of the government, however, by taking advantage of the postal savings bond system. These postal savings bonds are issued in amounts of twenty, fifty, one hundred and five hundred dollar denominations. Twice a year, in January and in July, these bonds are issued, and anyone may transfer his savings into bonds on application to his depository, the actual transfer being made in Washington, D. C. It is apparent therefore that while an account may be limited to five hundred dollars, by taking advantage of the bond system there is practically no limit to the amount a person may have on deposit with the government.

Form.—Postal Savings bonds are redeemable at their face value at any time by submitting them to the Postal Savings Department at Washington through any depository. They are issued in the form of coupon bonds or registered bonds. The registered bond may be assigned and is valueless to anyone but the original owner unless properly assigned. A coupon bond may be realized upon by the holder.

Interest.—Interest on bonds is paid at the rate of two and one-half per cent. Interest on deposits is paid at the rate of two per cent. Interest on deposits is payable annually, that is one year from the first day of the month following the deposit. It is not compounded unless drawn and redeposited.

Certificates.—Under the United States Postal Savings System no pass-books are used. Each deposit is represented by a certificate or certificates, each of a fixed denomination. Certificates are issued in denominations of one, two, five, ten, twenty, fifty and one hundred dollars. In issuing certificates for a deposit a clerk must issue the smallest number of certificates that will properly cover the deposit. These certificates may be cashed at any time at the office of deposit, and if the depositor is not within the jurisdiction of the office where his deposit is being carried, a means is provided whereby he may cash his certificates by mail by application to the postmaster within whose jurisdiction he may be at the time. The redemption of the certificates however must be made through the office of deposit, so sufficient time for the transaction to be completed by mail must be allowed for.

Amount Withdrawn.—Any amount in even dollars up to the limit of a deposit may be withdrawn at any time. A portion of the amount of any certificate in even dollars may be withdrawn, the difference being covered by the issue of a new certificate or certificates for the proper balance.

Anyone may Open Account.—Anyone over ten years may open an account in a postal savings depository, and when opened such account is under the absolute control of the person in whose name it stands. A wife's account is independent of the control of a husband; a minor's account is independent of control of parent or guardian. An account must be opened by the depositor in person unless his presence is impossible; under such circumstances a means has been provided by which he may open an account by mail.

Deposits and Withdrawals, How Made.—Deposits and withdrawals must be made in person, but if this be impossible a means has been provided by which both deposits and withdrawals may be made by mail.

Transfer.—Accounts may be transferred from the main postoffice in a city to any of its stations by making application for such transfer, but under present regulations it must be withdrawn and redeposited to transfer an account from one postoffice to another.

Legal Process.—A postal savings account is not subject to any legal process whatever except the final decree of a court of competent jurisdiction. It is not subject to attachment or garnishment of any kind, nor in the case of the death of the depositor can it be controlled by his executors or his heirs unless under order of court.

Security for Payment of Deposits.—The faith of the United States government is pledged in security for the payment of deposits in the Postal Savings System, and any money in the possession of the government may be used for such payment should it be necessary to meet demands.

MONEY ORDER SYSTEM.

Purpose.—The United States Money Order System has been established for the transportation of money through the mails. The system may be divided into two parts—the domestic and the foreign.

Money Orders on the Domestic Forms.—Money orders on the domestic forms and at the domestic rate of fees may be issued and made payable at any designated money order office in the United States (which includes Hawaii and Porto Rico) and its possessions, comprising the Canal Zone (Isthmus of Panama), Guam, the Philippines and Tutuila (Samoa); also in Bermuda, British Guiana, British Honduras, Canada, Cuba, Martinique, Mexico, Newfoundland, the U. S. Postal Agency at Shanghai (China), the Bahama Islands and certain other Islands in the West Indies: Antigua, Barbados, Domenica, Grenada, Jamaica, Montserrat, Nevis, St. Kitts, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, Trinidad and Tobago and the Virgin Islands.

Domestic Fees.—The domestic fees are as follows:

For orders from $	0.01 to $	2.50.....	3 cents
“ “ “	2.51 to	5.00.....	5 cents
“ “ “	5.01 to	10.00.....	8 cents
“ “ “	10.01 to	20.00.....	10 cents
“ “ “	20.01 to	30.00.....	12 cents
“ “ “	30.01 to	40.00.....	15 cents
“ “ “	40.01 to	50.00.....	18 cents
“ “ “	50.01 to	60.00.....	20 cents
“ “ “	60.01 to	75.00.....	25 cents
“ “ “	75.01 to	100.00.....	30 cents

Limit of Value.—The limit of value to each domestic money order is one hundred dollars, but there is no limit to the number of orders of this value, or orders aggregating any value, that may be purchased and sent.

Where Payable.—A money order can be purchased for payment at a money order postoffice only. It cannot be drawn on a station of a postoffice nor on a place not actually a money order postoffice.

Money Order Drawn upon Office Having Stations.—A money order drawn upon an office having stations may be cashed at the main office or any of its stations.

Identification.—A money order may be paid on such identification as is usually required for the payment of a check.
